CAROLINA ARTS

A PUBLICATION COVERING THE VISUAL ARTS IN THE CAROLINAS

Photograph by Eliot Dudik is an image of Ian Dillinger, a high school art teacher in the Charleston, SC school district who has died 45 times on the battlefield. This photograph was made at a reenactment at Boone Hall Plantation in 2014. Image is part of the exhibit Broken Land / Still Lives, featuring photographs by Eliot Dudik, on view in the Rebecca Randall Bryan Art Gallery in the Thomas W. and Robin W. Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts building at Coastal Carolina University in Conway, SC, from July 13 - August 21, 2015. See the article on Page 23.

Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

Charleston - The Holy City

Well, it seems Charleston lived up to one of its nicknames this last couple of weeks - let's hope that lasts a long time.

What got me was the reaction of some to the call to take the Confederate flag down from the SC State Capital grounds - as if this came out of the blue - just because some young punk took some selfies with the stars and bars and was upset that Africans took back control of two of their countries from white man's control. He killed nine people because of that - nine black people. He wanted to start a race war. I guess he also didn't know that a race war has been going on for quite some time in America.

I'm not singling out the South here because in the '60s, when I was in High School in Saginaw, MI, we had race riots. Instead of getting us out of the building - they locked us in, I guess so we could work it out. The South has no claim on racial problems - it's an American thing, but in the South, they put it in your face every day.

I can see that flag flying freely every day, and if I see it, surely every black person sees it.

What's all this have to do with an arts publication?

Well, artists in the Carolinas have been dealing with this racial subject ever since we've been doing an arts publication and they're still dealing with it today. So the issue of some people's disdain for the flying of the Confederate flag is not a new issue - it's not a surprise.

Dr. Leo Twigg, a retired art professor from SC State University in Orangeburg, SC, has been dealing with the image of the stars and bars in his artwork for years.

That flag calls to mind equally for Twigg's suffering of slaves, the turmoil of Reconstruction, the indignity of Jim Crow and even the promise of the Civil Rights era, and, of course, the aftermath, when this piece of cloth, venerated by some, reviled by others, continues to inspire the argument and dissension.

Work by Dr. Leo Twigg

On our cover this month we have an image made by Eliot Dudik of Ian Dillinger, a high school art teacher in the Charleston, SC, school district who has died 45 times on the battlefield. The photograph was made at a Civil War reenactment at Boone Hall Plantation in 2014.

Coastal Carolina University in Conway, SC, will present Broken Land / Still Lives, featuring photographs by Eliot Dudik, on view in the Rebecca Randall Bryan Art Gallery in the Thomas W. and Robin W. Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts building, from July 13 through Aug. 21, 2015. You can read about it on Page 23.

Also in this issue we have an article about an exhibit being presented at 701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, which will present Tyrone Geter: BLACK!, on view from July 9 through Aug. 23, 2015. You can read about it on Page 12.

Both these exhibitions seem timely for the recent events which took place in Charleston. Let's learn from the past.

Meeting Street Gallery in Charleston, SC, Offers Photography Exhibit by Iveta Butler and Douglas Carr Cunningham

Meeting Street Gallery in Charleston, SC, is presenting Charleston: One City, One Soul, featuring photographs of Lowcountry people, by Iveta Butler and Douglas Carr Cunningham, on view through July 7, 2015.

Charleston streets are full of interesting people, people who share more than they know. Love, sorrow, happiness, and desires, in basic terms, we are all the same people who carry the same feelings. Unity and inclusion is the what we share, not diversity (look it up in a dictionary. Diversity means Difference). "We are looking forward to the future, where unity of people is the norm, not diversity, or difference," said Iveta Butler.

Iveta Butler and Douglas Carr Cunningham's 100-person project started a year ago, after their many talks, and shared thoughts. There was a desire to find a commonality between people through photography. Medium format cameras and film required darkroom processing. Every negative, every print, came through their hands, underscoring the project's importance and power. The photographers connected with their subjects.

Elisee Amos-Goodwin is on a mission to help others in the community, as a member of the Daughters of Peter Claver Ladies Auxiliary, Our Lady of Guadalupe.

is your favorite thing?" Very simple questions, but an interesting fact emerged: we all are looking for the same things in our lives.

"One tripod, older medium format cameras (Mamyia, Rolleiflex), flash, and plenty of black and white rolls of 120 films created a connection to Charleston," said Butler. "Viewers are invited to examine the photographs and read what people say. Humanity is there, in each one."

"Viewers will find similarity of who we all are. Viewers will find more than the political term, diversity. Viewers will find unity of people in the photographs".

Butler adds, "It is startling how much we are the same people, despite our facades of culture, class status, religion, gender, age, wealth, and political views. We all want the same things. We simply choose, individually, to follow an infinite number of paths to get to our goals. The rub is that some of us wish to perceive a difference of others and blame our failed fortunes on them. That is where diversity divides us. We are not different. We share the city. We share the Lowcountry. Let us use the word unity instead."

Accordingly, the project was named Charleston: One City, One Soul.

The two photographers began the project on the street. They chose specific locations, inviting people walking by to pose for them, to be part of the project. All who agreed were asked the same questions: "Where you going? Where are you coming from? What "The portraits and comments of Charleston: One City, One Soul reveal this: if we individually reject being different, we will likely be one with others in Unity. We might also be happier."

10th Annual Palette and Palate Stroll in Charleston Takes Place - July 17, 2015

Ten years ago, several downtown fine art galleries created a partnership with supporting local restaurants to put together an event that would raise funds for local art programs. The Palette & Palate Stroll is also dedicated to the appreciation of delicious food and the amazing variety of fine art that Charleston has to offer. The popular summer event will take place on Friday, July 17, 2015, from 5:30 to 7:30pm.

"Attendees will once again stroll through the streets of the historic city, making stops at participating galleries, tasting creations from some of the best local chefs. The event sells out every year and brings a fashionable crowd of art and food enthusiasts out to the streets in the middle of summer when things slow down a bit," says Vladia Jurcova Spencer, the event organizer.

This year's gallery and restaurant pairings are: Anglin Smith Fine Art - Circa 1886; Atrium Art Gallery - Halls Chop-house; Corrigan Gallery - Langdon's + Opal; Dog & Horse Fine Art - Zero Café & Bar; Horton Hayes Fine Art - Oak; John C. Doyle Art Gallery - 82 Queen; Principle Gallery - Cypress; and Robert Lange Studios - The Drawing Room.

Participants need to purchase tickets ahead of time. Tickets are not refundable. On the evening of the event, they can check in at any of the participating galleries and enjoy a leisurely stroll through the historic French Quarter, walking from gallery to gallery. Cost is $45 per person.

For more information, visit (www.paletteandpalatestroll.com).

2nd Annual Charleston Small Works Fine Art Auction Takes Place at The Sylvan Gallery - July 18, 2015

The Sylvan Gallery, in Charleston, SC, will present its Second Annual Small Works Fine Art Auction in association with Morris & Whiteside Auctions, LLC at the gallery on King Street on Saturday, July 18, 2015, at 1pm. The two hour event will offer 173 lots, most created specifically for this sale by nationally recognized artists.

Auction principals Joe Sylvan, Jack Morris, David Leahy and Ben Whiteside have assembled paintings that range in size from 6 inches by 8 inches to 16 inches by 20 inches with prices estimated from $100 to $3,000. "The intent" said gallery owner Joe Sylvan, "is to attract young collectors

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Jeanine Jones

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present, My Country 'Tis of Thee, featuring works by Jeanine Jones, on view in the Guild Gallery, from July 1 - 31, 2015. A reception will be held on July 3, from 5-8pm.

Jones began painting in the 1970's. She learned to love art by studying under Ruth VanSickle Ford (Former President of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts) who had retired in her hometown and gave her lessons. Growing up in a family of 10 and as the daughter of a WWII veteran, Jeanine learned that although life is not perfect, we can always find things to be thankful for. Having moved many times throughout her life, she has learned to appreciate the variety of people and places in this great country. Now residing here in Charleston, she paints the beauty and charm of this historic city and its people.

Jones' show is inspired by the rich history she sees all around her in beautiful Charleston. "I see our young nation and its growing pains, and so much sadness in the news. Yet there are those in history and those today, which are shining examples of

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Robert Lange

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, will present One's, featuring the work of the contemporary painter and gallery owner Robert Lange, on view from July 3 - 29, 2015. A reception will be held on July 3, from 5-8pm.

The exhibit features a dramatic and engaging series of paintings that chronicle people and animals enjoying the practice of meditation.

Lange's unique and often meticulous painting style captures the smallest of details. The juxtaposed scenes, most of which place the subject in a unique environment, manage to create a sense of peace.

Lange says of the series, "The paintings are constructed through simple combinations of subject and environment. Although the subject is consistently within a state of quiet reflection or focus, the environment varies from immense open landscapes to chaotic urban scenes. Seemingly possible but not plausible, often teetering on surreal, the works are meant to convey a sense that meditation can take place anywhere at any time."

A merit scholar of the prestigious Rhode Island School of Design (RISD), Lange has paintings in private collections throughout the United States and Europe. His paintings have graced the covers of ten major art magazines including American Art Collector and his gallery has appeared in National Geographic Traveler, the Huffington Post, on MSNBC, and voted the best Gallery in Charleston 2010-2013 by the City Paper and again by Charleston Living in 2015.

Lange offers the following about the exhibit, "As artists we develop rituals and practices that aid in the making of our art and for nearly 12 years my nightly painting session ends with an hour-long meditation. This exercise of slowing down and quieting the mind has had deep effects on my personal philosophies, painted world and general behavior. This cultivation of self-awareness has allowed me to more poignantly direct the subject of my paintings towards the subject matter and concepts I personally believe in. For this body of work, I have attempted to showcase a variety of situations that exemplify feelings and moods evoked within a meditative environment."

"The paintings are constructed through simple combinations of subject and environment. Although the subject is consistently within a state of quiet reflection or focus, the environment varies from immense open landscapes to chaotic urban scenes. Seemingly possible but not plausible, often teetering on surreal, the works are meant to convey a sense that meditation can take place anywhere at any time."

Lange says, "I chose to name the exhibit One's because of the belief that everyone's definition of a meditative experience differs. For some a walk on the beach, time in the garden or a morning spent fishing involve moments of quiet mindfulness. Often these are instances free of stress, filled with a simple clarity and play a vital role in recharging our spirit."

water and soft gradient of the sky evoked a sense of absolute calmness. Within the scene is a Thai Buddhist monk barely levitating above the water's surface. The image of the monk came from the Doi Suthep temple, which resides on the top of a mountain outside of Chiang Mai, Thailand. It is the effect of the combined qualities of the monk and the scenery that conveys the sense of overwhelming peace I wish to capture."

City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs in Charleston, SC, Features Works by David Shriver Soliday

The City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs in Charleston, SC, will present Remnants of the Rice Culture - Agricultural History As Art, curated by Mark Long, featuring photography by David Shriver Soliday, on view at the City Gallery at Waterfront Park, from July 18 through Aug. 30, 2015. A reception will be held on July 17, from 6-8pm. An artist's talk will be offered on Aug. 15, at 2pm.

The exhibition of photographs by David Shriver Soliday, showcases the genesis and genealogy of the coastal rice production complex once known as the Rice Empire. This collection documents man's 300-year-old record upon the landscape and explores the intersection between agricultural history and art. Soliday's aerial perspective distinguishes the subtle fading imprints of rice production and frames the monumental scale of the precisely constructed fields, dikes and canals in ways otherwise difficult to apprehend. Highlighting the role of African-American labor and expertise in transforming the native swamplands into a highly engineered hydraulic machine, the artist's compelling images, presented on infused aluminum sheet metal, prompt varied dialogues about the physical landscape, human capability and intervention, and the rice industry's enduring environmental and social impact.

Remnants of the Rice Culture introduces new photography technology to the City Gallery at Waterfront Park – that of imaging on metal. Photographic images are infused into aluminum sheet metal at very high temperature and pressure. Soliday believes these prints raise the bar for museum quality presentations.

Curator Mark Long observes, "Soliday's sustained charting of vestiges of rice production along hundreds of miles of the Eastern Seaboard over several decades has resulted in a comprehensive archive that attests to one of the great anthropogenic landscape complexes in world history."

David Shriver Soliday is a freelance photographer whose editorial credits include the National Geographic, National Wildlife and Smithsonian.

Soliday spent most of his youth in the Litchfield Hills of Connecticut where early on he developed an interest in birds and photography. He began to seriously photograph while employed as an expedition mechanic. Trained in London by Land Rover, he maintained vehicles travelling from London to Nepal, in East Africa, and in northern Iceland. Developing an interest in world cultures, he earned a degree in cultural anthropology from Amherst College, Amherst, MA, in 1976.

The following year, he moved to the Lowcountry and lived beside the rice lands for the next 25 years. He quickly became established with published photographs and occasional text in National Geographic Books & Calendars, National Wildlife, Smithsonian, and Geo magazines to name a few. His first major exhibition, A Retrospection, was shown at the Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston in 1977.

Throughout his career, Soliday has managed to apply his nature and landscape inclinations to commercial advertising photography. He spent years photographing golf landscapes, architecture, and interiors, for both resort and lifestyle publications.

Commercial work is Soliday's livelihood, but he always tries to imbue his images with a certain authenticity and narrative. His attention to rice related work began almost immediately upon moving to South Carolina. That phase was active for about a decade, then became dormant for many years. Upon resuming his study of the rice culture in 2007, he also returned to photographing the rice landscape.

Soliday considers the City Gallery at Waterfront Park exhibition a launching point for the pursuit of his long held dream of creating a companion portfolio of West African rice fields. Another new project of Soliday's involves aerial landscapes of hand-dug antebellum drainage systems and transport canals. His hope is to ultimately convert his extensive writings and documentation of the rice culture into published materials.

The City Gallery at Waterfront Park, owned by the City of Charleston and operated by the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs, presents an annual program of exhibitions and events featuring the finest contemporary art from local, regional, national and international artists, stimulating discussion and dialogue among audiences. The City Gallery provides access to the visual arts for everyone in Charleston, SC, visitors and residents alike, by offering exhibits that are all admission-free. The City Gallery is located on Pringle Street in downtown Charleston.

A Few Words From Down Under

Editor's Note: Judith McGrath contributed her writings about exhibits and events taking place in Western Australia to Carolina Arts for about a decade. Although she was writing about events taking place thousands and thousands of miles away, they seemed relevant to what was going on here in the Carolinas. Her contributions were very popular when we first ran them and continue to be popular on our website's archives. We've decided to revisit them from time to time.

