Editorial by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher COMMENTARY

And Just Like That It's Fall

Well, my calendar reads that Fall begins on Sept. 23, but I don't think we'll be feeling a nip in the air unless after a very hot Summer, temps in the mid 80s seem cool. It's all in your head anyway. The minute I have to rake one leaf - it's Fall to me, even if that leaf died due to a lack of rain and months of 90 + degree temps. It didn't so much as fall, as it shriveled up and choked to death. But the Summer season is over as everyone has returned to school, college, university or work. And, football games are being played - that's American football I'm talking about, when we can all dream that our teams will be the champs at the end of the season. At least until that first loss, which hopefully will come somewhere near the end of the season instead of at the beginning and several times after that, but not my team - they're going to win it all this year. Panthers forever!

But this is an art publication - who cares about the weather or scoring? Everyone! We all know what could be lurking out there in the Atlantic this time of the year, and whether it comes straight at us or sneaks up from behind through the Gulf - Mother Nature can deliver a humbling blow to many an art community in the Carolinas. But, we'll have none of that this year. And, what artist or art gallery doesn't want to make that big score from that customer from heaven. Or, what art museum or art organization that doesn't want that big donation - the kind you name a room or center after that person who gives you all that wonderful money. Money - the Mother's milk of the arts. Admit it - we're all in it for the money. We have to be, as none of this happens without money.

Sure, we all may have started out believing that we were doing this for the aesthetics of the arts, but soon enough we learned, mostly the hard way, that it's all about making money. We're all judged not by how talented we are but how much money we make at what we do. I myself am not much of a success when it comes to that but if you told me tomorrow I'd have to do it for free -I'd be out of here in a Carolina minute. Now, I'm not saying you can't strike a balance between the two. But some people don't. To some, it's all about the money and to others it all about the aesthetics. You know who the artists are who are chasing the bucks, but you may not remember those who would only create for the aesthetics. They come and go - many like a passing ship in the dark. There are plenty an artists who were full of talent, but their pride kept them from doing what it takes to make it in this art world. And, what it takes at times is despicable and down right degrading, but sometimes necessary to just survive. And if you can't do what it takes, most likely you won't survive. The trick is in the balance.

Some come to terms with that balancing act and others never get over the fact that they are forced to walk that line. I once heard an artist say that if they didn't receive a certain award before they died their whole career would be a waste. Wow! I mean, what a shame, but that's how they measured their life, based on an award. And, this was an extremely talented and accomplished artist, but they wanted the one thing other artists had and they didn't. I know I couldn't live under that concept. I've got goals but they're realistic and something I can reach - as long as I walk that line. I might fall a few times along the way and even jump off if I feel the need to, but I'm going to make it across - because I want to. I don't need to - everything isn't riding on it.

I've found my balance. And, I hope you've found yours or are working at finding your balance in this life. Don't be someone who continued above on next column to the right reaches too high for something not worth it.

What's With All the Quilts

Midway through August as I was working on this September issue I noticed that we were receiving a lot of info on quilt shows or quilt events. And, I thought to myself, "Is September Quilt Month or something and I just don't know it?". Well, I looked that up on Google and found that National Quilting Day is observed annually on the third Saturday in March, which I guess makes March Quilt month.

First up is the 2019 Wilkes County Quilt Show: Love, Laugh, Quilt, hosted by the members of the Wilkes County Quilt Guild, Inc., which will be held Sept. 6 and 7, 2019. It will be held at The Stone Center, located at 613 Cherry Street in North Wilkesboro, NC. Admission $5 (12 and under free). For further info visit (www.wilkesquilters.org).

The American Quilter's Society, the largest quilting membership organization in the world, is having a major show on Sept. 25–27, 2019, at the Charleston Area Convention Center in North Charleston, SC. Find out more about this organization and show at (www.americanquilter.com).

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Inspired Threads, featuring works by members of the Art Quilters of the Low Country, on view from Sept. 23 through Dec. 2, 2019. You can learn more about this show by calling Robin Swift at 843/689-6767 ext. 224.

The WNC Ag Center in Fletcher, NC, is the site of the 37th Annual Asheville Quilt Show, held in the Davis Event Center, from Sept. 27-29, 2019. You can learn more about this show by visiting (https://www. ashevillequiltguild.org/quilt-show/).

And I'm sure to get notification from the folks at the Upstate Heritage Quilt Trail in September of new quilt blocks they have installed somewhere in the Upstate of South Carolina. The Trail has over 240 locations throughout Anderson, Oconee, and Pickens counties, with additions being added monthly. I usually post news about those new quilt blocks at our blog Carolina Arts News at (https://carolinaartsnews.wordpress.com/). Just click on the category "Quilt Trail" where you'll find 48 entries or put "Quilt Trail" in the search window. I don't include this kind of news in Carolina Arts as it's not an exhibit - it's a tour you can take.

Some might think, "what do quilts have to do with a fine arts publication?". Well, I might have thought that 30 years ago when I was first diving into doing an art publication but a friend of Linda's from High School married a creative person who does fiber art. Unfortunately they live up in the mountains of Virginia, so I'm not allowed to brag about her talents in Carolina Arts, but she gave me my first exposure to fine art quilts. And, we're not talking about your Grandmother's kind of quilts, although some of them were pretty spiffy. And, nowadays major art museums present quilt exhibitions.

So, although March is the official month for highlighting the creation of quilts, this September, you'll have plenty of opportunities to view traditional and fine art quilts in the Carolinas, from the mountains to the sea. Of course that's if you read this issue and find out about those opportunities.

On Our Cover This Month

On our cover we have a work by William M. Halsey, one of my favorite artists, and one that I was lucky to get to know before his death. I struggled about this cover, but in the end I just couldn't help myself - it's a masterful work and I love just looking at it and because I got to know this man and have seen a lot of his work, it means even more to me than you can know. One of my concerns was that Halsey's wife Corrie McCallum (1914-2009) is having a show in Charleston, SC, and we have an article and ad about it in this issue. And, I can hear Corrie saying, "Not again - second fiddle to that man - again". Unfortunately, I think she was used to that. She probably wouldn't really say that but I guess it crossed her mind many a time. She raised their three children and made a home for him while trying to keep her career going. She did a great job of it, but I'm sure it wasn't easy. Sorry, Corrie.

City of Charleston, SC, Office of Cultural Affairs Presents Works by Andrew Feiler & Synthia Saint James

The City of Charleston, SC, Office of Cultural Affairs is presenting Without Regard to Sex, Race or Color, featuring works by Andrew Feiler and HBCUs: Creating Power Through Education, featuring works by Synthia SAINT JAMES, on view at City Gallery at Waterfront Park, through Oct. 6, 2019. An artist's talk with Andrew Feiler will be held on Sept., 22 at 2pm.

The two distinct shows examine race, privilege, and the power of education through photography and giclees on canvas.

Photographer Andrew Feiler is a fifth generation Georgian who was raised Jewish in Savannah. His experience as a minority in the South influences his work which has won numerous awards and been featured in museums, galleries, magazines, and newspapers, and is in a number of private and public collections. The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania graduate who holds a Master's in Modern History from Oxford University and a Master's in Business Administration from Stanford University, brings his upbringing to bear in Without Regard to Sex, Race, or Color, a photographic study of Morris Brown Col-

In 2010, Dr. Stanley Pritchett, Sr. became the 18th president of Morris Brown College, a historically black college, at the height of one of the worst real estate depressions in 75 years. Faced with mounting debt, Dr. Pritchett laid out his plan: sell the property on the periphery of the campus, pay off the college's financial obligations, and reconstitute the institution in the heart of the old campus. And he did. In 2015, the school paid off its debts and emerged from bankruptcy.

Feiler's work documents this era and exposes the inequity of the fact that while roughly one hundred HBCUs that remain are a mere 3% of colleges in America, they represent more than 10% of African Americans who go to college and more than 25% who earn degrees.

"These photographs put into perspective Morris Brown College's great legacy and history; they give a glimpse of what onc was and, more importantly, offer a vision of what can be," says Dr. Pritchett. "The photographs convey a sense of rough edges, of incompleteness, reminding me of an unpolished stone. They inspire me to want to make a difference, and I hope they will motivate others to be a part of our transfor-

Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston Offers Works by Jill Hooper, Ben Long, Frank Mason, & Robert Rauschenberg

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, will present two new exhibits including: Influence and Inspiration: The Art of Jill Hooper, Ben Long, and Frank Mason, on view in the Museum's Gallery 8, from Sept. 6 through Jan., 5, 2020 and Rauschenberg in Charleston, on view in Gallery 9, from Sept. 6 through Jan. 5, 2020.

The exhibition celebrates three artists devoted to classical training and united by friendships that span multiple generations. Mason was an influential teacher at the Art Students League for over fifty years and a passionate supporter of the arts. In the 1960s, Mason taught Ben Long, a promising young artist from North Carolina. Long has since distinguished himself on the international stage as a realist and a prolific fresco painter. Charleston-based artist Jill Hooper studied under Ben Long, who remains an important mentor to this day. Like Long, Hooper is a realist painter who has earned international acclaim for her powerful portraits, landscapes, and still-life paintings.

Together, these artists demonstrate a commitment to the techniques of the Old Masters while offering their unique artistic perspectives on contemporary life. Influence and Inspiration includes both paintings and drawings by each artist. The drawings reflect the rigorous training and preparation behind each finished painting and offer a glimpse into the artists' working process. Subjects range from portraits and genre scenes to large-scale religious paintings.

Long before Robert Rauschenberg (1925—2008) became one of the twentieth century's most influential artists, he found much of his inspiration through the lens of his camera. Rauschenberg's first experiences with photography were in the South as a student at Black Mountain College between 1949 and 1952, and Charleston was one of his earliest subjects. He was reunited with the city in the early 1980s for his monumental photography project In + Out City Limits that ultimately resulted in photographic essays on six American cities - Charleston, Boston, Baltimore, Los Angeles, New York, and Fort Myers, FL. Forty-seven of the Rauschenberg's Charleston photographs were displayed at the Gibbes Museum of Art in the autumn of 1981. This exhibition revisits a selection of Rauschenberg's Charleston photographs taken between 1952 and 1981 and examines their appearance in several later works.

The Gibbes Museum of Art is home to the foremost collection of American art that incorporates the story of Charleston. The Museum connects the city and region's artistic past to a vibrant contemporary art

City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by Vik Hart and Pascale Bilgis

The City of North Charleston, SC, will present two new exhibits including: Far Fields, featuring new work by Vik Hart of Charleston, SC, and HOME, featuring new work by Pascale Bilgis of Lexington, SC, both on view in the North Charleston City Gallery, located in the Charleston Area Convention Center, from Sept. 1 - 30, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 5, from 5-7pm.

In his exhibition, Far Fields, Vik Hart presents a series of imaginative acrylic paintings set in a fictional land he calls "Firn." By setting all of his paintings in this imaginary land, Hart creates narrative strands between his paintings.

"I love the idea of world building in fiction," says Hart, "and one of my goals when I paint is to have information in the work for the viewers who want to know more beyond the initial visual image. I often get comments that my pieces remind the viewer of different things they've seen before. Oftentimes these will be books, movies, cartoons, and TV shows. While my work isn't directly derived from any one piece of existing media, I enjoy the general sense of nostalgia it gives to others who see it."

acrylic and watercolor medium so that he can quickly make corrections and changes to his images.

Hart received his Associates Degree in Commercial Graphics in 2014 from Trident Technical College. His paintings have been exhibited in group and solo shows throughout Charleston, SC, including shows at The Southern, Redux, Beresford Studios, and Saul Alexander Gallery. He currently teaches a Character Creation class through Fabulon Studios.

Abstract Expressionist Pascale Bilgis is a multimedia artist focusing on landscapes. In her series HOME, Bilgis recalls significant landscapes from her own life: the small French village of her childhood; Turkey, where she worked as an archeological photographer; and her current home, South Carolina.

Working in acrylic, Bilgis splits her compositions into geometric sections using different color palettes to show the landscapes in different times of day or different seasons. She adds buildings in ceramic or wood relief. The architecture of the buildings helps identify her landscapes as belonging to specific regions: she creates the simple cottages of rural France, the bustling cityscape of Istanbul, and the nostalgic country houses of South Carolina. She chooses to show the buildings in ceramic relief to emphasize the durability of human habitations in contrast to the natural world, which reflects the changing seasons. "As the landscape is ever changing, homes remain in their original state," Bilgis says.

Bilgis received her BA in photography from the University of South Carolina. After graduating, she worked as an archaeological photographer in southern Turkey and as an art assistant at the Pierre LOTI French School of Istanbul. While in Turkey she began to pursue a new passion for painting and ceramics. She lives in Lexington, SC, where she has had many solo exhibitions. She is a member of South Carolina Artists.

Charleston Area Convention Center in North Charleston Hosts American Quilter's Society - Sept. 25 - 27, 2019

The American Quilter's Society (AQS), the largest quilting membership organization in the world, is pleased to announce that its newest AQS QuiltWeek show will be in Charleston, SC, area for the first time ever from Sept. 25-27, 2019, at the Charleston Area Convention Center in North Charleston, SC.

AQS QuiltWeek 2019 includes six shows across the country and concludes with a three-day event in Charleston. Each AQS QuiltWeek show features a variety of programming including special exhibitions, workshops by renowned instructors, contests and a Merchant Mall with the latest machines, fabrics and tools for quilters of every skill level.

"The special exhibits on display are intended to provide inspiration and entertainment for quilters, collectors and fiber art enthusiasts attending the event," said Bonnie Browning, AQS Executive Show Director. "We expect more than 15,000 attendees at our first ever Charleston event and are looking forward to bringing the wonderful art of quilting to the Holy City."

In addition to more than 530 quilts on display, $54,000 in prizes will be awarded during the AQS Quilt Contest at the event. AQS Certified Quilt Appraisers will be on hand to appraise new and vintage quilts for insurance documentation or fair market values.

The Charleston QuiltWeek show features a total of 11 exhibitions over three days, including:

Work by Kelly Harvey

Quilts of Valor: A 50 State Salute. The "50 State Salute" exhibit features quilts made in patriotic designs, from the simple to the complex. Each quilt will be awarded to veterans and military members touched by war by the Quilts of Valor Foundation. These quilts are meant to inspire all levels of quiltmakers and to showcase the many possibilities for expressing gratitude to our military through

From Hands Alone: Selected Quilts from the Collection of Chris Moline. The quilts included in this exhibit are selected from the collection of Chris Moline and represent items that display the artistry and innovation of handmade quilts. Moline is an author, collector, lecturer, SAQA: Metamorphosis. Metamorphosis generates transformative change in shape, nature, or structure. Animals physically develop and change from birth to maturity. Concepts and ideas morph and change over time. Even the earth's landscape progresses through many geological and ecological stages. The pieces in this exhibition demonstrate the inevitability of physical, philosophical or personal change and the results of such transformations.

International Miniature Quilt Exchange. The (QuiltShow.com) sponsored a quilt exchange between quilters in the United States and international quilters. The quiltmakers were paired up to develop a friendship and to learn about each of their own quiltmaking styles. Each team submitted two 18–24" quilts, 300 total, and 24 "mini" quilts were selected for this traveling exhibit.

35 Years of AQS Anniversary Showcase. This exhibition showcases 15 of the previous Best of Show winning quilts at AQS QuiltWeek Shows, which are on loan from the National Quilt Museum's permanent collection. In addition, this xhibit will also include a collection of AQS show pins, a T-shirt quilt by Molinda Lauxmiller featuring shirts from previous AQS QuiltWeek shows, and other American Quilter's Society memorabilia from the past 35 years.

For a full list of exhibitions, visit (https://bit.ly/2BbiAP3).

To avoid lines, purchasing tickets in advance online is encouraged. Visit (www. quiltweek.com) to purchase tickets. AQS Members receive 20 percent off and anyone who places their order 30 days or more before the show receives 10 percent off. Group and discounted hotel room rates are available.

In 1984, after recognizing the enthusiasm for quilting across the country, Meredith and Bill Schroeder formed the American Quilter's Society (AQS). Their goal was to develop a group that gave national recognition to quilters and their work and to set the standard for excellence in the quilting industry. Today, AQS is the largest quilting membership organization in the world, with over 70,000

KATRINA ANDRY: Over There and Here is Me and Me

August 23 - December 7, 2019

The work of Katrina Andry probes the power structures of race-based stereotypes. Using printmaking and installation, she creates visceral images that beckon viewers to examine their own preconceived notions of society. Andry's work explores the negative effects of stereotypes on the lives of Black people and how these stereotypes give rise to biased laws and ideologies in our society.

For her exhibition at the Halsey Institute, Andry will explore the stereotypes that engender gentrification through a new body of prints, and an installation. As Charleston's neighborhoods are rapidly changing in multifarious ways, this exhibition will provide a springboard for community-wide conversations about gentrification.

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston Features Works by Karyn Healey

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present EXIT Strategy, featuring original works by Karyn Healey on view at the CAG Gallery, from Sept. 1 - 30, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 5-8pm.

Besides offering her latest work, older selections will serve as a retrospective of her five years in the CAG Gallery before her exit in October.

Healey, a Summerville resident, presents EXIT Strategy, a collection of oil paintings, mixed media and collage, as social commentary and artistic growth. Art, as a rule, can serve as a distraction or temporary exit from life's demands and her work also literally depicts change or departure - welcome or not. In this show, her recognizable geometric style evolves and becomes more simplified showing "exits" in thought, preparation, action and even from life itself.

The term "exit strategy" can also mean a change in venue or a way out and after five years with the CAG Gallery on East Bay Street it is time to move on and make room for other artists to exhibit their work and volunteer for the Guild. Healey served on the CAG board in addition to volunteering with the nonprofit Guild's com-

Corrigan Gallery LLC in Charleston, SC, will present Celebrating Corrie McCallum: Painting, on view from Sept. 6 - 30, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 5-8pm.

Corrigan Gallery is proud to announce the September showing of paintings by renowned South Carolina native Corrie Mc-Callum in an exhibition entitled Celebrating Corrie McCallum: Painting. This show will also serve as the 14th anniversary of Corrigan Gallery.

Corrie McCallum (1914-2009) spent her life working in the arts. Starting her formal art education at University of South Carolina in 1932, McCallum met her future husband and fellow artist, William Halsey. In 1936, McCallum had the opportunity to direct a gallery space for the WPA/Federal work project. This project started her career in the role of arts educator. Throughout her life, McCallum would hold numerous teaching positions eventually becoming the first professional Curator of Art education at the Gibbes Art Gallery (now Gibbes Museum of Art) in 1960. In 1971 McCallum began teaching studio art at the College of Charleston where she helped found the fine art print department. Throughout all this, McCallum and husband William Halsey took time to travel and continued to create

Meyer Vogl Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Marissa Vogl

Meyer Vogl Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present Wild Seed, featuring a collection of paintings that capture Marissa Vogl's travel fever, on view from Sept. 6 - 29, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 5-8pm.

From Montana to Martha's Vineyard to the gulf coast to the Arizona desert, Charleston artist Marissa Vogl spent her summer rambling through the nation. These new works come from a place of giddiness and nervousness and restlessness and serenity.

"Sometimes, an artist needs freedom to just paint," Vogl says. "To explore and sling paint without intent of sales, show themes, subject matter. To explore whatever comes out of our hands at that very moment and sparks joy that day. This is exactly that: freedom to explore."

For Wild Seed, Vogl has painted both abstractly and representationally, her work inspired by her wanderlust and things that

Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Mike Basher

The Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will present Relativity, a new solo exhibition of large format silver gelatin photographs by artist Mike Basher, on view from Sept. 6 - 30, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 5-8pm, during the Charleston Art Gallery Association Art Walk.

Relativity: The dependence of various physical phenomena on relative motion of the observer and the observed objects, especially regarding the nature and behavior of light, space, time and gravity...

The artist reflects upon his profound regard for our environment. Engaging in form and emotion, this collection of photographs displays a definite subject in an obscure place, which speaks directly to a broad audience. Merging photography and design, Basher carefully crafts these thought provoking vignettes on large sheets of black and white film, which deliver a richness and clarity to his works.

Work by Mike Basher

For the past sixteen years, Basher has traveled the globe photographing campaigns for large corporations such as Under Armour, Reebok and The North Face, working with celebrities and athletes like Michael Phelps, Lindsey Vonn, and Andy Murray. This selection of his photography is the antithesis.

Basher's inspiration for his work comes from the solitude of the outdoors. His sublime, minimalistic photographs take a look at scenes often visited by others, yet his approach in isolating subjects leaves the viewer to often question, and even disregard its whereabouts.

Working exclusively with large format black and white film, each image is carefully crafted - seen through the process of making a precise exposure, hand developing the negative, final printing and display. This involved, hands-on craft brings him close to his work. What the viewer sees is essentially an extension of his persona. Quiet and precise, yet bold.

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston Celebrates 15 Years with 50 Artists

The Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, will celebrate its 15 year anniversary with the exhibit, Everyone's A Winner, featuring works by 50 artists from around the globe, on view from Sept. 6 - 25, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from

This September Robert Lange Studios will celebrate 15 years of bringing contemporary artists to Charleston with a group show featuring 50 artists. Each artist will create one work exemplifying their specific style, genre and subject matter.

"We are celebrating the 15 year anniversary of Robert Lange Studios opening its doors. When we reflect back on all that has happened over these years, one element stands out above all else, we have worked with some brilliant painters who have colored this entire experience. That being said, we wanted to put together an exhibit that is spirited, light hearted and yet filled with profound work. We are going to ask 50 painters we have worked with since 2004 to make one special painting," said gallery owner and artist Robert Lange.

This annual themed group show at Robert Lange Studios has been happening for 15 years and was developed to connect artists from the Charleston area with not only collectors but also other painters practicing in their field. Artists will present their work in Robert Lange Studios' 2 Queen Street gallery space and to add an element of levity there will be awards presented to each piece in the show as the title "Everyone's a Winner" implies

Work by JB Boyd

Robert Lange says of this new body of work, "In a lighthearted way we thought it would be fun to give everyone an award in categories like, "Best Use of a Panda" or "Best use of Prussian Blue". In general we just think that art is extremely subjective and that all of these incredible artists deserve individual recognition for what they

Work by Robert Lange

One such artist that was invited to the show is JB Boyd, who recently began a meticulous painting of rain drops in a puddle. Each subject is very personal for the artist in both selection and execution. Boyd has a permanent studio located in the gallery where he paints often. He says, "As one of RLS's very first artists I've been amazed by the inclusivity of the gallery from the way people are greeted when they walk in the door to the continued support the artists receive from owners Rob and Meg."

