Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston Offers Works by French Impressionists

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, is presenting Light Effects: The French Impressionists, on view in Gallery 2 & 3, through Feb. 20, 2022.

The works of French masters Edgar Degas, Paul Cézanne, Auguste Renoir, Paul Gauguin, and others drawn to the short loose brushstrokes, bright colors, and focus on modern life that became the language of Impressionism are highlighted in this exhibition. Featuring artworks from private collections located across the country, including Charleston, this show is part of the Gibbes collectors' exhibition series and is organized with the assistance of The Fine Art Group.

This description of Impressionism was taken from the Tate Museum website at (<https://www.tate.org.uk/>). "Impressionism was developed by Claude Monet and other Paris-based artists from the early 1860s. (Though the process of painting on the spot can be said to have been pioneered in Britain by John Constable in around 1813-17 through his desire to paint nature in a realistic way)."

"Instead of painting in a studio, the impressionists found that they could capture the momentary and transient effects of sunlight by working quickly, in front of their subjects, in the open air (en plein air) rather than in a studio. This resulted in a greater awareness of light and colour and the shifting pattern of the natural scene. Brushwork became rapid and broken into separate dabs in order to render the fleeting quality of light."

"The first group exhibition was in Paris in 1874 and included work by Monet, Auguste Renoir, Edgar Degas and Paul Cezanne. The work shown was greeted

"Le Restaurant Mistral à l'estaque", circa 1870, by Paul Cézanne (French, 1839-1906). Gouache, watercolor and pencil on paper, 9 1/8 by 14 inches. Loan courtesy of a private collector, Private Collection with derision with Monet's Impression, Sunrise particularly singled out for ridicule and giving its name (used by critics as an insult) to the movement. Seven further exhibitions were then held at intervals until 1886."

"Other core artists of impressionism were Camille Pissarro and Berthe Morisot with Edgar Degas and Edouard Manet also often associated with the movement."

This exhibition is made possible by support provided by Lynch Cracraft Wealth Management of Raymond James; UBS; PURE Insurance, The Cuddy Family; Jack Hoey; Hall and Christine McGee, and Judith Green and Dr. Michael Fritz.

The Gibbes Museum of Art is home to the foremost collection of American art that incorporates the story of Charleston. The Museum connects the city and region's artistic past to a vibrant contemporary art scene. This is what we believe.

Give Yourself and Others the Gift of Charleston's Museums in the New Year

During the month of January, 2022, Charleston, SC's distinguished cultural sites will once again come together for Museum Mile Month. Those who purchase a Museum Mile Month pass will be able to enjoy access to thirteen participating sites. Passholders can spend an entire month learning about the city's rich history and culture while visiting sites in the order that best fits their schedule.

Inside the Gibbes Museum of Arts

The unprecedented COVID-19 Pandemic continues to take its toll on museums and other cultural sites, which are reliant on visitor revenues to maintain their operating budgets and accomplish their worthy educational missions. Museum Mile Month is a great way to support the local museum community as all proceeds directly benefit the non-profit organizations that comprise the Museum Mile.

Edmondston-Alston House

Purchase price for tickets is $35 for adults and $10 for children (ages 12 and under). Tickets can be purchased in advance via Charleston's Museum Mile website through Dec. 31, 2021, at (<https://www.charlestonmuseummile.org/ticket-packages/>) making these passes a great holiday gift. During the month of January tickets can only be purchased in person at the Kiawah Island, Mount Pleasant, North Charleston, or Downtown Visitor Centers. Explore and enjoy all that Charleston has to offer with Museum Mile Month and

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

Buy Art for the Holidays - From December 2012

It's my annual plea to call for readers to buy art for the holidays. Many of you have heard it before - many times, but I'm giving it again to remind readers that one of the best ways to help our economy - especially our local economies - is to buy art from local artists, from local galleries, from local art museum gift shops, and other non-profit art organizations. But, make sure the works are made by local artists.

There are many ways you can accomplish this act of giving art. The most direct is buying art at one of the many Holiday art sales taking place this month at arts councils, art groups, and art organizations. Many of these facilities don't show exhibits during the month of December to give local artists an opportunity to have a sales venue. Also, many outdoor art fairs or sales will be taking place.

Buying art in a gallery provides a double hit to the economy, as it helps an artist and helps maintain the main outlet for seeing and buying art in the Carolinas and around the world. Not every community has an art museum.

You can also give someone an art class, an art book or some art supplies or you can make a donation to an arts organization.

There are so many ways to give art for the Holidays - just use your imagination. Why, you could buy an ad in a regional arts newspaper for an artist or art group.

Buying Art - From December 2016

Most art will not need batteries. Most art will not wear out from over-viewing. The recipient will get to enjoy your gift year after year, and year after year they will think about how wonderful a gift you have given them. And, best of all, most art comes with no assembly necessary.

OK, art can be a little pricey as a gift, but just like the economic status of our readers, good art comes in all sizes. For the price conscious, fine art crafts can offer the most bang for the buck. Reproduction prints of original works of art also come in a wide range of prices, but don't forget that fine art prints that have been hand-pulled by the artist and come in smaller editions can be had for about the same price as some reproduction prints. Myself, I'd always rather have an image that only a handful of people share with me vs. thousands, and having an original is even better.

Now, if you're in the category of having to find that special gift for a special person - maybe even yourself, I've got a secret I'm willing to let out of the bag. Some artists and galleries will let you make payments on artworks with a weightier price tag. It doesn't hurt to ask.

For those of you who fit into the category of, "price is no consideration", what better way to make an incredible impression than with a monster piece of art - something that can give the folks at DeBeers a run for their money. Believe me, you will make an impression on the recipient and the artist. You could become an art patron overnight.

No matter what your price range, there is art out there which can fit any taste and any price range. And, you're lucky to be in the Carolinas, as there are plenty of talented artists out there working for you.

And, one last thought - if you can make your special purchase from one of the advertisers found in this publication - it would be a lot better for me and you. After all, they have been paying for this for years. Show them your appreciation.

But, whatever you do - buy local art.

The E-mail You Don't Want To Receive

Last March 16, 2021, I got an e-mail from Patz Fowle, the famous clay artist of the Pee Dee area of SC, about another exhibit of works from students from the Governor's School for Science + Mathematics' (GSSM), their annual Student

"Whimsical Tour" by Patz Fowle
Art Exhibit at the Hartsville Museum in Hartsville, SC. That's not unusual, Fowle kept us well informed about any of the shows of works by GSSM students while she has been an art instructor at the GSSM in Hartsville since 1999.

But what got my attention was a short notice at the end of the e-mail which stated, "BTW, I'm part of the 'C' club again, stage 3 pancreas." There was that "C" word - cancer. That was an instant downer for the day. I've done a dance with the "C" word myself and no one wants a second dance. Being just four years out from hearing that word said to me by a doctor, you don't want your membership in that club renewed. That can't be a good thing. The problem is, once you've had cancer, even if you beat it, you can have it again - chances are that you will have it again. There's also a chance that you won't, which is what I'm hoping will be my case, but the thought is always with you. For Patz Fowle, this was a bad sign.

"Old School Cat" by Patz Fowle
At the end of September this year, I received an invitation to attend the dedication of a newly named visual arts studio and celebration luncheon for The Patz Fowle Visual Arts Studio at the GSSM facility in Hartsville. That raised concerns, but I didn't have the opportunity to attend that event and as usual, I got involved with work and family and seemed to forget about that event. After our launch of the November 2021 issue of Carolina Arts, I started working on our gallery listings and found that invitation in the usual stack of papers that accumulates on my desk. I needed to find some info about The Patz Fowle Visual Arts Studio to include it and did a Google search and found an article about that Oct. 13 dedication event.

"Adventure" by Patz Fowle
I started reading it and after the first paragraph about the event, the second paragraph announced Patz Fowle's passing on the next day Oct. 14. I was stunned. It took a while to get through that article. I was surprised that I hadn't seen any

"Van Gogh" by Patz Fowle
notice or mention of Fowle's passing - anywhere, but the COVID-19 Pandemic has really been a black out for everything else that's going on in the world - big world or small world. So, I've pulled some info together and some photos of works created by Patz and a few of the works that she and her husband Mike Fowle have created together.