A Few Words From Down Under on Reviewing the Critics

by Judith McGrath, first run in our November Issue 2007

Spare a thought for the poor art critic. All we hear is moaning and wailing from artists and galleries about the dearth of art criticism. Yet, when someone dares to write an honest critique of an exhibition, be it praising or denigrating, those same complainants "chuck a wobbly". (Australian for "throwing a tantrum") This leaves the critic stuck between a rock and a hard place, either condemned for being prejudicial or dismissed as lacking knowledge and/or understanding of the newest inspirational art.

With that in mind you'll understand why I classify myself a Reviewer rather than Critic. No, it's not to protect me from the slings and arrows of irate readers it's more the case of correctly defining what I do. As a "reviewer" I need only record my reaction to, and interpretation of, the art on exhibition. If the work is good it should be explained why; if it's imperfect but shows promise "corrective" criticism can be offered; if it's bad ignore it. (As they say, there's no such thing as bad publicity!) It's about helping the artist and the viewer, it's not about ego.

For example, I recently attended an exhibition of new sculptures by a respected ceramic artist in this town. It had been years since she'd presented her work at home as she'd been exhibiting and participating in workshops around the world. She creates androgynous figures with exaggerated proportions to suggest the uniqueness of humanity.

Recalling her first show many years back I could see the thread that linked these new efforts to her primary forms and how her style had evolved within her theme. It was also obvious that, like me, just about every other viewer in the gallery could pin a personal narrative to at least one figure. People were discussing the works with other attendees, whether they were acquainted or not. One woman approached me to relate what she read in one form and wondered if I felt the same. We were joined by a gentleman and each delighted in the other's reading of the work. The exhibition was a wonderful experience and I reviewed it accordingly.

The following weekend the Sunday newspaper's relatively new art critic wrote about the same show. He considered the figures deformed, the designs etched into the white slip on some forms too busy, the flattened busts derivative of Modigliani then compared the artist's efforts in clay to another more celebrated local practitioner, who works in bronze! It was blatantly obvious that all he saw were odd figures, not the universal truths they presented.

Most art "critics" view an exhibition through eyes clouded by what they know. They see all that's gone before - in art history, in the artist's career, in the local scene but not what's in front of their eyes. They feel it is their responsibility to place the artwork within a socio-political environment believing their academic credence allows them to fix the boundaries of the art scene. On the other hand, art "reviewers" leave the backpack full of local prejudices or academic references at home. Instead of analyzing the work with reference to politics, history, culture, personalities or whatever, they look at the work to see what it is saying and relate to it in a personal manner. Yes, our response to fine art is enhanced by knowledge, however it should not be swayed by concepts that lay beyond the artwork, or the self.

As an art reviewer I try to see what the artist is saying, in relation to life and/or art. When attending an exhibition my overall response to the whole is noted prior to recording my interpretation of particular works. Sometimes I'll chat with, or listen to the comments by other visitors in the gallery to glean their reactions to the exhibition as visual art communicates on different levels to different viewers.

I recall one show by a respected artist in this town and how, after going through the exhibition jotting down my responses, I tuned into the comments of a brace of ladies perusing the paintings. I heard oos and ahs as they approached each exhibit, and how they were students of the artist some years back. As they viewed the work they chatted about the artist's good looks, his teaching methods and how much they enjoyed art school. They never once discussed the object in front of them in the present instead they reminisced about the past and considered where to have lunch in the immediate future.

There was another woman in the gal-

Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, Features Collection of LouAnne Barrett

The Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, is presenting Close to Home, featuring works in the collection of LouAnne Barrett, on view at Walter Greer Gallery, located inside the Arts Center of Coastal Carolina, through July 25, 2015. A reception will be held on July 8, from 5-7pm.

Artist, student, teacher, or entrepreneur - above all other definitions, LouAnne Barrett has always had the sense that she was meant to be creative. As a girl, she found joy in the solitude of a self-designed studio in the attic of her parents' home. From early art classes at Toledo Art Museum to obtaining her Master's Degree in Integrated Arts, her focus has always been the passion and joy of her creative nature. Today, she not only teaches art, but continues as a student of composition and design; always working to refine her own techniques to capture color, value and light.

Barrett's current project, the exhibit, Close to Home, reveals her captivation with the beauty of the Lowcountry landscape. She is inspired on a daily basis by trees within a small radius of her home, whose grace and strength seem to be redefined in every new season. The sensual and sinuous light and shadows in their limbs demands her attention and requires her presence at the canvas. Barrett chooses to paint what might easily go unnoticed. Will her work inspire you to examine and celebrate the beauty in the everyday?

Also on exhibit and for sale are over 100 other pieces of member artwork in a variety of media.

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, Offers Works by Bill & Sheryl Winn

The Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, will present The Earth as We See It, featuring a collaboration of the art by painter Bill Winn and clay artist Sheryl Winn, on view from July 6 through Aug. 2, 2015. A reception will be held on July 10, from 5-7pm.

Bill's moody watercolors, spontaneous acrylics, pastels and drawings form a beautiful chorus with Sheryl's elegant, yet earthy hand-built ceramics and whimsical kinetic art. The exhibit is a collection of this husband and wife team's observations of the Lowcountry and the Southeast which includes forests and marshes, small towns and big cities, and the people that live in the area. For this show each of the artists studied many of the same scenes and interpreted them using their own medium.

Bill's works depict vignettes of the land, sea, cities and people that he captures as a moment in time. His work portrays images of the landscape and structures that surround us which are often overlooked in the hectic pace of today's world. His art has been shown in galleries across the South. Bill is a practicing medical illustrator at the top of his field which has an impact on his talents as a fine artist, giving him an outlet for real creativity and spontaneity that are a delight to the viewer.

Sheryl's hand-constructed ceramics are reflective of the forests, shorelines, and towns of the Southeast and our Lowcountry. Her work often fuses natural elements with stoneware, creating dramatic and decorative, yet functional three-dimensional pieces. She also creates kinetic pieces that combine wire with clay for movement in her constructions. Sheryl has been a student of ceramics for many years, studying with numerous clay artists in Texas and Georgia, and has been influenced by Alexander Calder, originator of the mobile. Her art is her passion and it reflects the joy she has in creating it.

The gallery also displays the work of over 100 other member artists. For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Society at 843/757-6586 or visit (www.sobagallery.com).

Beaufort County Arts Council in Beaufort, SC, Features Works by C. Steve Johnson

The Beaufort County Arts Council in Beaufort, SC, is presenting Open Vision, an exhibition of paintings and drawings by C. Steve Johnson, on view at ARTworks, through July 25, 2015.

The show includes a collection of works which explore how we see and think. The images are mind maps that deal with context, things being in and out of balance, humor, absurdity, rhythm and time. Many of the artworks incorporate fractured words and phrases which leave the viewer to fill in their own meaning, or simply enjoy the pieces for their visual impact.

Local artist Steve Johnson describes himself as "an international visual artist, poet and musician". He was born and raised in Kansas City, MO, and has produced a wide range of artwork in a variety of mediums for more than two decades. His artwork and performance pieces have shown nationally and internationally, including stops in Berlin, the Czech Republic, Chile, London and Brooklyn, NY. He has taught writing, biology and visual art at the college level, and is currently the Career and Transfer Coordinator with Student Support Services

lery, sitting on a settee quietly absorbed in one of the larger works. Her attention caused me to focus anew on the particular painting. The artist produces abstract works often inspired by the colours of the 'outback' landscape as seen from an aerial view. When I looked the second time I discovered a painted line I had not noticed previously. It was a continuous, single brush mark that seemed to meander through the whole composition, sometimes boldly sometimes barely there, like a train of thought. When the woman rose from her reverie, we discussed this one brush stroke and each of us discovered a whole new meaning in the work. And yes, we both knew the artist but wasted no time chatting about him rather we talked about the work around us.

The first two ladies are like many art critics. They were not engaging with the art, they were discussing history and their personal encounters with the artist. They had formed their opinion of the exhibition prior to entering the gallery. On the other hand, the lone woman who immersed herself in the art, to concentrate on its concepts, composition, colour and tactile surface, to discover a personal response to the work, was actually 'reviewing' it. We can't all be art critics but we should all learn to be honest art reviewers. Artists are interested in, and often want to know, if they are reaching their audience. They accept 'corrective' criticism that comes from their peers and/or feedback from the informed viewer, as there are times they cannot see their own shortcomings.

Let's all become art reviewers. We won't make much money but we'll find riches beyond compare.

Judith McGrath lives in Kalamunda, Western Australia, 25 minutes east of Perth. She received a BA in Fine Art and History from the University of Western Australia. McGrath lectured in Art History and Visual Literacy at various colleges around the Perth area, and was an art reviewer for The Sunday Times and The Western Review both published in the Perth area. McGrath was also a freelance writer and reviewer for various art magazines in Australia. She also co-ordinated the web site Art Seen in Western Australia found at (<http://pandora.nla.gov.au/tep/25381>). McGrath is currently enjoying retirement.

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Tyrone Geter

Calling Me a Bitch from the "Name Calling" Series, 2015, charcoal, torn paper, and pastels, 26" x 74"

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, will present Tyrone Geter: BLACK!, on view from July 9 through Aug. 23, 2015. A reception will be held on July 9, from 7-9pm. The reception is free to members and for non-members there is a $5 suggested donation.

The exhibition at 701 CCA has been curated by Edmund Barry Gaither, director and curator of the Museum of the National Center of Afro-American Artists, and consultant at the Museum of Fine Arts both in Boston.

This solo exhibition by noted South Carolina artist Tyrone Geter presents recent works by the artist who, after extensive travel, work and study in Africa, made South Carolina his home. Combining masterful draftsmanship with assemblage and installation elements, Geter has consistently produced a bold body of work that offers powerful perspectives on the black American experience. These come not only after one hundred and fifty years since the end of the Civil War and the passing of the 13th Amendment to the US Constitution but also in a period when we are asked to consider the value of black lives in today's contentious world. Using a visceral, figurative approach into which mixed media elements have been freely woven, Geter's art holds us captive to its aggressive power and intriguing formal resolutions.

Geter's art descends from one of the most important 20th century developments in African American visual culture—the forging of a black figurative tradition. Rejecting the caricature and stereotypic distortions of black physical features, a number of artists early in the last century undertook the sympathetic portrayal of African Americans in the visual arts. A robust figurative production emerged that was affirmed and broadened by artists such as Elizabeth Catlett, and John Biggers. By the third quarter of the last century, black representation had been effectively humanized. Within Geter's own generation, a "muscular" figurative expression emerged from a number of artists working both in the Midwest and on the East Coast. They helped to roundout the roster of important artists who like Tyrone Geter, have made this tradition a vibrant part of contemporary art and Black life.

Edmund Barry Gaither is known nationally for his important education and museum-related work on the influence of African American artists on the mainstream of contemporary art. He is respected in the museum field in a number of areas and has served in many positions including the American Association of Museums (now American Alliance of Museums) and as president of the African American Museums Association.

For this exhibition Gaither selected works from a number of series by Geter: 1) Ain't I a Woman, 2) Living in the Light of Hell's Shadow, 3) Black Works 4) Southern Breeze; 5) Black Lives Matter; 6) Name Calling; and 7) Dark Angels. All of these works have in common a number of traits that strongly distinguish Geter's oeuvre. First, Gaither noted that the artist "fundamentally embraces the figure and has rooted his creations within that tradition. Second, Geter is not frightened of emotionality, but instead cultivates empathy and stirs passions within the drama of his presentations. He courts humor, and a spirituality reminiscent of the "soul music" and jazz of the era. Third, he welcomes formal challenges, something that bespeaks of his appreciation for underlying elements of abstraction and which tease and extend the visual richness of his subjects. And lastly, Geter's themes are drawn from his own life and travels as a black American male living through a tumultuous period in the United States and Africa. In his art, he explores perspectives derived from black experiences with race, class, and colonialism. Despite his attraction to figuration, he has avoided common traps that ensnare such artists. His work avoids empty gestures and maudlin excesses as it rises above mere realistic renderings."

Gaither goes on to say that "Though not political, Geter's work comments critically on the myriad ways that racism has distorted black lives. Stinging observations are directed from outside the community as well as from within. For example, as strongly as he indicts white American society for its mistreatment of blacks since emancipation (Hands Up), he equally condemns intra-racial disparagement and negativity within (Calling Me a Bitch Won't Make You a Man). His critical viewpoints, and the ways in which he has framed them, reach back to forebears such as Sojourner Truth ("Ain't I a Woman Series") and Paul Laurence Dunbar ("The Masks") both known for their piquant observations couched in colorful layman's language. Simultaneously, Geter's responds to contemporary voices such as Toni Morrison."

In the end this artist is not only inspired by these voices but also stirred to find his own forceful visual expression. Geter creates compositions that indisputably speak of black realities from black perspectives, while they are also profoundly American. Through pathos, humor and acidic commentary, Geter's art presents a new visual vocabulary for America's intractable problems of racial justice, social acceptance, and collective healing. BLACK! offers us a lot to see, and to think about, especially now.

The University of South Carolina in Columbia Offers Recent Acquisitions

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, is presenting McKissick and You: Collecting What Matters, on view at the McKissick Museum, through Sept. 5, 2015, in the museum's 2nd floor North gallery.

The exhibit highlights recent acquisitions in the permanent collection which showcase the multi-faceted mission of the museum. Utilizing the fine art, textiles, political, folk life, university history, and natural history collections, this exhibit explores the many ways material culture enhances appreciation of multiple aspects of a community's experience.

Farbstein Tobacco Plug Cutter

"Before museums collect what matters to the public at large, individuals collect what matters to them," says Dr. Claire Jerry, McKissick's Chief Curator of Collections. "McKissick Museum, like most other museums, is able to collect because someone else collected first."

McKissick Museum is located at the heart of the historic Horseshoe on the Columbia campus of the University of South Carolina. It was established in 1976 by the University Board of Trustees to bring together under one roof the many object collections housed in various departments and colleges across campus. These collections date to 1801 and provide insight into the long and illustrious history of the University. McKissick Museum is accredited by the American Association of Museums, operating within their guidelines for the proper care and safekeeping of these historical artifacts.

Gallery West in West Columbia, SC, Features Animal Art Exhibition

Gallery West in West Columbia, SC, is presenting In and Out of the Wild: Animals in Art, featuring the work of 15 visual artists in all media who explore the vast world we share with non-human life, on view through Aug. 31, 2015.

The exhibition celebrates the vast spectrum of living species, and makes the viewer think about who we are in relationship to animals in all forms, from butterflies to birds, pets to primates, jellyfish to tigers. From the smallest subject, how we think about these living things and sometimes project human characteristics on them can influence how we treat them. This show will delight through breadth of subject and beauty of portrayal by artists working in many different styles and media, and perhaps make the viewer stop and ponder the wonder of nature and how we might be a part of preserving it.