After the success of numerous group exhibits, Lange says, "We have worked with hundreds of artists over the years but there are many that we always gravitate back towards."

Artists like Reuben Negron who said, "I've long been interested in using art to tell stories. Beyond the larger ideas that hold up contemporary art, an image's ability to transport me into a narrative has always resonated most. Taking a page from those I've worked with in the past, this new series allows me to turn my lens inward for the first time to tell my own personal narrative. Each image in this new body of work is approached as a passage (and in some cases a full chapter) in what is essentially a visual novella. Over the next year or so this series will touch on themes of loss, sexuality, memory, and discovery... All while pushing and expanding my relationship with watercolor - finding ways to utilize the medium in a manner that challenges public perception of what it can or should be.'

Also, artist Megan Aline, who studied in both the US and London has created a figurative piece entitled "Grow Tall" using a double exposure painting technique. A silhouetted figure is seen gently holding her child. The layers of paint within the silhouette create a vast forest perfectly creating an added dimension to the narrative.

Aline said of the piece, "With these continued above on next column to the right CAROLINA

Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, Features Works by Addison Palmer

The Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, is presenting Island Treasures, featuring original paintings by Hilton Head native, Addison Palmer, on view in the Art League Gallery, located inside Arts Center of Coastal Carolina, through Sept. 21, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 4, from 5-7pm.

Palmer's award-winning work focuses mainly on landscapes and animals - both wild and domestic - and largely features the beauty of the Lowcountry. His style ranges from clean-lined depictions in bold colors to serene landscapes and skyscapes using a minimal color palette.

"Island Treasures speaks for itself. Growing up on Hilton Head Island, I was fortunate to both see and feel the 'treasures' of the island and the surrounding areas. Since the age of thirteen, I have captured the beauty of Hilton Head with my original paintings. Today, my paintings are in homes and businesses around the world. People are able to enjoy the beauty of Hilton Head every day through my paintings, even though they might live far away," says Palmer.

In addition to painting, Palmer teaches painting classes, sometimes aboard cruise ships (the first fine artist to do so). He was honored to take part in the international "Birds in Art" show in 2018, one of only 90 artists around the world to take part. He now splits his time between his two studios on St. Simons Island, GA, and Winston Salem,

Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, Offers Exhibit of Quilts

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Inspired Threads, featuring works by members of the Art Quilters of the Low Country, on view from Sept. 23 through Dec. 2, 2019. A reception will be held on Oct. 3, from 5-7pm. The quilters will have walks and demos on Fridays in Oct., from 12:30-2pm.

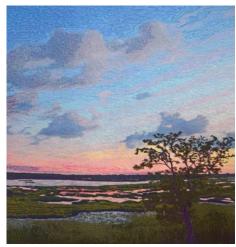

The group offered the following statement: "Inspired Threads celebrates Fiber Art and its unique ability, using various textures and quilting, to create the illusion of a 3rd dimension. This collection of over 50 works of fiber art is presented by the Art Quilters of the Low Country. The show includes artwork that ranges from large to small pieces and from abstract to realistic."

The Art Quilters of the Low Country are five award-winning fiber artists who share a passion for creating art using fabric and thread. The Quilters are 4 gals and a guy, Ron Hodge, Jody Wigton, Peg Weschke, Donna Stankiewicz and Shaaron Thomas.

Ron Hodge creates his art using various fabrics but there is always one constant - his precision piecing and bead work. Donna Stankiewicz paints her fabric with various dyes and then embellishes with applique and thread painting. Shaaron Thomas is an incredible artist who paints on silk and then thread paints and quilts her work. Peg Weschke creates fiber collages to realistically portray lowcountry scenes and Jody Wigton uses color and improvisational piecing to create beautiful abstract art.

There are five unique styles that together create an interesting and amazing fiber art show. They hope that their joy of creation and passion for fiber art brings smiles and enjoyment to those that view it!

About 6 years ago, Weschke and Hodge met at a Palmetto Quilt Guild meeting. They shared a common interest in fiber art/art quilts versus traditional quilting. They formed an interest group/bee, within the Guild called "Outside the Block". This group meets monthly and continues to g and attract beginner as well as skilled fiber artists. Thomas wasn't a quilter but heard about the group and came to the meetings. Wigton and Stankiewicz were members of several Savannah fiber groups but heard about and then also started to come to the monthly meetings. About five years ago, Hodge and Weschke realized that they were also interested in exhibiting and selling their art and formed the Art Quilters of the Lowcountry. Thomas and then Wigton and Stankiewicz were invited to join the group based on the quality of their art and the fact that their styles were different but complimentary. Over the years, they've collaborated to install multiple exhibitions and demonstrations and, as importantly, they've become good friends.

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, Features Works by Kim France

The Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, will present Impressions of France: A Collection of Colorful Oils of the Lowcountry and Italy, featuring works by Kim France, on view from Sept. 3 through Oct. 6, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 8, from 3-5pm.

Twenty years as an interior designer studying dimensions, comparing color schemes, sketching window treatments and completing floor plans prepared France for her next creative career move as a painter.

"The show is a collection of vivid, impressionistic oils depicting scenes from Italy and the Lowcountry of South Carolina," said France, adding, "Hilton Head Island beach scenes will hang next to seascapes of the Amalfi Coast. Tuscan castles will hang next to Bluffton cottages. Pots of South Carolina geraniums will hang next to urns of Italian hibiscus."

ing began when she relocated to Hilton Head Island after her last child went to college. Her work typically includes "micro moments in time." France's paintings often depict cottages, castles and villas because the idea of "home" is compelling to her.

"I feel I have succeeded when someone says, 'I'd just like to step into it!""

Work by Kim France

said France. "That is what has always motivated me to buy art for myself in France and Italy. My goal is to depict a small corner of the earth that the observer wants to remember."

France is a well-known real estate agent who has received "Best Realtor" by Hilton Head Monthly twice. She lives in Bluffton with her dog, Paris, who snoozes away the hours at the foot of her easel.

The Society of Bluffton Artists (SoBA) is a non-profit organization established to promote a stimulating community environment for the visual arts and to assist area students and artists in enhancing their artistic abilities. Artist Talks & Reception: W, Sept. 25, 3-4:30 p.m.

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, Offers Exhibition of Photography

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, is presenting Through the Lens, featuring works by Zane Logan, Haley Floyd and Amber Eckersley, on view in the Sikes Hall Showcase, through Jan. 21, 2020. Please join the artists on September 25th from 3:30 - 4:00pm to learn more about their work through brief presentations and an artist reception

Fall 2019 at Clemson University brings together the work of Zane Logan, Haley Floyd and Amber Eckersley, three South Carolina natives and recent graduates of the Master of Fine Arts program, each with a concentration in photography. Through the Lens presents a frankly straightforward investigation of what it means to be human. Each artist's body of work relates to the other in terms of confrontational storytelling, yet their distinctions are showcased with regard to presentation and approach.

Zane Logan is a faculty member at the Fine Arts Center in Greenville, SC and currently serves as the Southeast Chapter Chair for the Society for Photographic Education. Logan's work comprises a series of ensitively composed portraits. The models look directly into the camera with plaintive honesty that compels the viewer to connect. Far from polished and perfected, there is a raw reality in a diverse array of faces from various ethnicities, ages and genders. Their somber expressions subvert the pretense usually associated with portraiture and underscore apparent physical scars, bruises, plain clothes and unkempt hair. The backgrounds in the pieces are neutral gray and black tones, directing full attention to the penetrating gaze of each model. The lack of identifying information results in a quiet and contemplative collection of work that allows for exploration and revelation in each portrayal.

Logan has exhibited throughout the United States in group and solo shows at venues that that include the Columbia Museum of Art, Redux Contemporary Art Center, Riverworks Gallery, PhotoPlace Gallery, and others. He earned his bachelor's degree from Savannah College of Art and Design.

Haley Floyd is an adjunct lecturer at her undergraduate alma mater, Lander University, in Greenwood, SC. Like Logan's pieces, Floyd's work possesses a deceptively peaceful probity through the depiction of unaccompanied young children, domestic spaces and landscapes. The photographs are forthright and unvarnished, as the rooms portrayed are cluttered and dimly lit. There is a sense of possible danger to the children as they stand unsupervised and fully vulnerable at the edge of a cracked and empty concrete swimming pool or, clothed in only a diaper, extend a tiny arm through a broken storm door to pet a large dog. The landscapes in this group of pieces are secretive and mysterious. There is a feeling of expectation that invites the viewer to follow a shadowy path in search of a sunlit space that is just out of the line of sight.

Floyd has participated in numerous regional shows including the SPE Southeast Exhibition as well as several group and solo

Amber Eckersley is an adjunct professor of photography at Greenville Technical College and Lander University. She earned her BA in History from Coastal Carolina University. Her work was featured in collaborations as well as group and solo shows throughout the southeast, including the University of Alabama - Huntsville. Unlike Logan and Floyd, Eckersley's work eliminates images of people and focuses on the residue of human existence and labor. Poignantly selected items of clothing are depicted in the work for this show. These are feminine garments that are embellished with dainty pastel embroidery of flowers and butterflies.

Fine needlework and crisp cotton fabric folds are crudely besmirched with sweat and food stains associated with domestic tasks in the kitchen and the banality of daily provision. These pieces communicate overarching themes of fragmented memory and the tension that occurs when familiar items are seen out of their expected context. There is a haunting quality that reaches beyond mere nostalgia or sentimentality.

University of South Carolina Upstate in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Katie Walker

The University of South Carolina Upstate in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting Embedded Stories, featuring new paintings by Katie Walker of Greenville, SC, on view in the Curtis R. Harley Art Gallery, through Sept. 20, 2019. A reception and gallery talk will be held on Sept. 5, beginning at 4:30pm.

"My work is a calculatory process where one calculation leads to the next and so on, until the dialectic, the energy and the opposing forces are interesting and complete to me," says Walker. "The finished image is a compilation of my ideas and experiences and my reaction to the materials I am using. I manipulate them to build a language of personal imagery that, to me, is aesthetically pleasing, thought-provoking and at times, humorous."

"Lately I have been [focused on] expressionistic map-making but, as personal meaning and influences evolve, I am attempting to reconcile new information and knowledge with what is known. By merging residue of the past and imagined scenarios with my daily life, I am making abstract works that reflect broader experiences of life and memory. I encourage the viewer to interpret their meaning based on their own experiences. I work primarily with acrylic on canvas, paper, and wood," said Walker.

Walker earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in studio art from Furman University and a Master of Fine Arts from the University of Georgia. In 2012, she was included in the South Carolina State Museum's exhibition Abstract Art in South Carolina 1949-2012. She was also selected for the 701 CCA South Carolina Biennial 2011 and 2015 at 701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC. Her most recent museum solo exhibition was in 2014 at the Greenville County Museum of Art. In 2015, she was part of the Columbia Museum of Art's exhibition Independent Spirits.

Walker was represented at the 2005 Florence Biennale in Italy, where she was an award winner. Her work was included in New American Paintings, Vol. 40, 2002, and the publication's 2010 anniversary edition. She currently lives and works out of

Christina Laurel

SEPTEMBER 20 - OCTOBER 25

The City of Greer Center for the Arts 804 Trade Street | Greer, SC 29651

About the artist-

Christina Laurel is a paper artist creating installations and two-dimensional art, all with a Japanese aesthetic. In 2005 Laurel removed her art from the frame; in 2009 she began crafting suspensions that freely rotate, and in 2014 shoji paper made its debut in an installation featuring one of her nature motifs - the gingko. The artist originally studied fashion design at Cornell University, then fine art at the University of Maryland and SUNY Brockport, earning a BS Studio Art in 2009. Laurel's artistic mission: "to create an exhale moment, an oasis of respite from the sensory bombardment of today's world." She is a resident of Liberty, SC, with a studio in Holly Springs Center.

About the Exhibit:

Fascinated by the idea that color and shape can be language, my work often uses signal flags, or semaphores, as a point of departure. Pushing beyond their parameters of primary color, simple shape, and succinct communication, I extend the syntax of semaphores to explore the idea that color and shape themselves can form a language of storytelling and navigation.

USC Upstate in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Jeff Schaller

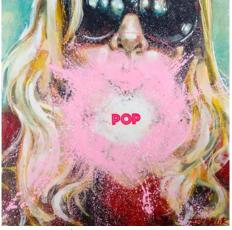

University of South Carolina Upstate in Spartanburg, SC will present POP, recent encaustic paintings by Jeff Schaller, on view at the Upstate Gallery on Main, from Sept. 3 through Nov. 2, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 19, from 5-8pm, during the Spartanburg ArtWalk.

Effervescent and playful, Schaller's works celebrate both the sensuality of paint and our collective memory. Drawing upon references from popular culture and reflective of our contemporary, media-saturated, symbol-laden social environment, Schaller counterpoints our current "pop" sensibility with the use of the ancient, time-honored medium of encaustic painting.

Encaustic is a beeswax-based medium mixed with pigment and applied to panel while molten, and being worked and reheated with torches and heat guns. A highly durable process that is impervious to moisture, the word encaustic comes from the Greek meaning to "burn in," which refers to the process of fusing the paint. It was used in the 5th century B.C. for weathering boats and coloring marble. Lost for centuries, the process of encaustic painting was revisted in the 19th century, but gained notable attention after the 1960s. Jasper Johns is one of several highly recognized artists using the process, and seen in his Flag series created in the late 1950s. Modern tools and especially electric heating elements have made the encaustic painting more popular for creating luscious surfaces that allow light to pass through and reflect the translucent layers of the medium.

"This show is a continuation of an idea I had 8 years ago when I first created Pop," Schaller said. "I saw an ad for a Sony radio where the woman held it in her hand and appeared to be whispering to it. Her profile was captured perfectly against the red background. Her pursed lips looked as if they were blowing a bubble. So I cropped out the radio, painted her profile and put a simple pink dot an inch away from her lips and called it 'Pop.' Using lost and found images, words and language, my goals are to paint with a precision and intricacy not normally found in encaustic paintings."

Born in 1970 in Manchester, CT, Schaller earned his Bachelor of Fine Arts from the City of London Polytechnic in 1991. He studied at Arcadia University in Glenside, PA, in 1992. Schaller's work has been exhibited extensively throughout the U.S. and is frequently published in periodicals and selected for special projects, commissions and murals. In 1998, Schaller was the recipient of the prestigious Philadelphia Museum of Art Purchase Award. His work was used as a prop for NBC's hit sitcom "Friends." He received a highly coveted fellowship from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 2002. Schaller lives in Pennsylvania with his wife and three children. University gallery director Jane Nodine is very familiar with encaustic painting, having spent the past 12 years working almost exclusively with the process.

"I have know Jeff Schaller for almost 10 years and enjoy his technique of encaustic painting to render highly graphic inages from pop culture," Nodine said. "I am pleased to have Jeff exhibit with Upstate Gallery on Main and I believe our students and the community will enjoy the images and his sense of humor in the work."

pieces drawn through observation and encounters with the culture and natural beauty of Himalayan mountain life. Fedalei stated: "My inspiration for this show draws primarily from recent travels to a vastly different part of the world, and experiencing the struggle for economic independence and connection to the rest of the world, the daily life as imposed by nature and circumstances. In this region, two religions converge, two belief systems converge, and two caste systems converge along with their integration with the modern world."

Fedalei was particularly fascinated with the prevalence and usefulness of yaks, as a source of food, supply transportation and heating fuel in the higher regions. It so intrigued Fedalei that she smuggled some yak hair back home to incorporate into her Fedalei's work is primarily hand-built functional pieces. For this show, she deviates to include wall art, and to explore the ancient Japanese firing technique of raku in which she decorates some of her work using the yak hair to burn designs onto her ceramics. "I hope that viewers find my work to be both fun and functional and can appreciate how clay can connect man and earth." Fedalei also teaches yoga and considers working with clay to be a part of her yoga practice. She has been a member of WMAC since 2016.

Like Fedalei, Holbein's inspiration for this exhibit came from her travels. "The inspiration for this body of work comes from a recent trip to Nepal, where I trekked for three weeks through the Khumbu Valley in the Himalaya Mountains," she said. "The pieces for this show include oil paintings and cold wax oil paintings. The subject matter is taken from scenes of everyday life of the Nepalese people."

Holbein is a guest artist in the exhibition. She has extensive professional experience, including two degrees in art, being a designer in Switzerland, teaching art on the college level, and having work displayed by Spartanburg Art Museum, Anderson Art Center, The Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery, Artists' Guild of Spartanburg, and Winthrop University. "Even though I work at my studio at home, I have a relationship with WMAC," she explained. "That connection comes through friendships with several of the WMAC artists, participation in workshops and figure drawing sessions hosted by the Co-op.

"New in these paintings is the use of palette knives and scraping tools as the primary instrument for applying the paint," said Holbein. "I have also become bolder with the use of impasto and surface texture. The work covers a range of abstract to figurative images and employs a saturated palette."

The works exhibited in Convergence by Susan B. Eleazer represent a shift from encaustic as her main art medium to cold wax oil painting. Eleazer said, "Cold wax medium when added to oil paint changes its characteristics in such a way that I felt drawn to the medium instantly upon being introduced to it. Consisting of beeswax and a solvent, the medium, when mixed with oil paint, gives the paint a creamy texture that can be applied to a rigid surface like spreading butter. It also decreases the drying time of the paint."

Eleazer's works feature vigorous mark-making and the layering of colors and textures. She utilizes a wide variety of tools such as Xacto knives and tweezers in subtractive methods to excavate layers and expose colors. Eleazer continued, "I work intuitively and allow the materials to dictate my direction - the cold wax method is a natural fit for me. The subject matter of these abstract pieces relies heavily on events and landscapes from my early childhood – I attempt to distill these in an impressionistic manner.

The painting, Firewall, depicts what remains in memory of the day when, as a five year old child, I set the yard on fire!" Within this work and others can be seen a noted departure from her usual palette in the extensive use of more intense colors. Eleazer hopes that the viewer will respond to the formalistic qualities of her work that can often verge on decorative.

After retiring from a career as a visual arts teacher, Eleazer has had the privilege of traveling extensively and making art in her home studio. She has been a member of the Co-op since 2016 and maintains a studio there that she uses as a personal art gallery. "Our 'convergence' as artists with unique perspectives has been a wonderful experience," Eleazer said.

"We have shared ourselves with each other toward a common goal, and this exhibition represents not just four very different artistic perspectives, but how artists share a desire to communicate through creativity. In some cases, it is obvious. In others, you have to look deeper. Anyone who sees this exhibit, will leave with a better understanding of what it means to combine talents while maintaining individuality," said Eleazer.

West Main Artists Co-op is one of Spartanburg's leading nonprofit arts agencies. It is membership-based with about 30 of the more than 50 members having individual studio space in what was once a threestory Baptist church. Today, the venue has three galleries, two performance stages, a printery, a ceramics studio, and the largest collection of for-sale art in the city and county. All of the members are juried with most being visual artists; some are performance artists.

West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, Offers Group Exhibit

West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, SC, will present Convergence, featuring works by four Upstate South Carolina artists, Susan B. Eleazer, Marcy Fedalei, Amy Holbein, and Nancy Williamson, on view from Sept. 3 - 28, 2019. Receptions will be held on Sept. 7, from 5-8pm and Sept. 19, from 5-9pm, during the city's monthly ArtWalk.

Life experiences, travels, reflections, and experimentations have led the artists down different artistic pathways and inspired them to create the variety of art that is brought together in this exhibition. The extensive exhibit includes both 2-D and 3-D works of art. Prices range from $25 to $800.

"Throughout the planning of this project, it has been a real joy to put this show together with the other artists," Williamson said. "We met once a month, sharing lunch, art, and personal perspectives. What we hope is that people will see that art can be a great unifier of people, ideas and creativity." Williamson is a founding member of West Main Artists Co-op and currently serves as vice-chair of the management board. She is an established potter and ceramicist known for her functional pottery. "My work for this show is more decorative and the forms are more sculptural than my usual work," she said.

"Inspiration has come from my desire to explore new surface design techniques, particularly the layering and carving of colored slips," says Williamson. "Much of this work is process driven – it started with careful experimentation to develop a palate of custom-colored slips and then loosened to explore color combinations and markmaking techniques. Everything is one-of-a-kind and includes both functional vessels and decorative stacked ceramic totems."

Work by Amy Holbein

"I hope patrons will get a sense of the joy I feel, in my constant search for 'what if,' as I explore different three-dimensional forms, decorative techniques, and the technical side of the work in developing slips and glazes," Williamson said.

Both Marcy Fedalei's and Amy Holbein's works were largely inspired by recent journeys to the Nepalese Himalaya mountains

Greenville Technical College in Taylors, SC, Features Works by Deighton Abrams & Kathleen Thum

Greenville Technical College in Taylors, SC, is presenting Carbon Footprints, featuring Deighton Abrams' sculpture and Kathleen Thum's drawings, on view in the Benson Campus Galleries, through Oct. 4, 2019

Through their respective medias, they examine our dependence on fossil fuels as the driver of our everyday lives and also the destroyer of our natural environment. Each artist has approached fossil fuels individually, without collaboration. This duality of explorations and processes deepens our awareness and knowledge of fossil fuels' "...existential threat" to "...contemporary existence"

Through the use of disparate materials, Abrams' ceramic sculptures, like Thum's drawings discuss the duality of contemporary life's relationship with fossil fuels. He builds organic ceramic sculptures in homage to that ancient art then creates dismal, lifeless landscape tableaus constructed from contemporary building materials to stage his works.

Abrams' sculptures are figurative natural forms, possibly humans or landforms or glaciers or possibly all of the above. Thum's detailed charcoal drawings picture every crag and reflective surface of bits of coal. Her precision and scale elevate these rocks from inconsequential to their current monumental role as drivers and destroyers of our contemporary lifestyle. Her smaller series of drawings contain outlines of the three-dimensional coal creating an ominous black hole, possibly the "rabbit hole" of our natural environment.