"Boot Scoot" by Patz Fowle
When it comes to the Pee Dee area of South Carolina, Patz Fowle is the artist I've had the most contact with through exhibits. And, whenever I've attended any events in the Pee Dee, I usually ran into Patz and Mike. Her work really stands out, for its skill and humor. But her biggest impact during the last 20 years has

"Armor-dillo" by Patz & Mike Fowle
probably come through teaching art to students attending the Governor's School for Science + Mathematics.

Some say exposure to the arts helps with science and math, but many of these gifted science and math students showed a lot of ability for art. I guess it can go both ways.

Patz Fowle and her work will be missed by many.

"Fish" by Patz & Mike Fowle
You can read an article about the dedication of the The Patz Fowle Visual Arts Studio in the Florence Morning News by Ardie Arvidson, which ran on Oct. 20, 2021, at this link (https://senow.com/messenger/news/patz-fowle-honored-for-her-contributions-to-gssm-and-the-arts/article_ba92dae4-304f-11ec-831b-17-efd03a1e5f.html).

You can read her obituary at (https://www.bpafuneralhome.com/obituaries/Patricia-A-Patz-Fowle/?fbclid=IwAR1S63wWosivi9WZa9oUJMXLXAerGF7rdD33vPal-0Q32jCjappOZJKO8#/#/Obituary).

I'm never surprised that I'm the last to hear about some things, but I can't read everything or see everything and get my day job done. And, I hope this is not the first time many in our visual art community are hearing this.

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Faye Sullivan & Susanne Frenzel

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present DUET, a collection of works by featured artists Faye Sullivan and Susanne Frenzel, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Dec. 1 - 31, 2021. A reception will be held on Dec. 3, from 5-8pm.

As Gallery Co-Directors, they also decided to be Co-Featured Artists in December. Sullivan's collection of oil paintings reflect the beauty of the Lowcountry's coast. Frenzel's paintings are abstract using several techniques and media.

Sullivan is a former art instructor and graduate of the University of East Carolina with a BA and Master's Degree in Art. She moved to the Lowcountry from Massachusetts fifteen years ago and was inspired by the beauty that surrounded her and decided her focus as an artist should be seascapes and marsh scenes.

Water seemed all important in both themes, therefore she chose to make water her main concentration. Sullivan states, "Water is the ultimate chameleon - water reflects the clouds, time of day, wind, sky, and all the many things which surround it. It is this reflective quality which is very helpful in repeating colors to unify the scene". Her goal is to create beauty through soft edges and hopefully set a mood of peacefulness and solitude. She believes it is this softness that makes her work easily recognizable.

City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by Rebecca Horne & Andrea Lopez Chen

The City of North Charleston's Cultural Arts Department is pleased to announce that concurrent solo exhibitions of mixed media works by Rebecca Horne (West Columbia, SC) and Andrea Lopez Chen (Portland, OR) will be on display at Park Circle Gallery in North Charleston, SC, from Dec. 1-30, 2021. A reception will be held on Dec. 3, from 5-7pm.

The mixed media works in Rebecca Horne's exhibit, Abstraction Distraction, aim to distract the viewer from the present moment and instead transport them to a space of joy and tranquility. Led by the movement of paint, Horne selects colors and textures to create pieces that evoke emotion and inspire thought. "Creating unique, unpredictable art that intrigues the viewer is my passion," Horne explains. "I have a strong desire to make art that makes people think and feel. I love to hear what people see and how the art captures their imagination."

Horne is a self-taught abstract artist based in West Columbia, SC. Her father was an artist, which influenced her to begin painting as a child and exploring a variety of mediums throughout her artistic career. In 2018, she discovered abstract fluid art and mixed media and has passionately embraced it as the style of art that evokes and liberates her creative spirit. Her work has been exhibited throughout South Carolina and has earned numerous awards.

In her exhibition Dreaming of Home, Andrea Lopez Chen presents a series of Germany and received a BA/MA from the University of Dortmund and a MA from the University of Kaiserslautern in Germany. She worked, lived and traveled through Europe until she moved to the United States in 1990. Living in different parts of the world has significantly influenced her work.

One of Frenzel's passions is experimenting with various techniques, media, and multiple textures. Emotions and imagination merge into striking creations, while generating connections and memories for the viewer. Her award-winning art has been shown nationally and internationally and been juried into local, state and international shows. Frenzel is also a juried-in member of NAWA, the National Association of Women Artists. Besides creating art, she worked for 10 years as a German Professor at The Citadel, The Military College of SC.

Sales made at the gallery support the nonprofit Charleston Artist Guild's community outreach work.

mixed media paintings that depict her nostalgia for the objects and memories of her youth in Colombia, South America. Her colorful and intuitive paintings utilize acrylic paint, collage, stencils, and various textures that draw the viewer into a whimsical story of her past. From her father's vintage Volkswagen, to her grandmother's homemade chicken soup, to items from her grandmother's apartment like her "radiola" (old radio) or typewriter, Chen immortalizes her memories in each layered piece. "They are pieces of my past, clues to my future, and are woven into me as an artist," she says.

Chen is a Colombian born artist, currently living and working in Portland, OR. She is a practicing pediatrician and self-taught artist. These two passions interrelate with each other in a fine and intimate way and find common ground in her attention to detail. One brings reasonable logic and linear thinking while the other allows her to dream, to imagine, and to take risks. Andrea's artwork reflects the vibrancy and joy of her heritage as well as the influence of colors in nature found in the PNW.

The Park Circle Gallery is located on Jenkins Avenue in North Charleston, in what was formerly known as the Olde Village Community Building. Admission is free and free street parking is available on Jenkins Avenue in front of the gallery, as well as on the adjacent streets and in parking lots close by. Corrigan Gallery LLC in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Ann Igoe Corrigan Gallery LLC in Charleston, SC, will present Abstracted Figures, featuring a solo show of works by Ann Igoe, from Dec. 3 - 31, 2021. A reception will be held on Dec. 5, from 5-8pm. Masks are requested unless in the back garden.

The show will be comprised of monotypes in black and white for the most part. These works are interpretations of dancers in motion.

Igoe is a dancer trained in dance, painting, dance therapy, philosophy, religion, printmaking, sculpture, English and history. She studied with Martha Graham and Jose Limon. She has worked for many years with a combination of movement, marks, and words.

Igoe states that, "Movement is the basic unit. All is movement. The swirling atoms that make up everything are held together by movement. Movement when consistent, creates a rhythm. The rhythm of the movement makes the combination that forms the creation. It determines the shape of things and reveals the phenomena of our known world. In art, movement is refined into gestures. From gesture comes symbol, word, and image."

Igoe strives to capture the moment of conception when the great rush of an idea reaches you physically before the intellectual interpretation begins.

This multitasking, multidisciplinary artist (and teacher) expresses that, "There is within each of us the raw material for all of our activities. It informs our everyday lives and provides the impetus for our creative work. This raw material is the force of our emotions actually moving through our physical bodies. Today we have become so intellectual and so dependent upon the word that we neglect the innate wisdom of the body."

"Everything that we do is based on emotional feelings experienced by the body," adds Igoe. "Call these feelings physical sensations or spiritual experiences or call them the spirit itself moving through the body. It is this movement that is the source of all creation, even the creation of thoughts and the creation of words."

Igoe has frozen moments of movement in the works presented in this show. The energy of dance movements melded with the energy of the gestures creating the marks gives platform to pure reactions without words and intellect crowding the experience.

Solo shows of Igoe's works have been mounted in the past at the Gibbs Museum of Art, Faulkner Art Gallery in California, Santa Barbara Artist Guild, Spirit Square in North Carolina as well as Leighton Gallery in Maine, Coker College, Montecito Library, The Art Gallery of the Great Mother Conference in Maine and the former Nancy's Gallery in Charleston. Her work has also been seen in a variety of group shows from Charleston to Maine, to California and from Greenville to Italy.

The Corrigan Gallery has presented for over 15 years art with presence and a future instilled with intellect. An eclectic collection of thoughtful, provoking works continues to be presented in an intimate space. Bringing a lifetime of Charleston art experience to collectors and presenting artists with decades of creating as well as those in the early years of their careers, the gallery provides a contemporary, local alternative to the traditional southern art scene. The gallery does handle works from the estates of Elizabeth O'Neill Verner and Alfred Hutty and that of other important second market pieces.

Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Richard Oversmith

Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will present Richard Oversmith - Artistic Journey: Charleston, Costa Rica & Iceland, on view from Dec. 3 - 30, 2021. A reception will be held on Dec. 3, from 5-8pm. A painting demonstration is planned for Dec. 4, from 2-5pm.

Whether working in oil or gouache, Oversmith's confident brushwork, evocative palette, and engaging subject matter have captivated viewers.

Painting for this show has taken him from Iceland to Costa Rica, and to the Lowcountry. "Painting is a solitary experience for me. I like painting with other artists sometimes, but I do my best work alone," he says.

Oversmith's purpose is to provoke the viewer to interact with his pieces. His paintings are his voice, and stroke by stroke, he composes a whole that relates his vision. Oversmith works in oil on linen, a medium compatible with the passion he puts into his creation. He also works with gouache on watercolor paper. He strives to achieve a mood in every painting through the use of such visual stimuli as color, edges, value and drawing. He has derived his style from the lifelong study of past masters - Edouard Vuillard, Pierre Bonnard - the influence of contemporary painters he admires such as Joan Mitchell, and elements that have evolved from deep within himself. He allows the setting to speak to him, using a minimum of brushstrokes, and then the scene speaks to the viewer.

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be December 24th for the January 2022 issue and Jan. 24th for the Feb. 2022 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. La Petite Gallerie in Bluffton, SC, Features Works by Don Nagel

La Petite Gallerie in Bluffton, SC, will present an exhibit of works by Don Nagel, on view from Dec. 1 - 31, 2021.

This month the gallery is showcasing works by pastel painter Don Nagel. He was born in Pittsburgh, PA, studied art at the Rochester Institute of Technology with a BA and received an MA in print-making from Wayne State University in Detroit, MI. He worked in Pittsburgh and Detroit for 30 years in major advertising agencies as an art director and associate creative director, receiving numerous rewards, including NY Director's Club Gold Medal and Clio Awards.

Nagel and his wife Joyce, also a pastel artist, moved to Hilton Head Island in 1986. He worked as a freelance graphic designer until 1998 and now has devoted himself to painting and teaching the fine art of pastel.

Work by Don Nagel

"When I started in the agencies many years ago, layouts and designs were rendered in pastel gauche or watercolor. I was never very good at watercolor and gauche was slow. Eventually magic markers became available and finally the computer was invented. While working full time, I never had time or energy for fine art. Since I retired, I've come full circle and returned to the pastels," says Nagel.

"I have always liked the immediacy of the pastel medium. I start my paintings with an underpainting of pastel and solvent on sandboard, using mostly complimentary color. Then I build up light and dark tones with hard pastel and finally add the bright highlights with softer pastel."

Nagel is a Member of the Hilton Head Art League where he and Joyce teach regular art classes at the ALHH Art Academy. He is also an Associate Member of the Pastel Society of America, and a Member of Excellence in the South-

Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC, Features Group Invitational

Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC, is presenting Confluentia, featuring works by Colby Caldwell, Hannah Cole, Nava Lubelski, Rachel Meginnis, Randy Shull and Gesche Würfel, on view at the Elizabeth Stone Harper Gallery, through Dec. 10, 2021. The gallery is closed for public viewing at this time. The exhibition may be viewed online at (www.presby.edu/art/elizabeth-stone-harper-gallery/).

The Elizabeth Stone Harper Gallery, located in the Harper Center for the Arts, is pleased to announce the following exhibition: Confluentia, a group invitational exhibition. Each artist uses contemporary means to alter traditional media such as painting, photography, needlework, weaving, and collage. "The medium is the message," a phrase coined by the Canadian communication theorist Marshall McLuhan, is now a frequent lesson spoken in the art studio and classroom.

In order to get your idea across, the artist chooses a relevant material to enhance the concept, the message, that the artist wants to convey. In the case of the selected artworks included in Confluentia, each of the artists have skillfully modified and transformed their chosen traditional medium and through this process have conveyed their "message" in a new and unique way.

Confluentia is an exhibition of artworks that addresses current concerns both in broad terms and in personal terms. Each of the works contribute to a consistent and inventive flow, both visually and conceptually. All artworks are on loan to Harper Gallery by Tracey Morgan Gallery, located in Asheville, NC.

The Harper Center Gallery is host to four exhibitions annually - two exhibitions of work from nationally/internationally recognized artists, the Senior Art Major Exhibition, and the Annual Student Exhibition. Presbyterian College is located on a striking 240-acre campus between Columbia and Greenville, SC. Offering challenging academics and a culture of honor and ethics that prepares students to be leaders in their communities, PC students benefit from an exceptional faculty who take an individual interest in their students' well-being, both personally and in the classroom. The Presbyterian College School of Pharmacy opened in 2010 and is dedicated to the ideals of leadership, honor to the profession, and service to the community.

Hampton III Gallery in Taylors, SC, Offers Works by Edward Rice

Hampton III Gallery in Taylors, SC, is presenting Beyond Measure, featuring paintings by North Augusta, SC, artist, Edward Rice, on view through Dec. 31, 2021. On Saturday, Dec. 11, from 11am-noon, the gallery will host an event, Coffee and Conversation with the artist. All are welcome to attend.

The exhibition features 15 of Rice's architectural works.

Kevin Grogan, director of the Morris Museum in Augusta, GA, gives tribute to Rice's unique vision: "Though his work is rooted in specific place and time, there are, it seems to me, two telling differences between him and many of his fellow Southern artists."

"First, there is no reluctance to view the particular part of this world into which he was born with any sense of ironic detachment... Though he has traveled widely, by choice he has lived and worked in the Augusta area for all of his life. He is deeply, abidingly devoted to what he does and the place where he does it."

"Second, he is, personally and professionally, devoid of cynicism. His earnestness is his shield. It should be noted that his artistic interests go well beyond preservationist's ambition to memorialize structures for their own sake. While it would be an exaggeration to suggest that the buildings he paints are haunted, they are certainly evocative and redolent of heavy use. He is not just a recorder, but a seeker of wisdom and truth, whose continuing attempt to reduce the vernacular structures to their most essential formal elements achieves a higher feeling through a kind of studied minimalism. Rice achieved his reputation as a realistic painter who sought to capture the romanticism of the region's vernacular architecture in meticulously rendered paintings of the region's older structures and others found along the border of Georgia and South Carolina. Often painted on site, these works resulted from a slow, precise and complex process through which he conveyed a vivid sense of place, season, and time."

Rice states: "My paintings are experiments in what can be done within the confines of architectural depiction. My goal is to create paintings worthy of the name: Painting."

Rice has been exhibiting his works at Hampton III Gallery for 30 years.

Hampton III Gallery is located on Wade Hampton Blvd., in Gallery Centre, Taylors, SC (a couple of miles from downtown Greenville).

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville, SC, Features Group Exhibition

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville (TSA GVL), in Greenville, SC, is presenting Generously Entangled, featuring works by Codi Maddox, Emmanuel Manu Opoku, Michelle Laxalt, and Jiha Moon, on view through Dec. 11, 2021.

This is the fifth show in their new West Greenville gallery space. The show is curated and organized by TSA GVL member Matthew Anthony Batty.

In the movement and passing of threads, complex structures can be formed - structures that draw forth ritual, the observable now, and evoke the future. Practices of mindfulness braid together materials of earth and matter, narrative and exchange, nuance and pigment. These practices and materials become embodiments Generously Entangled in image and object. This exhibition explores the intertwining practices of aesthetic hybridity, material culture, and reciprocity through the paintings of Codi Maddox, the assemblages of Emmanuel Manu Opoku, and the ceramic collaboration of Michelle Laxalt and Jiha Moon.

Codi Maddox is an Atlanta-born self-taught artist. Her work focuses on themes of nostalgia, and Black cultural markers. Maddox begins her work seeking to find a sense of self and reconnect to her identity. She looks to art as a way to express the complexity of her life thus far in all its nuances. Joy, sadness, identity, and experiences.

Work by Jiha Moon

Emmanuel Manu Opoku was born and raised in Kumasi, Ghana. He holds a MFA in Sculpture from the University of Florida in Gainesville and a BFA in Painting from the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology in Kumasi, Ghana. He is a recipient of the James J. Rizzi Studio Award, Harold Garde Studio Art Award, College of the Art Dean's Award, and the Outstanding International Student Award. Opoku has participated in several exhibitions in Ghana and the United States. He currently lives in Gainesville, FL.