Participating artists include: Mary Beth Boone, Jocelyn Chateauvert, Margaret Couch Cogswell, Andrea Hennings, Mana Hewitt, Dot Wooten Kimelman, Janet Kozachek, Jan Lukens, Janet Oliver, Glen Saborosch, Will South, Karine Thoresen, Nathaniel Wallace, Sabrina White, and Maryanna Williams.

Work by Janet Kozachek

In addition to the work by contemporary artists, early works with animal as subject from the estate of Elsinore Budd, as well as James Tucker and Ann Carter Pollard will be part of the exhibition.

Mint Museum UPTOWN in Charlotte, NC, Offers Works on Paper from Its Collection

The Mint Museum UPTOWN in Charlotte, NC, will present America the Beautiful: Works on Paper from The Mint Museum, on view from July 2 through Oct. 31, 2015.

The exhibition features nearly 200 works on paper, including prints, drawings, watercolors, and pastels spanning more than 150 years of art history. These are executed in a wide range of styles, from quick on-site sketches and highly finished academic drawings to expressionistic portraits and abstracted landscapes. While some of the objects in the exhibition have been on view in the museum's permanent collection galleries recently, even regular visitors will be surprised and delighted to encounter many others that have not been seen for many years or that have entered the collection only recently.

Because these works are fragile and easily damaged by prolonged exposure to light they are not often on view for extended periods of time. This exhibition will thus provide a rare opportunity for the museum to share with its visitors the very best works from this part of its collection. Numerous foreign scenes by American artists, depicting subjects in France, Italy, England and beyond, will be included in the show, alongside works by artists with local and regional connections, such as Elliot Daingerfield, Will Henry Stevens, and Clare Leighton. America the Beautiful also includes striking examples of the work of some of the most important names from American art history, including James McNeill Whistler, Henry Ossawa Tanner, George Bellows, Thomas Hart Benton, Blanche Lazzell, Elizabeth Catlett, and Grant Wood.

McColl Center for Art + Innovation in Charlotte Offers Works by Alix Lambert

The McColl Center for Art + Innovation in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Prison Zoo, featuring works by alumni Artist-in-Residence Alix Lambert, on view through Aug. 14, 2015. An open house will be held on Aug. 14, from 6-9pm.

Based on her experiences working in and around the world of crime, interdisciplinary artist Alix Lambert has become acquainted with a wide variety of personalities over the years. As she has gathered material on criminal behavior and what it says about our own humanity, she has developed a multitude of strategies to present this information in an attempt to appeal to a diverse audience. Through her multi-city Crime USA project, she has explored sculpture, printmaking, drawing, theater, film, books, and animation.

The multimedia exhibition Prison Zoo derives its title from a new claymation piece produced in collaboration with Charlotte-based filmmakers Tim Grant, Nick Vitelli,

L. 4 Fingers L. Thumb R. Thumb R. 4 Fingers, 2014, Silkscreen on paper, 25 x 55.5 inches and Moria Geer-Hardwick during Lambert's 2014 residency at McColl Center. This provocative short chronicles the strained relationship between an effusive fox and his cellmate, a mute sloth. Through humor and wit, Lambert provides commentary on the penal system's revolving door, prison overcrowding, and inhumane nature of prison life.

Elder Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Seven Artists

Elder Gallery in Charlotte, NC, will present Realism—Abstract—In Between, featuring works by seven American artists, on view from July 2 through Aug. 1, 2015. A reception will be held on July 2, from 5-8pm.

Work by Stephanie Neely

Work by Javier Lopez Barbosa

Elder Gallery's stable of artists casts a wide spectrum when it comes to the artistic styles of its thirty-five artists. To celebrate the diversity that is represented by his gallery Larry Elder has curated an exceptional exhibition to include paintings by seven of its artists.

Portland, Oregon painter Angelita Surmon, Stephanie Neely of Charlotte, and Diane White of Pittsburgh have created landscapes and still life paintings to reflect their realistic styles. In addition to her award-winning floral still life paintings Neely has ventured into the world of landscapes with her oil pastels of the southeastern terrain. Surmon's acrylic landscapes of the northwest captures the serenity of that part of the nation. White's still life paintings combine traditional elements typically expected in still life genre with those of current day which may catch the viewer off

Javier Lopez Barbosa of Santa Fe and Ralph Tururo of New York have created exceptional abstract paintings that reflect their unique styles. Cheryl Chapman of Louisville and Calvin Jones of Atlanta fall between the world of realism and abstract.

Chapman incorporates representational elements into her abstract paintings but one must look closely to find them. Her work encourages the viewer to ponder and explore each of her paintings. Jones' textured paintings on canvas reflect his love of the southern rivers and lakes. His work falls into what has been classified as contemporary expressionism.

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Robert Motherwell

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Robert Motherwell: A Centenary Exhibition, celebrating the 100th anniversary of the famed American artist's birthday, on view through Aug. 29, 2015.

The exhibition features collages, paintings and prints highlighting several of the artist's hallmark styles and periods, including the Elegies, the Lyric Suites, and the Open Series.

Robert Motherwell (1915-1991) is unquestionably one of the most significant American artists of the twentieth century. In the 1940s, Motherwell became the youngest member of a group of artists known as the Abstract Expressionists. Like other Abstract Expressionists Motherwell rejected conventional realism and instead he was interested in exploring a reality that went beyond the recognizable image. Motherwell had a particular fascination and preference for working with paper. He also felt that his involvement with printmaking was just as important and vital to his work as his collages or paintings on canvas.

Motherwell's inclination toward paper is well illustrated in his 1965 Lyric Suites, from which the gallery has recently obtained twelve works. This series most aptly demonstrates Motherwell's desire to ban Berg's Lyric Suite played in the studio, from which they take their name.

In addition to our newly acquired Lyric Suites, we will show drawings from Motherwell's Joyce Sketchbook. Known for his admiration of James Joyce, Motherwell was invited to participate in events relating to the author, as well as to create illustrations for a special edition of Ulysses. In the early to mid 1980s, Motherwell created a number of drawings in small notepads, one of which came to be the Joyce Sketchbook. He would draw while taking breaks from painting, often employing iconography similar to what is found in his paintings and prints. While he generally tried to keep this imagery in an abstract realm, illustrative compositions such as architectural forms often emerged.

Motherwell's career encompassed more than five decades, and received virtually every honor accorded to an artist. His work has been the subject of countless museum exhibitions and publications. His first major retrospective was held at the Museum of Modern Art in New York in 1965. Since that time, he has been honored with retrospectives by the Albright-Knox Art Gallery in Buffalo, New York; the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art; and the Guggenheim Museum in New York, among others.

This exhibition will travel to Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center in Asheville, NC, from Sept. 4 through Dec. 31, 2015.

Jerald Melberg Gallery represents artists from all geographic regions of the United States, as well as South America and Europe. Equally diverse as where the artists live are the types and styles of art they create. Among these are artists of such stature as Romare Bearden, the master American collagist of the twentieth century; Wolf Kahn, considered by many to be the premier living American landscape painter; and Robert Motherwell, one of the leaders of the American Abstract Expressionist movement.

The gallery is located on South Sharon Amity Road near the intersection with Providence Road.

Lark & Key Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Janet Eskridge, Duy Huynh and Sarah Kaufman

Lark & Key Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Dwellings, featuring mixed media assemblages by Janet Eskridge, along with paintings by gallery co-owner Duy Huynh and guest artist Sarah Kaufman, on view through July 26, 2015.

The exhibition explores dwellings, not only as physical structures, but also as symbolic places that hold memories, dreams, and the heart of what is considered "home." Each month, the gallery also highlights the work of one the ceramic artists it represents. Although separate from the exhibit, the work sometimes reflects its theme. The featured potter for July, Barbara Chadwick, creates one-of-a-kind, stamped porcelain vessels and house forms.

Lark & Key, located in Charlotte's historic South End neighborhood, offers thoughtfully curated artwork, pottery and jewelry from local, regional and national artists.

Pickens County Museum of Art & History in Pickens, SC, Offers Works by Cecelia Feld and Bruce Schlein

The Pickens County Museum of Art & History in Pickens, SC, is presenting Surfaces and Spaces: Photography of Cecelia Feld & Bruce Schlein, on view through Aug. 20, 2015.

This exhibition of photographs is a compilation of work based on Cecelia Feld's and Bruce Schlein's shared interest in what people write on pavements, walls and fences. It is a documentation of mark-making, as well as the play of light and shadow on these outer surfaces and inside spaces. The essential focus is on how people decorate their environments and how light transforms a scene, influencing our perception of the scene.

Both photographers are interested in vertical and horizontal planes such as walls, floors, sidewalks and streets and how people mark these areas with statements of personal expression, warnings, directions, or other kinds of information. The vertical spaces are a bit more complex. They may be fences or walls, which are decorated and/or assembled into rooms or buildings where the play of light outside and inside creates vignettes of particular beauty. The photographs present some of the ways we engage with our environment.

Work by Bruce Schlein

Cecelia Feld grew up in New York City and received her BA from Hunter College, NY, in 1963. She moved to Dallas, TX, in 1969, receiving a Master of Fine Arts degree in 1976 from the University of North Texas. Feld has exhibited her paintings, drawings, prints and photographs in juried and invitational exhibits throughout the US. She has had numerous solo exhibitions and her artwork is in many private and corporate collections including Frito-Lay, Inc., I.B.M. and Delta Airlines.

Feld is a recipient of a MacDowell Colony Visual Artist Fellowship. The MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, NH, was founded in 1907 as a place where selected artists, writers, and composers can work uninterrupted in a secluded setting. She also received a Fellowship for a Residency in printmaking at the Vermont Studio Center, Johnson, VT, in 1997.

When asked about her work in this exhibition, Feld stated, "People and places, close to home or far away, are the subjects of my photographs. The action, the light, the drama, the unexpected is what excites me." She continued, "From Dallas to Santa Fe to New York and places in between, the streets and sidewalks show evidence of our presence. We were there. We made marks. We have altered the terrain. I like the abstract quality of these marks and the contrast between the colorful markings and the neutral ground on which they are drawn. This mark making is the focus of the series of photographs fondly called "Underfoot. My pictures celebrate people and the world in which they live. I catch the moments directly or out of the corner of my eye; the moments that make me pause to take a second look."

Bruce Schlein is a retired pathologist. He is a graduate of Linden, NJ, public schools, Columbia College of Columbia University and State University of NY, Downstate Medical College. Schlein has been pursuing photography since the 1960s;

Work by Cecelia Feld

self-taught with mentoring from the late John Menapace of Durham, NC. He has taught photography for a number of years at the Greenville County Museum School of Art as time has permitted. He is currently instructing photography in the Furman University Learning in Retirement Program and has instructed in the Furman Learning for You Program.

When asked about this current work, Schlein said, "I am currently working on trying to understand our interactions with spaces, surfaces and the light that helps define them. Every piece of life a photographer sees has a special feel or sense to it. If I can catch that essence, the photograph is fun for me and occasionally for others to look at."

Surfaces and Spaces: Photography of Cecelia Feld & Bruce Schlein is sponsored in part by South State Bank, Pickens Savings & Loan and Robinson Funeral Home, Crematory and Memorial Gardens. The Pickens County Museum of Art & History is funded in part by Pickens County, members and friends of the museum and a grant from the South Carolina Arts Commission, which receives support from the National Endowment for the Arts.

RIVERWORKS Gallery in Greenville, SC, Offers Works by Kristen T. Woodward

RIVERWORKS Gallery in Greenville, SC, is presenting Why Not Paper?, featuring works by Kristen T. Woodward, on view through Aug. 7, 2015. Receptions will be held on July 3 and Aug. 7, from 6-9pm.

Woodward might answer, "Why Not Paper?" with "It must be paper." She explains "Paper suggests a skin that holds the memory of each fold, tear, or embedded element. Unlike a blank canvas or wood panel that waits for the image to be introduced, the paper work starts to carry visual information in its initial formation, before the first pigment is applied." Her compositions begin with basic plant fibers (usually iris and cotton) sometimes adding found paper bits. Each unique sheet of paper is hand screened, possibly layering the pulp to build a support in relief. Finally Woodward applies pigment to complete her colorful, abstract images. Woodward continues, "By growing and harvesting indigenous plants to be made into paper I'm able to control all of the variables in the final support; from color variations and texture to the amount of internal sizing."

Woodward chooses to work in series and several of her series are represented in Why Not Paper?. Some paintings were inspired by the formal compositions of Navajo and Chimayo textiles. Others speak to self-portraiture and personal choice with painted images on papers embedded with photographic elements and Chinese "joss" (money). The paintings in Why Not Paper? may originate from differing inspirations but all share the unique tactile energy of handmade paper.

Work by Kristen T. Woodward

Woodward holds a BFA from Syracuse University and a MFA from Clemson University. She is currently a Professor of Art and Department Chair at Albright College, Reading, PA, where she teaches painting, printmaking, and disciplinary courses in Latin American graphic art, and gender as related to the arts. She is represented in numerous permanent collections including the Federal Reserve Bank, Sexton Industries, The Shearwater Corporation, The Cottonlandia Museum, Wachovia Bank, Adams State College, Lockhaven University, Cooper University Hospital, and the Center for the Study of Political Graphics of Los Angeles. She is also the Resident Curator for the (Artists2Artists.net).

Seagrove Pottery of the Sandhills in Aberdeen, NC, Features Works by Terance Painter and Sandi Barden

Seagrove Pottery of the Sandhills in Aberdeen, NC, will present an exhibit of works by Terance Painter of Maggie Valley, NC, and Sandi Barden of Burlington, NC, on view from July 1 - 30, 2015. This will be a special opportunity for the public to view their unique and beautiful work in the Pinehurst, NC, area.

Work by Sandi Barden

Clay sculptures are Sandi Barden's passion, a passion that began at the age of four years old when digging red clay from her driveway. Barden's pottery is the canvas for her sculpture that has evolved significantly over the years into the art form that you see today. Large-scale pottery is her preference but she creates all sizes and each piece is unique. No two pieces will ever be the same. Barden feels art is the antidote to madness.

Work by Terance Painter

North Carolina native Terance Painter has made his studio at Different Drummer Pottery for more than 30 years. It is here that he makes a spectacular range of functional high-fired pottery as well as a series of bas-relief landscape tiles and vessels. Drawing on fine art training in painting and printmaking, Painter infuses his work with swirled colors and embossed textures. Pickens County Museum of Art &
History in Pickens, SC, Offers Contemporary Cherokee Ceramics

The Pickens County Museum of Art & History in Pickens, SC, is presenting Ancient Forms, Modern Minds: Contemporary Cherokee Ceramics, featuring the work of eleven Cherokee artisans, on view through Aug. 20, 2015.