Deighton Abrams references his ceramic sculptures as explorations of, "the empathic connections between humans, the creative process, and the physical landscape, investigating the phenomenon of psychological distress associated with climate change. I use memories of my itinerant shifts between landscapes to create abstracted ceramic sculptures; for these I reference mountain and glacial forms, an extension of my own experience growing up in Alaska where is saw the rapid receding of glaciers first hand."

Kathleen Thum uses, "different visual and conceptual approaches to examine the infrastructure created by the fossil fuel industries and to explore the physical, material qualities of coal and oil. Through my work, I aim to heighten an awareness of our disconnection and dependence on fossil fuels. Oil and coal are an integral part of our contemporary existence, yet remain mysterious and unknown substances, contained and controlled by the industry."

Abrams has taught at several area institutions including Greenville Tech and Clemson University since completing his MFA in Studio Ceramics at Clemson. His life has been divided between Alaska and the Deep South. His work has been shown nationally and internationally from South Carolina to China. He is currently in the process of moving with his wife to Boston.

Thum is currently an Associate Professor in the Art Department of Clemson University. She has exhibited drawings, paintings and wall installations up and down the East

Her work is also included in the 2014, 2015 and 2017 Manifest International Drawing Annual Exhibition in Print publications and the June/July issue of New American Painting in 2016. She lives in Central, SC, with her husband and son.

Greenville County Museum of Art in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Linda Fantuzzo

The Greenville County Museum of Art in Greenville, SC, will present Linda Fantuzzo: Penumbra, in a solo exhibition, on view from Sept. 4 through Nov. 3, 2019.

The artist is known for capturing the mysterious qualities of light on canvas and has utilized this throughout her career to create atmosphere, mood and narrative. For many years Fantuzzo has been active in the Charleston, SC, arts community and has a distinguished exhibition record, as well as work included in numerous public, private and corporate collections throughout the

The landscape and interior paintings and drawings in this exhibition are rendered with a quiet, abstracted simplicity, while the inclusion of stairs, ladders, windows and doors suggest an unseen yet palpable human presence. The title Penumbra is a erm referencing light's transitions partially shaded area of the shadow cast by an object. The artist states: "Light - bright, low, or poetic can imbue the image with a sense that something has happened or will momentarily occur.'

Furman University in Greenville, SC, Offers Works by Michael Brodeur

Furman University in Greenville, SC, is presenting The Veneer of the Familiar, featuring paintings and other works by Furman University Associate Professor of Art Michael Brodeur, on view in the Thompson Gallery of the Roe Art Building, through Sept. 26, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 25, from 6-7:30pm.

The Veneer of the Familiar is a two-part exhibition at two sites - Furman's Thompson Gallery and the Lipscomb Gallery at the South Carolina Governor's School for the Arts and Humanities in Greenville. The exhibition marks Brodeur's last year of teaching at Furman and the 20th anniversary of the Governor's School, where Brodeur founded the Visual Arts Department and served as first chair.

The exhibition is an overview of 50 years of artistic endeavor. Thompson Gallery holds "Development," works from Brodeur's undergraduate years through 2003. The paintings and drawings are comprised of a variety of media and show Brodeur's evolution as an artist. Many of the works come from Brodeur's personal holdings and have never before been exhibited.

Brodeur joined the Furman faculty in 2003. Specializing in studio art (foundations, painting and drawing) Brodeur earned his bachelor's in art at the University of New Hampshire. He holds a Master of Fine Arts from Boston University where he studied with Philip Guston and James Weeks.

Brodeur has exhibited nationally and internationally in solo and group shows including "Contemporary Conversations,

Mint Museum Uptown in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Ralph Nauta and Lonneke Gordijn

The Mint Museum Uptown at the Levine Center for the Arts in Charlotte, NC, will present Immersed In Light: Studio Drift, founded by Dutch artists Ralph Nauta (b.1978) and Lonneke Gordijn (b.1980), on view from Sept. 21 through Apr., 26, 2020.

The two artists creates breathtaking sculptures that explore the relationship between humanity, nature and technology. They established their studio in 2007, after graduating from the prestigious Design Academy Eindhoven. Their philosophy is based on creating a dialogue between opposites, exploring the relationship between nature, technology, and mankind. The studio's work comes to life via ongoing collaborations with scientists, university research facilities, computer programmers, and engineers.

This exhibition will feature five works by Studio Drift dating from the last decade to today, most of which have been modified for the Mint, and one installation, Seeds (working title only), premiering here. Their Fragile Future 3 (2009) light installation is a profound and poetic reflection on the fact that light is the basis and sustenance of all life. Formed of hundreds of tiny dandelion seeds that have been hand-glued, seed by seed, onto LED lights and held together by bronze electrical circuits, the work is a powerful testament to the transience of our life and times.

In Twenty Steps is an installation constructed of 20 delicate glass wings that suggest a giant bird in flight. The glass emphasizes the fragility of the moment and of life itself. A variation titled Amplitude, shown at the Stedelijk Museum in 2018, will be included in Immersed in Light. Drifters, a film by Studio Drift and Sil van der Woerd that features a floating block of concrete as it searches for its origin in the Scottish Highlands, is an exquisite exploration of the relationship between the built environment and nature, as well as escapism.

Representing the performance piece Franchise Freedom, which debuted on Faena Beach during Art Basel/Design Miami 2017, is the documentary film version accompanied by several actual drones.

Studio Drift, Fragil Future Chandelier, New York, Courtesy of Carpenters Workshop Gallery

Simulating the flight patterns of starlings, clustering together and moving apart, Studio Drift created an autonomous swarm of 300 drones soaring through the night sky in a fluid, exhilarating choreography.

In 2018, the studio had their first solo exhibition at the Stedelijk Museum in Amsterdam. They have won numerous international design awards and have participated in group shows such as Design Society at the Victoria & Albert Museum (V&A) in 2016 and What is Luxury?, a collaboration between the V&A and the Crafts Council in 2015. Studio Drift's work was featured at several major design fairs including Design Miami/Basel, Art Paris Art Fair, Dubai Design Week, artmonte-carlo, FOG Design + Art, and ZONA MACO. Their design works and site-specific installations are included in the permanent collections of the Rijksmuseum, SF MoMA, and others.

The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas.

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Esteban Vicente

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is honored to present an exhibition of paintings and collage by Esteban Vicente, on view from Sept. 14 through Nov. 2, 2019.

Vicente, is one of the leading members of the American Abstract Expressionist Movement. During the course of his long and lauded career as a member of the first generation of Abstract Expressionists, Vicente closely studied shape, light and the possibilities of pigment.

Born in Turégano, Spain, Vicente moved to New York after the Spanish Civil War in 1936. His contemporaries and associates included Willem and Elaine de Kooning, Jackson Pollock, Mark Rothko, Franz Kline, Barnett Newman, and Ad Reinhardt.

Influential New York galleries, and critics alike, recognized his bold, gestural work as being of central importance to the era. In 2011, the Grey Art Gallery at New York University organized a career retrospective ing the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art and the Art Institute of Chicago.

Jerald Melberg Gallery was founded in 1983 and prides itself on enjoying a fine reputation based on years of honesty and integrity among our colleagues and collectors. We provide the professionalism, proper knowledge and expertise needed to place quality works of art in any public, private or corporate collection.

The gallery represents artists of such stature as Romare Bearden, the master American collagist of the twentieth century; Wolf Kahn, considered by many to be the premier living American landscape painter; and Robert Motherwell, one of the leaders of the American Abstract Expressionist movement.

Jerald Melberg Gallery is proud to have worked with numerous prestigious institutions such as the Museum of Modern Art, the National Gallery of Art, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Butler Institute of American Art and the Mint Museums, among many others.

The Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, will present the Artful Bra Project (an exhibit and online auction), on view in the Perimeter Gallery at the Center for the Arts, from Sept. 12 through Oct. 27, 2019, & Mobile 3D Mammogram Screenings, at the Center for the Arts, on Oct. 11, from 9am-3pm.

The Artful Bra Project is an invitational exhibition featuring one-of-a-kind works of art created by local artists who used the bra as the foundation of their pieces to raise awareness for Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

The Arts Council is hosting an online auction of the bras from Oct. 10 – 27, 2019, with proceeds benefiting the Breast Screening Source of York County, an organization that provides assistance to those who do not have insurance, or have insurance that only covers hospital care, and who meet certain income guidelines.

Mobile 3D Mammogram Screenings will take place at the Center for the Arts during this exhibit and fundraiser. Early detection is key. On Friday, Oct. 11, 2019 from 9am-3pm, in the parking lot beside Wells Fargo, 101 E. Main St.,

Rock Hill, SC, Invision Diagnostics will be on-site with their mobile 3D mammography coach where they will provide mammograms. This event is open to the public. Twenty-two appointment slots are available. Please schedule appointments in advance and complete the required forms through the Invision Diagnostics online portal available at (yorkcountyarts.org/artfulbras).

Those who do not have insurance and meet the Breast Cancer Screening Source of York County's criteria may participate in this event. To learn more about the program and to apply for aid, call 803/493-2716.

More information regarding the Artful Bras Project, the Breast Screening Source of York County, and Invision Diagnostics' Mobile 3D Mammogram Screenings is available at (yorkcountarts.org/artfulbras).

The Arts Council is headquartered in downtown Rock Hill, a state-recognized cultural district.

Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, Features Works by Vivianne Carey, Caroline Rust & Noor ul ain Zaib

The Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, will present Reflecting Her Story, featuring works by Vivianne Carey, Caroline Rust, and Noor ul ain Zaib, on view in the Dalton Gallery at the Center for the Arts, from Sept. 13 through Oct. 27, 2019. A reception will be held on Oct. 10, from 5:30-7:30pm.

This exhibition presents a visual depiction of womanhood through the investigation of the female sense of self, identity, and physical appearance. Each artist blends introspective components to expose a woman's moments of extreme vulnerability, challenge her sense of empowerment, and contemplate situations she faces.

Work by Vivianne Carey

In a collaborative exhibition, Vivianne Carey, Caroline Rust, and Noor ul ain Zaib highlight a selection of artworks they each have created over the last few years. This body of work for exhibition is important as it is a visual depiction mirroring the intricacies of being a woman.

Underlying themes of the artists' works

Work by Caroline Rust

blend introspective components exposing a woman's moments of extreme vulnerability, challenge her sense of empowerment, and contemplate situations that she faces. The common core elements include altars, adornment, sexuality, women's effects, garments, gender roles and self-image. Yet, the portfolios of these artists, stand in contrast to one another as well.

Exhibits in the Dalton Gallery at the Center for the Arts are sponsored by O'Darby's Fine Wine & Spirits.

Also on view in the Edmund D. Lewandowski Classroom Gallery at the Center for the Arts through Oct, 27, 2019, is the Rock Hill Elementary Schools' Children's Fall Show, featuring works by children.

Southern Arts Society in Kings Mountain, NC, Features Works by Anne Harkness

The Southern Arts Society in Kings Mountain, NC, is presenting Wonder, featuring paintings by Anne Harkness, on view through Sept. 27, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 14, from 6-8pm.

Harkness's oil paintings flow effortlessly from images fractured into graphic shards of rich color to works with quiet strokes that evoke a calmer atmosphere. Recent paintings like Farm Story and Up to The Mountains (both from her Diptychs series) have areas painted in shades of gray, abruptly changing to full color, like an old photograph or memory suddenly becoming

A native of NC, Harkness is an alumnus of the Atlanta College of Art and earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Graphic Design from The Maryland Institute, College of Art. Her work as an art director in NYC for 15 years has embodied her work with a graphic element that astute viewers can detect in her paintings. As a contemporary artist, Harkness seeks to capture a distinct point of view, often finding some unexpected beauty in locations or views others would easily dismiss as ordinary, or too unattractive to be considered as the subject matter for artistic compositions.

Working from her love of subject matter with a strong design element, Harkness also focuses on the importance of line and shape in her work as a means of giving her compositions a strong foundation to reveal the many layers within each piece. She credits her emphasis on these particular components to her love of drawing and a desire to retain the looser marks that give a piece a more rustic, unfinished quality. Harkness also looks for the surprises that come from spending time in a painting. These discoveries are her treasures and assure that she is always learning and seeking the 'new-fresh' for her work.

Southern Arts Society, Inc. (SASi) is a non-profit organization founded in 1984 by A.B. Mauney Snow and local artists. Our mission is to promote the arts by training the artist and educating the public to the many talents available in the community. We provide visual art displays in the community, scholarships for local students, and workshops open to all. A variety of classes in the arts and ceramics are offered throughout the year. While based in Kings Mountain, NC, our membership extends throughout the Carolinas. We gladly welcome new members. All you need is a love and appreciation for the arts.

Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter Offers Works by Jiha Moon

The Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter, SC, is beyond excited to present Jiha Moon – A Mad Tea Party, featuring a large solo exhibition of multimedia by Korean artist Jiha Moon, on view from Sept. 5 through Nov. 1, 2019. A reception and artist talk will be held on Sept. 5, from

Jiha Moon is a contemporary artist who focuses on painting, printmaking, and sculptural ceramic objects. Born in Daegu, South Korea, Moon is currently based in Atlanta, GA, Moon earned a BFA at Korea University and an MFA at EWHA University, both in Seoul. After moving to the US, she earned an MFA at the University of

Moon was the subject of a one-person exhibition at the Mint Museum in Charlotte, NC, in 2008, The Weatherspoon Museum of Art, Greensboro, NC, 2014, American University Museum, Washington, DC, National Museum of Women in the Arts, Washington, DC, 2015 and a massive exhibition curated by The Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, Charleston, SC, that traveled to the Taubman Museum, Roanoke, VA and Kalamazoo, MI. She is also a recipient of a prestigious Joan Mitchell Foundation Painters and Sculptors Grant, and the Museum of Contemporary Art of Georgia's Working Artist Project grant.

Moon's work is in many notable permanent collections including, High Museum, Atlanta, GA, Mint Museum, Charlotte, NC, Virginia Museum of Fine Art, Richmond, VA, Smithsonian Institute, Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Washington, DC, Smith College Museum of Art, ing ink and acrylic paint on Hanji paper (traditional Korean mulberry paper). Often, she places the paper on the floor and stands or kneels to apply her calligraphic brushstrokes. After completing the abstract composition in this way, Moon reconfigures some of the markings to suggest recognizable images, such as cartoon characters and incorporates mass-produced items like textiles, embroidered patches, and small trinkets with her hand-rendered elements.

In her image- and color-saturated paintings and prints, Moon mashes up materials, motifs, and techniques to create dreamlike compositions, stuffed with Eastern and Western art historical and pop cultural references that challenge fixed notions of cultural identity and represent our information-overloaded world. Everything is fair game for Moon - she draws from sources high and low, real and virtual, ancient and contemporary, including 13th-century Taoist painting, American Pop, Disney cartoons, Dr. Seuss books, internet emoticons, fortune cookies, and Asian restaurant menus. Her exuberant compositions burst across the picture plane.

Gestural, abstract passages and calligraphic brushstrokes flow into landscapes, in which viewers may find Snow White with an idealized Chinese female figure, while smiley emojis and ripe peaches float about them. At once playful and dark, Moon's work parodies the persistence of cultural stereotypes in our globalized world.

"Jiha Moon is in a perpetual state of 'other' as she mines numerous histories and cultures, distilling them into sly and challenging works of art. There is no filter, just a quirky mix matching of references. Moon harvests cultural elements native to Korea, Japan, and China and then unites them with Western elements to investigate the multifaceted nature of our current global identity as influenced by popular culture, technology, racial perceptions, and folklore. Moon blurs the lines between Western and Eastern identified iconography such as the characters from the online game Angry Birds and smart phone Emojis. They float alongside Asian tigers and Indian gods in compositions that appear both familiar and foreign, ancient and modern," said Daniel Fuller, Curator, Atlanta Contemporary Art Center.

For the Sumter Gallery exhibition, Moon plans to present her largest "Tea Ceremony" to date. A series of low beautifully crafted tables will display numerous ceramic pieces both large and small. In addition, there will be new prints and paintings. Moon has lately been experimenting with painting on Mylar and the results are breathtaking.

Moon will give her artist talk at the opening reception, Thursday, Sept. 5 and will also conduct a painting workshop for ages 13 to adult Friday, Sept. 6. There will be other related events during the run of the exhibition, TBA.

As always, everything we do is a community effort. To bring an important artist such as Moon to our community, it takes a lot of belief and support. Thank you to First Citizens, Jones Chevrolet, The Glemore and May Sharp Trust and the Sumter County Cultural Commission which receives support from the John & Susan Bennett Arts Fund of the Coastal Community Foundation of SC, the SC Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Rob Shaw Gallery and Framing in West Columbia, SC, Features Works by George Stone

The Rob Shaw Gallery and Framing in West Columbia, SC, will present George Stone - The Golden Hour, on view from Sept. 6 - 30, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 6-9pm, during the State Street Art Walk.

Stone is a representational painter who focuses primarily on landscape and still life subject matter using the mediums of oil paints and watercolors. He paints extensively from life (plein air) but also works in the studio using plein air studies, sketches and photographic reference. He has won many local awards and his paintings hang in numerous private collections.

Stone attempts to convey the beauty and dignity of everyday scenes to his viewers through a clear concept, accurate drawing, expressive values and color and a well-designed composition. He is especially interested in developing moods in his landscapes by capturing the quality of light present during different times of day, different seasons of the year and different locations.

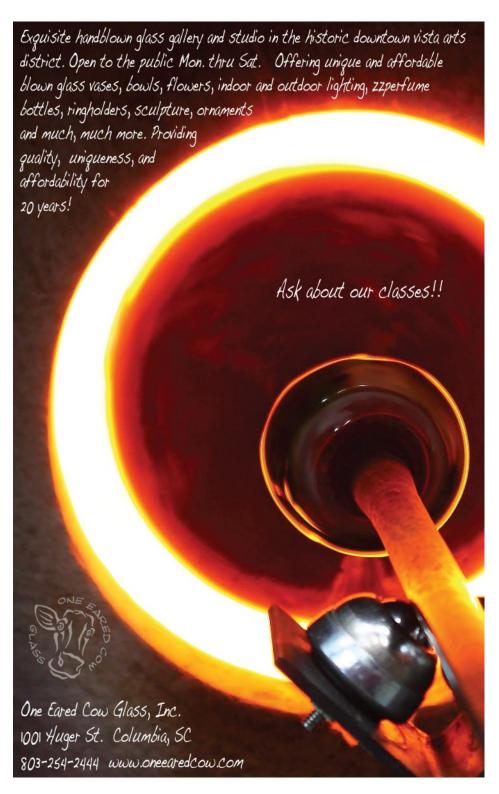

Rob Shaw Gallery and Framing is a full service Picture Frame Shop and Art Gallery,

WNC Ag Center in Fletcher, NC, Offers Annual Quilt Show - Sept. 27-29, 2019

The WNC Ag Center in Fletcher, NC, is the site of the 37th Annual Asheville Quilt Show, held in the Davis Event Center, from Sept. 27-29, 2019. The annual quilt show also celebrates Georgia Bonesteel's 50th Year of Lap Quilting.

Bonesteel, a local quilter who made it on the national stage back in 1978 when her Public TV show first broadcast. It ran for twelve seasons over 25 years and she became a notable figure in the quilting world. She will speak at the Show, have a Special Exhibit, and sign copies of her books. Her most recent book is Scrap Happy Quilts by Georgia Bonesteel, a memoir of her life in quilts, and it includes new projects and patterns for quilters of all levels.

Other exhibits at the show include the work of the Shady Ladies Quilting Group from Waynesville and another from the East Ender Bee, which is part of the Asheville Quilt Guild. These are in addition to more than 350 quilts made by quilters from across the country that will be on display, most in competition for the $10,000 in prize money!

The show opens on Friday, Sept. 27 and runs through Sunday, Sept. 29. It is sponsored by the Asheville Quilt Guild, and Moda Fabrics, a proud sponsor for many years. Once again, the show will be in the Davis Event Center at the WNC Ag Center. The show runs Friday and Saturday from 9am to 5pm, and Sunday 10am to 4:30pm. Admission is $7, with a discount for groups of ten or more. Children 12 and under are

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Bill Cole

The Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Taking the Ordinary to the Extraordinary, featuring the work of Bill Cole, whose paintings celebrate the art hidden in everyday scenes, on view from Sept. 1 - 30, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 5-8pm.

Cole's paintings blend realism with abstraction to show the interplay of bright col ors with the geometry of planes and angles. By breaking scenes down to their basic shapes, he is able to present the essence of them to draw the viewer into his paintings. "I try to capture my feelings when I glance at scenes and suddenly realize that there are pieces of art in plain sight all around us. for a short period in Paris while living there in 1996, Cole is primarily a self-taught artist. "Like many painters, I began by trying to paint the most realistic images that I possibly could. Often, the paintings that I did with that mind set showed no more expression or feeling than a vacation photograph. I then began to realize that, to express your feelings, you must push your art and develop your own interpretation of what you see.'

Cole, a native of Western North Carolina, began painting after retiring from 26 years in the Air Force. He has worked in watercolor, oil, acrylics, linocuts and monotypes. Cole's other interests include playing his mandolin in a small band named Blackberry Jam, playing tennis, travel and trekking.

Grovewood Gallery in Asheville, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on Spoons

The Grovewood Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present Spoonin': A Showcase of Handcrafted Spoons, on view from Sept. 14 through Oct. 13, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 14, from 2-5pm.

This group exhibition will include both functional and sculptural works from 18 notable artists from across the country, whose mediums range from wood to sterling silver and copper.

Grovewood Gallery's exhibition of handmade spoons will coincide with American Craft Week, the country's largest celebration of American craft, which takes place Oct. 4 - 13. To highlight this special occasion, the gallery will host spoonmaking demonstrations on Oct. 5 and 12, from 11am-4pm with Asheville artist Aaron Iaquinto. Iaquinto, a fine woodworker at The Old Wood Co in the River Arts District, will talk about the different stages in his spoon-making process and demonstrate how he creates the handles and bowls for his spoons. He will also show metal inlay techniques for creating intricate designs on wooden handles.

Participating artists in Spoonin' include: Curtis Buchanan, Lisa Colby, Andrew Dohner, Melissa Engler, David Fisher, Mark Gardner, Barry Gordon, Aaron Iaquinto, Kristin LeVier, Tim Manney, Erica Moody, Dawson Moore, Graeme Priddle, Jill Rikkers, Norm Sartorius, Gerrit Van Ness, Terry Widner, and Wild Cherry Spoons.

