of art together in an enticing manner. A primary highlight of the exhibit showcases two stellar examples of forgery, including a loan from the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC. Titled "The Smiling Girl", this piece was originally attributed to Vermeer until closer investigation proved it a fraud. Continuing the theme, the forged "Still Life with Fruit" on loan from the Nasher Museum of Art at Duke University exemplifies modern art fakes. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm and Sun. 2-5pm. Contact: 864/770-1331 or visit M&G's website at (www.bjmg.org).

RIVERWORKS Gallery, Suite 202, Art Crossing on the Reedy River in downtown Greenville. Through Dec. 11 - "Drawn South," featuring works by Carly Drew, Katelyn Chapman and Kolton Miller. A reception will be held on Nov. 4, from 6-9pm. Drew, Chapman and Miller are all "Drawn South" through their childhood immersion in and reverence for South Carolina's culture and landscape. Their images explore and narrate their home landscape with layers of media that present a "compression of history" according to Drew and "multiple perspectives" says Chapman. Miller may speak for all three when he says, "It is important that the work questions the time, place and realism of your standard landscape, pushing something normally thought of as concrete into an unearthly event." While studying together at Clemson, the three became friends and colleagues. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 1-5pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: call 864/271-0679 or e-mail to (fleming.markel@gvtc.edu).