The Cherokee have been making pottery in Western North Carolina for almost 3,000 years. Though nearly disappearing in the 19th century, the tradition survived, emerging as a contemporary art form enriched by the Cherokee artists who have carefully preserved and passed on their practice from one generation to the next.

their own techniques. Commonly referred to as the traditional style, this work persisted as the dominant form for the duration of the 20th century.

It was not until the beginning of the 21st century that Cherokee potters revived the historic, thin-walled pottery style. Also during the present century, a third category of artists working in a contemporary style emerged producing highly decorated and glazed ceramic works. Many of these artists utilize the Cherokee syllabary or other Cherokee symbols in their work.

Artists including Davy Arch, Darrin Bark, Bernadine George, Betty Maney, Louise Maney, Harold Long, Shirley Oswald, Joel Queen, Dean Reed, Alyne Stamper and Amanda Swimmer, are among those featured in Ancient Forms, Modern Minds. This exhibition celebrates the rich history of Cherokee pottery as well as the creativity and innovation of contemporary Cherokee potters.

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Dennis Millsaps and Taylor Hayes

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, are presenting Shadow Stories, featuring works by Dennis Millsaps and Taylor Hayes, on view through Aug. 1, 2015. A reception will be held on July 3, from 7-10pm.

The full moon, an inspiration for six works presented by artist Dennis Millsaps in acrylic on canvas that depict the moon posed with shapes of color, texture & shadow. Billowing clouds, waves of color that form sinuous shapes that can be interpreted as human faces that express emotion animal forms that twist & dance, juxtaposing the shadows of the physical and spiritual as the viewer mediates on them.

Work by Dennis Millsaps unexpected?

Millsaps is a Winston-Salem native. His art education includes high school art classes and two years of adult continuing education in Fine Art at Davidson Community College from 1976-1978. He was a member of Associated Artists of Winston-Salem 2000-2011, and has been an Artworks Gallery member since April 2013.

Hayes is a mixed media artist who grew up in Roanoke, VA; she adventured to Winston-Salem in 2009 to pursue a degree at Salem College where she studied Arts Management and Studio Art. In the studio, she enjoys working with acrylic, collage, printmaking, and various materials to compose each piece. She makes use of texture, overlapping layers, and strong composition throughout her art.

For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listings or visit (www.artworks-gallery.org).

Work by Taylor Hayes

Shadows in varying degree of reality and abstraction are the focus of twelve mixed media paintings by Taylor Hayes. Beginning as simple, flat shadows on wood panel, each piece is developed with layers of paint to take the shadow beyond its original intention. This process explores what happens when painting the shadow of an object versus the object, itself. Does the subject remain recognizable or can it move past its own shadow to become something new and

ARTSPACE 506 in North Myrtle Beach, SC, Features Works by Treelee MacAnn

Work by Treelee MacAnn

ARTSPACE 506 in North Myrtle Beach, SC, will present The Printmaker's Art, a solo exhibition of works by Treelee MacAnn, on view from July 30 through Sept. 20, 2015. A reception will be held on July 30, from 6-9pm.

MacAnn is a talented artist and printmaker who is able to move easily between various printing methods. This exhibit includes drawings, etchings, woodblock and linoleum prints, screen prints and lithographs that represent the broad spectrum of the artist's practice.

Work by Treelee MacAnn

The first floor gallery will contain large drawings and prints, some diptychs and triptychs, that explore raw emotions and circumstances experienced in human lives and how these dramas find their counterpart in movies, films and videos. Juxtaposing images from her own life with familiar cinematic themes, MacAnn engages the viewer with dramatic and sometimes disturbing vignettes involving memory, identity, family history, and weaves all of these together with sometimes subtle and sometimes not so subtle cinematic references.

The second floor gallery will contain screen prints and color lithographs of landscapes and images that have informed much of the artist's work over the last few years. Many of these works have emerged as a result of MacAnn's recent travels to Italy and Greece, and some are a result of her engagement with familiar landscapes of her youth spent not far from Lake Michigan. These works, beautifully executed and filled with light and color, engage the viewer on an intimate level and show the artist's command of her exacting printmaking processes.

All of the works show MacAnn's ability to continually expand on her ongoing interest in capturing and distilling poignant moments of experience in our world. Her keen attention to detail and exacting craftsmanship will inspire viewers to become even more engaged as they view these works.

MacAnn is originally from Rochester, NY, but has lived in Myrtle Beach for many years. She is Professor of Art at Coastal Carolina University where she directs the printmaking studio and teaches printmaking and life drawing. She has exhibited in regional, national and international exhibitions and is the recipient of numerous awards for her works. Her drawings and prints can be found in many public and private collections.

Coastal Carolina University in Conway, SC, Offers Photographs by Eliot Dudik

Coastal Carolina University in Conway, SC, will present Broken Land / Still Lives, featuring photographs by Eliot Dudik, on view in the Rebecca Randall Bryan Art Gallery in the Thomas W. and Robin W. Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts building, from July 13 through Aug. 21, 2015. A closing reception will be held on Aug. 21, from 4:30-6:30pm.

Eliot Dudik is a photographic artist, educator, and bookmaker exploring the connection between culture, landscape, memory, and politics.

In 2012, Dudik was named one of PDN's 30 New and Emerging Photographers to Watch and one of Oxford American Magazine's 100 New Superstars of Southern Art. He was awarded the PhotoNOLA Review Prize in 2014 for his Broken Land and Still Lives portfolio. His photographs have been exhibited in cities across the United States including Los Angeles, New York City, Washington DC, San Francisco, Houston, and Baltimore.

Dudik's goals for this body of work is to "create landscapes that come alive with the acts of war, and cause, at least, contemplation of the nature of being American, to allow understanding, communication, and cooperation with fellow citizens. These photographs are an attempt to preserve American history, not to relish it, but recognize its cyclical nature and to derail that seemingly inevitable tendency for repetition."

The mission of the Rebecca Randall Bryan Gallery is a center for the presentation of the visual arts in northeastern, South Carolina by having a regionally significant exhibition and research program in support of the educational mission of Coastal Carolina University. The gallery is committed to researching, exhibiting and interpreting, for the purpose of study, education, and enjoyment of objects, activities and documents that are part of the focus of visual arts.

Jacksonville Council for the Arts in Jacksonville, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on North Carolina

The Jacksonville Council for the Arts in Jacksonville, NC, is presenting Carolina, a group exhibition of work by local artists: Karen Cowan Edwards, Stephen Greer, BF Reed, and Stephen Zawistowski, on view through July 27, 2015.

In the exhibition four local artists present a variety of artworks in different mediums and disciplines. The exhibition aims to highlight the great state of North Carolina while showcasing new art.

Karen Cowan Edwards is a Richlands, NC, based artist and a graduate of the Leo Jenkins School of Art at East Carolina University. She has continued to study across the state in university seminars and workshops with nationally recognized artist. Edwards is the owner of KCE Art Studio and has taught art for 37 years. She shares the artistry through her personal experience of traveling through the coastal waters of beautiful North Carolina.

Work by Karen Cowan Edwards

Stephen Greer is a Jacksonville based artist who believes that old tobacco barns, pack houses, and farm houses, in the landscapes of eastern North Carolina are architectural icons of an era when rural communities lived close to the land and closer to each other. Those buildings represent a time when members of the farming community were connected by schools, churches, and the cooperative agricultural effort of planting, cultivating, harvesting, curing, and marketing tobacco. Tobacco barns are eastern North Carolina's historical markers. BF Reed is a Philadelphia artist that and finished with oxide washes.

In a meaningful and metaphorical way Hunter says her statues and busts are like pottery. "As shards of clay possess a story and are part of a vessel, each piece is precious and has great significance. It is those same shards each of us possess that make us unique individuals...whether painfully sharp or soothingly smooth, making us unique vessels."

Hunter earned her BA from Pembroke State University. She now teaches Art at Rocky Mount Academy in Rocky Mount. Hunter exhibits her sculpture in North Carolina and participated in the 2007 First Fifty [Years] Rocky Mount Art Center Retrospective, the 2002 Annual Through Women's Eyes by Women's Hands Exhibit, and won the 1990 Purchase Prize at the 33rd Annual Juried Art Exhibition in Rocky Mount.

About her art Jan Sullivan-Volz says, "My assemblages tell stories via the chosen objects. Some connections are easily made within the piece, then there are other connections in the assemblages that are like mysteries waiting to be unraveled. The themes can be spiritual, metaphysical, or political; all connect to the human condition. I hope viewers will look and begin to understand a piece and interpret the work for themselves."

The viewer will recognize the "found" elements in Sullivan-Volz's assemblages; she shops, scavenges and collects wherever. Her response is both to the objectness of each "found" element, such as the giraffe in Exhibit #12 of the Menagerie and to the form of each element such as its material, its shape, color and texture...like a painter's choice of colors. However, it is in the intent, concept and humor that a dialogue syntax occurs between objects and form in the artist's fabrication.

Sullivan-Volz has been committed to the arts. She has taught in the public and private sector. She has created murals for corpora-

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, Offers Works by Jill Hope

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, will present Fusion, featuring mixed media by Jill Hope, on view from July 8 through Aug. 1, 2015. A Meet & Greet will be held on July 11, from noon-4pm.

Fusion is a collection of all that came before - in this case, watercolor, jewelry design, acrylic painting and spiritual journeying. Hope has used semi-precious stones, rice paper, metals, foils, pumice mediums and other unconventional materials to create her striking new works, each a separate assemblage of different textures. The exhibition includes 22 assemblages plus several works in acrylics and wearable art necklaces.

Hope says, "My art comes from what I call the intuitive side of thought; it's a form of meditation. I pick up a brush and follow the journey inward. For this collection I'm looking to my past for inspiration: my days as a jewelry designer, my experiences painting in watercolor and later acrylics, and more recently working with metal and other materials."

Turn of the Wheel is a distinctive triptych (three pieces considered a single artwork) consisting of three textured panels painted with softly glowing metallic copper acrylic juxtaposed with turquoise stone. Other materials include hammered copper, torn rice paper, metal wire and tacks.

Another titled Town Crier features bright oranges, blues, greens and red oxide with corrugated paper, embossed and painted foil, the artist's own torn watercolor painting pieces and patching compound. In keeping with the rest of the collection the piece is presented in a hand crafted illusion frame.

Born in Rochester, NY, Hope lived in England, Denmark and Australia before moving to the Carolinas. In 1991 she relocated from Ocracoke Island on the Outer Banks of North Carolina to Calabash, where she and her husband work together in real estate.

Hope attended North East Essex Technical College and School of Art in Essex, England. She has studied with a range of nationally and regionally known artists including Joe DiGiulio, Mary Alice Braukman, Sterling Edwards and others. She is a past president of Waterway Art Association in Brunswick County, NC. She founded Studio 12, a group of 12 artists who meet on a weekly basis at Sunset River Marketplace where they paint, support one another, share ideas and critique each other's work.

Hope's peers have honored her with numerous awards and she has been juried into the Associated Artists of Southport July National Exhibition.

Since opening in 2002, Sunset River Marketplace has been an active supporter of performing, literary and visual arts in the area. The 10,000 square-foot gallery features work by over 200 North and South Carolina artists. Its on-site pottery studio has two kilns and three wheels for use by students. Ongoing oil, pastel and watercolor classes are also provided, in addition to workshops by nationally known artists. The gallery's complimentary Coffee With the Authors programs feature presentations by local and regional authors. A Paint & Party series provides a fun after-work experience for those with no previous art background. The gallery's framing department offers full-service, on-site custom frame design for artwork, family heirlooms and other memorabilia.

The 68th Annual Craft Fair of the Southern Highlands Takes Place in Asheville, NC - July 16-19, 2015

Join us for the 68th Annual Craft Fair of the Southern Highlands at the US Cellular Center in downtown Asheville, NC, July 16 - 19 and Oct. 15 - 18, 2015. Nearly 200 juried artists of the Southern Highland Craft Guild will be selling works of clay, metal, wood, jewelry, fiber, paper, natural materials, leather and mixed media. With styles ranging from traditional to contemporary, the Fairs showcase the rich talent, diversity and craft mastery of Guild members.

The Craft Fairs have a proud tradition and history of excellence by representing the Southern Highland Craft Guild, a non-profit organization formed in 1930. The Fairs began in 1948 as a way to provide a regional market for the mountain craftspeople. Since that time, the Craft Fairs have set the standard for fine craft shows across the country. Each year in July and October craft collectors and gallery owners from across the country come to Asheville to see the show. They are joined by western North Carolina residents and tourists who appreciate the quality and history of the show, knowing it is an ideal destination for shopping and inspiration. Nearly 20,000 visitors to the Fairs each year invest in the regional and local economies while supporting artists working in the Appalachian mountains, and by spending a summer or fall weekend in beautiful Asheville.

In addition to providing a retail market for juried members, the Guild hosts craft demonstrations during the Fairs. A strong part of the Guild's mission is to educate the public about the history of crafts in this region, various craft techniques, and an appreciation for fine crafts. The July show features wet felting, sun-printing, natural dyeing, bamboo fly rods and blacksmithing. Visit (www.craftguild.org) for a complete list of scheduled craft demonstrations.

Beginning on Friday during each Craft Fair, mountain musicians perform live on the arena stage. Since the first fair in Gatlinburg, TN, in 1948, the music of the area has been woven into the fabric of the Craft Fair experience. From old time to bluegrass, this tradition is kept alive today. Visit (www.craftguild.org) for a complete list of performances.

"Creating a world in which craft and other native talents can flourish - this is the Guild's legacy. The craftspeople of Southern Appalachia are always aware of tradition and forever renewing themselves from the old sources of nature, family, spiritual life and the desire to share one's gifts with others," says Jan Davidson, Director, John C. Campbell Folk School.

The Southern Highland Craft Guild is a non-profit, educational organization established in 1930 with headquarters at the Folk Art Center on the Blue Ridge Parkway in Asheville. The Guild region covers the mountain counties of nine southeastern states from Maryland to Alabama, representing over 900 craftspeople. The Craft Fairs are one of the ways in which the Guild fulfills its mission which is to bring together the crafts and craftspeople of the Southern Highlands for the benefit

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, Offers Exhibit of Male Quilters

The Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, is presenting Man-Made: Contemporary Male Quilters, an exhibition that examines the unique aesthetics and techniques that men bring to a craft long-associated with feminine arts and labor, on view through Dec. 27, 2015. A reception will be held on July 3, from 5-8pm.