Established in 1992, Grovewood Gallery is nationally recognized for its dedication to fine American art and craft. Located in historic Grovewood Village adjacent to The

Pink Dog Gallery in Asheville, NC, Offers Works by Cleaster Cotton

Pink Dog Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present Cleaster Cotton: EVOCA-TION, on view from Sept. 27 through Oct. 27, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 27, from 6-8pm.

This exhibition is presented in colorful, poignant, contemporary primitive, acrylic and mixed media paintings. Photography and collage are incorporated into narratives, portraits and vignettes. Cotton triggers memory, stirs the blood and creates a pensive mood that engages the macabre. She depicts snapshots from America's relentless history of racism and violence, privilege and oppression, its legacy of slavery and subjugation, white supremacy and tyranny. "Evocation is as visceral as it is cerebral. This exhibit reflects the blatant and subliminal 'stuff' that consistently fosters PTSD in my life... in so many lives... on a daily basis," says Cotton.

Cotton is an Indigenous Black American with Ancestors spanning the African Diaspora. Painter, photographer, educator, inventor and author, Cotton was born into

Penland School of Craft in Penland, NC, Features Works by Hoss Haley

The Penland School of Craft in Penland, NC, is presenting Correction Line, featuring works by NC sculptor Hoss Haley, on view at the Penland Gallery, through Sept. 15, 2019.

When visitors walk into the new exhibition at the Penland Gallery, they may feel a bit overshadowed. The six large steel sculptures by Hoss Haley are almost out of scale with the room, and their complex forms seem precariously balanced - as though they might tumble, roll, or shift at any moment.

The exhibition's title refers to a land-surveyor's technique that Haley was familiar with from his childhood on a Kansas farm. Beginning in the late 18th century, Midwestern land was divided into 640-acre squares that did not take into account the curvature of the earth. The solution was to periodically shift the placement of the squares, introducing what was called a "correction line." Haley remembers this as a feeling that the orderly geometry of his family's fields did not quite reflect the shape of the earth.

"I had a sense as a child that I was on an orb even though everything around me was flat," Haley says. The forms in this show are characterized by planes and straight corners that resolve into sections of spheres, possibly evoking the geometric and geographic tension that was addressed by the correction lines.

Haley's farm roots also connect directly to his choice of material. Steel is ubiquitous on a farm, and farm steel is constantly rusting and being repaired. Early in life, Haley developed a facility for working with the material, and he has retained a lifelong love for the aesthetic of rust. This aesthetic and a remarkable level of skill are both evident in the pieces in this show, all of which Haley and his assistant fabricated in his Mitchell County studio.

Although these pieces are large for a gallery exhibition, they are not the largest that Haley has executed during his more than 20 years working in North Carolina.

Works by Hoss Haley

He designed and built the beautiful fountain in Asheville's Pack Square, and he has created large public works for Mecklenburg County, the Charlotte Area Transit System, and the Charlotte Douglas Airport. His work is also in the collections of the Asheville Art Museum, the Mint Museum, and North Carolina State University. He has had a long relationship with Penland School of Craft as a resident artist and instructor.

Also, currently on view at the Penland Gallery is a show of contemporary jewelry made from a variety of materials. Around the building are outdoor sculptures by ceramic artist Catherine White and steel sculptor Daniel T. Beck and an interactive mixed media installation by Jeff Goodman.

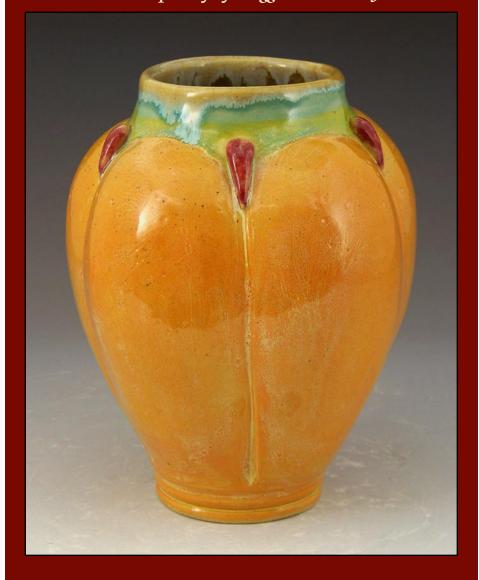

The Penland Gallery and Visitors Center is located at Penland School of Craft on Conley Ridge Road, just off Penland Road in Mitchell County (near the town of Spruce Pine). It is the first building on the right as you enter the Penland campus.

Penland School of Craft is an international center for craft education dedicated to helping people live creative lives. Located in Western North Carolina, Penland offers workshops in books and paper, clay, drawing and painting, glass, iron, metals, printmaking and letterpress, photography, textiles, and wood. The school also sponsors artists' residencies, an outreach program, of all sizes and media in a one-day competition for $11,000 in cash awards, judged by Patrick Dougherty (stickwork.net). Vote for the People's Choice award! Live music will fill this lovely lakeside garden park for the day, along with children's art activities, food vendors, and free shuttles to area parking. This free event runs 9am-4pm with all awards announced at 3:30pm.

While in Lenoir, you can also enjoy the Caldwell Arts Council's permanent collection of over 80 publicly-displayed sculptures, most of which are outdoors for anyone to enjoy at any time of day.

Not only has this unique collection of art become a major attraction and point of pride for the area, it has also brought some national attention. In 2006, then NC Secretary of Cultural Resources Libba Evans announced that Lenoir had more public sculpture per capita than any community of its size in the US.

UPSTATE SC

ARTISTS

Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, will present Metaphorical Reality: Keith Bryant, on view in the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts' Mayer Gallery, from Sept. 6 through Feb. 1, 2020. A reception will be held on Oct. 4, from 6-10pm.

Bryant creates work from a place that exists beyond the confines of language yet enhances the realm of understanding riddles in life, connection and independence. Working in wood, metals and ceramics, his forms employ abstraction and metaphor. Bryant's sculptures address ideas of loneliness, isolation, architecture and landscape.

Bryant offered the following artist's statement: "My work is an attempt to make visual my personal reality—thoughts and feelings based on my experiences making the abstract concrete and multi-interpretive. To tease out these ideas I use and respond to different materials and techniques ranging from found objects to fabricated forms made from concrete, steel, plaster, lead, plastic, wood and/or clay. There is an endless need to discover materials that match my current ideas, which creates continual research to create the right fit."

"Current works come from a place of reacting to loss, hope and a sense of lifting up," adds Bryant. "These abstract concepts find their way into my work through process. The physicality of examining ideas in the studio creates a deeper understanding of the issues behind my work, evolving into a physical manifestation of metaphor and form. This intuitive meandering frees my artwork from direct narrative, allowing the forms to speak more directly and universally to my musings as opposed to my story."

As an educator in the arts for over two decades Bryant has taught for UNC Charlotte in the Department of Art & Art History since 2000. His instructional focus is ceramics, sculpture and three-dimensional design. A move in 1990 brought him to Charlotte, NC for the first time to teach at Central Piedmont Community College after teaching at University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC. Bryant holds an MFA from Cranbrook Academy of Art, a BFA from Colorado State University and a residency at Philadelphia College of Art – today known as the University of the Arts. Bryant's work has been exhibited nationally and held in corporate collections throughout the southeast and mountain states.

The Turchin Center for the Visual Arts at Appalachian State University engages visitors from the university, community, nation and beyond in creating unique experiences through dynamic and accessible exhibition, education, outreach and collection programs. These programs inspire and support a lifelong engagement with the visual arts and create opportunities for participants to learn more about themselves and the world around them.

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, is presenting three new exhibits including: Drag, prints by Hague Williams; Original to Original: Artists Transforming Materials, featuring 3-D works by Hague Williams, D.J. Gaskins, Janet Orselli, Lori Jusino, Michael Ziemer, Jen Bowen, and Maryann Pappano; and Papering Surfaces, collages by Lisa De Girolamo and Grant Penny. All three exhibits will be on view through Sept. 27, 2019.

"These exhibits at Upstairs Artspace will be especially diverse, interesting, and certainly creative," the contemporary gallery's Board President John Walters said. "Drag shows prints made by dragging printing plates behind a car – the scratches and dings resulting in dynamic images of motion. Original to Original is all about recycling and repurposing materials to create new art. And Papering Surfaces is about collage. I believe patrons will find the art insightful, revealing and thoughtprovoking.'

Hague Williams is an art teacher at Landrum High School in South Carolina. He has multiple degrees in art and education, and has been exhibiting his work since 1992 in the South, Midwest, New England, the West Coast and various European countries. His Drag exhibit is a good example of his interest in experi-

'Transformation and the catalysts that precipitate change over time are primary sources of motivation for my work," Williams said. "As a printmaker and artist, I am predictably interested in such methods of change: Process is an integral part of my work. I am in search of the next translation, the next transformation as it is seen through the eyes of history, by the ones that make and experience or suffer that history." He also works in ceramics, photography, commercial art, drawings, and etchings.

Work by D, J, Gaskins

D.J. Gaskins, one of several Original to Original artists, lives in Saluda, NC, where she pursues many talents, one of which is creating 3-D art from discarded materials. "The pieces in this exhibit showcase my work in book arts, as well as assemblage," Gaskins said. "Themes in my work are often drawn from nature. I'm a hunter-gatherer, with boxes and jars of found objects - vintage hardware, keys and other metal objects; stones, twigs, feathers, even insect wings; and old bottles, boxes, texts, discarded jewelry and other baubles. I roam flea markets anything I come across that has the slightest glimmer of promise for a new project."

Janet Orselli has an extensive art career with multiple grants, residencies, solo and group exhibitions, performances, teaching, and lecturing. She mainly works in sculpture, drawing, and site-specific installations. When dealing with constructions, she said: "The objects I use in my work are living entities to me. I select ones that are filled with a vital energetic quality and retain an intimate sense of human touch. I rescue many from trash piles or flea markets. I bring them home and watch how they communicate with other old things in my studio. Sometimes they laugh at each other, sometimes they scream at each other. But, ultimately, in some definitive, yet inexplicable way, certain of these particular old things request to be joined together. So I grant their request. It is a labor of love."

Collage artists Lisa De Girolamo and Grant Penny have come together for Papering Surfaces. Originally from New York City with a master's degree in art from Parsons School of Design, Girolamo now lives in Asheville. She worked for many years directly from nature, painting the landscapes of New York State and New Mexico. Currently, she is exploring concepts of abstraction, mainly through collage, monotype and watercolor. She has shown her work regionally and nation-

Penny also lives in Asheville, and his primary medium is collage. A native of North Carolina, his work is represented by Mark Bettis Studio/Gallery in Asheville, and The Mahler Fine Art in Raleigh. "I've been working as a graphic designer for 18 years and showing my collage work since 2009," he said. "Over the years I've made an effort to have creative endeavors that are separate from my work as a graphic designer. Something hands on. A combination of these personal explorations evolved into the collage pieces seen in the Upstairs show."

Other artists in Original to Original also enjoy impressive careers. Jen Bowen, Lori Jusino, and Maryann Pappano live in Asheville where they explore the many possibilities of assemblage art. Michael Ziemer lives in Greenville, SC, where he experiments with incorporating elements from nature into his paintings.

Founded in 1978, Upstairs Artspace is a nonprofit contemporary art gallery in downtown Tryon on S. Trade Street. It exhibits two- and three-dimensional art and craft by leading artists of the Southeast, particularly in the Carolinas, as well as artists nationally and globally. It is supported by public and private donations, sales of art, grants, and fund-raising events. Upstairs Artspace is supported in part by the Polk County Community Foundation, the Mary F. Kessler Fund, and public and private donations.

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, | Western Carolina University in Offers Three New Exhibitions | Cullowhee, NC, Offers Exhibition Foucused on the Use of Sound in Art

Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, NC, is presenting Resounding Change: Sonic Art and the Environment, on view at the Fine Art Museum at the John W. Bardo Fine and Performing Arts Center, through Dec. 6, 2019.

This exhibition highlights contemporary artists who use sound to engage with environmental issues. Co-curated by Carolyn Grosch, Curator of Collections & Exhibitions at the WCU Fine Art Museum, and Tyler Kinnear, Adjunct Instructor in the WCU School of Music, the exhibition features sound-based artwork that encourages visitors to listen more closely to the natural world and to think about how sound is being used in a time of environmental crisis.

The works in the exhibition, which range from a large-scale video installation to more intimate encounters with sound, ask us to consider humanity's place in the natural world, aspects of environmental change, and the current conditions that shape our planet. Featured artists include Cheryl Leonard, Raven Chacon, Andrea Polli, Lee Weisert, Matthew Burtner, and others.

One notable work in the exhibition is a three-channel video installation entitled Gauge. Created by Raven Chacon, a Navajo Nation artist, and six other collaborators, Gauge is an immersive gallery experience that combines sound and image. The timelapse video component of Gauge captures dramatic imagery of an ice mural, created by the artists on Baffin Island, as it rises and falls with the tide. Paired with Chacon's field recordings of crunching snow, human tools, wind, and wildlife in the Canadian Artic landscape, this multisensory experience prompts reflection on human presence

Raven Chacon will visit Western Carolina University on Sept. 5 for a visiting artist reception and gallery talk from 5-7pm. A special day-time drum performance across campus is currently in development, more details about the exhibition and associated events at (arts.wcu.edu/sonicart).

The WCU Fine Art Museum has a long history of collaboration and continues to serve as a site for interdisciplinary exchange. This exhibition is an interdisciplinary collaboration between the WCU Fine Art Museum and School of Music. This exhibition is part of a series of WCU events and programs that dovetail with the University's 2019-2020 campus theme "Environment and Sustainability." Exhibitions, receptions, and associated programming at the Museum are free and open to the public.

Art Cellar Gallery in Banner Elk, NC, Offers Work by Noyes Capehart

The Art Cellar Gallery in Banner Elk, NC, is presenting Visual Reflections, featuring works by Noyes Capehart, on view through Sept. 7, 2019.

This show will feature the artist's newest works as well as a glimpse into his past through imagery and the written word. Throughout our lives there are certain thoughts, images and ideas that seem to follow us. This is common place for most people, unlike most people however, artists think to record these images and ideas that keep worming their way into everyday thoughts. Capehart paints and writes his recollections, creating a visual catalog of imagery and thoughts that span decades.

Born in a small town outside of Nashville, TN, Capehart grew up listening to the radio, creating images in his head to go along with the stories. Throughout the years he dabbled in drawing and letters and while a senior in high school he was hired by the Coca Cola Bottling Company to paint signs in Nashville. Subsequently Capehart started college at The University of the South (Sewanee), then transferred to Auburn to study the arts. Following a redirection in life and being taught and molded by great teachers Capehart graduated from Auburn in 1958 and moved to New York City where he found himself working as a security guard at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He remained with the museum until mid-December of 1960 when an unexpected temporary teaching offer from Auburn prompted his return to the South.

Appalachian State University lured Capehart to Boone, NC, with a teaching position in 1969, and he remained with the university until his retirement in 1997. He served as the chairman of the Art Department from 1976 to 1979, the Assistant Dean of the College of Fine & Applied Art and Dean of the College of Fine & Applied Arts throughout the 1980's Capehart is a credit to the success of the ASU Art Department and the temperament of the current art world of the High Country and surrounding areas. In addition to his professional involvement in art, he is also deeply involved with writing and has, since the early '70's, completed numerous short stories, four novels and a

The HART Theatre in Waynesville, NC, Offers Works by Nina Howard

The HART Theatre in Waynesville, NC, will present an exhibit of works by long time business entrepreneur and artist, Nina Howard, in conjunction with the theatre's production of "Mama Mia" which runs through Sept. 15, 2019.

After recently renovating her new studio at the Biodome in J Creek, Howard prepared for her one-woman exhibit at The HART Theatre.

Howard, a part-time resident of Waynes-ville since 1987, returned to the mountains full time in 2011 and purchased the defunct Biodome in J Creek, (50' geodesic dome built back in the 80's with the help of John Denver's Windstar Foundation). She renovated it to house her art studio and is having a resurgence of her modern art. Back in the early 90's, Howard owned an art gallery in Waynesville at 33 Church Street, where the Patio Café now resides.

A graduate of FIT in NYC with a degree in Interior Design and the top honor award of her graduating class, Howard also is an entrepreneur in the Spa world, being the founder of Bellanina Day Spa, Bellanina Institute and Bellanina Skin Care line, as well as owning a short term furnished rental business with 7 locations. She has won 2nd place in the Church Street Art Fair, designed artcards for Folkmoot, and has been represented by galleries in Atlanta, GA, Highlands, NC, Ann Arbor, MI, and New York, NY. Howard has been in many shows over the past 30 years. In 2010, Howard was voted "Best Artist" in the Current Magazine's Best of Washtenaw - Readers' Choice Awards (Washtenaw County, Ann Arbor, MI).

Howard shows and sells her work primarily in Ann Arbor, MI, and is an Artist Member of the Haywood County Arts Council, co-sponsor of the art exhibit at HART. You can also make an appointment to visit her art studio in Waynesville to see many of her paintings.

The HART Theatre is located at 250 Pigeon Street in Waynesville, NC, 28786. The exhibit is only open during the show performances and during box office hours: Tue.-Sat., from 2-5pm.

For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listings, or contact Howard by e-mail at (ninahowardstudio@gmail.com) or call 734/476-0101.

Theatre Art Galleries in High Point, NC, Offers 4th Exhibit Focused on Bicycles

The Theatre Art Galleries (TAG) of High Point, NC, is pleased to announce a Juried Art Exhibit titled THE BICYCLE: Art Meets Form, on view through Oct. 4, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 5, from 5:30-7:30pm.

This is the fourth year for the exhibit and it will be held in conjunction with the 2019 Bobby Labonte Foundation Charity Bike Ride (https://bobbylabontefoundation.org/) in downtown High Point. The exhibit will feature art from almost 50 artists in all media that relates in some way to bicycles or cycling. Prizes will be awarded during a reception on Sept. 5, for First Place: $500, Second Place: $250, and Third Place: $100.

The Upstairs Gallery is featuring a collection of vintage bicycles from Bicycle Toy & Hobby of High Point. (https://www.bicycletoyandhobby.com/)

The Hallway Gallery will feature PRIN-CESS CURETON: Artistic Metaphor. This exhibit is based on metaphors that reflect the very personal and spiritual landscape of Cureton's experiences and narrated through the figure in surreal background. Using a variety of processes to coax the figure away from the surface of the canvas such as embedding hair, jute, beads, modeling mediums, hand-made papers, fabric, glass, sand and material indigenous to the spiritual and spatial environment, she attempts the illusion of reality and 3- dimensionality. Her work is an autobiographical reflection of the consonance and dissonance in her life, which Cureton shares openly and honestly

Celebration of Seagrove Potters

Our Story

Pottery is the "Art of the State." North Carolinians have long been enchanted by our potters who are able to transform lumps of clay into objects of startling beauty. That beauty and the stories behind it, old and new, are showcased by the nonprofit North Carolina Pottery Center.

We all love our venerable folk pottery tradition. Today, contemporary studio artists build on this strong foundation to bring brilliant new clay expressions to light.

The Pottery Center reveals the ever-changing tradition of pottery making in our state, changes which reflect the shifting culture of our state and world, a story that builds the future from our mighty past.

Join us and be part of the story. Be proud of the clay beneath your feet. Be touched by something real. And be delighted by North Carolina's world-class clay culture.

Potters place tangible beauty in your hands and decorate your homes. Find out where that beauty comes from. Help support our distinctive, superlative pottery heritage.

JOIN US as we celebrate at CAM RALEIGH, the coolest art museum and venue in the Triangle, located in downtown Raleigh! Feast on hors d'oeuvres by PoshNosh and sip festive drinks. And enjoy sweet music as you take in the best of North Carolina's pottery and ceramics at our silent and live auctions.

GreenHill in Greensboro, NC

The exhibition at GreenHill includes the newest group of images in this ongoing series, which were photographed in Normandy, France, at the D-Day landing beaches. GreenHill's Director of Artistic and Curatorial Programs, Edie Carpenter, explains, "This exhibition coincides with the 75th anniversary of the D-Day landings. Würfel visited Normandy two years ago and several of her photographs taken there will be seen in North Carolina for the first time. Testimonies by soldiers and survivors of the conflict presented in the exhibition remind the viewer of the timeliness of this moment as we reflect on the future."

Würfel's photographs visualize the passage of time through the artist's unique printing process, in which a degree of exposure is removed for each year since the end of the war. The resulting images appear to be in the process of fading befor the viewer's eyes; inspiring reflection on the permeable nature of memory. Würfel's photographic portraits of witnesses of the war who were interviewed by the artist are presented along with ambient video recordings of their narratives. These witnesses include: Holocaust survivors, Nazi supporters, German bystanders, and German and Allied veterans.

The recorded personal histories and portraits of people, now mostly way beyond middle age, only intensify the haunted quality of the landscape images. Together they evoke questions concerning how best to preserve "history, memory and what is left behind."

Visitors' immersion in these meditations is reinforced by the video installation Below Forest (2017) visualizing the forest 110 miles northwest of Berlin, where 16,000 prisoners from the concentration camp Sachsenhausen and its sub-camps were forced to camp during the death marches between April 23 and 29, 1945 before being freed by the Red Army.

Oppressive Architecture, a photographic installation previously presented at CAM Raleigh that explores the relationship between architecture and oppression during the Nationalist Socialist regime will also be on view at GreenHill. Situated between fine art and documentary, Würfel's photographic practice posits memory as a central force in man's shared humanity and holds a new lens up to the past to better understand the present.

Gesche Würfel is a contemporary visual artist and Teaching Assistant Professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She received an MFA in Studio Art from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, a master's degree in Photography and Urban Cultures from Goldsmiths, University of London, UK, and her diploma in Spatial Planning from the Technical University Dortmund, Germany.

Her work has been exhibited, and awarded internationally; exhibition venues include the Contemporary Art Museum (CAM) Raleigh, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Tate Modern, Goldsmiths, University of London, Cornerhouse Manchester, Kokerei Zollverein. She is currently showing her At the Hands of Persons Unknown project in a solo exhibition at Pictura Gallery in Bloomington, IN. Würfel is the author of Basement Sanctuaries (Schilt Publishing 2014). She is a recipient of grants from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Puffin Foundation, Lower Manhattan Cultural Council (LMCC) and others. Würfel was named as the Juror's Pick for the LensCulture Emerging Talent Awards 2016 and is a finalist in the 2017 and 2018 Lange-Taylor Award.