Jiha Moon (b. 1973) is from DaeGu, Korea, and lives and works in Atlanta, GA. She received her MFA from the University of Iowa, Iowa City. Her works have been acquired by Asia Society, New York, NY, High Museum of Art, Atlanta, GA, The Mint Museum of Art, Charlotte, NC, Smithsonian Institute, Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Washington, DC, Weatherspoon Museum of Art, Greensboro, NC and The Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, Richmond, VA.

Moon has had solo exhibitions at the Museum of Contemporary Art of Georgia, Taubman Museum, Roanoke, VA, the Mint Museum of Art, Charlotte, NC, The Cheekwood Museum of Art, Nashville, TN, and Rhodes College, Clough-Hanson Gallery, Memphis, TN and James Gallery of CUNY Graduate Center, New York, NY. She has been included in group shows at Kemper Museum, Kansas City, MO, the Fabric Workshop and Museum, Philadelphia, PA, the Atlanta Contemporary Art Center, Atlanta, GA, Asia Society, New York, NY, The Drawing Center, New York, NY, White Columns, New York, NY, Smith College Museum of Art, Northampton, MA, and the Weatherspoon Museum of Art, Greensboro, NC.

Moon is a recipient of the Joan Mitchell Foundation's painter and sculptor's award for 2011. Her mid-career survey exhibition, "Double Welcome: Most everyone's mad here" organized by Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art and Taubman Museum has toured more than 10 museum venues around the country until 2018.

Michelle Laxalt is a multidisciplinary artist currently based in Atlanta, GA. She earned a BFA from the University of Nevada, Reno, and an MFA as a Welch Fellow from Georgia State University in Atlanta. Through ceramics, textiles, and other sculptural media, Laxalt addresses the vulnerability we as humans share with animals and other living beings.

Laxalt has shown nationally and internationally in solo and group exhibitions. Notable venues include the Uşak Archeology Museum in Uşak, Turkey; the National Center for Contemporary Arts in Minsk, Belarus; Whitespace Gallery in Atlanta, GA; MINT Gallery in Atlanta, GA; and the Zuckerman Museum of Art in Kennesaw, GA.

Laxalt has given artist talks at Gallery 72 and MINT Gallery in Atlanta and has participated on artist panels at the Holland Project Gallery (Nevada), Georgia Tech (Atlanta), and Auburn University (Alabama). She has completed artist residencies at the Vermont Studio Center (2016) and the Hambidge Center in North Georgia (2019). Laxalt was a 2019 MINT Leap Year Fellow and concluded her fellowship with her solo exhibition Husk. Upcoming group exhibitions in which Laxalt will exhibit include The Skull Show at Sheppard Contemporary (Reno, Nevada) and All In at the Holland Project Gallery (Reno, Nevada).

Jessica Burke's Dressed Up in Bones & Sugar City drawings serve as investigative tools to unearth the fictions of identity and the fragility of life. In posed still-life compositions in which the figures are replaced with skeletal features, Burke creates striking metaphors for lived experience that provide insights into human nature that are intimate, provocative or sometimes humorous.

Artists Collective | Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by John Lever

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting Close to Home, featuring works by Upstate photographer John Lever, on view in Gallery III, through Dec. 24, 2021. The exhibit will be part of the Spartanburg ArtWalk from 5pm, Thursday, Dec. 16.

The restrictions of the COVID-19 pandemic gave a different perspective on life and his art. His creations through that time, along with some of his earlier works.

"My wife and I had all kinds of travel plans – that's where I do most of my photography in normal times," says Lever, a native of Florida. "We all know what happened to those plans because of the pandemic. I think the restrictions of the pandemic, not allowing travel to new destinations, induced me to spread my photographic reach, looking to new approaches in my photography close to home."

For the visitor to the gallery, Lever says at first, the exhibit "may seem a little haphazard, but it has one theme, and that is the expansion of my photography into the somewhat more abstract. It begins with some photographs that are more traditionally my style – natural scenes – but then I explore a bit with moving water taken at long exposure to make a creamy, silky look. Later, I explore some of my newest directions with some laser illumination and what I call droplet photography – you will have to see it to understand."

"Displayed will be a series of prints that represent my time during the pandemic, shaped by the constraints it imposed," Lever adds. "When life gives you lemons ... but all of us had much worse than lemons. Maybe my message is 'keep your chin up.'"

"The inspiration for my photography comes from my desire to share my views of my travels and of the natural world," he says. "Whether this takes form as a snow-covered mountain, a tropical island or a bird in flight, the theme is the same: connect the viewer with my personal view of the world."

Over the past few years, a big part of Lever's photography has been while sailing aboard S/V Georgia with his brother, Paul, and sister-in-law, Chris. "This has taken me to places I might not easily get to and has afforded me a unique platform to see these places. Another major influence on my photography has been travel to the iconic parks of the American West – Yosemite, Sequoia, Banff, etc. To a person who spent his formative years on flat ground, the mountains hold a special feeling for me."

Another inspiration for his photography is birds, especially hummingbirds, Lever says. "So visually appealing and so hard to see – they are a natural challenge to photograph. All this comes together in what I photograph."

Work by John Lever

Twenty of Lever's work will be included in the exhibition and will be offered for sale with prices ranging from $70 to $150.

Lever says he has been an avid photographer since the days of film photography, and he has augmented key skills and aesthetics learned at Tulane University, UNC and Carolina's Nature Photographers Association with extensive reading and experimentation. He has been a member of the Artists Collective | Spartanburg since 2018 and is a member of its management board.

"I guess I've been an artist all my life, but I only thought of myself as an artist when I joined ACS," he says. "It is a great arts organization."

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg is located on W. Main Street, and provides a forum and home for the arts and creative population of Spartanburg, providing facilities and services to artist members for exhibits, performances and creation.

Art on the Corner @ Rinehart Realty in Rock Hill, SC, Features Works by Holly Glasscock

Art on the Corner @ Rinehart Realty in Rock Hill, SC, is presenting Rural & Rustique, a collection of landscapes and animal paintings from the experiences of a self-professed country girl, Holly Glasscock, on view through Jan. 6, 2022.

Glasscock says, "Since the age of 8, I have lived in rural settings. For the past 30 years or so I have lived on a farm in Catawba, SC. This farm was built and started in 1865 by the Glasscock family and has been in the family ever since. These rural settings have influenced my art for many years."

"The farm used to be a dairy farm and now I operate it as a pine and horse farm," adds Glasscock. "My intent in my art is to make visible that which might possibly go unnoticed - how the light hits the grasses at dawn, the skeletal shapes of winter trees or the subtle colors of a black horse's coat in the light. These representational works are a combination of plein air and studio works done in oil, acrylic and pastel that reflect the country life. The compositions are mainly of organic substance with man made geometric objects limited to a rural or rustic nature. This body of work is my expression of gratitude to my creator for the lifestyle I live and the talents he has given me."

Art on the Corner @ Rinehart Realty will be open additional hours for special Christmasville events including: Dec. 4, from 10am-3pm for an Artist Live Demo and Dec. 11, starting at 11am for an Artist Live Demo.

Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, Features Vernon Grant's Santas and Student Works

The Arts Council of York County in Rock Hill, SC, will present several new exhibits including: Vernon Grant's Santas, on view in the Dalton and Perimeter Galleries at the Center for the Arts, from Dec. 2 - 23, 2021, and York County High School Art Show, on view in the Edmund Lewandowski Classroom Gallery, from Dec. 2 - 23, 2021. A reception will be held on Dec. 2, from 5-7pm.

Grant's favorite subject, Santa Claus along with his whimsical gnomes, and published scenes of winter are on display.

Grant's dream to become a New York City artist began when he arrived in the Big Apple in 1932. He rented a studio apartment in Greenwich Village where his vivid illustrations were soon in high demand. His beloved art captivated the attention of millions of people on cereal boxes, magazine covers, playing cards, billboards, and a host of other products. Visit our galleries to capture the artistry of Vernon Grant and view his hallmark collection of Santa Claus, gnomes, and scenes of the holiday season.