With backgrounds in contemporary visual art, media and fashion, the eight artists featured in the exhibition have been identified as leading makers whose quilts act as non-functional art pieces. Though quilting is culturally viewed as "women's work," men have participated in quilting since the early 1800s in both professional and domestic capacity. The art quilt movement developed in the 1980s as a practice akin to painting, led by professional artists rather than domestic makers.

The eight exhibiting artists are Joe Cunningham, Luke Haynes, Jimmy McBride, Aaron McIntosh, Joel Otterson, Dan Olfe, Shawn Quinlan and Ben Venom. These artists are part of a loosely-knit, growing community of male quilters whose quilts utilize striking imagery and compositions to navigate their interests and concerns. Though there are innumerable male quilters nationwide, these artists were selected as significant contributors to the evolution of the quilting medium through their unique training and experiences in visual, media and design arts.

This exhibition is organized by The Craft & Folk Art Museum in Los Angeles. Thank you to the Judy Appleton Memorial Fund for its sponsorship of this exhibition.

UNC Asheville in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Students

UNC Asheville in Asheville, NC, will present the Second Annual Celebrating Middle School Success Art Exhibition, on view in the Highsmith Art and Intercultural Gallery, featuring some 50 works of art by area middle school students, from July 1 - 31, 2015. A reception will be held on July 6, from 3:30-6pm. The reception is co-sponsored by UNC Asheville's Education Department and Office for School and Community Outreach Programs and Partnerships; Dixon Hughes Goodman LLP; McGuire, Wood and Bissette Law Firm; HomeTrust Bank; Asheville-Buncombe Middle Grades Network; United Way of Asheville and Buncombe County; and Buncombe County Schools.

The exhibition will showcase the talents of students from Asheville City Schools and Buncombe County Schools, and will honor the Middle School Success initiative conducted jointly by United Way of Asheville and Buncombe County. The initiative works to increase access to and the quality of after-school and summer programs at the middle school level, as a means of increasing high school graduation rates. UNC Asheville faculty and students play active roles in area after-school programs and in-school tutoring.

"I'm looking forward to meeting these incredibly talented students and their families," said UNC Asheville Chancellor Mary K. Grant. "These students are the future of our community and it's wonderful to be able to welcome them to UNC Asheville's campus and recognize their beautiful work."

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Frances Greenberg

The Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Recent Works, featuring works by Frances Greenberg, on view from July 1 - 31, 2015. A reception will be held on July 3, from 5-8pm.

The exhibition presents Greenberg's focus on the use of bold, exciting color. Her subjects vary from landscapes, both plein air and imagined, to interiors and figurative subjects. She works in pastels and oils. Greenberg says of this new work, "I've been working toward increasing the boldness of my colors so that my paintings will pop."

Woolworth Walk in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Moni Hill

Woolworth Walk in Asheville, NC, will present Messengers, featuring paintings by Moni Hill, on view in the FW Front Gallery, from July 1 - 30, 2015. A reception will be held on July 3, from 5-7pm.

Hill was born in West Berlin, Germany and grew up in Cincinnati, OH. She has shown her work and curated shows in galleries and museums throughout the Southeast. She lives in Asheville with her husband, three daughters, two dogs, and 16 hens where she maintains a studio in the basement of her home.

Working from home allows Hill to stroll into the flower and vegetable gardens, where she observes the colors and beauty of the patterns and seasons in nature. In addition to painting large canvases for gallery and museum shows, Hill is known for her "small art with big heart." All of her smaller paintings are painted on reclaimed wood with an acrylic glaze to protect them from the elements of life (they can withstand steam from the shower and dog kisses).

Hill is often told that her art has cheered up a friend in the hospital or traveled across the globe for a one-of-a-kind birthday present. It warms her heart to know that her little creations bring big smiles to people. Each of her paintings have words of wisdom on the side that remind her/us to slow down and Hill's work offers a sweet relief from the chaos of our busy schedules. From first glance at her paintings, one might easily conclude that she is naturally cheerful. Her bright palette and use of simple imagery suggests an optimistic demeanor. The truth is that she considers herself a reluctant optimist. She depends on walks in the woods and time in the studio to supply her with daily reminders that life is, indeed, precious and beautiful.

Hill's daily walks in the woods are the key to her sanity and the driving force behind her paintings. She heads into the woods with a frazzled mind and heavy heart from too much time on her smart phone and managing a busy household. But before long, she's singing songs of joy and shout-

Mica in Bakersville, NC, Features Works by Visiting Artists

Western North Carolina has been a hotbed of contemporary crafts since the late 1960s, particularly glass, both sculptural and functional. Mica, the fine craft gallery in Bakersville, NC, has an exceptional glass show, Function and Fancy, running from July 23 through Sept. 21, 2015. What makes this exhibit of visiting artists especially interesting is that there are several generations of glassblowers represented. Their works show the diversity of styles that can be found in this one medium and the vibrancy, skill, and artistry of blown glass.

Works by Scott Summerfield

Represented in Function and Fancy is one of the grand masters, Rob Levin, who has been making glass objects since the 1970s, and two of the younger generation, Scott Summerfield and Hayden Wilson, who are also carrying the torch forward. How good it is to know that this craft will live on in our area.

Levin has always tried to capture the elegance, fluidity, and whimsy, which are inherent properties of glass. The glass itself can be a symbol of human characteristics: fragile, but durable, fluid, but hard-edged. This all has something to do with the possibilities for change and transformation, both with the material and with the person doing the creating. Rob sees his work as an act of communication, not only with himself, but with the viewer as well. He says, "The approaches I use are eclectic and personal at the same time - sort of a blend of Late Venetian and Early Neurotic."

Scott Summerfield, even as a child, has been an object maker, beginning with toys such as models of planes and cars. These days he makes glass sculptures consisting of several blown components that are laminated together. He first does sketches, then works on form and color. Once the pieces are blown and cold-worked they get pieced together like a puzzle. Scott spends much of his time grinding and polishing the components so they will join together seamlessly. People are impressed this attention to detail and are attracted to his bold and vibrant color palette.

Work by Rob Levin

Hayden Wilson's father is David Wilson, also a well-known glass blower. Hayden grew up around glass, so was never afraid of it. He majored in metal sculpture at UNCA, but got sucked back into the glass world when he started working with Alex Bernstein, another second-generation glass worker, and son of Katie and Billy Bernstein. Alex and Hayden grew up together, played together as children, and are now working together, both following their family's tradition. Hayden loves the challenge of glass; it requires constant attention, because it's hot and fluid. His work takes many forms from sculptures to glass printing, cast glass, or vessels.

Saluda Historic Depot in Saluda, NC, Holds Fundraiser with Exhibit by Bill and Anne Jameson

The Saluda, NC, organizers of the Saluda Historic Depot will present artwork by William and Anne Jameson to benefit the ongoing fundraising efforts to purchase the train depot and future museum. The exhibit will be on view through July 31, 2015.

"Anne and I are excited to be a part of this worthwhile endeavor to purchase the train depot and to see it used as a historic museum. As residents of Saluda, we feel exhibiting our work in our mountain hometown and donating 50% of our proceeds from sales of our artwork to the fundraising is an excellent way to show our support," says Bill.

"In the early 90's I began to explore the diagonals and verticals which defined the landscapes of the Piedmont and nearby mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. In 2002, Anne and I purchased a cottage and studio in Saluda, which gave me a closer connection to my reference material. In 2006, we moved permanently to Saluda and now have unlimited access to the great wealth of subject matter in the Piedmont of South Carolina, the Southern Highlands and the Appalachian Mountains. My interest in 'paint' and quite often my subject matter is simply light which is most dramatically seen surrounded by darkness. When I hike and climb in the dark creeks and streams of upstate South Carolina, North Georgia, North Carolina, and in the GreatSmoky Mountains of Tennessee, wherever I turn is a painting. I'm intrigued by the light filtering through the trees, striking the rocks and the rushing water over the rocks."

"The shadowed areas of the paintings become places for silhouetted shapes, half-lights and half darks; distant light around the turn of the creek or a ridge barely seen through the foliage," adds Bill. "When painting from nature, I am surrounded by sounds of water which never relinquishes its dominance. Even when the sun goes down the sounds are still there. Painting in the studio where most of my work is done, I can still hear the sounds of the water obeying the laws of gravity. Like the water, we are and will be forever at the mercy of and under the influence of nature."

Work by Bill Jameson

"Ideally, I am inclined to think about the landscape without the intrusion of man and his continual need to build something; to tear up and rearrange the earth. On the other hand, it's man's presence that sometimes provides the provoking subject. My love for the natural landscape of the South is inherited culturally and geographically. I love the land for its history, its harshness and its beauty."

The KATZ Arts Collective in Now Open in Morganton, NC

The KATZ Arts Collective had its grand opening on May 1, 2015. It is a collective of artists, both online and in-house. It operates as a non-profit; any money left over after expenses goes back into the cooperative. It is located on 116 W. Union Street in Morganton, NC. Many different specialties including weaving, painting, photography, pottery, sculpture, and more are represented at the KATZ.

Included in its amenities are a free children's area, display galleries and shelves, rental studios, and an event space. The KATZ charges a flat fee for displays and rental studios and never charges a commission for any of the artists' pieces. We also offer classes geared towards homeschool children, and soon will be offering karaoke evenings.

The KATZ originally started out as a department store in 1940 and the building has managed to survive with its historical integrity intact over the passing decades.

The 2 1/2 floor building was taken over by the collective in March of 2015 and renovations were performed by its members right up until opening night. Getting the building ready for displays and the grand opening proved to be a Herculean task and required many long hours of blood, sweat, and tears from members and volunteers. Pulling up old carpet, dozens of gallons of paint, and navigating through uncharted plumbing were just a few of the time consuming tasks involved.

The depot sits on historic Main Street at the crest of the steepest mainline standard gauge railroad in the United States. The depot building is a contributing structure on the National Register of Historic Places in the listing for the Saluda Main Street Historic District.

The cooperative board members chose to resurrect the building's original namesake to maintain some of its historical integrity. This collective is the brainchild of Autumn Samen, a local photographer and mother of three boys. She runs her own business, Trunks Photography, and is the Executive Director of the Katz. She spends every day maintaining a delicate balance of family, business, and personal mission towards artists.

NC Museum of Natural Sciences in Raleigh Offers Works by Trena McNabb

The North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences in Raleigh, NC, is presenting Transparent-Overlapping Images of Nature, on view in the Museum's Nature Art Gallery, through Aug. 2, 2015.

The exhibit features images highlighting flora, fauna, foods and landscapes that comprise our precious Earth and its resources.

This captivating artist's prior works range from 32-foot-long public art commissions to small, elegant designs for private residences in a style that involves overlapping images and brilliant colors. These pieces vibrantly depict nature and the environment with imagery spanning multiple smaller paintings to weave a larger story in McNabb's highly individual style. Trena employs a method in which a "unique blending of science, realism and fantasy creates original art where vibrant color and stark white paint compete, contrast and ultimately dance together in breathtaking harmony."

Each image portrays the artist's interests in nature and the environment, which are expressed as bright kaleidoscopes on canvas providing views into the natural world. The collection also represents an opportunity to purchase a unique and beautiful window into nature in the form of artwork.

McNabb has been a guest curator for a variety of events and locations, including exhibitions at Wake Forest University's, Worrell Center in 2003-2004. Additionally, she has been a guest speaker for multiple art associations and naturalist clubs.

Page-Walker Art and History Center in Cary Offers Works by Karen Meredith

The Page-Walker Art and History Center in Cary, NC, is presenting Celebration of Color and Light, a solo show by Karen Meredith, on view through Aug. 15, 2015.

Meredith is an award-winning artist who creates still life, landscape, and interior paintings in oil. Primarily self-taught, she has studied with over 35 internationally-known artists, picking up techniques from each of them and making them her own. Meredith enjoys exploring the way light affects atmosphere and form and she conveys this in an impressionistic manner.

"I always have been inspired by light and color. It is their dynamic interplay that create beauty and interest in my visual world. I find my favorite images outdoors, either in sunlit spaces or moody shadows.

painting: the sounds of a nearby melodic bird or rustling trees, the warmth of the sun, or the erratic whipping of the wind," says Meredith.

"When not able to paint outside I pull together items nearby and create a still life scene, using the same inspiration of the play of light and color. My good fortune of traveling to interesting and beautiful locations has afforded me the opportunity of photographing scenes that might be used as reference in later works. At times I have played with them as subjects for my paintings."

Meredith has exhibited in numerous solo and juried shows in various parts of the country and has won multiple awards for her work. She enjoys teaching and mentoring students in her home studio, with the intent of bringing out the best of an individual's talents. She also has a blog called Poetry and Painting, whereby she creates paintings with a particular poem in mind.

This show is sponsored by the Town of Cary Parks, Recreation, and Cultural Resources.

Hillsborough Arts Council in Hillsborough, NC, Features Works by Bernice Koff and Emily Lees

The Hillsborough Arts Council in Hillsborough, NC, is presenting Invitation au Voyage, featuring works by Bernice Koff and Emily Lees, on view through July 25, 2015.

A common bond in the work is a shared passion for all things French. The streets of Paris appear in the mixed media paintings of Parisian bookstalls and shops by Bernice Koff. Emily Lees offers modern abstract images inspired by France and the nineteenth century French fascination with Japan, mounted on white vessels and forms.

Work by Bernice Koff

Koff began her love affair with art as a trained Museum docent. From this experience she realized her passion for making art. With 20 years of experience as a visual artist she has tried to preserve the beauty of the materials she uses. She creates abstract paintings by pouring paint on to handmade papers and canvas, then she proceeds through the process by merging digital collage and acrylic paints and inks.

Koff uses combs, palette knives, scrapers, and brushes to enhance the textural

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts Features Works by Lolette Guthrie, Alice Levinson and Evelyn Ward

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, will present Reflections, featuring works by Lolette Guthrie, Alice Levinson and Evelyn Ward, on view from July 27 through Aug. 23, 2015. A reception will be held on July 31, from 6-9pm.

Painter Lolette Guthrie states that for Reflections she explored through her paintings both the physical idea of reflections of sky in water and her own reflections on what it felt like to be in a particular place at a particular time. Her long interest in composition, color relationships and the edges of paintings has led to increasingly simplified/spare landscapes and to abstractions derived from these landscapes. She will be exhibiting both oil paintings and pastels.

Guthrie writes, "I paint largely from memory, so my paintings are always reflections on what I have experienced. Because the light quality at a particular time of day, the temperature and the season are so much a part of my memories, my paintings are also always paintings of light and atmosphere as I strive to capture quality of the work. Through the years she has attended numerous art classes, private lessons, and both national and international workshops. Koff credits her heightened sense of color to an experience she had while exhibiting with Dale Chihuly. Her work can be viewed on the Orange County Artist Guild Tour and at the Alizarin Gallery in Durham, NC.