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Joseph Christian Leyendecker

The Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting Leyendecker and the Golden Age of American Illustration, featuring works by Joseph Christian Leyendecker, on view in the Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery, through Dec. 31, 2019.

One of the most prolific and sought-after artists of the golden age of American illustration, Joseph Christian Leyendecker captivated the public with striking images and fashionable depictions of handsome men and glamorous women. With his instantly identifiable style - "The Levendecker Look" - he helped shape the image of a nation, creating dozens of enduring icons and some of the earliest national advertising brands. His approach to his own career influenced an entire generation of younger artists, most notably Norman Rockwell, who specifically emulated Leyendecker.

Born in 1874 in Montabaur, Germany, Joseph Christian, professionally known as J.C. and called Joe, immigrated to Chicago in 1882 with his family. Joe and his youngest brother, Frank, both showed an early artistic talent and studied at the Art Institute of Chicago before moving to Paris, where they developed their distinctive styles. Upon returning to the United States, the Leyendecker brothers found themselves at the center of a publishing renaissance in New York City. In 1914, they moved into a fourteen-room house in New Rochelle, New York, along with Charles Beach, a model who would become Joe's muse and domestic partner for forty-eight years.

At the turn of the century, illustrators

ould, for the first time, disseminate original artworks on a national scale. As publishing technologies advanced to include images, and later colors, the methods of transportation and communication accelerated, allowing publications to be circulated to millions of Americans on a weekly basis. This change revolutionized the way Americans consumed media, from printed text to vibrant representations of the modern world in mastheads, highly illustrated novels, and store windows. It was America's Golden Age of Illustration.

J.C. Leyendecker helped shape American visual culture over a five-decade career, both molding and reflecting the country around him through his illustrations. His images became an integral part of American life in the first half of the last century.

SECCA in Winston-Salem, NC, Offers Works by Jessica Singerman

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) in Winston-Salem, NC, will present I MUST LOVE YOU VERY MUCH, featuring works by award-winning painter Jessica Singerman, on view from Sept. 17 through Oct. 13, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 19, from 6-8pm, with an artist talk at 7pm. Artwork will be available for purchase.

In Singerman's monumental paintings, layered shapes meet muscular paint handling and a bold use of color to evoke a vast landscape and memories of time spent in the outdoors.

Says Singerman of these paintings, "There's a line from a Mary Oliver poem that goes, If you have ever gone to the woods with me, I must love you very much. Her writing cuts to the essential about what matters and what I hope to share in my work. It feels especially poignant these days - our world feels crazy and I'm afraid to lose the lands I love so much. One of my favorite such places is Pilot Mountain State Park. It inspires my work with its beauty as it overlooks the landscape surrounding it. This group of paintings came from time I spent hiking there with my family - views from the trail-side and of a pastoral landscape - not wild, but full of a vast energy nonetheless."

"Mary Oliver's writing encapsulates something essential about the human condition and about our experience in nature. If my paintings could speak, I'd like to think Mary's poetry is how they would speak. Or rather, I hope that my paintings get close to the kind of transcendence of her poetry. Marks and color that transcend being and take the viewer to another place - a memory perhaps - and spur them to reflect on what it means to be human and on our relationship to nature. In any case, 'if you have ever gone to the woods with me, I must love you very much."

Arts writer Michael Solender wrote in the

Charlotte Observer, "Singerman's approach to her work and her outlook on life brings a broad perspective as a product of a bicultural upbringing. Her mother is French and her father is American.(...) Her work offers explosions of color, form and light conjuring imagery of motion and depth."

A resident of North Carolina since 1980, Jessica Singerman lived alternatively in France and the United States during her early life. Singerman earned her BA with Highest Honors in 2002 from the College of William & Mary, Virginia, and her Masters of Fine Arts in 2004 from the University of Delaware while on a fellowship. Her watercolors are the subject of a book published in 2017, Little Watercolor Squares, and her award-winning paintings and drawings are exhibited and collected internationally. Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Marion Adams and Nanu Lindgren LaRosee Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, will present two new exhibits including: Wild, featuring works by Marion Adams and Someone to Watch Over Me, featuring works by Nanu Lindgren LaRosee, both on view from Sept. 1 - 28, 2019. Receptions will be held on Sept. 6, from 7-10pm and Sept. 8, from 2-4pm.

Wild by Marion Adams has both two and three-dimensional artwork representing animals of African and far-eastern regions. The artist's intent is to bring attention to the decline of the world's biodiversity and natural habitats.

Although whimsical in appearance, the majority of the wild animals portrayed in the exhibit are on the endangered list. She has chosen re-purposed items for her sculptures.

Nanu Lindgren LaRosee is presenting mixed media paintings that are her visual response to the idea of, Someone to Watch Over Me, and the mixed meanings that phrase has in our current lives. We are all under constant surveillance by phones, computers, cars, security cameras, fitbits, work badges - an army of everyday things silently taking note of what we are doing and tracking our movements, providing an unseen, unnamed entity access to our lives. LaRosee explores these unnerving ideas in a lighter, sometimes humorous way. Even when you have nothing to hide it never feels benevolent to be spied on. And yet, we are complicit in our own surveillance.

LaRosee has a BFA in Painting from Washington University in St. Louis and has been a member of Artworks Gallery since

Arts Council of Moore County in Southern Pines, NC, Features Works by Christine Hager-Braun

The Arts Council of Moore County in Southern Pines, NC, will present Alchemy of Resilience, featuring art quilts by Christine Hager-Braun, on view at the Campbell House Galleries, from Sept. 6 - 27, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 6-8pm.

In this solo exhibition, Christine Hager-Braun presents a compilation of contemporary abstracts and abstracted landscapes created in the course of five years. Earlier art quilts depict peaceful abstract landscapes, which the artist started as a response to her own grieving after the tragic loss of a friend. Subsequently, Hager-Braun focused on light as part of the landscapes, and eventually, omitting the ground altogether. With the increasing abstraction of her work, the focus shifted from the light around us to the light

Inspired by the inner strength of humans to cope when faced with adversity, tragedy, or severe health issues, Hager-Braun expanded the content of her work to include a growing active stance towards awareness, acceptance and personal growth. In addition, she created work that is intended to start a conversation about depression and PTSD and calls for empathy and support.

As Hager-Braun states, "The purpose of my work is to provide visual encouragement to find inner strength through hope, healing and happiness."

Christine Hager-Braun was born in Wasserburg am Inn in Germany. She was raised in a rural area and graduated high school as one of 37 students. She attended the University of Regensburg, Germany and received a M.S. in Biology (1994) and then a Ph.D. in Biochemistry (1997). In 1999, Hager-Braun and her husband moved to North Carolina, USA, to continue their research interests. To balance her work as a scientist and raising a young child she started art quilting. She was fascinated by the idea to create "paintings" out of fabric and thread. Although mainly self-taught Hager-Braun made a bold decision in 2006: she resigned from her work as scientist and focused on a career as professional fiber artist.

Founded in 1973, the Arts Council of Moore County (ACMC) is a nonprofit organization whose mission is to inspire and strengthen our community though the arts. Brookgreen Gardens in Pawleys Island, SC, Offers Annual Sculpture Exhibition Brookgreen Gardens in Pawleys Island, SC, is presenting the National Sculpture Society's 86th Annual Awards Exhibition, on view in the Jenniwein and Noble Galleries in the Rainey Sculpture Pavilion, through Oct. 27, 2019.

This juried show features the figurative works of 55 contemporary sculptors. This year, the 14 prize winners from the show will exhibit their work in the Award Winners Exhibition in NSS' NYC Gallery from Nov. 25, 2019 to Feb. 1, 2020.

The Annual Awards Exhibition is National Sculpture Society's most popular show. Hundreds of artists apply to the juried competition which offers thousands of dollars in cash prizes. The variety of subject matter and media exhibited represents the diverse styles, backgrounds and disciplines of NSS members. Fellows (FNSS), Elected Members (NSS), and Associates make up the levels of sculptor membership in the organization, which is international in scope and appeal. National Sculpture Society is dedicated to promoting excellence in sculpture that is inspired by nature.

The Jury of Selection and Jury of Awards play an important part in the annual exhibition and each jury is comprised of two sculptors and one curator. This year the Jury of Selection chose the 55 works from the 460 entries received from around the world. The Jury of Selection included Arslan, Sculptor and Sculpture Instructor, The Art Students League of New York; Darrell Davis, FNSS; and Eric Silver, Director, Lillian Nassau, LLC.

Work by Patz Fowle

Sculptors featured in the exhibition include: Béla Bácsi; Manuel Ferreiro Badia, Joy Kroeger Beckner, Jeff Birchill, Richard Black, Richard Blake, Marlys Boddy, Paige Bradley, Jeremy Bradshaw, George Bumann, LeaAnn Cogswell, Matthew James Collins, Eugene Daub, Beverly Davis, Darrell Davis, Judeth Davis, Mick Doellinger, Steve Flom, Patz Fowle, Anne Geiler, Jay Welsh, Douglas White, Ellen Woodbury, and Deran Wright.

A Jury of Awards will convene after the show is installed and will include: Rick Reinert, Owner, Reinart Fine Art Gallery; Bart Walter, FNSS; and Basil Watson, Sculptor. 86th Annual Award winners will be announced at a closing reception on Oct. 27; the Brookgreen Gardens "People's Choice" award will be announced at that time as well.

National Sculpture Society was founded in New York City in 1893 by a group of America's most prominent sculptors. Its members have created much of this country's public sculpture, coins, and medals since the late 1800s. It is the oldest organization of professional sculptors in the United States and has been hosting exhibitions for over a century. This year, NSS celebrates its 125th anniversary.

Brookgreen Gardens was founded by Archer and Anna Hyatt Huntington in 1931 and today is a National Historic Landmark and a garden museum with the most extensive collection of figurative sculpture in an outdoor setting by American artists in the world. In addition to the gardens, Brookgreen offers year-round courses and workshops to sculptors as well as programs and tours for visitors of all ages and interests.

Coker University in Hartsville, SC, will present Dwelling Upon, featuring works by Jackson, MS, artist Sue Carrie Drummond, on view in the Cecelia Coker Bell Gallery, from Sept. 23 through Oct. 18, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 23, from 7-8pm.

Sue Carrie Drummond received her Bachelor of Arts in Studio Art from Millsaps College in 2012, and her Masters of Fine Arts in Book Arts and Printmaking from The University of the Arts, in Philadelphia, PA, in 2015.

Vacillating between destruction and restoration, Drummond is lured by labor-intensive processes that require considerable time investment and meticulous attention such as papermaking, printmaking, and fibers. While enamored by the meditative nature of the techniques she employs, she often finds herself frustrated during the making and questioning the point and purpose of the product. In this way her work reflects on how damage is repaired by highlighting the effort and devotion that it takes to make something whole again. But mending inevitably leaves a trace.

Florence County Museum in Florence, SC, Features Works by Jim Boden

Work by Jim Boden

The Florence County Museum in Florence, SC, is presenting Out of Paradise, featuring paintings by Jim Boden, on view in the FCM Waters Gallery, through Dec. 13, 2019.

The exhibition will be composed of works created by Boden during the last ten years. Boden is Professor Emeritus at Coker University, Hartsville, SC, where he taught from 1999 to 2016.

Boden's lush and darkly toned paintings are figurative in more ways than one, frequently using the human body as a means of expressing personal and cultural tensions.

The exhibition's title is taken from the artist's most recent series, which depict modern man and woman in an ambiguous, sometimes surrealistic landscape, evoking biblical references to Adam and Eve's exit from Eden

Boden studied fine art at The University of Cincinnati, where he earned his MFA in 1996. He has been published in numerous catalogues; most recently, National Small Oil Paintings Exhibition in 2016, and Artfields 2015 and 2016. Boden has also been reviewed by MN artists.org, the Carolina Chronicle, the Hartsville Messenger, and other news outlets. Boden also holds the esteemed title of Professor Emeritus of Art, at Coker University.

The FCM Waters Gallery is located at 135 South Dargan Street, just next door to the Museum's main building.

The mission of the Florence County Museum is to provide a dynamic sanctuary for the preservation, interpretation and exhibition of objects of scientific, historic and artistic significance that are unique or of special interest to the people of Florence County and the Pee Dee region of South Carolina. The vision of the Florence County Museum is to stimulate imaginations and create experiences that transform lives by broadening people's perspectives, attitudes and knowledge of themselves and the world.

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, Offers Works by Laurie Schorr and FMU Community Collections

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, is offering two new exhibitions including: Laurie Schorr: Stories from the Trail / Stories from the Sea, on view in the Hyman Fine Arts Center's Kassab Gallery, through Sept. 26, 2019, and FMU Collects in 3D: Ceramic and Sculptural Works, on view in the Kassab Gallery cases, through Nov. 7, 2019.

Laurie Schorr's exhibit spans nine years of work reflecting on the artist's personal journey since moving to North Carolina.

"Stories from the Sea is a series of two chapters; the first chapter is a selection of mixed media pieces of tiny self portraits stitched onto magnolia leaves, and adhered to my father's ocean navigation maps. When I first moved to North Carolina, I was drawn to the leaves as they were strong, resilient, and to me looked like little boats. The second chapter is a series of photogravures of tiny found medicine bottles filled with maps and bits of the algae," says Schoor.

Works from "FMU Collects"

"Stories from the Trail is a series representing my love of trailrunning and a strange magical fortune of finding feathers along each trail. These images are a series of images of the trails, printed as palladium prints and cyanotype over inkjet prints, as well as cyanotypes of the found feathers," adds Schoor.

Schorr grew up in New York surrounded by car parts and cuckoo clocks. From a very early age, she kept diaries and collected images with her camera and sketchbook.

Schorr received a BA in Visual Arts and Art History from Roger Williams University and later earned an MA in Art and Art Education from Columbia University Teachers College. She has been teaching photography through outreach and public school systems since 2003 and currently resides in North Carolina, where she works as Director of Education for The Light Factory and is a teaching artist at various schools, community centers, and after school programs.

Schorr has received numerous grants and awards for her photographic work including PhotoLucida Critical Mass top 200 in 2014, the North Carolina Regional Artist Project Grant in both 2014 and 2016, the Arts and Science Council Award in both 2012 and 2013, and Best Emerging Artist in Photography at the GLAAD OutAuction in NYC in 2009. Schorr's work has been exhibited Nationally and Internationally, most recently at the 2015 Chiang Mai Photo Festival in Chiang Mai, Thailand, the Castell Photography Gallery, Art Intersection, Lightbox Gallery, PhotoPlace Gallery and the AIR Gallery (NYC) and has been featured in Lenscratch Magazine.

Members of the Francis Marion University Community have provided a varied show of three-dimensional objects they have collected. Along with artworks from across the United States are works by noted South Carolina artists such as Robert Lyon, Peter Lenzo, Virginia Scotchie, Lawrence Jordan, David Halsey, Ryan Crabtree, Patz Fowle, Douglas Gray, and Tari and Sasha Federer. It's always interesting to see just what floats whose boat!

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, Features Works by Ginny Lassiter

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, is presenting It's Wine O'Clock Somewhere, featuring works by gallery owner Ginny Lassiter, on view through Sept. 28, 2019.

Lassiter is the full time gallery director, but also finds time to paint and teach abstract painting at her own gallery and for Wilson Community College. Asked about this show, she said, "We do a lot with space and shapes in my classes, and I often use wine bottles and glasses in my demonstration paintings. I had quite an unfinished collection and decided it would be fun to complete them for a wine-themed exhibit."

The Ocean Isle Beach resident has always been a creative soul. She's a potter, she paints, she sketches, she designs fabrics. She graduated from East Carolina with a major in art and an emphasis in Interior Design. Whenever she gets the chance, Lassiter loves working as a style consultant, helping her friends and clients solve design challenges and create the home of their dreams.

Work by Ginny Lassiter

Many of the pieces in the show have been left unframed and are specially priced for this show. The works are acrylic and mixed media in a range of sizes.

Sunset River Marketplace showcases work by approximately 150 North and South Carolina artists, and houses some 10,000 square feet of oils, acrylics, watercolors, pastels, mixed media, art glass, fabric art, pottery, sculpture, turned and carved wood and artisan-created jewelry.

There are two onsite kilns and five wheels used by students in the ongoing pottery classes offered by the gallery. There are realistic and abstract art classes as well as workshops by nationally and regionally known artists. During select months, the gallery hosts Coffee With the Authors, a series of presentations by local and regional authors. Through the month of September, the gallery will also be hosting a number of "demo days," during which artists will demonstrate how they work and answer questions. They will be posted on the gallery's Facebook and Instagram pages.

Leland Cultural Arts Center in Leland, NC, Features Works by Heather Divoky

The Leland Cultural Arts Center in Leland, NC, will present Bounce Back: A Visual Narrative of Hurricane Florence, featuring an exhibit of works by Wilmington, NC, artist Heather Divoky, on view from Sept. 1 - 27, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 12, from 6-8pm.

Divoky's first hand experience of going through Hurricane Florence informs her new body of work, which explores themes of risk assessment, natural disaster, climate change, resources, and the ability for communities to heal from such storms, as well as prepare for future events. Divoky will use illustration, digital media, painting, and wire sculpture to explore these themes, with many of the work using materiel found after the storm.

Divoky was inspired by several perspectives of others who also went through the storm. In particular, Divoky will have two pieces responding to Working Narratives' podcast, Storm Stories, produced by Laura Bratton.

"This is my most important work to date," Divoky says. "Responding to something so personal is important, and this show is a culmination of several months of research, collaboration, and, ultimately healing through what can only be seen as a traumatic event, not just for myself, but also for a community as a whole."

Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, Offers Second 10.10.10. Exhibition

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, is presenting once again the exhibit, 10.10.10, which showcases 10 local artists, occupying 10 linear feet, creating 10 self-curated exhibitions, on view through Oct. 19, 2019.

The Arts Council has once again answered the question, what happens when you give 10 linear feet to 10 artists for 10 self-curated exhibitions?

Because of its popularity, 10:10:10 is returning to highlight the strength of the Cumberland County creative community.

Arts Council of Fayetteville

The exhibitions are devoted to spotlighting regional artists that reside within specific counties in Southeastern North Carolina. To spotlight new artists, last year's 10:10:10 artists were not eligible for this year's exhibition. Of the 50 artists that submitted portfolios, 10 were selected and will display 10 individual pieces along 10 linear feet creating 10 unique exhibitions in a sole gallery.

There were no limits to the works for the 10-foot space. Mixed mediums were used as vessels to capture varying imaginative and impressive art. The emerging artists were encouraged to include unconventional architectural features presenting a diverse collection.

A wall of quotes from each artist statement will be debuted this year to give insight on the artist's theme and showcased portfolio.

"Whether you call it fluid art, liquid art, or acrylic pouring, there's nothing more satisfying than creating abstract masterpieces by letting pigment run wild," said Andres Ramos Jr., one of the ten artists.

This year's self-curated exhibit will feature works by: Kia Love, Melissa A. McKinney, Stephanie Nicol Ojeda Matos, Andres Ramos Jr., Lana Reiber, Rob

Robbers, Saundra Smith Rubiera, John M. Scrudder, Brian J. Tyler, and Cecelia R. Wilken

The exhibitions were juried by an Arts Council Committee comprised of specialists in the field of visual arts.

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County was founded in 1973. As a link between artists, arts and cultural organizations, and the community, the nonprofit agency administers programs in partnership with a variety of local agencies to stimulate community development through the arts. The Arts Council supports individual creativity, cultural preservation, economic development, and lifelong learning through

Carolina Creations Fine Art and Contemporary Craft Gallery in New Bern, NC, Offers Work by Andrea Liladis

Carolina Creations Fine Art and Contemporary Craft Gallery in New Bern, NC, will present Swirl, featuring upcycled works of art by Andrea Liladis, on view from Sept. 1 - 30, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 13, from 5:30-8pm.

Liladis is passionate about recycling and reusing materials, transforming them into simple, unique and funky art objects. She cuts her wood and metal individually to create one of a kind pieces.

Her studio is in her backyard and is decorated with her clever work.

Liladis was born in Germany and has lived in Carrboro, NC, for the past 18 years. She creates a menagerie of locally-made, reclaimed barnwood creatures.

Liladis' work is ever-evolving-from painted fish on sticks to rusted bird families strutting across a wall. Each piece is wired to hang and is coated with several coats of polyurethane so can be hung indoors or out.

North Carolina Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, Features Works by Joseph Bounds

North Carolina Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, will present Echoes of Portraiture – Recent Paintings by Joseph Bounds, on view in the Mims Gallery at NC Wesleyan's Dunn Center, from Sept. 19 through Oct. 27, 2019.

Bounds' oil paintings are not conventional portraits; his portrait subjects seem ethereal in fractured and layered abstract compositions that are carefully executed with delicately modulated tonalities. These images are profoundly psychological, even mystical, with personages appearing to exist simultaneously in the present, past, and future. What one might compare would be a slowly tumbling and rotating freeze-frame hologram.

When one takes in the artist's imaginative approach to the human form and portrait, it is not surprising to find out that Bounds earned his Bachelor of Fine Arts degree at the famous Chicago Art Institute, home to some of America's most unconventional imagist painting since mid century. Home based in North Carolina, Bounds nevertheless exhibits his art internationally from the Saatchi Gallery in London to Limner Gallery in Hudson, NY. He has soloed at the Horace Williams House in Chapel Hill and Studio Oh in Chicago.

In 2018 he took First Place in a competitive exhibition at the Cape Fear Studios and Special Merit in Figurative Art at the LST Gallery on line.

Bounds taught figure drawing in the Barton College Art Department in 2018 where his admirable reputation and artwork caught the interest of Wesleyan's Mims Gallery. We are indeed fortunate to have persuaded Bounds to exhibit with us this season.

Andrejev Galleries in Louisburg, NC, Offers Works by Modernist Painters

Andrejev Galleries in Louisburg, NC, is presenting Geometry is DNA, featuring works by nine Modernist painters each grounded in geometry in one way or another, on view through Oct. 5, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from 6-9pm.