The York County High School Art Show is on exhibition at the Center for the Arts in the Edmund Lewandowski Classroom Gallery. Coordinated by the Arts Council of York County and the Catawba River Art Guild, awards are sponsored by the Catawba River Art Guild. Awards will be announced online at (yorkcountyarts.org) and through the Arts Council's Facebook and YouTube and IGTV accounts on Friday, Dec. 3, 2021.

Only at the Center for the Arts during Christmasville in Old Town Rock Hill, visitors can see the Chairman's Choice Santas and previous People's Choice winners. Vote for your favorite Chairman's Choice while you are at the Center for the Arts! Visit (ChristmasvilleRockHill.com) for complete details.

Mint Museum Randolph in Charlotte, NC, Offers Exhibit of Anna Sui Designs

The Mint Museum Randolph in Charlotte, NC, is presenting The World of Anna Sui, presenting 100 looks from the iconic designer's archive with a roll call of 12 archetypes that capture the Sui aesthetic, on view through May 1, 2022.

No other fashion designer captures the zeitgeist of a historic period, place, or artistic movement in such a timeless yet contemporary look as Anna Sui. She does so by designing the entire look - from dress to accessories, hairstyles to makeup, and even sound and scent.

The World of Anna Sui shines a spotlight on the designer's heroes from her youth and the importance of her collaborators, including the New York City Garment District. The exhibition gives insights into her process, allowing the viewer to step inside her imagination and watch it unfold.

The first iteration of this exhibition debuted at the Fashion and Textile Museum, London, in the summer of 2017.

Anna Sui reinvented pop-culture fashion with her signature rock-and-roll romantic label in the 1990s. Unlike other popular American designers, Sui is driven by telling stories head-to-toe about the worlds of cowgirls, grunge girls, hipie chicks, hula girls, Mods, pirate rock stars, Pre-Raphaelite maidens, and surfer nomads.

Beginning with her premiere catwalk show in 1991, Sui has shaped not only the garments, textiles, accessories, cosmetics, and interiors that comprise her design universe, but also the course of fashion history by popularizing the boutique fashion look. Sui's unique approach to creating narratives through her work is legendary. A self-taught historian of culture, art, and fashion, she references music, books, exhibitions, movies, time periods, photography, and art movements in her designs.

Sui signature fashions, accessories, and products, explore wide-ranging materials and inspirations, including papier-mache mannequin heads, linens by Vera, Claire McCardell sportswear, army surplus jackets, Japanese hankies, qipao dresses, wood-soled platforms from Goody Two-Shoes, the style of Jane Holzer, Zandra Rhodes, Nirvana, Keith Richards and Anita Pallenberg, and Minnie Mouse. Her collections are replete with historicism, processed and creatively reimagined through her signature filter.

Organized by the Fashion and Textile Museum, London, The World of Anna Sui was curated by Dennis Nothdruff. Annie Carlano is curator of The Mint Museum's iteration. The exhibition has toured the globe from New York to Shanghai. The Mint Museum is the last stop for the current international tour.

The exhibition organized by the Fashion and Textile Museum, London is generously presented by PNC Financial Services. Generous individual support provided by Deidre and Clay Grubb, with additional support from the Mint Museum Auxiliary. Additional individual support provided by Posey and Mark Mealy, Celene and Marc Oken, Kati and Chris Small, Ann and Michael Tarwater, Rocky and Curtis Trenkelbach, the Fashion Task

Southern Arts Society in Kings Mountain, NC, Offers SASi Holiday Boutique

The Southern Arts Society Gift Shop & Gallery (SASi), in Kings Mountain, NC, is offering the SASi Holiday Boutique, on view through Jan. 7, 2022.

Their galleries have been turned into a Holiday Boutique filled with a wide variety of original art and hand made fine crafts. Over 75 regional artists have work available: painting, mixed media, jewelry, pottery, leather, paper craft, fiber and textiles (loom woven, knitted and crocheted items). All the items are made by hand, each being unique, one of a kind works of art.

The 2022 Calendar themed "North Carolina Mountain, Wildflowers and Waterways", consists of 12 original pieces of hand pulled silk-screened art. Each month is designed by a different artist, giving you twelve individual original art prints. Artwork featured in the calendar this year reflects the beauty of nature found in our great state of North Carolina. Their popular Calendar Tote Bags are available again this year, printed with the same images from the Calendar.

Southern Arts Society was founded in 1984 by the late A.B. Mauney Snow and a dozen friends to promote the talents of local artists around Kings Mountain. Soon after the group formed, the idea began of producing an art calendar by hand to earn money for the group. The 2022 edition marks 37 years of producing the limited-edition calendars. The Calendars are reserved from year to year by loyal collectors with many being shipped all around the country, leaving only a small number open to sell to the general public. The twelve-month calendar set sells for $30, and a frame (in black, gold or silver) to hold the calendar may be purchased for $30. Many who purchase the calendar refuse to look at them ahead of time, wanting to be surprised as each month comes along to turn the page and see a new work of art.

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included. My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

SC State Museum in Columbia, SC, Offers Exhibition of SC Quilts

The South Carolina State Museum in Columbia, SC, is excited to announce a new ongoing exhibition, Bindings and Betweens: South Carolina Quilts. This new display traces the history and art of South Carolina made quilts. Featuring pieces from the museum's collection, the exhibition highlights both the objects and their makers for an in-depth look at the quilt making process and how it relates to cultural traditions throughout South Carolina history to the modern day.

look at how quilts and their history are tied to people and places throughout South Carolina. An 1850s quilt made for a bride moving far away highlights personal connections and represents the networks of trade, power, and politics that accompany the binding of families through matrimony. Imported fabrics are also featured, as well as those treated with locally produced natural dyes revealing how some quilts can represent a bustling trade network stretching from England to Charleston and others help us uncover the connections between people and the land they lived on.

"As textiles are fragile, we are not able to display these quilts very often and usually only for limited periods of time," says Zeise. "We are looking forward to the opportunity to share these amazing pieces with our guests and members."

Dating from the early 19th century to the modern day, Bindings and Betweens will feature 43 quilts with a wide variety of styles and designs on display, highlighting traditions that were brought across oceans and passed down through generations. Through exploring these pieces, the exhibition aims to reveal the things that bind us together and the spaces and connections between us.

As the state's largest and most comprehensive museum, the South Carolina State Museum offers a unique, entertaining and educational experience to visitors throughout its 225,000 square foot facility located in the heart of downtown Columbia's Congaree Vista. The State Museum is housed in one of its greatest artifacts, an 1894 old textile mill full of character and charm. In addition to beautiful meeting spaces throughout the facility, guests can explore outer space in one of the largest planetariums in the Southeast, watch an interactive 4D movie and look through a vintage telescope in a one-of-a-kind observatory. These exciting opportunities are all in addition to the four floors of South Carolina art, cultural history, natural history and science/technology that guests can experience.

Rob Shaw Framing and Gallery in West Columbia, SC, Features Works by Boyd Saunders, Russell Jeffcoat and Stephen Chesley

Rob Shaw Framing and Gallery in West Columbia, SC, will present Into the Light, a show featuring three master artists: Boyd Saunders, Russell Jeffcoat and Stephen Chesley, on view from Dec. 3 through Jan. 5, 2022. A reception will be held on Dec. 3, from 6-9pm.

Finding beauty in the ordinary, all three artists tell timeless stories about the landscape and people of the American South.

Boyd Saunders - painter, illustrator, printmaker, and distinguished professor emeritus of art at the University of South Carolina - was born on a farm in Tennessee. Spanning more than fifty years, his work reflects a lifelong interest in storytelling and animals, especially horses. Saunders has won multiple awards and has exhibited around the world, from Argentina to China. He began the printmaking program at the UofSC and has long been a fixture in the art scene throughout the Southeast.

Stephen Chesley, a Southern regional artist living in Columbia, SC, works primarily in oils, charcoal, and metal. Chesley's semi-abstract work, which the artist describes as poetic realism, is influenced by artists whose ethereal, haunting images evoke a spiritual yet animistic characterization of their subjects and encompass everything from serene beauty to sublime peril.

In addition to original works by all three artists, the show will include several books, including "A View from the South: The Narrative Art of Boyd Saunders" (USC Press 2019) and a collection of four Archibald Rutledge stories, unpublished since 1913 and illustrated by Chesley (USC Press 2014).

Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by SC Black Artists

Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, will present 22 South Carolinians, a companion show to the major exhibition 30 Americans, on view in the Guignard Gallery, from Dec. 2 through May 22, 2022. Exhibition visitors to the Columbia Museum of Art are invited to view new art, meet artists, and create art themselves while enjoying free admission during Free First Thursday at the CMA on Thursday, Dec. 2. The evening features a meet-and-greet with the artists of 22 South Carolinians as well as the sixth edition of the popular Sip & Scribble, an artful and soulful coloring book party from CMA affinity group the Friends of African American Art & Culture (FAAAC).

Many artists call South Carolina home, carrying with them connections to a place that has had an indelible influence on their creative practices. Taking inspiration from the featured fall exhibition 30 Americans, 22 South Carolinians highlights remarkable contemporary Black artists who have been shaped by their experiences in South Carolina, revealing unique portraits of creativity, culture, and visual storytelling. From the abstract to the Afrofuturist, from the formally trained to the self-taught, these artists explore past, present, and future states of Blackness that are universally expressed and geographically connected.

22 South Carolinians features the work of: Cameron Alexander, Tarleton Blackwell, Jai-Anna Carter, Ija Charles, Robert Coffey, Angela Corbett, Michael Dantzer, B. Dukes, Raishad Glover, Malik Greene, Sanford Greene, Tonya Gregg, Roni Henderson-Day, Terry K. Hunter, Dogon Krigga, Ernest "Chicken Man" Lee, J. Renee, Ce Scott-Fitts, Isaac Udogwu, Cedric Umoya, Sabrina White, and Thomas the Younger. Meet the artists during the exhibition's opening celebration on Dec. 2, from 6-8pm.

22 South Carolinians is sponsored by Love, Tito's with additional programming support by Friends of African American Arts & Culture.

South Carolina and taught cosmetology for 35 years. I always wanted to learn to paint," professed Linda Childers, who founded her second career as an artist.

"Painting gives me a challenge to create and use color theory. No picture is ever the same, so I am constantly learning." Childers and most of the current students chose subjects dear to them, and they explored landscapes. Her acrylic of pet Blackberry, whose eyes define the word expressive, confirms there was a hidden talent all along.

"Everywhere I went, I would look at scenes or things and say I would love to paint that. So, in 2008, I started to attend Campbell Frost's art classes and loved it," explained Betty Lokey Furtick. During her 13 years of painting classes with Frost, Furtick has captured nature's bucolic habitats in both oil and acrylic. However, it's the cow Moo, in acrylic, decked out in bright happy colors that goes to the heart of Furtick's optimistic outlook on life.

Judy Bozard wanted to paint from the time she was a child and, for the past 20 years, has been a student of Frost. She has honed her skills both in portraits and landscapes, at home with both. An early piece, when she was still using watercolors, holds precious memories of her grandson. In First Time Piano Player, Bozard captured his first sight of a piano. Fingers are eager to touch the keys, his face fascinated by the sounds he is creating.

Lynn Joy Button's, The Return of the King Yahshua, in acrylic, illustrates Christ, adorned with crown and robe, descending from the clouds on horseback, an original interpretation of the Second Coming. Button devoted 43 years of her life ministering as a registered nurse, then discovered a talent she did not know she possessed. Her landscapes of mountain panoramas and coastal vistas are concentrated, penetrating scenes.

Linda Bates has taken only two classes with Frost and is eager to continue. Her first work, an untitled still life in watercolor, a vase filled with flowers and complementary greenery, is a delicate blend of subtle colors, harmoniously blending with the vase and the background.

In Shrimp Boat, an acrylic by Stan Busch, the vessel nestles beyond a moss-draped live oak on still marsh waters. The eye travels from the moss to the docked boat to an idyllic view of the low country. Busch's twin brother is a pen and ink artist; however, it was ten years ago before he tried his hand. "The more you develop your skills, the more you love to test your limits. It takes time, patience, desire and practice, practice, and more practice. Art helps you see the world and gets you to focus on the details. Wished I had started sooner in life," confesses the Columbia resident.

a youth in her home country, India. After retiring from a career in higher education, Londhe began taking classes with Frost, who encouraged her to "pursue her cherished hobby of painting." She would go on to win several local and regional awards due to the training she received. In Pasture In The Morning, acrylic, Londhe uses her palette knife to create a blurry plethora of wildflowers and moves beyond to a broad flat green field, coupling a simple hut and twin bushy-leaved trees in front of a rich blue sky, merging into a rainbow-colored firmament.

Suzanne Graham was also exposed to art at an early age. Still, she admitted "my journey and passion for art began in March of 2012, with a how-to-draw book. Next step was classes with Frost and watercolors with artist Margaret Hoybach." Her aptitude, skills and mastery of themes are evident in the seven pieces being shown in the exhibition. However, Going Home, in oil, may capture all her abilities. The receding elderly male figure, one hand holding a walking stick, wearing hat, shirt, trousers and suspenders, so familiar, is on a solo journey. Home, left up to interpretation, is utopian. The sapphire sky descends from the left into a golden light, inviting, glowing to the right. The surface upon which the old man walks could be grayish, smooth cobblestones or mystic pebbles on a silvery path descending towards the golden light.

Art Education was the career chosen by Jo Wyrosdick. Receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree from Limestone College, she taught for several years in schools districts in the Midlands and the Low Country before retiring. During her years as an educator, Wyrosdick used her summer holidays to travel the world. "My life experiences and travels in countries such as Madagascar, England and France have inspired and impacted my creative development."

In From Madagascar, in oil, Wyrosdick's use of hues captures a silent rhythm in the female figure walking towards a rectangular Madagascar building; conjuring grace even as she carries a large load against her hip and upon her head.

Campbell Frost, who began offering classes at the Orangeburg County Council on Aging over 40 years ago, has managed to inspire countless numbers of seniors pursuing long-held dreams, while also establishing himself as a notable landscape artist. Frost says he realized colors fascinated him at an early age. "As a child, I loved to paint. Color was magic. My next-door neighbor, I watched how she mixed colors. I never forgot that. It just made me feel good that I could do something creative."

Frost's Moonscape, in oil, is all about color and contrast. The vivid blue of the night sky tints the coverings of snow through which patches of dark wintery ground and stalwart bare trees stand out and alone in the night. A full moon seems to have absorbed tones from the blues and whites. The bright unknown is the light on the horizon. To stay and be awed or venture towards the light in the distance?

Creativity is what Frost persuades his students to discover in themselves. "Teaching is easy. A few demonstrations. It's not what to paint. It's how to paint. It's the freedom to create their own ideas." Frost says he understands that while he was able to make a living as a teacher and an artist, his senior students had other priorities. "They wished they had started earlier. They were busy raising children, looking after husbands. They did a lot of things. But it's never too late to learn. Grandma Moses was in her late 70s before she became serious."

Frost's empathy for his students has resulted in years of gratification as a teacher. "I have had some wonderful students and I still do. Art will teach you, motivate, give you self-esteem, responsibility. It will get you up in the morning."

Love, Life and Landscapes features 55 works in oil, acrylic and watercolor by Frost and ten of his students. The exhibition is free and open to the public at the Orangeburg County Fine Arts Center, located on Riverside Drive in Orangeburg, SC, 29115.

Janet Kozachek is an internationally trained and exhibited artist. She received her Master of Fine Arts Degree from Parsons School of Design in New York, where she studied with nationally famous artists Larry Rivers, Paul Resika, John Heliker and Leland Bell. Kozachek also lived, worked and studied in China for five years, including two years of graduate study at the Central Academy of Fine Art in Beijing (CAFA), where she learned Chinese Writing, Painting and Seal Carving.

She has lived at various times in Europe as well as where she taught, painting and studied ceramics. In addition to her painting, Kozachek is a well-known mosaic artist, and was the Founding President of the Society of American Mosaic Artists. Her work is in the collections of the Morris Museum of Art, the South Carolina State Museum, the Columbia Museum of Art, the I.P. Stanback Museum, the Calhoun County Museum and numerous private collections.

Kozachek has received a Puffin Foundation Award, National Endowment for the Arts subgrant awards, a Heritage Foundation Award, a Humanities Council Award and a Helena Rubinstein Scholar Award. Her digital records of over 2600 works are part of the archive of the National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington, DC. She has published several articles, essays, poetry and a book of illustrated rhymes for the cat, The Book of Marvelous Cats.