Lees began her pottery journey on the wheel but found her true expression as a hand builder. Her vessel and wall pieces function as the canvas for her abstract style of art. The mid-twentieth century minimalist aesthetic, traditional Japanese pottery and the woodblock prints are her biggest influences. Painterly qualities, tranquility and asymmetry come together to form her unique approach. Lees' works have been included in both local and national juried exhibitions.

the ephemeral nature of light to creates a mood that is timeless. I begin a piece with a general idea of time and place and let the painting tell me where and how far to go. At some point the painting always takes on a life of its own so I am never sure what the end result will be."

Many of Guthrie's pieces are reflections on time spent on the tiny island of Ocracoke, NC. Located at the southern-most tip of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore, it is bounded on one side by Pamlico Sound with its beautiful and vitally important marshes, and on the other by the Atlantic Ocean, thirteen miles of pristine beaches and the magic of the ever-changing sea. Says Guthrie, "It is a place to heal, to relax and to find one's center. Paradoxically, it is also where I go to get reenergized, where I feel most alive, where I find inspiration."

Textile artist Alice Levinson will be exhibiting her non-traditional sewn cloth-works. Levinson writes, "My work generally begins with fragments of thoughts or memories, jotted in a verbal 'sketchbook.' This text suggests visual motifs and choice of technique as I move toward the work."

Work by Lolette Guthrie

"I have looked at 'Reflections' as a metaphor. Just as our image, reflected in a mirror is refracted through the medium of light, so past experiences are seen as refracted through the prism of time. Memories, recollections are transformed through time as new experiences and novel circumstances influence our sense of the familiar." Levinson explains that she began her work for this exhibit by "looking back to earlier techniques, to materials previously used. Moving ahead, I experimented with new ways of using these familiar processes and tools. At times actually starting with remnants of an earlier effort and turning it on its head to yield a new direction. The clothworks in this exhibit are the result of this exercise. Each piece has its inception in the familiar elements, yet each represents an exploration beyond the known and practiced toward the new."

"Visual motifs primarily derive from nature" continues Levinson, "which provides a major source of inspiration for my work. Color and movement are primary features. In each piece, hand dyed fabric has been layered and densely sewn. Occasionally I add bits of vintage cloth remnants to add visual and textural interest - as you might add spices to enhance a stew. Sewing, both machine and hand stitching, is my principal construction medium. I work to meld the disparate pieces of cloth into an integral whole, unifying them with lines drawn of stitching and multicolored thread."

Potter Evelyn Ward will be showing her salt-fired pottery. She writes that her work for this show is an outgrowth of reflections on her frequent walks outdoors and time spent working in her garden. Ward states "I will largely be exhibiting functional pieces such as vases, pitchers and bowls that incorporate my hand-drawn decals. These decals are made from drawings inspired by the time spent in my garden and on frequent walks. I love to draw the plants and flowers I encounter; I don't try to reproduce nature but rather try to find the essence of my subjects. This process forces me to slow down and reflect as I search out the essential elements."

Ward's functional pottery is made to be used. She hopes her work will add enjoyment to people's lives, whether it's a bowl used to serve food at a family celebration or the quiet respite a cup of coffee in a handmade mug can bring.

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts is owned and operated by 22 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. The Gallery's offerings include acrylic and oil paintings, sculpture, ceramics, photography, textiles, jewelry, glass, metals, encaustic, enamel, and wood.

FRANK Gallery in Chapel Hill, NC, Features Works by Members and Guest

The FRANK Gallery in Chapel Hill, NC, will present Vistas, a celebration of landscapes, both local and international, by four acclaimed artists - including FRANK Members Nerys Levy and Carolyn Rugen, along with guests Anthony Ulinski and Siglinda Scarpa, on view from July 7 through Aug. 9, 2015.

Three landscape painters, Levy, Rugen, and Ulinski, each provides a unique perspective on the world around us, while ceramicist, Scarpa, uses organic forms to create elegant and functional pieces.

Nerys Levy paints en plein air, often with watercolors, inks, and other media. Vistas will serve as a debut of her latest work created on a recent trip to Italy and other far off places. Born in Wales, Levy has traveled the world for both work and pleasure, with sketchbook in hand the whole way. In addition to her local and international humanitarian work, Levy's artwork is exhibited locally, and across the US, Canada, and in Italy.

Work by Nerys Levy

Carolyn Rugen's work is grounded by her perception of the natural world. She combines elements of earth, sky, and water, through delicately muted colors, soft textures, and simplified shapes to create an inimitable view of the world around her. A lifelong painter and longtime resident of Chapel Hill, she brings a personal interpretation of North Carolina to Vistas. Rugen exhibited in many North Carolina venues in her thirty-year career, including the Durham Arts Guild, the Weatherspoon Art Museum, and Chapel Hill's own Horace Williams House.

Anthony Ulinski's vast, open landscapes

bring big skies and sharp colors to Vistas. Ulinski grew up traveling the world before settling in North Carolina. His texturally rich landscapes depict North Carolina farms and scenery with a special quality that make them feel like home. He has a distinctive style with careful consideration to composition, shapes and detail. His impressive CV includes a wide array of Triangle and North Carolina exhibitions as well as shows in New York and Washington, DC.

In addition to our three featured painters, we are excited to showcase the functional yet elegant ceramic works from guest artist and Italian native Siglinda Scarpa. With organic shapes, floral elements, and rich earthy colors, her forms have a striking connection to nature. She has exhibited and is in private collections in NC, throughout the Northeast, and across Europe. In between creating vessels, Scarpa is the founding director of Pittsboro's Goathouse Refugee Animal Sanctuary.

The Mission of the Franklin Street Arts Collective is to support the local arts community and promote a vibrant downtown Chapel Hill through exhibits, events, programs, and educational outreach through FRANK Gallery.

contemporary jewelry exemplifying the creativity in this specialized craft. Each diverse work of art speaks to history, ideas, craftsmanship, materials and process. Looking closely at each piece, visitors will see how the craft has evolved since the 1940s and explore themes such as teaching and education, sculpture and the body, and new materiality and production methods. Beginning in the late 1980s, Daphne Farago collected an impressive collection of museum-quality contemporary jewelry that surveyed studio jewelry practice by a wide range of artists from the 1940s to contemporary times. Her collection now resides at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, MA. We are grateful to the MFA for their loan of such exquisite examples of contemporary jewelry, which we are proud to present to our visitors. Through Sept. 13 - "From New York to Nebo: The Artistic Journey of Eugene Thomason". The exhibition is an in-depth study of the life, subjects and style of the "Ascan artist of Appalachia," Eugene Healan Thomason (1895-1972). A product of the industrialized North, Thomason as a young man in the 1920s made the pilgrimage to New York to advance his art education and launch his career. Like so many other aspiring American artists, he understood that the city offered unparalleled personal and professional opportunities - prestigious schools, groundbreaking teachers and an intoxicating cosmopolitan milieu. Through Dec. 27 - "Man-Made: Contemporary Male Quilters," featuring an exhibition that examines the unique aesthetics and techniques that men bring to a craft long-associated with feminine arts and labor. A reception will be held on July 3, from 5-8pm. With backgrounds in contemporary visual art, media and fashion, the eight artists featured in the exhibition have been identified as leading makers whose quilts act as non-functional art pieces. Though quilting is culturally viewed as "women's work," men have participated in quilting since the early 1800s in both professional and domestic capacity. The art quilt movement developed in the 1980s as a practice akin to painting, led by professional artists rather than domestic makers. Gallery Six, Through July 12 - "Keep All You Wish: The Photographs of Hugh Mangum," curated by Sarah Stacke. Inside or outside his photo studio, Hugh Mangum (1877-1922) created an atmosphere - respectful and often playful - in which hundreds of men, women and children genuinely revealed themselves. Keep All You Wish: The Photographs of Hugh Mangum features a selection of images of early 20th century Southern society that show personalities as immediate as if they were taken yesterday. Born and raised in Durham, NC, Mangum began establishing studios and working as an itinerant photographer in the early 1890s, traveling by rail through North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. New Media Gallery, Through Aug. 2 - "Prime Time: Third Annual New Media Juried Exhibition". Artists from across North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia responded to a call to artists in December 2014 and submitted their work for Prime Time: Third Annual New Media Juried Exhibition. Fourteen finalists, at various stages in their careers, were chosen for inclusion by a jury. Played in a 53-minute loop, the works featured in "Prime Time" highlight a variety of approaches to single channel, screen-based new media, including stop action and hand-drawn animation, experimental narrative film, digital décollage and performance-based video. Ongoing - "Sol LeWitt: Creating Place, Wall Drawing #618." Sol LeWitt (1928-2007) was born in Hartford, Connecticut. As a pioneer of conceptual art, he has had a major influence on 20th century American art. Ongoing - "Community: Sharon Louden". The second work in the Museum's Artworks Project Space, Sharon Louden's innovative installation Community is a continued conversation based on a series of work that she started in 2013 that traces its path through installation, animation, painting and drawing. In each genre, her gestures create an implication of dance - movement and energy - transposed against the resistance of fixed squares and rectangles of color. Admission: Yes. The Folk Art Center of the Southern Highland Craft Guild, Blue Ridge Parkway Milepost 382, Asheville. Main Gallery, Through Aug. 23 - "Haywood Graduate Show". Graduates of Haywood's Professional Crafts Program will showcase their talents in wood, clay, fiber, metal and jewelry. This exhibition continues the historical relationship between the Folk Art Center and Haywood, an Educational Center Member of the Southern Highland Craft Guild. Haywood Community College is located in Clyde, North Carolina, just west of Asheville. The college's Professional Crafts Program began in recognition of the region's strong craft heritage. It was envisioned that students would learn the basics of craft media and how to transform that craft into a business. The clay studio was the first to open in 1974. With the addition of jewelry, wood and fiber studios, a comprehensive curriculum was in place by 1977. Permanent Collection Gallery, Ongoing - "Craft Traditions: The Southern Highland Craft Guild Collection". The Guild's Permanent Collection is comprised of approximately 2400 craft objects and dates from the late 19th century to present. Beginning with a donation from Frances Goodrich in 1931, the Permanent Collection serves the Guild's mission of craft conservation and education. This new installation will feature over 200 works that highlight our holdings in traditional art: woodcarving, pottery, dolls, basketry, weavings and furniture. The subject of this ongoing exhibition is craft history – that of the Southern Highland Craft Guild and the Studio Craft Movement. Focus Gallery, Through Aug. 11 - "Warm Thoughts," featuring works by Joe Waldroup, Ron Howard, Beer Chunhaswasdikul, Pam Howard, Rhanna Nyman, and Lynn Froelich. Hours: daily from 9am-6pm. Contact: 828/298-7928 or at (www.southernhighlandguild.org).

Boone

Appalachian Cultural Museum, University Hall Drive, off Hwy. 321 (Blowing Rock Road), Boone. Ongoing - The permanent exhibit area includes, TIME AND CHANGE, featuring thousands of objects ranging from fossils to Winston Cup race cars to the Yellow Brick Road, a section of the now closed theme park, "The Land of Oz". Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/262-3117.

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Main Gallery, July 3 - Feb. 6, 2016 - "STREAM: Razi Projects, the Collaborations of Suzi Davidoff and Rachelle Thiewes". Finding ground in their shared interest in the landscape, pattern, light and the perception and navigation of the natural world, Rachelle Thiewes and Suzi Davidoff's collaborative projects range from artist books to installation to video with a focus on human interaction with the environment. Mayer Gallery, West Wing, Through Aug. 8 - "Structures & Surfaces: Lynn Duryea & Brad Stroman". Lynn Duryea and Brad Stroman share more than a similar color palette. Both artists have perfected their skills through years of dedicated and solitary practice, creating visceral experiences for their audiences—one through steel and clay forms, the other with acrylic paint on canvas. Duryea's tall mixed-media pieces have been described as "totems of a past nearly mythical industrial age" reliquaries to ancient urban forms; however, they have a more immediate and austere visceral presence. Stroman's trompe l'oeil still-life paintings are also calculated to seduce the viewer; rendered through "washes, splatters, runs and glazes on a surface built up with layers of medium, then sanded, scraped and carved," his textured surfaces deepen the optical illusion of the exquisitely rendered objects that float so delicately in fields of saturated color. Gallery A, West Wing, Through Aug. 8 - "Quicksilver: Recent Acquisitions from the Andy Warhol Foundation". The exhibit pays homage to Andy Warhol's original Factory (1950s – 1962/63), located at 1342 Lexington Avenue, coined the "Silver Factory" by its frequent visitors. Decorated by Warhol's friend Billy Name, the entire loft, even the bathroom, was covered in tin foil, silver paint, and silver balloons that Warhol left floating in the space. Quicksilver provides a visceral immersion experience for the viewer, showcasing the six silkscreen prints now part of the Turchin Center's permanent collection. Gallery B, West Wing, Through Aug. 8 - "Andrzej Maciejewski: Garden of Eden". Andrzej Maciejewski was born in 1959 in Poland. He studied at Warsaw College of Photography (Poland), Polish Society of Art Photographers School (Poland) and College of Photographic Arts in Ostrava (Czechoslovakia). In 1985 he immigrated to Canada. He worked as a commercial photographer in Toronto until mid-1990's. Then he moved to the countryside in Eastern Ontario and switched entirely to art. He published 4 books: Bread (1996), Toronto Parks (1997) After Notman (2003) and Garden of Eden (2012). After Notman was a bestseller in Canada and has been widely discussed internationally. Andrzej Maciejewski exhibited in Canada, USA, Poland, UK, Germany, Norway, Latvia, Finland and Uganda. Mezzanine Gallery, July 3 - Sept. 26 - "The Seen & the Unseen: Annie Waldrop," featuring a mixed media installation. Waldrop's sculpture re-imagines a feminine narrative by linking personal experience and cultural myths with elements found in nature. She pays homage to family ties across generations, an unbroken lineage suggested by intimate symbols of the life cycle, fertility, and rebirth. Community Gallery, July 3 - Sept. 26 - "Reassembling from the Heavy Metal Series: Nancy Brittle". Brittle uses recycled and water-based materials to transform ordinary detritus into ancient sculptural forms made of precious metals that look centuries old but are shaped within a modern context. Hours: 10am-6pm, Tue., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri., noon-8pm. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Brasstown

The Town's public art program brings renowned artists from the region and from across the nation to our home in order to add public art to our facilities, parks, greenways, bridges, street corners, and elsewhere in the landscape. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. Contact: 919/469-4069 or (www.townofcary.org).