Geometry is DNA – and the universal that gave birth to Modernism: No matter what land we come from or what our parentage we are hard-wired with a set of primary gestalts...meaning patterns...geometry is primary ... squares, triangles, circles... regular forms. We like regular forms; it makes our minds happy. Half the time we don't even think about it, its automatic...it just drives our preferences, our taste...and it drives the modernist bus for art.

Historians and art connoisseurs will of course remind us that geometry has always been integral to aesthetics. Plato wrote the perfection of geometry was found in heaven...but our concerns are more of our time. Modernist abstract painters use an imperfect hand-made geometry with a sometimes unspoken realization that they want those who see their paintings to identify with and "correct" those imperfections, thereby more involving the beholder...better sharing ownership of the artwork so to speak.

It is challenging to bring together examples of what almost a century has produced; gallery visitors will find it evident how each of this group has at least one foot in Geometry and the other in personal creative vision. Every artwork in venue is a Modernist original and collectible.

NC Museum of Natural Sciences in Raleigh, | Gallery C in Raleigh, NC,

The North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences in Raleigh, NC, will present Lift, featuring work by Salisbury-based Ingrid Erickson, on view in the Museum's Nature Art Gallery, from Sept. 6 - 29, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 7, from 2-4pm.

Erickson's work in cut paper reflects the intersection of art and science. She explores the ornithology, botany and ecology of ecosystems through the rendering of specific species. Each project involves extensive on-site research. "I enjoy working with and learning from scientists," she says. "I work from life, as well as from natural history collections and specimens, radiographs, and my own photographs and video taken on-site. Each piece is individually hand cut using an X-Acto knife and scissors, with up to several thousand tiny cuts per piece. I add color after cutting is complete using up to 20 layers of light-fast acrylic spray paint."

Erickson recently completed a course in Bird Biology from the Cornell Laboratory of Ornithology in Ithaca, NY, and is an active participant in Citizen Science projects, as well as a wildlife rehab volunteer at the NC Zoo. The recipient of a 2015 North Carolina Arts & Science Council Artist Project Grant, Erickson recently transformed 300 feet of paper into large scale paper cuts featuring the 32 species of raptors being rehabilitated at the Carolina Raptor Center in Huntersville. Other recent partner organizations include The Field Museum, Chicago; Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, Laurel, MD; the International Crane Foundation, Baraboo, Wisconsin; and The Duke Lemur Center.

The North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences in downtown Raleigh, on W. Jones Street, is an active research institution that engages visitors of every age and stage of learning in the wonders of science and the natural world. For more information, visit (naturalsciences.org). The Nature Art Gallery is located inside the Museum Store. Admission to the Gallery is free. All exhibited art is for sale.

NC, Features Works by Ingrid Erickson | Features Works by Josef Albers

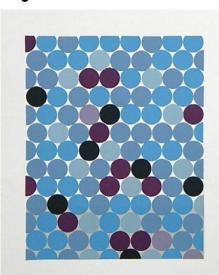

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, will present Ode to the Rainbow: Serigraphs by Josef Albers, on view from Sept. 6 - 28, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 6, from Josef Albers (1888-1976) was a German born American artist who developed the basis of modern color theory in the 20th century. Albers is best known for his work as an abstract painter and theorist.

In 1933, Albers emigrated to North Carolina to escape Nazi pressure. He taught at Black Mountain College where he headed the painting program until 1949.

At Black Mountain, his students included Ruth Asawa, Ray Johnson, Robert Rauschenberg, Cy Twombly, and Susan Weil. He also invited important American artists such as Willem de Kooning, to teach in the summer seminar. Weil remarked that as a teacher Albers was "his o academy". She said that Albers claimed that "when you're in school, you're not an artist, you're a student", although he was very supportive of self-expression when one became an artist and began on her or his journey. Albers produced many woodcuts and leaf studies at this time.

In 1950, Albers left Black Mountain to head the department of design at Yale University in New Haven, CT. While at Yale, Albers worked to expand the nascent graphic design program (then called "graphic arts"), hiring designers Alvin Eisenman, Herbert Matter, and Alvin Lustig. Albers worked at Yale until he retired from teaching in 1958. At Yale, Richard Anuszkiewicz, Eva Hesse, Neil Welliver, and Jane Davis Doggett, were notable students.

Albers published Interaction of Color in 1963, which presented his theory that colors were governed by an internal and deceptive logic. The very rare first edition was a limited edition of only 2,000.

UNC-Chapel Hill in Chapel Hill, NC, Offers Exhibit by Women Photographers

UNC-Chapel Hill in Chapel Hill, NC, will present She Who Tells a Story: Women Photographers from Iran and the Arab World, on view at the Ackland Art Museum, from Sept. 20 through Dec. 1, 2019.

During this critical time for Iran and the Arab world, as national and personal identities are being dismantled and rebuilt, contemporary photography reflects the complexities of unprecedented change. One of the most significant trends to emerge is the work of women photographers, whose remarkable and provocative images provide insights into new cultural landscapes, questioning tradition and challenging perceptions of Middle Eastern and Arab identity.

She Who Tells a Story: Women Photographers from Iran and the Arab World brings together the vital pioneering work of 12 leading artists, ranging in genre from portraiture to documentary: Jananne Al-Ani, Boushra Almutawakel, Gohar Dashti, Rana El Nemr, Lalla Essaydi, Shadi Ghadirian, Tanya Habjouqa, Rula Halawani, Nermine Hammam, Rania Matar, Shirin Neshat, and Newsha Tavakolian. The exhibition features over 80 photographs lent by the artists, the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston and the collection of James Keith Brown and Eric Diefenbach.

She Who Tells a Story has earned one glowing review after another at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston and subsequent venues. The Huffington Post called the exhibition "revelatory." CAA Reviews declared that, "The many standout artworks ... [bring] to the fore the intertwined problems of class, subjectivity, public and private space, power, and the everyday with a mix of imagination, humor and directness." The Economist observed that, "At a time when American and European views of the Islamic world tend to be filtered through a lens of fear and anxiety, these images offer a more nuanced portrait of a culturally complicated place." This will be the final stop for the exhibition, and its only appearance in the Southeast.

The Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was established on July 1, 1988. Initially known as the Black Cultural Center, it was renamed for beloved faculty member Dr. Sonja Haynes Stone after her untimely passing in 1991. Upon its inception, The Stone Center focused its attention on raising awareness of and appreciation for African-American culture by the campus community. Today, the Center is an important site for the critical examination of African-American, diaspora and African cultures, providing intellectual and cultural programming that is both timely and informative.

Fahamu Pecou, "something eternal", 2016, acrylic

Exhibition Focused of the Art of the 1960s

Duke University in Durham, NC, is ern Gallery at the Nasher Museum of Art,

The period around 1960 was one of great artistic evolution in the United States. The long-standing influence exerted by Abstract Expressionism, a gestural type of painting and sculpture that emerged after World War II, was dwindling. Artists coming of age at this time perceived the style as mannered and academic and sought to distance themselves from its pervasive legacy. This resulted in a gradual shift in artistic approaches and philosophical attitudes. The works in this installation demonstrate both the lingering hallmarks of Abstract Expressionism and the precursors to these new

Frank Stella's monumental Great Jones Street provides an example of the changing attitudes of younger artists. Though Stella retained some of the formal characteristics of Abstract Expressionism (large format and painterly qualities), he dispensed with the older generation's desire to transmit an existential condition to the canvas. Instead, he wanted simply to "get the paint out of the can and onto the canvas" with as little inventiveness as possible.

This exhibition was organized by Marshall N. Price, Ph.D., Nancy A. Nasher and and Contemporary Art.

The Nasher Museum of Art at Duke University is a major center for the arts in Durham and the surrounding region. The 65,000-square-foot building was designed by architect Rafael Viñoly. Since opening in 2005, the museum has organized and presented leading-edge exhibitions that travel worldwide. From the beginning, the Nasher Museum has been dedicated to building a groundbreaking collection of contemporary art. In this effort, the museum's collection strategy emphasizes works by diverse artists who have been historically underrepresented, or even excluded, by mainstream arts institutions, and maintains a particular focus on artists of African descent. Other strengths in the collection include European medieval art, European and American paintings, Outsider art, classical antiquities, African art and ancient American art.

Philip Guston, central to Abstract Expressionism's development, made a subtle but significant stylistic shift in Portrait I. At the center of the painting floats a large dark form that points to his forthcoming adoption of a cartoonish, figurative style. DO or DIE: Affect, Ritual, Resistance serves as one artist's action in opposition to these overwhelming societal forces, seeking instead to elevate and re-contextualize Black life and death. Through performance, painting, drawing and video Pecou reframes our view. He incorporates references from the West African religion Yoruba and Ifa rituals. In addition, Pecou integrates African cultural retentions found in hip-hop and the philosophy of Négritude, and through this, he shapes a story that seeks to affirm life via an understanding of the balance between life and death. This exhibit is born out of Pecou's research and scholarship as a Ph.D.

123 Art Studios in Pittsboro, NC, Offers Autumn Art Show - Sept. 21 - 22, 2019

123 Art Studios in Pittsboro, NC, will present its Autumn Art Show, featuring works by Luna Lee Ray and Shelly Hehenberger, along with nine participating artists of 123 Art Studios, on view Sept. 21-22, 2019, from 11am-5pm both days.

Come experience some of your favorite local artists at 123 Art Studios as they host their Autumn Art Show as this event will boast an incredibly diverse selection of all new works in a variety of medium.

Work by Kelly Hudson

Featured artists Luna Lee Ray and Shelly Hehenberger create collaborative works of acrylic and mixed media on paper and wood that are very unique and suggestive of many interpretations. Two artists teaming up to present completed and cohesive work like Ray and Hehenberger, is a rarity in the art world. It requires that each participant is willing to approach the work with an attitude of unattached exploration toward both their own and the other person's contributions. In the case of Ray and Hehenberger, the process involves trading pieces back and forth numerous times as they add layers and develop the surface, until an agreed upon resolution is reached. Because much of each layer is reworked or edited in the process, they have found that focusing on the enjoyment of creating each layer is a crucial part of the work's expression.

Work by Luna Lee Ray & Shelly Hehenberger

Artists from 123 Art Studios who will have brand new creations on display include: Colleen Black Semelka (raku), Jean Cerasani (fiber & ceramics), RJ Dobs (stone sculpture), Sarah Graham (acrylic painting), Kelly Hudson (wood & other media), Cat Manolis (contemporary design reliquaries & mixed media), William Moore (marble, ceramic, stone, wood & bronze sculpture), Lara O'Keefe (functional pottery), and Nathalie Worthington (acrylic painting).

Wind your way through a beautiful hardwood forest to Pittsboro's most hidden surprise - 123 Art Studios - for the autumn installment of this semi-annual art show. This is a two day show, but the studio and gallery are open all year by appointment. Meanwhile, we look forward to seeing you in September to meet the artists, bask in the abundance of creative expression, and enjoy refreshments and a relaxed atmosphere.

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Emily Esdaile Weston

The Franklin G. Burroughs - Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, is presenting Emily Esdaile Weston (1810-1886): The Legacy of a Planter's Wife, on view through Sept. 1, 2019. English-born artist Emily Esdaile Weston was the beloved wife of celebrated South Carolina planter, military officer and politician, Plowden C. J. Weston (1819-1864). During the Civil War, while Plowden served in the Confederate Army, Emily managed their family plantations along the Waccamaw River, a beach house on Pawleys Island and an inland cottage in Conway. Over the course of 25 years (1844-1869), Emily documented the architecture, flora, fauna and landscape she encountered around her properties in Horry and Georgetown Counties in graphite, ink and watercolor, providing us with a window into the past - a view of our coastal landscape 150 years ago. For further information call the Museum at 843/238-2510 or visit (http://myrtlebeachartmuseum.org).

'The Last Parking Place on Broadway," by Manning Williams, acrylic on canvas, 2006. On loan from Barbara Williams.

The Florence County Museum in Florence, SC, is presenting the exhibit, Manning Williams, featuring works by Charleston native artist Manning Williams (1939 - 2012), on view in the Museum's Special Exhibits Gallery, through Sept. 22, 2019. Williams began his career as a realist artist. However, in the 1990s, his art took an extraordinary turn as Williams began to incorporate comic book imagery into large, abstract expressionist compositions. This synthesis often itilized a recurrent vocabulary of shapes and symbols to create an elusive narrative exploring personal, historical and political themes. Williams was born in Charleston in 1939. He received his BS from the College of Charleston before doing graduate work at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Williams's work has been exhibited nationally and internationally with solo shows in Charleston, New Orleans, Washington, at the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Art and the Greenville Museum of Art. Work by Joelle Dietrick & Owen Mundy

The Van Every/Smith Galleries at Davidson College in Davidson, NC, are pleased to begin the new academic year with two new exhibitions, Harold Mendez: The days of yesterday are all numbered in sum, on view in the Smith Gallery, and Joelle Dietrick & Owen Mundy: The Speed of Thinking, on view in the Van Every Gallery. Both exhibitions will be on view through Oct. 6, 2019 with a public reception on Sept. 4 from 7-8:30pm, with a gallery talk by Harold Mendez at 7pm. On Sept. 17, from 11:05am-12:05pm, Joelle Dietrick and Owen Mundy will discuss the exhibition with Kate Mondloch, Professor and Department Head, History of Art and Architecture, University of Oregon. Harold Mendez uses simple materials – archival photographs, industrial items such as found metal and chain link fencing, and natural materials like tree limbs, flower petals, and pigments made from insects – to communicate complex concepts around history, memory, the body, violence, and ultimately, mending. This year, the Galleries present digital works including games, prints, and animations by collaborative art team Joelle Dietrick and Owen Mundy. Focusing on their collaborative work from the last five years, the centerpiece of the exhibition is The Speed of Thinking, their mobile game that playfully connects global trade to global warming. "Off Whitby, Morning", 1864, by William Roxley Beverly (British, 1811 - 1889): Watercolor on paper; Gift of John H.D. Wigger

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, is presenting Luminous Landscapes: The Golden Age of British Watercolors, on view in Galleries 2 & 3, through Oct. 6, 2019. Drawn from the collection of British watercolors bequeathed to the Gibbes Museum by John Wigger in 2004, this exhibition showcases a selection of works on paper created during the "Golden Age of Watercolor" in the 18th and 19th centuries in England. At the start of the 18th century in England, the watercolor medium began to take root in the form of topography, a type of realistic mapping of places. First painted as monochromatic tints, artists began applying bold washes of colors to these topographical drawings, pushing the medium into a new realm of landscape painting. As watercolor grew in popularity, a more Romantic style emerged, emphasizing brilliant colors, looser brushstrokes and attention to light and atmospheric effects. For further information call the Museum at 843/297-5801 or visit (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, is presenting Immaterial Artifacts, featuring works by Tom Schmidt, on view in the Rudolph E. Lee Gallery, through Oct. 17, 2019. An Artist Talk and reception will be held on Sept. 12, from 5:30-8pm. The exhibit showcases ceramic sculpture, tile work and functional objects by Charlotte, NC, ceramic artist, designer, and educator Schmidt. As we increasingly operate through digital interfaces in our daily lives, the role of craft has come to represent an alternative; a preservation of analog process and tradition that seems lacking in a digital world. At the same time, craft media has always been at the forefront of developments in new technology. The work of Schmidt represents a spectrum of sculptural objects

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, will present Altered Surfaces, featuring painting by Marcy Lansman, photography by Eric Saunders, and works in wood by Larry Favorite, on view from Sept. 23 through Oct. 20, 2019. A reception will be held on Sept. 27, from 6-9pm.

Painter Marcy Lansman writes, "Over the years, my paintings have become more abstract. Photographer Eric Saunders says of his current work, "For my own photographs, 'altered surfaces' means surfaces in a picture inherently altered by light, such as reflections, and color changes caused by different angles of light at different times of day hitting a surface. It is possible to alter the surface of a photograph before it is printed, using digital methods by changing colors, textures, and tones. Saunders has been exploring various ways to digitally alter skies, reflections, and other images in his work for this show.

but contain no other embellishment. In others, I have inlaid sterling silver and/or turquoise into the surface. And on some, more perhaps for this show than for other shows in the past, I have intentionally retained at least some "organic" surface area, an area that is still rough and ragged, just as it was in the desert. These pieces offer the viewer an immediate contrast between a surface that is virtually unaltered and one that I have altered in a variety of ways. My intention in this show is to demonstrate a myriad of ways in which the surface of ironwood can be altered, and how those alterations simultaneously reflect both the slow work of nature and my creative process as an artist. These variations are endlessly fascinating

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts is owned and operated by 22 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, is presenting Beyond the Plantations:

Michelle Van Parys, "Overpass with Smokestack", 2015, South Carolina, Selenium toned gelatin silver print.

Images of the New South, featuring photographs by Michelle Van Parys, on view in the Mezzanine Gallery of the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, through Feb. 8, 2020. Images of the Old South are often sanitized views of a perfect and prosperous plantation life yet ignore the conflict, conquest, and transformation that is manifested in the changing landscape. The photographs from Beyond the Plantations: Images of the New South present the contemporary southern landscape in all of its rich complexity. Van Parys offered the following artist's statement, "The photographs from Beyond the Plantations: Images of the New South present the contemporary southern landscape in all of its rich complexity. These images examine the layers of change within the human-inhabited landscape - geological, archeological, historical, cultural, and ecological. I see the landscape as dynamic representation of the complex relationship we have with our surroundings over time. It is the accumulation of layers of human trace within this verdant landscape that drives this series of photographs." From the book's jacket: A View from the South: The Narrative Art of Boyd Saunders is the first comprehensive examination of the life and art of one of America's premier printmakers. In this celebration of an enduring and widely acclaimed career as an artist, Thomas Dewey II chronicles Saunders' work not only as a printmaker, but also as a painter, sculptor, illustrator, author, educator, amateur musician, and sometimes horseman. With great care Dewey exposes the common thread that runs through Saunders' visual expressions: his intriguing tales that reveal his heartfelt devotion to the people and places of the American South. Dewey has captured Saunders' life story through intensive research as well as via a series of interviews with the artist over several years. Details of Saunders' early life on a West Tennessee farm and his family's long attachment to the land document a profound influence on his life, outlook, and art. But Saunders was also moved by literature—namely that of William Faulkner, whom he met while earning a master's of fine art at the University of Mississippi. Saunders credits Faulkner with inspiring much of his work, demonstrated in his Spotted Horses, a limited volume of lithographs illustrating Faulkner's short story of the same name, which was published by the University of printmaking program as well as a southern printmaker's organization called the Southern Graphics Council. In the more than forty years since its founding the organization, now called SGC International, it has grown well beyond its southern borders and now serves twenty-five hundred members worldwide.

A View from the South features more than 120 color images showcasing the themes, ideas, and techniques Saunders has used in his paintings, drawings, prints, sculptures, etchings, lithographs, and woodcuts. His art is exhibited throughout the world and is included in many private and public collections, including the Boston Public Library, the US Wildlife Collection in Washington, DC, and Shanxi University collection in China.

A foreword is provided by Charles R. Mack, professor emeritus of art history at the University of South Carolina.

A View from the South: The Narrative Art of Boyd Saunders is available in hard-cover and ebook. To order a copy visit (www.USCPress.com).

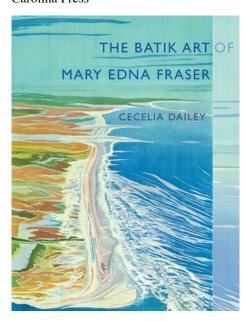

From Tom Starland: In this book you get much more than a book about the life and work of Boyd Saunders. He was not only a printmaker, he was also a teacher of printmaking, a promoter of printmaking and other printmakers, and a gifted storyteller. His prints told stories individually or in series and many involved horses, farm life and adventures.

The book pays tribute to two other printmakers, James Fowler Cooper and Alfred Hutty, including many works by these two printmakers. The book also features stories - stories of the South and life in the South.

My question is, why are we not seeing exhibitions of Boyd Saunders' work in our art museums in South Carolina? I hope we're not waiting for him to pass to pay him tribute. This book is a start, but we should be seeing much more of his work on a regular basis.

From the book's jacket: A lavishly illustrated guide to the work and technique of the internationally renowned artist Mary Edna Fraser has taken the art of batik to otherworldly heights. An internationally renowned artist, Fraser has had works grace galleries, museums, and public buildings throughout the United States - creating wonder, awe, and an awareness of the environment around us as few artists have had the talent and vision to manage.

Using fabric, wax, and dye, Fraser has transformed the techniques of batik from its ancient origins and forged new panoramas and vistas of our unique planet from the sky above us to the ground beneath our feet, and even down to the evocative landscapes that sprawl across the ocean floor. These images not only astonish us with their allure; they also remind of us of our place in the world and our responsibility to respect and care for it.

Part history and guide to the challenging techniques of this form, The Batik Art of Edna Fraser affords not only a full-color introduction to Fraser's stunning perceptions of the glaciers, icebergs, coastlines, atmospheres, mountains, and rivers that grace our globe, but gives us an intimate look at the artist at work and the philosophies that guide her singular imagination as well.

Bold, beautiful, thoughtful, and always visceral, Fraser's art invites us outside to see with new eves the horizons that sur round us - and inside to see ourselves in our inextricable connection with the land. the seas, the skies, the earth, as we are woven together as one in the fabric of our existence on this, our home, the vibrant blue planet hurtling through space and time.

Cecelia Dailey, an artist, writer, and media specialist in video, photography, and design, is involved in public projects related to the natural environment, the visual arts, music performance, and archiving. She documented Mary Edna Fraser's work for ten years, managed her studio and business, and installed her many national exhibitions. Dailey has a BFA in filmmaking and photography and a BA in philosophy from Virginia Commonwealth University.

"[A]n all-encompassing book that celebrates the art and life of Mary Edna Fraser. Cecelia Dailey illuminates who and what has influenced Fraser over the span of her brilliant career. Fraser's ability to evolve and absorb new influences and technology is part of her genius," says Marjory Wentworth, South Carolina poet laureate.

The Batik Art of Edna Fraser by Cecelia Dailey is available in hardcover, paperback, & ebook. To order a copy visit (www.USCPress.com).