"Succubus" by Janet Kozachek

In South Carolina, Kozachek embarked on a peripatetic career as an occasional adjunct professor and as an artist-in-residence teaching Chinese art and mosaics.

Inspired by her study of mosaic art in Ravenna and other sites in Italy, Kozachek was co-founder and the first president of the Society of American Mosaic Artists. She wrote for and assisted with editing the society's quarterly publication, Grouline, and co-authored the catalogue for the first national exhibition of mosaics in the United States. She also wrote for Evening Reader Magazine, publishing essays on art and social issues. Her series of the one hundred and thirteen small, square figurative paintings became the basis for Moments in Light and Shadow (currently in manuscript). Selected poems from Moments in Light and Shadow have been published in Undefined and Ekphrasis.

Here's what some people commented about the book: "Read this book for the fun of it, and take a good long look at it too. My Women, My Monsters is a joy to behold. Hester Prynne and J. K. Rowling might have created some monstrous merriment. Miraculously, Janet Kozachek created it all. Erudition, wit, and artistry flow freely on these pages. You may think this book is just a lark. Think again. It is a glorious exorcism," said Larry Rhu, Todd Chair in the Italian Renaissance, Emeritus, University of South Carolina.

"Lady Joy Killer" by Janet Kozachek

"The women within us and the women of literary and cultural history, with their longings and frustrations, their magnificent madness, spring forth in Janet's drawings to meet us honestly as our shadow selves. Our fascination is matched only by our reckoning," said Professor Tamara Miles, Poet, Instructor of English and Humanities, Orangeburg Technical College.

Here's one of Kozachek's poems from My Women, My Monster:

My Women, My Monsters

Behold
the chicken legged terrors, who peck their way through men's minds,
and scratch on down to fear.

No melodie mild when they speak,
but croaks and shrieks
from gaping mouths,
that fill the world with dread.

No beauties in slumber
awaiting a lover's kiss,
but wide-eyed Kali driven madwomen, screaming out their battle cries.

No thighs to fold in pleasure,
but a chute for birthing trouble.
Rapacious devourers of men's hearts.
These are my women.
These are my monsters.

My Women, My Monsters, will be available at the Dec. 11, 2021, Authors for Literacy event at the Lexington County Library. For details about the event, contact Jerry Bellune at (jerrybellune@yahoo.com) and Lauren Iagnet at Lexington County Library at (lignet@lex.lib.sc.us).

American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, Offers Annual Holiday Show

American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, is presenting Sharing the Joy, on view through Dec. 30, 2021.

As the holidays approach, our attention turns outward, toward the sharing of rituals, gatherings, meals and often gifts. The folks at American Folk Art have been gathering artwork with abundant spirit throughout the year, ready to make your holidays bright! This year, many traditions may take a new direction; but the artists represented at American Folk Art consistently create gloriously thoughtful pieces you will be excited to share.

Work by Shawn Ireland

While seasonal goodies will be featured, the paintings, carvings and pottery have been selected for their artistic value and the satisfaction of owning or giving a quality piece of art.

Hand-carved songbirds from South Louisianan Ivy Billiot, luscious wood-block print depictions of our Carolina landscape by Kent Ambler, wild face jugs by regional potters, unique table and baking ware by potter Shawn Ireland, charming paintings by Ellen Langford and Tres

Work by Cornbread

Taylor will be available.

All 30 of American Folk Art's artists will be featured, many creating special offerings with the season in mind. Liz Sullivan will share a selection of seasonal vignette paintings, small enough to be affixed to a garland or bough. Lonnie & Twyla Money will be creating their wonderful hand-carved and hand-painted ornaments, in a continuation of one of AFA's longest traditions.

Join in, either in the gallery or at (www.amerifolk.com), as we celebrate the culmination of another year and prepare to welcome the coming year with joy in our hearts!

"Christmas has always been my favorite time of year," says Patricia Veatch. "I love Christmas most of all for the opportunity to be with family and share our traditions. After a very isolated zoom Christmas last year, our family is going to celebrate with gusto!"

"As the days shorten, we are reminded of nature's eternal gift of gleaming sunlight that shines through the thickest forest and brings us the joy of another beautiful day," says Sally Lordeon.

Raquel Egosi tells about her work, Terpsichore, "While mostly abstract, this painting is inspired by the dynamic flow of the joy of dance, the exuberance of life, and the creativity of performance and stage lights."

"This little painting is a reminder to get up each day with the intent to shine a light on the world in some way," says Robin Altman about her work Mountain Sunflower. "Just as nothing stops nature, we

Play It Again Records in Valdese, NC, Features Works by Tyler Stephens

Play It Again Records in Valdese, NC, will present collage works by Tyler "Sour Steve" Stephens, on view in the Window Gallery, from Dec. 3 through Jan. 3, 2022.

Stephens is the living embodiment of a new generation of DIY punk artists. At only 25-years old, he is a master of all trades from hand-crafted, surreal, tongue-in-cheek collage bits to writing, recording, and producing three full length punk rock albums from his studio apartment in Lenoir NC. Stephens has been creating thought-provoking collage works since 2019.

political/social landscape, Stephens' art challenges the viewer to confront the ugly incongruities and hypocrisy in our modern society. In 2020, he became a member of Oakland, CA-based art collective, Destroy Art Inc. Together, the team use their art as activism to fight off bigotry, hatred, and injustice as seen fit and use their talents to promote love, empowerment and community.

The two large gallery windows at Play It Again Records are lit 24 hrs. a day and can be seen from the curb! The gallery is also looking for more interesting artists to participate in future events!

Arts Council of Winston-Salem & Forsyth County in Winston-Salem, NC, Offers Holiday Exhibit & Sale

The Arts Council of Winston-Salem & Forsyth County in Winston-Salem, NC, will host There's No Place Like Home for the Holidays: A Holiday Exhibit and Art Sale, on view in the Main Gallery at Milton Rhodes Center for the Arts, through Dec. 31, 2021.

This exhibit and art sale will feature artists of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County and encourage patrons to shop and support local artists during the holiday season. Guests are sure to experience a mix of media including art on canvas, handmade jewelry and accessories, leather goods, woodworking crafts, fiber arts, and more. A special sip and shop reception will be held on Dec. 9, from 5:30-7pm with featured exhibition artists and an interactive living room set provided by The Little Theatre of Winston-Salem. Art may be purchased and taken on the same day.

The exhibition will also include works by Robert King that highlight paintings and sculptures from his "Phenomena and Earthwork" series. King currently resides in Winston-Salem and completed his PhD in cultural studies/education at UNC-Greensboro. The heart of his artistic process is the dialogue between materials and memories inspired by the human form and solitude in nature.

"These days, I am routinely filling up my inner experiences gathered from lake kayaking," said King. "It turns out that experiences of being out in a small boat on a large expanse of water are profoundly integrative and revelatory for me, in much the same way experiences of drawing the human figure were at an earlier point in my life and art practice." The "Phenomena and Earthwork" series will be on view through Jan. 31, 2022.

The Arts Council of Winston-Salem & Forsyth County is the chief advocate of the arts and cultural sector in Winston-Salem and Forsyth County. Arts Council's goal is to serve as a leader in lifting up, creating awareness and providing support to grow and sustain the arts and cultural offerings throughout our region, ultimately bringing our community together and making it a great place to live, work and play.

Theatre Art Galleries in High Point, NC, Features Works by Greig Leach, Lyudmila Tomova and Joseph Lahita

Theatre Art Galleries in High Point, NC, is presenting two new exhibits including: 20/20, featuring works by Greig Leach, on view in the TAG Main Gallery, through Jan. 21, 2021; Light Captured, featuring works by Lyudmila Tomova and Joseph Lahita, on view in the Upstairs Gallery, through Jan. 21, 2021, and in the Hallway Gallery, will be 22 photographs from the recent ISFD (International Society of Furniture Designers) INNOVATION + DESIGN competition, on view through Jan. 21, 2021).