Work by Karen Meredith

Page-Walker Arts & History Center, 119 Ambassador Loop, Cary. Through Aug. 16 - "Karen Meredith: Impressions in Color and Light". This show will highlight still life and landscape paintings that celebrate color and light in an impressionistic style. Through Aug. 16 - "Kevin Peddicord: Visions of Yesteryear". Portraits with a cinematic touch, this series offers a glimpse of a time where simple pleasures and harsh realities are a part of daily life. A painterly trip to the Saturday matinee! Through Aug. 16 - "Out of the Flames: Ceramics by Andi Dees". Potter Andi Dees reveals new works exploring the wood firing process. All work was fired in a three chambered wood kiln offering three different results in one firing. With any atmospheric firing, results vary due to the addition of salt, the flow of ash and the path of the flame, each creating a finish that is one of a kind. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-9:30pm; Fri., 10am-5pm; & Sat., 10am-1pm. Contact: 919/460-4963.

Town Hall Gallery, City of Cary Town Hall, 316 North Academy Street, Cary. Through July 27 - "Carolene Coven: Paintings on Paper". Coven's paintings are about dualities: organic and geometric shape, complimentary color, line and geometric shape. Maps serve as the organic element and the squares are the geometric elements and by placing them together as a whole image on the picture plane the artist builds the relationship between the organic and the geometric structure and adds color and transparency. Combining these she strives to make conflicting elements become harmonious. July 31 - Sept. 21 - "Amy Devereaux: Peru An Unforgettable Journey". A reception will be held on July 31, from 6-8pm. The artist photographs an unforgettable journey to Peru. Her photos of Lima, Cuzco, Machu Picchu, and the Ollantaytambo Ruins document this distant land. Her visits to Moray and Maras where she saw the salt mines and ancient agricultural terraces, to Raqchi's ancient ruins, to Puno, where she saw the man-made floating islands of the Uros on Lake Titicaca make up this incredible journey. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 919/469-4061.

Cary Gallery of Artists, 200 S Academy St, Ste 120, Ashworth Square, Cary. Ongoing - The gallery offers high quality art in a variety of styles. Paintings, pencil and colored pencil artwork varies from traditional still lifes and landscapes to abstracts. Portraits of people or animals are available. Photographic work captures magnificent landscapes, small moments in life, portraits, and far away places. The pottery and clay art includes edgy handbuilt pieces, thought-provoking sculpted masks, and decorative and functional pottery that captures images of nature. Our jewelry artists provide a wide range of hand-crafted necklaces, earrings, bracelets, and other ornaments from metals, stones, beads and fused glass. Our glass artist creates stained glass hangings, custom stained glass windows and fused glass art. You can also find unusual hand-made books and hand-painted porcelain both antique and new. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 11am-5:30pm. Contact: 919/462-2035 or at (www.carygalleryofartists.org).

Cary Senior Center, 120 Maury O'Dell Pl., in Bond Park, Cary. Through Aug. 24 - "Student Teacher Staff Show". July 28 - Aug. 21 - "Through My Lens. No! Through MY Lens! Wright and Mike Ligett - see the world around you through the eyes of two different photographers. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-9pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-6pm. Contact: 919/469-4081.

Herb Young Community Center, 101 Wilkinton Avenue, Cary. Through July 27 - "Leatha Koefler: Remnants of A Technical World." The materials from new and past Technologies become the basis of this artist's assemblages. Buttons, flops disks, slides help convey the idea "... that something can exist and be vital, then suddenly not be important and begin to disappear raises questions of the ontology of objects. If an object's existence is only relative to their relationship to humans, then do we have an obligation to them?" This artist seeks to frame the once important connection we humans had with these older technologies as a memorial to the images, documents and data stored on them. July 31 - Sept. 21 - "Robert Cassanova: Alice's Garden". A reception will be held on July 31, from 6-8pm. The exhibit celebrates photographs by Robert Cassanova along with horticulture by Alice Cassanova. Gardening is a metaphor for life that binds our past, present and future. The patterns, shapes and colors in botanical specimens have evolved over millennia in response to nature's survival senses and inspire a deeper exploration of the underlying phenomena. Many of the botanical specimens shown in Robert's photographs are grown in the garden around Robert and Alice's home in Eastern North Carolina. Robert's high resolution photographs capture the patterns, shapes and colors in stunning detail with the use of a view camera and digital focusing stacking techniques. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-10pm; and Sat., 9am-6pm. Contact: 919/4604965 or (www.townofcary.org).

Work by Anthony Ulinski

FRANK, 109 East Franklin Street, Chapel Hill. July 7 - Aug. 9 - "Vistas," featuring a celebration of landscapes, both local and international, by four acclaimed artists – including FRANK members Nerys Levy and Carolyn Rugen, along with guests Anthony Ulinski and Siglinda Scarpa. Three landscape painters, Levy, Rugen, and Ulinski's each provides a unique perspective on the world around us, while ceramicist, Scarpa, uses organic forms to create elegant and functional pieces. Through July 5 - "People & Places". Local oil painters Julia Harmon and Carroll Lassiter team up for this exhibit, a show about memory. Using vintage amateur photography, Harmon explores the emotional content carried in the image and how it ties to memory. Lassiter finds memories rooted in the landscape of North Carolina, the fields, skies and roads traveled between Orange County and Edenton. This exhibition also includes, wood-turned pieces by Frank Penta. Through Aug. 9 - "Overtures: An Invitational". The exhibition is an invitation to the public to view the work of seven extraordinary artists. The variety of materials and vision promises to be an experience you won't want to miss. Abstract painters Anne Gregory, Paul Hrusovsky and Catherine Gregory are inspired by everything from global issues to the wonder of a childhood garden. Warren Hicks' photographs capture graphic black and white abstractions formed by shadows. Wood turner Ann Matrone releases stunning organic shapes from fallen trees. Sculptor Bill Moore's creations depict elements ranging from the sublime to the hilarious with exemplary skill and accomplished craft. Felt artist Sharron Parker uses dyed, unspun silk and wool to create abstractions using brilliant colors and textures. Ongoing - Featuring work from over 70 artists, Frank offers more than you'd expect from an art gallery. Frank is a collective, founded by the area's finest artists working together to open the door for creative innovation in the arts. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 11am-6pm; Thur. till 8pm and Sun. 1-5pm. Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Fourth-Floor Gallery, Through Sept. 7 - "The Art Books of Henri Matisse". Featuring an exhibition of art books by one of the greatest artists of the 20th century, Henri Matisse (1869-1954). Drawn from the Bank of America Collection, the exhibition includes 80 framed original illustrations with text from some of Matisse's most significant books. Best known for his boldly colored paintings, Matisse created a body of work that also included drawings, prints, cut-outs and sculpture, as well as costume and stage set designs. The artist didn't create illustrated books until his late 60s, but the same flowing lines that characterized his oils and pencil studies were carried over to the printmaking medium. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their work to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kajo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious met-alwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Harris and Crist Galleries - Featuring some contemporary works that are new to the collection or have not been seen for a while. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. July 2 - Oct. 31 - "America the Beautiful: Works on Paper." Featuring a Mint organized exhibition featuring nearly 200 works on paper, including prints, drawings, watercolors, and pastels spanning more than 150 years of art history. These are executed in a wide range of styles, from quick on-site sketches and highly finished academic drawings to expressionistic portraits and abstracted landscapes. Features artists include: Eliot Daingerfield, Will Henry Stevens, and Claire Leighton. The exhibition also includes striking examples of the work of some of the most important names from American art history, including James McNeill Whistler, Henry Ossawa Tanner, George Bellows, Thomas Hart Benton, Blanche Lazzell, Elizabeth Catlett, and Grant Wood. Through Sept. 6 - "Body Embellishment." The exhibition explores the most innovative artistic expression in the 21st-century international arenas of body extension, augmentation, and modification. The human impulse to ornament the body is an ancient desire that crosses cultures. Seeking to modify the natural skin and shape of the body, people have created imaginative ways to expand and distort, and add color, pattern, and narrative. Focused on twenty-first century innovators, this exhibition provides a glimpse at inventive designers from around the world who explore the role of the body and its embellishment. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown will house the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through July 12 - "Open This End: Contemporary Art from the Collection of Blake Byrne". An exhibition of both iconic and lesser-known works from some of the most significant and compelling artists of the last 50 years, the exhibition will trace a number of intertwined narratives in the history of recent art. These narratives include Pop and Conceptual Art, Minimalism, body-oriented performance art, the Pictures Generation, identity politics and psychologically-inflected figurative works. The exhibition's title comes from a 1962 painting by Andy Warhol, a gift from Blake Byrne to The Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles, and the earliest work in the show. Guest curator Joseph R. Wolin utilizes the strengths of Byrne's collection to chart a broad but personal overview of contemporary art, while also provided a window into the collector's personal vision. "Open This End" is organized and sponsored by The Skylark Foundation. Through Aug. 30 - "Colour Correction: British and American Screenprints, 1967-75". Drawn primarily from the Nasher Museum's vast collection of prints, the exhibition examines a moment when artists adopted, and adapted, the screenprint technique during an extremely fertile period of experimentation and productivity in the United States and Great Britain. Coinciding with a confluence of social upheaval, political turmoil and artistic change and exchange, "Colour Correction" illustrates what many art historians consider to be the "golden age" of screenprinting. The exhibition includes more than 100 works by 40 artists—from the playful Pop art of Andy Warhol and Eduardo Paolozzi to the scathing political critiques of Amy Stevens to the minimalist abstractions and optical exercises in visual perception by artists such as Richard Anuszkiewicz, William T. Williams and Liliane Lijn. Also - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

Work by Mackey Bane

Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. July 11 - Oct. 18 - "The Stilled Lives of Objects". Over the history of art, the subject of the still life has provided unlimited opportunities for artists to investigate their understanding of vision and perception, to explore the formal elements of art, and to depict objects as symbols of cultural significance. The works in this exhibition both showcase depictions of natural and man-made objects and demonstrate the plethora of possibilities this humble subject matter offers to both artists and discerning visitors alike. Through Oct. 4 - "FULL STOP (2004-05)" is a full-scale installation work constructed entirely of cardboard, black paint, wood and hot glue by Tom Burckhard. A highly detailed replica of a mythical artist's studio, the work presents viewers with a cluttered interior space filled with art books, research material and all the tools of the classic post-war American oil painter. Curiously, at the center of the studio is a blank canvas, hinting at the anxiety of making the first mark, the theater of the studio, and the melancholy narrative of painting today, a subject that Burckhard often references in his work. The exhibit is curated by Michael Goodson, Director of Exhibitions, Columbus College of Art & Design in collaboration with the artist. Through Oct. 4 - "McDonald Bane: 2 Parts Art, 1 Part Science". Since the 1960s, North Carolina artist Mackey Bane has rigorously explored the visual effects of line, shape and color in her work. Her focus has been on exploring the endless variables produced by forming linear relationships and contrasting curved and angular geometric shapes in her abstract compositions, whether in color or black and white. Bane's exhibition at the Weatherspoon includes works on paper, prints and oil on canvas paintings dating from 1966 to 2013. Bane received her MFA at Woman's College (now UNCg) in 1959. Her work has been shown nationally and is in the permanent collections of the Museum of Modern Art, New York, NY; the Mint Museum, Charlotte, NC; and the Weatherspoon Art Museum, among others. Bane is represented by Eve Hansley Gallery, Raleigh, NC. The Bob & Lissa Shelley McDowell Gallery, Through Sept. 6 - "Beverly Semmes: FRP". At the heart of Beverly Semmes' The Feminist Responsibility Project (FRP) is a collection of works on paper that use rough gestural applications of ink and paint to conceal and reveal the female body as depicted in pornographic magazines. As Semmes explains, "Picture a committee of rogue censors responding to the imagery of porn. They blot out the literal; what is left behind and altered now speaks in a different voice." At the Weatherspoon, the drawings are accompanied by ceramics, suspended and illuminated glass sculpture, video work, and a large-scale installation. Atrium and Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue., Wed. & Fri., 10am-5pm, Thur., 10am to 9pm and weekends, 1-5pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu/).

tion features utilitarian and fine arts objects from public and private collections, including a Thomas Jefferson travel desk given to Governor McCrory by the artist, Arts and Crafts style furniture, ikkebana planters, items created for the Catawba County Sesquicentennial, stringed instruments, toys, and more. Whitener Gallery, Through Oct. 25 - "Thoughts Made Visible: Paul Whitener's Process." Gifford & Regal Galleries, Through Sept. 20 - "HMA Studio Art School: Printmaking Students Exhibition." Collagraph and intaglio prints created in HMA's printmaking workshops with instructors Lindsay Barrick and Thomas Thielemann. Shuford Gallery, Through Sept. 6 - "Woven Together: From Lesotho to Carolina," an exhibit featuring the cut paper collages and mixed-media paintings of Mount Pleasant artists Lillian Trettin and Linda Elksnin. The exhibit also includes tapestries woven by Maseru Tapestries Cooperative in Lesotho, Africa and photographs of the weavers by Carl Trettin. Lillian Trettin creates visual narratives by piecing together paper shapes like a jigsaw puzzle. She often begins by writing stories to inform her complex figurative works. Linda Elksnin creates mixed-media paintings by layering watercolor and gouache on a painted background and then building up color and texture using paint and colored pencils. Maseru Tapestries is a small weaving cooperative in Lesotho, in southern Africa. Organized in 1999, it is a typical cooperative that employs women so that they can provide better nutrition, healthcare, and education for their children.