From Tom Starland: This book is chocked full of illustrations of Fraser's works, some you've seen if you live in the Charleston area and many you may have never seen installed around the United States. The book documents Fraser's history through her works, through the people she met, many local and regional artists, and those she collaborated with throughout the years. It's not a book written by a person who spent some time with a subject and did some research, it's written by a person who spent ten years working with and assisting Fraser on many projects included in this book.

This book is also a how-to lesson for anyone looking to use the medium of Batik - down to explaining the process, tools, techniques and where you can purchase supplies. But it's not a cold textbook. It's a first hand look at an artist and how they playing her banjo. Carolina Arts is now on Twitter! Sign up to follow Tom's Tweets, click below! twitter.com/carolinaarts

Sept. 27, from 1-2pm - "We The People, Mary Whyte Lecture". In 2010, internationally renowned artist Mary Whyte set out on a mission to paint fifty largescale watercolor portraits of what it means to be an American veteran today. Over seven years in the making, We The People: Portraits of Veterans in America, took her across the United States. On that journey, she met men and women of all ages and from all walks of life, and had the opportunity to paint some of our country's truest patriots. Join us to hear more about her experience and her inspiration for the exhibit. "We The People: Portraits of Veterans in America", will launch Oct. 25. 2019 at the City Gallery in Charleston, SC. and run until Dec. 22. Fee $20 Members, $25 Non-Members, and $10 student or faculty with valid ID. Galleries 2 & 3, Through Oct. 6 - "Luminous Landscapes: The Golden Age of British Watercolors". Drawn from the collection of British watercolors bequeathed to the Gibbes Museum by John Wigger in 2004, this exhibition showcases a selection of works on paper created during the "Golden Age of Watercolor" in the 18th and 19th centuries in England. Gallery 8, Sept. 6 -Jan. 5, 2020 - "Influence and Inspiration: The Art of Jill Hooper, Ben Long, and Frank Mason". The exhibition celebrates three artists devoted to classical training and united by friendships that span multiple generations. Mason was an influential teacher at the Art Students League for over fifty years and a passionate supporter of the arts. In the 1960s, Mason taught Ben Long, a promising young artist from North Carolina. Long has since distinguished himself on the international stage as a realist and a prolific fresco painter. Charleston-based artist Jill Hooper studied under Ben Long, who remains an important mentor to this day. Like Long, Hooper is a realist painter who has earned international acclaim for her powerful portraits, landscapes, and still-life paintings. Together, these artists demonstrate a commitment to the techniques of the Old Masters while offering their unique artistic perspectives on contemporary life. Gallery 9, Sept. 6 - Jan. 5, 2020 - "Rauschenberg in Charleston". Long before Robert Rauschenberg (1925-2008) became one of the twentieth century's most influential artists, he found much of his inspiration through the lens of his camera. Rauschenberg's first experiences with photography were in the South as a student at Black Mountain College between 1949 and 1952, and Charleston was one of his earliest subjects. He was reunited with the city in the early 1980s for his monumental photography project In + Out City Limits that ultimately resulted in photographic essays on six American cities-Charleston, Boston, Baltimore, Los Angeles, New York, and Fort Myers, Florida. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition -"Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Lowcountry Image Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "In the Company of Animals: Pets of Charleston". This exhibition, comprised of 18 black-and-white photographs, will chronicle the relationship Charlestonians have had with their pets since the late 1800s. Animals have always been part of a human's everyday life, whether worshiped, hunted for food or used as a means of transportation or labor. Over the years, this relationship has evolved into one of companionship. Highlighting photographers such as Morton B. Paine, Franklin Frost Sams, and Chansonetta Stanley Emmons, this photographic exhibition will put on view how Charlestonians spent their time in the company of animals. Ongoing - "Becoming Americans: Unarieston in the Revolutionary War". Charleston played a critical role in the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the wealthiest of the thirteen rebellious colonies and Charleston was its key port to maintain its trade with the outside world. The British would make three attempts against the city during the Revolutionary War. Their defeat at the Battle of Sullivan's Island on June 28, 1776 was a crucial patriot victory, which convinced many that independence could be achieved. The Siege of Charleston, meanwhile, was the longest siege of the Revolutionary War and the largest battle in South Carolina. These events and others are chronicled in the new exhibit, which will also features artifacts and period images that have not been exhibited at the Museum before. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses. the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun, 11am-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charlestonmuseum.org).

Emery A. Gunnin Architecture Library, Clemson University, 2-112 Lee Hall, Fernow Drive, Clemson. Through Sept. 18 - "Contemplation Series," presenting a solo exhibition of new works featuring Clemson Master of Fine Arts Candidate, Denise Wellbrock. With a concentration in drawing, Wellbrock presents her "Contemplation Series", depicting the human experience through body language and expression. Thoughtful reflection by the subject and observation by the artist provide glimpses of the human experience that is often overlooked. For this exhibit color has been subdued leaving versatility, skill and an overall interesting work. Many of the works explore mixed media techniques such as charcoal, watercolor, gesso and graphite. Using the materials in a unique, nontraditional way Wellbrock deconstructs her own observations and bends traditional standards of shape, line and supposition. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 7:30am-4:30pm. Contact: 864/656-3933.

Madren Conference Center, Clemson University, Clemson. Ongoing - Featuring wood and steel bird carvings by Grainger McKoy. Hours: regular building hours. Contact: Peter Kent at 864/656-0382 or e-mail at (peter.kent@clemsonews.clemson.edu).

Closed University Holidays and Home Football Game Saturdays. Contact: 864/656-3405 or at (www.clemson.edu/ scbg/).

Columbia Area

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Through Sept. 1 - "Latinidad: Latin American Art from the Collection". THe exhibition is drawn from the collection, features 20 rarely seen gems from the collection made between the 1950s and early 1990s by artists born in Chile. Cuba, Mexico, and Puerto Rico, including Roberto Matta, René Portocarrero, Ruffino Tamayo, and David Alfaro Siqueiros. With styles and influences on view including Mexican folk art and Surrealism, the installation also showcases a complete 1953 portfolio by important print collective Centro de Arte Puertorriqueño (Center for Puerto Rican Art) and contemporary photography by Jorge Otero. Through Sept. 8 - "Wow Pop Bliss: Jimmy Kuehnle's Inflatable Art". Kuehnle is a performance and sculpturebased artist who creates large-scale, high-tech inflatables that expand our notions of abstract art. For this exhibition, Kuehnle is filling four galleries with touchable, interactive environments using inflatables that combine sound, light, space, and texture to create unexpected experiences for visitors as they move under, through, and around these works. Kuehnle is also creating a bright pink inflatable sculpture that will project dramatically out of the CMA façade's architectural grid overlooking Boyd Plaza, literally spilling out into the city as a calling card to the wonder inside. Supported by The Contemporaries of the Columbia Museum of Art. Through Sept. 8 - "Mimi Kato: Ordinary Sagas". Kato draws on the rich history and visual traditions of Japanese culture as well as the absurd everyday elements of contemporary life and merges them in imaginary landscapes. In her lengthy artistic process, Kato photographs herself as a range of costumed characters - from everyday Japanese citizens to fantastical creatures in the forest - and embeds these images into large photomontages. Her work is narratively complex and darkly humorous. Supported by Susan Thorpe and John Baynes. Sept. 6 - Dec. 29 - "Maryanna Williams: New Work". Williams' imagery creates a dialogue between simple forms and intricate patterns. In her prints she has explored moths, jellyfish, and even Italian Renaissance portraits, each subject chosen for its inherent beauty, delicate patterning, and vibrant hues. Close up and filling the picture plane, her subjects shift between realism and abstraction, at times dissolving into facets of color and marks vibrating across surfaces. Williams' work is not about scientific illustration or realism, but about transforming subjects from nature and art into images that express her deep passion for the intense beauty that she sees in the world. Through Jan. 1, 2020 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

The exhibit explores the significance of our state's rivers on culture, industry and landscape, as well as the ways in which they have inspired artists in the state. Items on display include 16th century engravings, Catawba pottery, contemporary paintings and photographs. The exhibition features works by renowned artists such as William Halsey and Anna Heyward Taylor, plus a few pieces that have never been on display and several new acquisitions, including a 19th century oil landscape by painter Charles Fraser from Charleston. Ongoing - "ART: A Collection of Collections." The SC State Museum is home to over 4,000 works of art, hand-made objects and various collections within its collection. Many of these pieces have never been on display in the museum. ART: A Collection of Collections will highlight some of these one-of-a-kind collections within the museum's entire collection. Guests will get to explore works of fine, folk and decorative art made by South Carolina artists that are being grouped into collections within the exhibit based on medium, subject or artist. This exhibit will showcase rarely seen artwork by South Carolina artists, enhanced by the fascinating stories of their inception and why they belong with other works of art to give us a new look at South Carolina and its visual culture. Florence

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Special Exhibits Gallery, Through Sept. 22 -"Manning Williams". Charleston native artist Manning Williams (1939 - 2012) began his career as a realist artist. However, in the 1990s, his art took an extraordinary turn as Williams began to incorporate comic book imagery into large, abstract expressionist compositions. This synthesis often utilized a recurrent vocabulary of shapes and symbols to create an elusive narrative exploring personal, historical and political themes. Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Additionally, the Community Gallery communicates the lives, stories and accomplishments of significant past and present citizens of Florence County and mempers of it's communities. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Pee Dee History Gallery, Ongoing - This is the largest gallery space in the facility, comprising 3,300 sq. ft. of exhibit space. This permanent collections gallery occupies the entire second floor. east wing of the building. Artifacts are supported by historical images and narrative interpretation, giving a comprehensive introduction to the Pee Dee region from prehistory to the present. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Waters Gallery, Through Dec. 13 - "Out of Paradise," featuring works by Jim Boden. The exhibition will be composed of works created by Boden during the last ten years. Boden is Professor Emeritus at Coker University, Hartsville, SC, where he taught from 1999 to 2016. Boden's lush and darkly toned paintings are figurative in more ways than one, frequently using the human body as a means of expressing personal and cultural tensions. The exhibition's title is taken from the artist's most recent series, which depict modern man and woman in an ambiquous, sometimes surrealistic landscape, evoking biblical references to Adam and Eve's exit from Eden. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat.,

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Sept. 3 - Nov. 3 - "Linda Fantuzzo: Penumbra," featuring works by painter Linda Fantuzzo. The artist is known for capturing the mysterious qualities of light on canvas and has utilized this throughout her tive. For many years Fantuzzo has been active in the Charleston, SC, arts community and has a distinguished exhibition record, as well as work included in numerous public, private and corporate collections throughout the country. The landscape and interior paintings and drawings in this exhibition are rendered with a quiet, abstracted simplicity, while the inclusion of stairs, ladders, windows and doors suggest an unseen yet palpable human presence. The title "Penumbra" is a term referencing light's transitions - it is the partially shaded area of the shadow cast by an object. Through Sept. 8 - "Masterclass: Watermedia from the Greenville Collection," featuring a category of painting mediums that are water soluble, watermedia includes watercolor, gouache, ink, acrylic, casein, and tempera. Through Sept. 15 - "Andrew Wyeth: Model Citizens". Wyeth's subjects focused on two locations: Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, his birthplace, and Cushing, Maine, his second home since childhood. Drawing inspiration from the distinctive characteristics of these locations, he revealed universal attributes in his depictions of landscapes, objects, and people. This selection from the Museum's collection emphasizes Wyeth's preference for painting intimate subjects, including his family, his friends, and his favorite models. He once said, "I am an illustrator of my own life." Through Sept. 15 - "Persons of Interest". An exhibition of fifteen new additions to the Museum's Southern Collection, featuring figurative subjects from three centuries, "Persons of Interest" depicts some of the South's most intriguing subjects, including politicians, socialites, immigrants, and allegorical figures. Through Sept. 15 -"Arnold Mesches: How Does Your Garden Grow?" Born in the Bronx, Arnold Mesches (1923-2016) grew up in Buffalo, New York, and in 1943 moved to Los Angeles, where he accepted a scholarship to the Art Center School. In 1945, the artist came under FBI scrutiny as a suspected subversive communist for his participation in labor-related protests. The FBI maintained an open file on Mesches until 1972, after which he gained possession of the file's contents. He then created a provocative series of collages using the material the file contained. Ongoing - "Anna Heyward Taylor: GCMA Collection". Born in Columbia, artist Anna Heyward Taylor (1879-1956) was at the forefront of the Charleston Renaissance at the turn of the 20th century. She graduated from the SC College for Women, and later studied in Holland with William Merritt Chase. In 1916, and again in 1920, she traveled to British Guiana as a scientific illustrator drawing native plant life. She returned to South Carolina in 1929 and settled in Charleston, where she collaborated with Chalmers Murray on "This Our Land," a book of prints inspired by the crops--indigo, rice, cotton, tobacco--and natural life--birds and flowers--of the Lowcountry. Ongoing - "Art and Artists of South Carolina: David Drake, Jasper Johns, William H. Johnson, and Grainger McKoy". The contributions of South Carolina artists to our culture are as varied and rich as the stories of the artists themselves. The GCMA is proud to dedicate an entire gallery to the accomplishments of four of the nation's greatest artists, each of whom has called South Carolina home. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcma.org).

Metropolitan Arts Council Gallery, 16
Augusta Street, Greenville. Through Sept.
6 - "States of Change: Phillip Livingston". "My art explores the relationship of nature, civilization, and the constant state of change. "I find much inspiration in the organic, unplanned textures and designs that emerge in the urban environment, says Livingston. "Surfaces that have been stained or worn away over time by weather and continuous actions of daily life, merging both natural and human-made elements together with multiple time periods, representing the world in constant flux. With this serving as the foundation of my approach, I then like to challenge the viewer with unexpected compositions, like mixing elements that don't normally go together to suggest new ways of looking at things - such as drifting fluidity contrasted with hard edge precision, or motion with abrupt stops. The end result is a careful arrangement of various shapes and textures intended to create a harmony of contrasting elements." Sept. 13 - Oct. 20 - "Continuum," an exhibition featuring MAC member artists who have been recipients of the South Carolina Arts Commission (SCAC) Visual Arts Fellowship. These local artists were recently honored at the SCAC 50th Anniversary Celebration of the SCAC in Columbia. ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Greenville Centre Stage Theatre Gallery, 501 River Street, Greenville. Through Sept. 6 - "Celebrations of Nature," featuring works by Lu Wixon. "There is so much beauty in our local landscape," said Wixon. "The outdoors inspires me and I enjoy the colors and shapes around me. paint on wood because I enjoy the organic feel the surface evokes. Line, shape, color, and negative space are the tools I use to portray my feelings of the joy and beauty of the world. My current subjects include landscapes and figures interacting with carious aspects of nature." Sept. 13 - Nov. 15 - "Mixed Signals," featuring works by Dana Jones. A reception will be held on Sept. 13, from 6:30-9pm. Facinated by the idea that color and shape can be language, my work often uses signal flags, or semaphores, as a point of departure. Pushing beyond their parameters of primary color, simple shape, and succinct communications, I extend the syntax of semaphores to explore the idea that color and shape themselves can form a language of storytelling and navigation. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 2-6pm & 2 hr. prior to shows. Contact: MAC at 864/467-3132 or at (www.greenvillearts.com).

Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center for the Arts, Wofford College, Spartanburg. Lower Level, Richardson Family Art Museum, Sept. 3 - Dec. 14 - "Props: Personal Identities in the Portrait Photography," featuring works by Richard Samuel Roberts. The term "props" brings to mind the objects used in the theater that help establish the meaning of a scene. In this theater context, the word is shortened from "properties," things collectively owned by a theater group. But could the term also reflect the notion that props show "properties" of a character, offering layers of information and meaning to a viewer? "Props" is also a slang term, meaning "proper respect." This show analyzes props in photographic portraits taken by Richard Samuel Roberts between 1920 and 1936 to see the way that the "props" - most often objects chosen by the sitters themselves - tell us something about the self-identity of the sitters. The objects chosen often underscore the proper respect due the sitters based on their attainments, but also can give insights - in an otherwise very formulaic genre - into the inner desires and predilections of the sitters. "Props" thus can help us see beyond the surface, or, perhaps conversely, can reify socially-agreed upon tropes. Upper Lever, Richardson Family Art Museum, Sept. 3 - Dec. 14 - "Southern Gothic: Intersections of Art and Literature in the Johnson Collection". Curator's Talk will be offered on Oct. 17, at 7pm, by Elizabeth Driscoll Smith. From the unsettling novels of William Faulkner to the gritty short stories of Flannery O'Connor, the Southern Gothic literary tradition has exhumed the American South's aberrations, contradictions, otherworldly landscapes and unique sense of dark humor. Drawing exclusively from the Johnson Collection. "Southern Gothic" examines how 19th- and 20th-century artists borrowed from their literary peers, using a potent visual language to address the tensions between the South's idyllic visions and its historical realities. The exhibition is guest curated by Elizabeth Driscoll Smith, a Ph.D. candidate in the history of art at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and the Johnson Collection's 2019 graduate fellow. Richardson Family Art Gallery, Sept. 10 - Oct. 12 - "Otherness2: Hiding in Plain Sight," featuring works by Lee Ann Harrison-Houser. This exhibit explores the outsider's perspectives and the impact of "othering." During the creative process, Lee Ann Harrison-Houser pursues authenticity and begins to reveal untold stories in her work. However, she instinctively hides within the mark-making with her use of symbolism, graffito and abstraction. Layer after layer of gesso and paint erase her disclosures. Subsequently, the art installation shares these stories only in a type of hide-and-seek game for the viewer. For deeper connections, the viewer physically moves to a separate space to match the conceptual titles back to the abstract squares. Through this physical movement and mindfulness, the storyteller role shifts away from the artist and moves to the viewer to create awareness, conversation and the momentum for change. An Artist's Talk with

Work by Jeff Schaller

UPSTATE Gallery on Main, 172 E. Main Street, Spartanburg. Sept. 3 - Nov. 2 - "POP," featuring recent paintings in encaustic by Jeff Schaller. An artist reception will be held on Sept. 19, from 5-8pm, during Spartanburg ArtWalk. Effervescent and playful, Jeff Schaller's works celebrate both the sensuality of paint and our collective memory. Drawing upon references from popular culture and reflective of our contemporary, media-saturated, symbol-laden social environment, Schaller counterpoints our current "pop" sensibility with the use of the ancient, time-honored medium of encaustic painting. Ongoing - The gallery is dedicated to contemporary and original exhibitions that include selections from the permanent collection by artists Andy Warhol, Jerry Uelsmann and Beatrice Riese. Hours: Tue.-Sat., noon-5pm or by appt. Contact: Jane Allen Nodine, director by e-mail at (Jnodine@uscupstate.edu), call 864/503-5838, or Mark Flowers, exhibits coordinator by e-mail at (Mflowers@uscupstate.edu), or call 864/503-5848

WNC Agricultural Center, 765 Boylston Hwy., Fletcher. Davis Event Center, Sept. 27 - 29, 2019 - "37th Annual Asheville Quilt Show". This year's Asheville Quilt Show features Georgia Bonesteel's 50th Year of Lap Quilting, a local quilter who made it on the national stage back in 1978 when her Public TV show first broadcast. It ran for twelve seasons over 25 years and she became a notable figure in the quilting world. She

Work by Linda Roy, 2019 Best of Show will speak at the Show, have a Special Exhibit, and sign copies of her books. Her most recent book is Scrap Happy Quilts by Georgia Bonesteel, a memoir of her life in quilts, and it includes new projects and patterns for quilters of all levels. Other exhibits include the work of the Shady Ladies Quilting Group from Waynesville and another from the East Ender Bee, which is part of the Asheville Quilt Guild. These are in addition to more than 350 quilts made by quilters from across the country that will be on display, most in competition for the $10,000 in prize money! In addition to inspiring quilts, there are shopping opportunities as well, with 25 vendors who cater to the quilter as well as non-quilters, plus a Guild Gift Shop, a Silent Auction and quilts for sale. To help keep attendees' strength up, there is food available onsite. Sponsored by the Asheville Quilt Guild, and Moda Fabrics, a proud sponsor for many years. The show runs Friday and Saturday from 9am to 5pm, and Sunday 10am to 4:30pm. Admission is $7, with a discount for groups of ten or more. Children 12 and under are free. Blowing Rock

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown Blowing Rock. Through Nov. 30 - "Modern Visions, Modern Art: The Cone Sisters in North Carolina," presented to the community by Wells Fargo. The exhibition presents a compelling selection of works on paper, paintings, and sculptures by artists in the collection who drew the admiration and attention of Claribel and Etta Cone: Henri Matisse, Sarah Stein, Jacques Villon, Marie Laurencin, Ben Silbert, John Graham, Everett Bryant, Rembrandt van Rijn, Gertraud Brausewetter, Ilse Breit, Teresa Denny, and Bernice Oehler. These works portray bodies in motion, women engaged in acts of self-expression, moments of daily life, and pastoral views of both real and imagined landscapes. Through Nov. 30 - "Modern Visions, Mountain Views: The Cones of Flat Top Manor". While the art collection of Dr. Claribel and Etta Cone is cherished by art historians and museumgoers alike, it would not have been possible without the financial support of their brothers' thriving textile business in North Carolina. The exhibit takes the story of the Cone family to the Blowing Rock estate built by Claribel and Etta's eldest brother, North Carolina's "Denim King," Moses H. Cone and his wife, Bertha Lindau Cone. Through Oct. 27 - "Southern Strands: North Carolina Fiber Art". Textiles and fibers have a strong place within craft heritage and history in North Carolina. Women's history is also deeply rooted in fibers and textiles, which offers another branch to these craft heritage stories that deserve recognition and appreciation. The western region of North Carolina is key to this story, given the histories and contributions of places like Penland School of Crafts, Crossnore School, the John C. Campbell Folk School, and others. This display of work by contemporary fiber and textile artists working across the state of North Carolina seeks to highlight and encourage appreciation for the cultural history and heritage of this craft. Ongoing - the BRAHM will host exhibits, educational programs and classes that promote the visual arts, history and heritage of the mountains of western North Carolina. Admission: Yes. Hours:

Work by Michelle Van Parys

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Main Gallery, Through Dec. 7 - "Let the Circle be Unbroken: The Shared Vision of Gretchen and Steve Lotz". Gretchen and Steve Lotz continue to inspire, challenge, and find mystery in each other after nearly five decades of an aesthetically inspired partnership. The intertwined worlds they have fashioned find form in the organically entangled artworks they create. Steve's paintings are inspired by the colors of the deep sea-- watery greens, misty blues, rich coral purples and spiny reds. Inspired by a life-long appreciation of Eastern Theosophy, nature and the writings of Carl Jung, his quietly pulsating paintings draw the viewer into a meditative reverie. Gretchen too finds inspiration in the creatures of the waters and the birds of the skies. Her sculptural forms invite stolen caresses inspiring a journey into the secrets of the universe that connect us each to the other. Community Gallery, Through Feb. 8, 2020 - "1, 2, 3, 4, 5...... A site-specific installation by Jodi Woodward". Australian artist, Jodi Woodward's site-specific installation in the Community gallery consists of four related elements: a larger than life-sized self-portrait of the artist, an artist's book, meticulously hand-drawn crossed hatching directly on the walls and a quote by the poet and play write Samuel Beckett. The artist asks viewers to reflect on how they (we) choose to spend the time we are given in our lives. She repeatedly asks: "Do we just tick over the days or do we actively reflect on what we do and why we do it? Do we just repeat the same behaviors over and over or do we choose to change what we do, or behave differently? I'm very interested in behavior, psychology, memory, and trauma and how that impacts our behavior." Mezzanine Gallery, Through Feb. 8, 2020 - "Beyond the Plantations: Images of the New South. Photographs by Michelle Van Parys". Images of the Old South are often sanitized views of a perfect and prosperous plantation life yet ignore the conflict, conquest, and transformation that is manifested in the changing landscape. The photographs from Beyond the Plantations: Images of the New South present the contemporary southern landscape in all of its rich complexity. Van Parys was born in Arlington, VA. She is a Professor at the College of Charleston in the Studio Art Department where she started the photography program in 1996. Michelle received her BFA from the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, DC, and her MFA in Photography from Virginia Commonwealth University. Mayer Gallery, Sept. 6 - Feb. 1, 2020 - "Metaphorical Reality: Keith Bryant". A reception will be held on Oct. 4, from 6-10pm. Keith Bryant creates work from a place that exists beyond the confines of language yet enhances the realm of understanding riddles in life, connection and independence. Working in wood, metals and ceramics, his forms employ abstraction and metaphor. Bryant's sculptures address ideas of loneliness, isolation, architecture and landscape. Gallery B, Through Dec. 7 - "Refugee: Bill Brown". According to the Global Citizen there are an estimated 25.4 million refugees worldwide and that number is growing. The UN Refugee Agency reports that of that number, over 52% are children. Regionally beloved artist and philanthropist, Bill Brown wanted to do something to help relieve this international crisis. The sculptor turned to what he knows best-creating his Refugee Series. Each freestanding metal piece in the series begins with a figurative form perched on a platform that metaphorically references the refugee journey: a rocking boat, an isolated rooftop, a beloved homeland. Brown's hope is that his work will encourage active and engaged solutions; to that end, he donates a percentage of each sale from the series to organizations that directly address the international refugee crisis: Proactiva Open Arms, the American Refugee Committee, and the International Rescue Committee. Gallery A, Through Dec. 7 - "My Place or Yours? Cara Hagan," Guest Curator. "My Place, or Yours?" is an exploration into the politics and practice of collaborative work. The artists in this exhibition have all arrived here with the goal of making work together, from a distance. More specifically, the majority of the participants here have embarked on a journey through the philosophy and practice of "Artistic Surrogacy." Hours: 10am-6pm, Tue., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri.,noon -8pm. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www. turchincenter.org).

Fahamu Pecou, "Egun Dance 1", 2016, graphite and acrylic on paper, framed with cowries, 60 x 48 in.

The Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History, UNC-Chapel Hill, 150 South Road, Chapel Hill. Robert and Sallie Brown Gallery, Sept. 19 - Nov. 21 - "Fahamu Pecou's DO or DIE: Affect, Ritual, Resistance". A reception will be held on Sept. 19, from 7-8:30pm. Pecou is an Atlanta-based visual artist and scholar whose works combine observations on hip-hop, fine art and popular culture. Pecou is profoundly involved in exploring the state of Black existence – life and death – in his work. In the midst of the endemic and pervasive threat of violence that is often a fact of life for young black men the artist asks, "Under looming threat of death, how might we inspire life? Through what mechanisms could we resist the psychological violence and despair inspired by the threat of violence and usher in hope?" Or how might art serve as a "space of resistance?" "DO or DIE: Affect, Ritual, Resistance" serves as one artist's action in opposition to these overwhelming societal forces, seeking instead to elevate and re-contextualize Black life and death. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-8pm. Contact: 919/962-9001 or at (http://sonjahaynesstonectr.unc.edu/).

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Cen- | collegeartgalleries.org). ter for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Fourth-Floor Gallery, Through Dec. 1 - "Nomadic Murals: Tapestries of the Modern Era," an exploration and presentation of more than 40 tapestries created by artists usually associated with painting, sculpture, and architecture, including Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Joan Miró, and Pablo Picasso among many others. Nomadic Murals will highlight the museum's collection of tapestries from the mid-20th century, as well as shed light on a unique medium that has been important to many great Modern and contemporary artists. This will be the first time that the museum's entire tapestries collection will be on view. The tapestries will be hung alongside the artists' work in more familiar media to demonstrate both the stylistic consistency and the unique contributions textile production brought to their oeuvre. The title of the exhibition stems from Le Corbusier's essay "Tapestries: Nomadic Murals." Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.

"Shift" explores the idea of assigning value to the invaluable. Unifying found, recycled, and uncommon objects, Bloom, Foshag, and Lewis use these materials to create their art. All three artists work in various types of media, constructing their creations out of chaos. Each one strives to find beauty in the dramatic shifts of life through deconstruction, rebirth, and growth. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-2pm. Contact: 704/330-6211.

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Oct. 13 - "A Woman's Work: Selections from the John and Vivian Hewitt Collection of African American Art." The exhibition encompasses a multitude of women and their many roles, identities and experiences. It places the focus of attention on the black woman - as the center of family, as a sister, worker and the epitome of womanhood. Interlaced with unwavering love, kinship and perseverance, the works on display combine vivid imagery, light sketches, intricate patterns and a sense of reality and wonder. For over a 50-year period, John and Vivian Hewitt visited galleries, artists' studios and exhibitions, collecting hundreds of paintings, etchings and sketches. The John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art is an assemblage of fifty-eight two-dimensional works celebrating the expression and passion of twenty artists, including Charlotte-born Romare Bearden and other master artists, Margaret Burroughs, Jonathan Green, Jacob Lawrence, Elizabeth Catlett, Ann Tanksley and Henry Ossawa Tanner Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. McColl Center for Art + Innovation, 721 North Tryon Street, Charlotte. First-floor Gallery, Sept. 12 - Nov. 16 - "New Works / Alumni Four," is the fourth in a series of exhibitions featuring distinguished McColl Center alumni artists. Zoë Charlton (2017), Lori Larusso (2010), and Izel Vargas (2008) employ the iconography of home to explore the complex relationships between domestic space, personal memory, cultural identity, and "the American Dream." There, distorted architectures and displaced dwellings give way to fantastical milieus haunted by the stories of their current and former inhabitants. Their works embody a collective tension, acting as both an homage to and a critique of what makes a house a home. "New Works / Alumni Four" is curated for McColl Center for Art + Innovation by visiting curator Laura Ritchie. Hours: Thur.-Fri., 3-9pm & Sat., 11am-6pm. Contact: 704/332-5535 or at (www.mccollcenter.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recentlygifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing

- "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery -Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Work by Tony DiTerlizzi

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Sept. 21 -Apr. 26, 2020 - "Immersed In Light: Studio Drift," founded by Dutch artists Ralph Nauta (b.1978) and Lonneke Gordijn (b.1980), creates breathtaking sculptures that explore the relationship between humanity, nature and technology. They established their studio in 2007, after graduating from the prestigious Design Academy Eindhoven. Their philosophy is based on creating a dialogue between opposites, exploring the relationship between nature, technology, and mankind. The studio's work comes to life via ongoing collaborations with scientists, university research facilities, computer programmers, and engineers. Through Nov. 3 - "Never Abandon Imagination: The Fantastical Art of Tony DiTerlizzi". Tony DiTerlizzi's award-winning and best-selling books such as "The Spiderwick Chronicles", "The Spider and the Fly", "Kenny and the Dragon", "The Search for WondLa", and "The Story of Diva and Flea" have inspired a new generation of young readers. This exhibition showcases nearly 100 original works, featuring illustrations from "Dungeons and Dragons", "Magic: The Gathering", and his many fantasy and children's books. Exhibition organized by the Norman Rockwell Museum in Stockbridge, Massachusetts. Ongoing - "El Tajín: Photographs and Drawings by Michael Kampen". El Tajín is a UNESCO World Heritage archeological site located in northern Veracruz, Mexico, one of the largest and most important cities of classical era Mesoamerica. It is home to hundreds of carved sculptures which have deteriorated over time due to acid rain and wind erosion. Drawings created by Dr. Michael Kampen, now a retired professor emeritus of art history, are the best representations in existence of the site sculptures at El Tajín. Ongoing -The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Now Fri. till 9pm. Contact: /04/33/-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Projective Eye Gallery, UNC-Charlotte Center City Building, 320 E. 9th Street, Uptown Charlotte. Through Oct. 1 - "Noelle Mason: X-Ray Vision vs Invisibility". A reception will be held on Sept. 20, from 6-8:30pm. The exhibit offers a body of work about the phenomenological effects of vision technologies on the social perception of undocumented immigrants. This project reforms images from US Border Patrol into hand-made objects - cyanotypes, hand-woven tapestry rugs, and embroidered cotton – to expose how technologies such as backscatter, x-ray, sonic, thermal, and digital imaging recycle Cartesian modes of viewing that reinforce a neocolonial social and political relationship with Mexico. Hours: Mon.-Sun., 9am-9pm. Contact: Crista Cammaroto, Director of Galleries at 704/687-0833 or 704/687-2397.

Rowe Arts Galleries, Rowe Arts Building, UNC-Charlotte, Charlotte. Through Sept. 20 - "Black River," featuring works by Charles Edward Williams. A reception will be held on Sept. 12, from 5-7:30pm. The exhibition presents deeply personal works by artist Charles Edward Williams, including paintings, photographs, ready-mades, and videos, that chronicle familial strains, spiritual rebirth, and personal struggle. At the age of 15, Williams witnessed his father's spiritual transformation. This conversion, which ultimately landed his father behind the pulpit, also caused Williams to reevaluate his past relationship with his father and its impact on his own spiritual journey. With "Black River", Williams seeks to reveal his own history through metaphorical narratives and modern parables that collectively reference a profound act of forgiveness shared between father and son. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-4pm. Contact: 704/547-3315.

Storrs Gallery, Storrs Hall, 100, 9201 University City Blvd.. UNC Charlotte Main Campus, Charlotte. Through Sept. 20 - "Micah Cash: Waffle House Vistas". The exhibit focuses on the built environment as seen through the windows of Waffle House restaurants across the southeastern United States. The images contemplate the surrounding architecture of habitat and commerce through the lens of a southern cultural icon. These photographs ask viewers to look up from their hash browns and acknowledge the institutions and structures that create real, yet rarely acknowledged boundaries that feel impossible to break through for many in this country. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: 704/687-2397.

Work by Patricia Voulgaris

The Light Factory, 1817 Central Avenue, Charlotte. Through Oct. 11 - "n e w f l e s h". There's a boom of interest in gender, identity, queerness, and the study of these subjects. It's often exemplified by a kind of idealized sexuality. The work of "n e w f l e s h", an exhibition and book curated by Efrem Zelony-Mindell, refuses to view a person as disparate or specific to parts or expectations. Behind the flesh, there is more than a man or a woman. There's a person - a human - full of so many parts, feelings, and ideas. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-6pm or by request. Contact: 704/333-9755 or at (www. lightfactory.org).

The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Modern Gallery, Through Dec. 1 - "Circa 1960". The period around 1960 was one of great artistic evolution in the United States. The long-standing influence exerted by Abstract Expressionism, a gestural type of painting and sculpture that emerged after World War II, was dwindling. Artists coming of age at this time perceived the style as mannered and academic and sought to distance themselves from its pervasive legacy. This resulted in a gradual shift in artistic approaches and philosophical attitudes. The works in this installation demonstrate both the lingering hallmarks of Abstract Expressionism and the precursors to these new artistic directions. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.- Sat., 10am-5-pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. Gallery 6, Through Sept. 29 - "Interwoven: Natural and Illusory Textiles". The textile industry put Greensboro on the map. In fact, one of its most productive mills, Cone Mills, was a world leader in the manufacturing of corduroy, flannel, denim, and other cotton fabrics for most of the 20th century. In homage to this legacy, the museum will showcase works of art by artists who either incorporate fabric as an artmaking tool or suggest its physical characteristics. The Gregory D. Ivy Gallery, The Weatherspoon Guild Gallery, Through Oct. 20 - "Here We Are: Painting and Sculpting the Human Form". Countless visual artists likewise have explored and affirmed the charged power of the human form. With works from the Weatherspoon's collection of modern and contemporary art, this installation considers the myriad ways in which they have done so. Some have presented their own bodies in self-portraits that address how we shape and construct our identities. Others have depicted celebrity figures, highlighting the social contexts in which certain individuals achieve acclaim or notoriety. Still, others have offered up fragments of unnamed bodies that speak to vulnerability and loss. A Noon @ the 'Spoon Public Tour will be offered on Apr 9 @ 12-12:20pm. The Leah Louise B. Tannenbaum Gallery, and The Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Gallery, Through Sept. 15 - "2019 UNCG Faculty Biennial". Work by Jeff Cline

The resulting artwork will be loaned to Corning Optical Communications for display at their new corporate headquarters in Charlotte, NC. This project explores important STEAM topics including problem-framing, observation, prototyping, and concept evaluation. Collaborating within the walls of HMA, a gallery space will be transformed into a lab and the entire process will be documented by a media company creating a living curriculum, which can be released in installments across the Museum's digital channels. These resources will also be supplemented by the development of classroom materials and professional development curricula for area educators. Shuford, and local HMA Galleries, Through Dec. 8 - "THE art of adventure: photographs and artwork from the world travels of jeff cline". Take a trip around the globe without leaving Catawba County. A dynamic individual with a passion for art, this exhibition will be the first to showcase Jeff's keen eye behind the lens, which he honed for many years as a member of the Catawba Valley Camera Club, as well as the objects, artifacts, and art that he collected through a lifetime of travel. Audiences will have the chance to journey to far-reaching and hard to access places such as Chernobyl, Timbuktu, Papua New Guinea, and the now forbidden North Korea. The exhibition will be designed as an immersive interactive experience combining photographs, artifacts, and recreations of global destinations. Whitener Gallery, Through Jan. 26, 2020 - "Shopping The Met's Collection". In 1956, the Metropolitan Museum of Art auctioned selections from their permanent collection at Parke-Bernet Galleries in New York City. Long-time museum advisor Wilford S. Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Thomas E. Cabaniss Gallery at the Historic Residence, Through Jan. 26, 2020 - "Exotic Creatures of Beauvais Lyons". A reception will be held on July 18, beginning at 6pm. Evolution. Differentiation. The wondrous variety of individual creatures, each differing from the others. Many scientists, thinkers, and theorists have put forth their ideas of how the multitude of all living creatures came into being. The exhibit features factitious historical and scientific parodies by Dr. Beauvais Lyons, Director of the Hokes Archives and art professor at the University of Tennessee. Part archaeologist, part scientist, part satirist, part artistic visionary, Lyons, on behalf of the Association for Creative Zoology, presents evidence that exotica throughout the animal world is merely a representation of the creative presence in all things. Black-Sanderson Gallery, Through Sept. 8 - "Southern Surreal-Masterpiece Furniture by Tilden Stone". When a screw is twisted on what looks like a "Hoosier"style cabinet—complete with bins for flour and corn meal—it parts down the middle, the sides fold back, and a working piano comes into view. Then a bit of ornamentation above twists aside to reveal a secret drawer-and then it in turn twists aside in an unexpected direction to lead to yet another a concealed compartment. Many of the fantastic creations of Tilden J. Stone, a heretofore little-known grand eccentric and master furniture maker born in 1874 in Thomasville, NC, feature unusual compartments and false fronts, trompe I-oeil virtuosity, and bizarrely real and surreal shapes incorporated into the actual structure of the pieces. Ongoing - Following its grand reopening on Aug. 26, 2017, one of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (https://gregg.arts.ncsu.

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Through Dec. 31, 2020 -"John James Audubon's The Birds of America". Today only about 200 complete sets of "The Birds of America" exist. The Museum's set, bound in four leather portfolios, was acquired by the State of North Carolina in 1848 and kept for more than a century at the State Library before being transferred to the Museum. The hand-colored engravings were recently conserved and rebound. In the new Audubon Gallery, the NCMA presents Audubon's work in special cases designed for each of the enormous "double elephant" volumes, with hydraulic lifts that allow staff access so that the pages can be turned periodically to display a new selection of birds. East Building, Level B, Through Sept. 15 - "The Audubon Experience". This temporary presentation is adjacent to the newly installed Audubon Gallery, where visitors can view four large Audubon folios from "The Birds of America and learn about the naturalist's life and artistic process. African Art Gallery, East Building, Level A, Ongoing - Featuring African creativity spanning 16 centuries. The new gallery will be three times as large as the old West Building gallery, allowing the Museum to display nearly twice as many works - including some that have not been on view in a decade. and others that are newly acquired and have never before been on display. The new gallery will feature improved light control so that lightsensitive works of art, such as textiles and works on paper, can be given more visibility, shown in curated rotations. The gallery will include a designated space to highlight North Carolina collections of African art from private collectors and public institutions, beginning with work from Bennett College. It will also incorporate African and African Diasporic modern and contemporary art, including a site-specific wall drawing by Nigerian-American artist Victor Ekpuk. East Building, Photography Gallery 1 (Julian T. Baker Jr. Gallery) and 2 (Allen G. Thomas Jr. Gallery), Through Oct. 6 - "The Collector's Eye". North Carolina abounds with passionate collectors of things: cars, furniture, glass, posters, historical documents, paintings, drawings, and photographs. Collectors of any type should be celebrated. They bring together the bits and pieces of our culture and give them coherence and meaning. These related exhibitions focus on two private North Carolina collections of American photography from its early decades, when image making seemed more magic than science, but never less than art. "The Collector's Eye: Early photographs of African Americans from the Dennis O. Williams Collection". The collection of Mr. Williams features compelling portraits of African Americans from the last half of the 19th century, a period of dramatic change in the roles of African Americans in society. As a collector, Williams focuses his attention on images of African Americans who were slaves or who might have been slaves. "The Collector's Eye: Early American photography from the Dr. Paul Lafavore Collection". Lafavore's collection focuses on beautifully crafted examples of the daguerreotype, the first commercially successful photographic process. Portraits predominate, many from New England. Unusual are groupings of portraits in period frames. West Building, Through Jan. 5, 2020 - "What in the World Is a Grain Mummy?". While conducting research on the ancient Egyptian collection, NCMA Egyptologist Caroline Rocheleau discovered through analytical observation—and confirmed using medical technologies—that an object in the Museum's collection once thought to be a falcon mummv is. in fact. a drain mummv. The mummy was at one time believed to be a fake because it did not contain bird bones. Rocheleau curated What in the World Is a Grain Mummy? to present this humble bundle and its falcon-shaped coffin for the first time and to unravel the mysteries of the NCMA's only Egyptian mummy. The exhibition focuses on how the scientific method was used to re-establish a questionable item as a genuine Egyptian object. It also delves into the concept of grain mummies; explains their role in ancient Egyptian funerary religion; and discusses the importance of emmer wheat and barley in ancient Egyptians' diet, economy, and religion. The exhibition also explores why the grain mummy was once mistaken for a falcon mummy and compares it to an actual ancient Egyptian falcon mummy. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited

10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Through Mar. 8, 2020 "QuiltSpeak: Uncovering Women's Voices Through Quilts". Historically, women's voices have been silenced by illiteracy, exhaustion, racial oppression, and gender inequity. Men may have written most of the history books, but women expressed themselves too-sometimes through the quilts they made. "Each quilt in the exhibit represents an example of female self-expression, whether consciously or less intentionally, and each has a story to tell," said exhibit curator Diana Bell-Kite. The North Carolina Museum of History will be featuring 40 unique quilts that give a voice to untold stories throughout history. Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Admission: Free. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/807-7900 or at (http://www.ncmuseumofhistory.

Bakersville

In Tandem Gallery, 20 North Mitchell Ave., Bakersville. Through Sept. 15 - "Matt Hyleck". "My ceramic work is defined directly by my love for natural objects. Natural forms and symbols are always finding their way into my work. My current works have evolved from my search for place and the placement of particular objects within a defined landscape environment. The interaction between an objects ability to shape it's environment is what I look to capture through my functional work. I am exploring the ways in which the landscape changes through the seasons; specifically how a field is defined by its location, refined by its designated purpose and constrained by it fenced borders," says Hyleck. Sept. 1 - 30 - "Steven Loucks". "I received my MFA in 1985 from the New York College of Ceramics at Alfred University, Alfred, NY and my BFA in 1983 from the University of Illinois at Champaign/Urbana. I am a studio potter and a retired Professor of Art from Jacksonville State University, Jacksonville, Alabama. I have been awarded an Alabama State Council on the Arts Fellowship in Crafts Grant in 2000 and 2008 and a Southern Arts Federation/National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship in Crafts in 1995. With the help of my wife, Lynnette Hesser, I have hosted the Alabama Clay Conference four times, most recently: February 5-7, 2016. As a member of the National Council on the Education for the Ceramic Arts (NCECA), I have been a Topical Group Discussion Leader several times including "Switching to Cone 6", a "Glaze Doctor", a panel leader and lead panelist at the 2013 Houston, TXNCECA for "Cone 6 Without Compromise" and presenter of "An Easy Way to Adjust Glazes" at the Portland NCECA 2017. I also enjoy conducting workshops. Past workshops include the Odyssey Center of the Arts, Penland School of Crafts, John C. Campbell Folk School, Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts, Mendocino Art Center, The Kiln Studio and Workhouse Art Center," say Loucks.