Ongoing - "Glass & Pottery from the Museum's Permanent Collection." Mezzanine Gallery, Ongoing - "Discover Folk Art: Unique Visions by Southern Self-Taught Artists from the Hickory Museum of Art Collection." The exhibition features a selection of photographs from recent gifts to the Museum in honor of Dr. Lawrence Wheeler's 20th anniversary as director of the North Carolina Museum of Art. These gifts are a significant addition to the Museum's photography collection and feature iconic images by many ground-breaking photographers of the 20th century, along with innovative works by contemporary photographers. Ranging in date from 1967 to 2013, the photographs depict a wide variety of subject matter, including Elvis conventions, minor league baseball, self-portraits, the southern landscape, and views of Cuba and New York. Artists in the exhibition include Uta Barth, William Christenberry, Alex Harris, Frank Hunter, Bill Jacobson, Simen Johan, Andrew Moore, Maria Magdalena Campos-Pons, and Kerry Skarbakka, among others. East Building, Through Aug. 23 - "The Patton Collection: A Gift to North Carolina". This exhibition features an exceptional gift to the NCMA from the private collection of Jim and Mary Patton. This transformative gift significantly expands the scope of the Museum's permanent collection, both augmenting works by artists currently in the collection and adding works by artists previously not represented, enabling the Museum to present a comprehensive picture of the significant movements in modern and contemporary art. Amassed over a lifetime, the collection includes seminal works by masters of mid- to late-20th-century art: Milton Avery, Richard Diebenkorn, Jackie Ferrara, Helen Frankenthaler, Adolph Gottlieb, Hans Hofmann, Ellsworth Kelly, Robert Motherwell, David Park, Sean Scully, Frank Stella, Wayne Thiebaud, and many others. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, James Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Rocky Mount

Four Sisters Gallery, Dunn Center for the Performing Arts, NC Wesleyan College, 3400 N. Wesleyan Blvd., Rocky Mount. Through Oct.30 - Featuring a two person sculpture exhibit with Victoria Salas Hunter's terracotas and Jan Sullivan-Volz's assemblages. Hunter's statues have a feminine presence that simultaneously expresses both a knowing power and vulnerability. Her standing figures have statuesque dignity that the artist achieves with proportion and gesture. The viewer will recognize the "found" elements in Jan Sullivan-Volz's assemblages; she shops, scavenges and collects wherever. Her response is both to the objectness of each "found" element, such as the giraffe in Exhibit #12 of the Menagerie and to the form of each element such as its material, its shape, color and texture...like a painters choice of colors. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-5pm; Fri., 9am-3pm; & Sat., 9am-noon. Contact: 252/985-5268.

Maria V. Howard Arts Center, Imperial Centre for the Arts and Sciences, 272 Gay Street, Rocky Mount. Through Sept. 6 - "The Art of the Brick", featuring a one of a kind LEGO® art exhibition by Nathan Sawaya" and "In Pieces," Sawaya's unique multimedia collaboration with award winning Australian photographer Dean West. The Art of the Brick®, features large scale sculptures created out of iconic LEGO® bricks by New York based artist, Nathan Sawaya. It is one of the largest and most popular art exhibits touring the globe. CNN hailed "The Art of the Brick®" as one of the top twelve "must see exhibitions in the world." "This year alone, we've visited Australia, South Africa and Taiwan," said Sawaya. "We are thrilled to be bringing this collection to Rocky Mount." The two artists spent years traveling and working together to blend their crafts resulting in the "In Pieces" collection of visually stunning hyperrealistic images that are exhibited with corresponding and complementary three dimensional LEGO sculptures. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 252/972-1163 or at (<http://arts.imperialcentre.org/>).

North Civic Gallery, Dunn Center for the Performing Arts, NC Wesleyan College Campus, 3400 N. Wesleyan Blvd., Rocky Mount. Through Oct 30 - "Life Works: by the late Willie Lee Evans". Willie Lee Evans (W.E.) was born March 23, 1948 to John Earl and Malvoia Evans, in Alcolu, SC. At the age of nine, Willie and his family moved to Bridgeport, Connecticut. It was there, in the fourth grade, at Long Fellow Elementary School, that his love for art began. After admiring several of his art pieces, his seventh grade teacher, Mrs. Tisdale took interest and was able to get him involved in an art program. However, being the true artist that he was, throughout most of his life, he pursued acquiring skills on his own. Willie fell ill in the late 1980's, suffering a stroke that paralyzed the right side of his body, which was the side he used for painting. In the early 1990's he returned home to South Carolina. His passion and determination was so strong that he taught himself to paint with his left hand. After his return to South Carolina, that true love for art kept him motivated to continually create. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm & one hour before performances. Contact: call 252/985-5268 or at (www.ncwc.edu/Arts/Mims/).

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art, 750 Marguerite Drive, Winston-Salem. Through Aug. 16 - "Alternative Modernisms". The exhibit captures the evolving relationship between the historical and contemporary image through diverse cultural perspectives of five contemporary artists: Harun Farocki, Leslie Hewitt, Pedro Lasch, Jumana Manna, and Jeff Whetstone. Each artist stages a dialogue with historical and vernacular culture, revisiting representational traditions born in painting, at one remove, through the lens of photography and film. Each finds new spaces in the genres of still life, portrait, and landscape to intervene in how specific histories can be told. They work from the archive, the studio, the museum and the outdoors. They investigate personal histories of place, from Rural Appalachia to Palestine. Various approaches to narration emerge from time-based media driven by the desire to refute a monolithic sense of history and to speak from the contemporary vantage. Through Oct. 4 - "Devin Leonardi: Figure at Dusk," featuring the first solo museum exhibition of the late Devin Leonardi. The exhibition displays 34 of the artist's works, including watercolors and small oil paintings, spanning his first cycle of work in 2005 to his last works made in 2014. Leonardi's imagery richly depicts the twilight of the American landscape, the mythology of westward expansion, and the dialectic between modern and contemporary image, as seen in his paintings' adaptations of photographic source material. Harkening back to an earlier period of American history and following its folkways, Leonardi constructed Americana paintings of pioneers, journeymen, and classical figures as well as stunning landscapes of plains, mountains and newly forming cities using vintage photographs from the 1850s to 1880s. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm, Thur. till 8pm; Sun., 1-5 pm, and closed Mon. & state holidays. Admission is free. Contact: 336/725-1904 or (www.secca.org).

SC Institutional Galleries

(1901-1970) selected from the collections of the Smithsonian American Art Museum, the Florence Museum Board of Trustees, the Johnson Collection, and a private collector in Denmark. This selection not only represents the range of distinct periods over the artist's prolific career, but it also offers a rare personal glimpse into the artist's relationship with the people and places of Florence, America, & Europe. In 1901, William H. Johnson was born in Florence, SC. At the age of 17, he traveled and studied in America and Europe, producing and exhibiting art that reflected the styles and attitudes of the world around him. Fearing the eminent onset of war in Europe, Johnson returned to the United States in 1938. Over the course of the next decade, his art transformed into the intense, "primitivist" style he is recognized for today. Both vibrant and somber, these abstracted paintings depict the African-American experience from both a historical and personal perspective. Today the Smithsonian American Art Museum owns more work by Johnson than any other single artist. In 2009, two of Johnson's works painted during the artist's 1944 visit to Florence, were among those chosen by First Lady Michelle Obama as decoration for the White House. Through Jan. 1, 2016 - "Selections-from-the-Wright-Collection-of-Southern-Art". This exhibition features thirty works from the Florence County Museum's recently acquired Wright Collection of Southern Art. In its entirety, The Wright Collection of Southern Art features 141 works collected over 45 years by former Florence pathologist, Dr. Louis Wright. The collection was developed around the recognition of Southern Art as a viable facet of American expression and cultural development. It encompasses art produced over a 153-year period, from 1852 to 2005. At its center is work by noted artists like Thomas Hart Benton, Alfred Hutty, Helen Hyde, Florence native artist, William Henry Johnson, Alice Huger Smith, Anna Heyward Taylor, Elizabeth O'Neill Verner, Palmer Schoppe, Mary Whyte, & Stephen Scott Young. Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Additionally, the Community Gallery communicates the lives, stories and accomplishments of significant past and present citizens of Florence County and members of it's communities. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Pee Dee History Gallery, Ongoing - This is the largest gallery space in the facility, comprising 3,300 sq. ft. of exhibit space. This permanent collections gallery occupies the entire second floor, east wing of the building. Artifacts are supported by historical images and narrative interpretation, giving a comprehensive introduction to the Pee Dee region from prehistory to the present. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. 2-5pm. Contact: 843/676-1200 or visit (www.floccomuseum.org).

Hyman Fine Arts Center, Francis Marion University, Florence. Through Aug. 12 - "Paintings by Mary Bentz Gilkerson". Gilkerson is a South Carolina contemporary artist who is passionate about landscape, the environment and sense of place. Her paintings and prints draw from the landscapes of rural Charleston, Edisto Island, the Ace Basin and the Congaree, focusing on the tension between the fragility of the environment and the power of the natural forces of earth and water. Gilkerson holds an MFA in drawing and painting from the University of South Carolina. A native South Carolinian, she lives and works in Columbia where she is a professor of art at Columbia College. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5pm. Contact: 843/661-1385 or at (<http://departments.fmarion.edu/finearts/gallery.htm>).

Greenville

Downtown Greenville - "First Fridays," featuring a gallery crawl presented on the first Fri. of the month from 6-9pm. Visit galleries throughout the downtown area. For info: (www.fristfridaysonline.com).

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Through July 5 - "The Fantastic World of Dan Yaccarino". Award-winning artist Dan Yaccarino grew up in New Jersey, where he whiled away the hours with comic books, vintage cartoons and films, and toys. Today, children know Yaccarino from his books "The Fantastic Undersea Life of Jacques Cousteau" and "All the Way to America". Yaccarino has also captivated children and their parents with his animated television series "Oswald". His work has been featured in a number of publications, including "The New York Times", "Rolling Stone", and "Time". The exhibit was organized by the National Center for Children's Illustrated Literature. Through Sept. 6 - "Sidney Dickinson and the Alabama Suite". Sidney Dickinson (1890 - 1980) studied with William Merritt Chase and George Bridgman at the Art Students League, where he later taught for more than 25 years. He exhibited extensively throughout the Northeast and was an active member of the National Academy of Design, serving as a jury member for a number of years before becoming a full Academician in 1927. Ongoing - "Grainger McKoy: Recovery Stroke". Grainger McKoy (born 1947) moved with his family at a young age to Sumter, South Carolina. McKoy attended Clemson University, earning a degree in zoology, while also studying architecture. After graduating, McKoy practiced for 18 months with the renowned bird carver Gilbert Maggioni in Beaufort, South Carolina. McKoy initially produced realistic carvings, but slowly began transforming these intricately carved birds into gravity-defying sculptures that played with form and space, while continuing to accurately render each species in detail. His work has been shown at the High Museum of Art, Brandywine River Museum, Brookgreen Gardens, and many other galleries. Ongoing - "South Carolina Icons". Consider the work of three African-American artists from South Carolina, David Drake, William H. Johnson, and Merton Simpson. Their work echoes the stories of slavery, the struggle for equality, and the Civil rights movement. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.greenvilemuseum.org).

Museum & Gallery, Bob Jones University, Wade Hampton Boulevard, Greenville. Through Dec. 13 - "Golden Age of Painting in the Low Countries". Works in this exhibit are not from South Carolina's Lowcountry region, but a dynamic representation of northern European artwork from the 1600s! The exhibit includes works on loan from New York private collector Lev Grzhonko. M&G curator John Nolan describes "The Golden Age" exhibition as "a great opportunity for M&G and the Greenville community," and notes the historical significance of the paintings to Greenville, stating, "I'm not aware of any loan exhibit that has come to our city having such a diverse selection of artists and genres from the Low Countries during the late sixteenth and the seventeenth centuries." In addition, while M&G's collection of Dutch art is focused largely on religious subjects, Nolan observes "the Golden Age exhibition allows M&G to feature a broader spectrum of what else was happening in this era of creative genius." Ongoing - "Likely and Unlikely Pairings," featuring a fascinating juxtaposition of art and mundane objects revealing a variety of viewpoints. Through this special comparative display, the unique presentation serves as an engaging tool for all viewers interested in understanding the many facets of art, culture, and thought. Ongoing - Permanent exhibition of the finest collection of religious art in America, including works by Rubens, Botticelli, and Van Dyck. Offering visitors a 60-minute audio-guided tour of over 40 favored works for a modest fee. Hours: Tue.-Sun., 2-5pm. Contact: 864/242-5100, Ext. 1050 or at (www.bjmg.org).

Work by Kristen T. Woodward

RIVERWORKS Gallery, Suite 202, Art Crossing on the Reedy River in downtown Greenville. Through Aug. 7 - "Why Not Paper?," featuring an exhibit of works by Kristen T. Woodward. Receptions will be held on July 3 and Aug. 7, from 6-9pm. Woodward might answer, "Why Not Paper?" with "It must be paper." She explains "Paper suggests a skin that holds the memory of each fold, tear, or embedded element. Unlike a blank canvas or wood panel that waits for the image to be introduced, the paper work starts to carry visual information in its initial formation, before the first pigment is applied." Hours: Tue.-Fri., 1-5pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: call 864/271-0679 or e-mail to (fleming.markel@gvtec.edu).

Franklin G. Burroughs - Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through Sept. 13 - "Steve Jameson: Ode to the Grand Strand". Many American cities have preserved the character of their original - or at least earlier - architectural structures in historic districts. This movement, alas, has yet to appear in the Grand Strand area. But many of its historic structures have been preserved in the paintings of artist and longtime Myrtle Beach resident Steve Jameson. Jameson paints under the pseudonym Cedar. Through Sept. 20 - "John Baeder's Road Well Taken". As the temperatures rise many of us reminisce about a summer ritual from childhood: vacations in the family car, often punctuated by a stop at a roadside diner. Nowadays, such classic eateries have all but vanished, replaced by characterless fast-food chains. Artist John Baeder offers a nostalgic road trip to some of these nearly forgotten totems of American life in an exhibition of his paintings. The exhibit includes 36 paintings based on three decades' worth of photographs collected while traveling around the country. Through Sept. 20 - "Sandy Logan: Ironic Abstraction". When is a photograph not a photograph? When it's a work by Charleston artist and architect Sandy Logan, whose photographs focus in on such detail that their subject becomes something of a mystery. Through Sept. 20 - "Norman Rockwell's Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn," continues the Museum's tradition of presenting family-friendly exhibits featuring popular artists' work along with interactive activities for visitor of all ages. The exhibit is on loan from the Norman Rockwell Museum, Stockbridge, MA, and features 16 signed limited edition prints gifted by the artist to the Norman Rockwell Museum. The prints are from this quintessentially American artist's own collection of the illustrations he created to accompany Mark Twain's famous works for publisher Heritage Press and Limited Edition Club in 1935. Through Sept. 29 - "Interactive Art Project 'Before I Die'". Most of us have felt or expressed the wish to do or experience something before we die. For New Orleans artist Candy Chang, that introspection was transformed into a worldwide interactive art project. In the throes of a severe depression following the 2011 death of a close friend from liver cancer, Chang conceived a project: a sort of public meditation on the meaning of life. With permission from its owner, she painted the side of an abandoned house in her neighborhood with chalkboard paint and stenciled it in a grid repeating the sentence, "Before I die I want to ____." Anyone walking by could pick up a piece of chalk, reflect on their lives and share their personal aspirations. By the next day, the wall was full of responses: "Before I die I want to... sing for millions, plant a tree, find love, see equality, straddle the International Date Line, see my daughter graduate" and more. "[The responses] reassured me that I'm not alone as I try to make sense of myself," Chang recalled. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm.