Greig Leach offered the following Artist Statement: "Each of us have had to discover ways to process the previous year and how it has affected each of our lives. This exhibition presents how as an artist I was left to work through the emotions, turmoil and isolation of 2020. All of my artwork addresses the world around me as I see it, experience and hold it in my mind's eye. By presenting the truth of my experiences, I hope to find the commonality in all of our realities. I am left to show what I see, with that seeing presenting questions we need to ask of ourselves. 2020 brought those questions and differing personal experiences to a sometimes violent head. For others, it left us feeling alone, isolated or confused."

"I have used different media as a method of underscoring the different experiences that each of us have had. Our facts have been questioned, and our truths have been challenged, leaving us to give voice (or in my case image) to what we see shifting around us," adds Leach. "I have used stained glass to elevate individuals to the level of icons to the events of 2020 particularly focusing on those who have risked their lives to help us keep ours and on those who have fought for the change to have their lives valued by our society. Using stained glass gives these five people the gravitas of venerated saints that can be seen to show us a way to a more perfect life."

"Other moments of the past year were more immediate and fluid so I chose the media of ink and wash with a scale that underscores just how quick some things were changing. The third facet of this exhibition are the large scale Shiva Paintstik works. These paintings build through the course of 2020, some spilling into 2021 much as COVID-19 and civil unrest had done the same. These works start with laying in bed, visiting via Zoom and finding time in the garden as going to work a regular job is no longer a daily activity. They move through COVID-19 scares and into Shut Down protests that quickly bloomed into Black Lives Matter protests."

"While I have entitled this exhibition 20/20 clearly the things we have faced are not over, nor can they be contained within a single calendar year. And that is the point of the final two paintings in this body of work. First, 'An Analogue Metaphor' looks to our need to rebuild both figuratively and literally, and that we need to do that together despite race or nationality. Secondly, 'I Didn't Know' is my confessional that I, and therefore we, need to look hard at our position in society and to question whether we are enjoying privilege we have not earned, or treatment that is not given to others."

"The artwork in this exhibition grew out of a need to hold a visual mirror up to what was happening around me. While I can not divorce myself from what I paint, I did not set out to create an annual of a tumultuous year (how could I know in January, 2020 what lay in store?). But as I worked in the studio painting what I was seeing and experiencing, I began to see that these artworks were different and more unified than most of my work over a similar time period. So the artworks reveal the story that is being told and not the other way around."

On view in TAG's Upstairs Gallery is the exhibit, Light Captured, featuring works by Lyudmila Tomova and Joseph Lahita.

Tomova and Lahita are two highly recognized watercolor artists exhibiting nationally and abroad who have taken the art of watercolor to a true form of mastery. Each artist's work is complementary to the other in its unique and expressive approach. Light Captured represents a culmination and maturity of style that evokes mood, light and freedom. With a fluidity of colors, Tomova and Lahita combine impressionistic strokes and semi-abstract techniques to elicit life and movement in their portrait and landscape watercolors. This recent collection of paintings adorn the paper with both harmony and emotion.

Lyudmila Tomova is an award-winning artist, well-recognized nationally and internationally for her unique impressionist style. Currently, she paints figures, portraits, murals and landscapes in oil, watercolor and acrylic. She merges abstract and realistic elements together to create mood, movement and an impression of the world around and within us. Her painting style adds spontaneity, boldness and elegance all at once telling magical stories and evoking complex emotions.

Originally from Sofia, Bulgaria, Tomova immigrated to the US in 1990 and lived in New York City working as a full-time painter, editorial illustrator and designer, exhibiting nationally and abroad. Her strong education in Classical realism from the Sofia's Academy of Fine Arts and later from FIT in New York where she earned a BFA degree in Illustration, as well as her diverse artistic experience has established her as one of the most versatile and prolific artists in the Triangle.

Tomova has been featured in the International Artist magazine with a 6-page article, Walter magazine, Splash books and many others. Her work has been selected for the Plein Air Salon, ArtFields, RFAS, WFWS, NWS and many more. She is also a Signature member of a few watercolor societies. Tomova resides in Cary and teaches watercolor, oil, acrylic and drawing workshops in various locations in North Carolina and exhibits nationally and abroad.

Joseph Lahita was born in Hungary, grew up and educated in Melbourne, Australia. Since 1974, he has lived in North America and worked as an engineer in the steel industry. His artistic talent was obvious since early childhood and he has always gravitated to drawing and painting in several media, especially to watercolor. He is inspired by many visual aspects from his travels locally and throughout the world, as well as past masters from the Impressionist period including Monet, Pissarro and Sargent.

Lahita's style can be described as a loose interpretation of different subject matter that depict rural scenes with animals, people and the changing seasons. He enjoys painting outdoors with his fellow artists. Lahita is a member of several art societies and is a signature member of several art societies, including the Watercolor Society of North Carolina. His award-winning paintings are hung in North America, Europe and Australia. He currently lives with his family in Clayton, NC.

NC Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, Offers Works by Abigail Flynt and Olutomi Balogun

The North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, is presenting the Abigail Flynt & Olutomi Balogun Artists-in-Residence Show, on view through Jan. 15, 2022. Almost all of their pieces will be available for purchase and can be taken home immediately.

Abigail Flynt was born near the rice fields of rural southwest Arkansas. Working as a farm hand during the summers, she developed a love for the earth and soil. She graduated Cum Laude with a BFA from Southern Arkansas University as a first generation college student in 2015. Afterwards, Flynt chose clay to be her medium, hearkening back to her summers in the garden. She was awarded an artist residency at the North Carolina Pottery Center in 2021.

Currently Flynt's ceramic work focuses on class disparities in the United States. She uses the wisdom of southern colloquialisms to inform the direction of her work, and raw forged clays to deepen the concepts present in her work. The goal of Flynt's work is to take often undervalued aspects of rural southern culture and elevate them by giving them a platform on her ceramic work.

Olutomi Balogun says, "Paint and clay, because of their physical properties, have always been media I felt I could effectively express my thoughts and feelings through. Both art forms are forging in the sense that no mistake is ever permanent. Each step in the creation process offers the choice to accept what is there or to begin again and discover something new through the composition and conceptual process."

"My artwork draws from my personal life; I believe creating art influenced by life experiences creates an opportunity to connect with the viewer intimately," adds Balogun. "The branches and roots motifs in my work represent many perspectives from different viewpoints. First, the notions of seeking identity from the lens of being born in a multicultural blended family. It also addresses the lens of seeking beauty as an African American woman. Lastly, the roots and branches are shaped through the lens of knowing Christ."

STARworks in Star, NC, Offers Glass Holiday Ornament Sale

Thousands of handblown glass ornaments in a variety of shapes and colors will be available at the STARworks Holiday Ornament Sale, Dec. 4 - 18, 2021. Online sales begin Dec. 6 at (www.STARworksNC.org).

Ornaments and other holiday themed glass decorations are handcrafted by STARworks artists, interns and resident artists. In addition to the familiar ball ornaments, STARworks glassblowers have brought back the popular star ornaments,

"These sculptures are inspired by my love for nature and the personal connection I have with it through Biblical texts and life experiences. Certain elements of my art work resonate specifically with words spoken from Jesus to His disciples and symbolize its transformative power in my life. They are visual metaphors of various life experiences in tandem with the processes of spiritual growth, development, and maturity. Like the stages of a seed, my work parallels the essence of God in all things and how each stage of life endures different seasons; and yet, "like a tree planted by rivers of living water" and with deeply anchored roots, we remain resilient through seasons of lack and plenty."

The mission of the Center is Sharing North Carolina's Clay Stories, Past and Present. By doing so, we promote public awareness and appreciation of the history, heritage, and ongoing tradition of pottery making in North Carolina through educational programs, public services, collection and preservation, and research and documentation.

"The North Carolina Pottery Center showcases the remarkable history and ongoing tradition of pottery making in North Carolina. Located in Seagrove, one of the state's key historical and contemporary pottery-producing regions, the Center is your first stop in exploring North Carolina's rich clay heritage. The state's pottery communities range from the mountains to the sea, and it is that wide-ranging diversity of styles, techniques, and history that the Center preserves and protects. Our permanent exhibit & collection of more than eight hundred pieces of pottery, artifacts, and photographs traces North Carolina's pottery history from prehistoric Native Americans to the present. The display interprets the impact of social, technological, and economic change on the state's most unique cultural resource. Changing exhibitions of historical and contemporary work are also on display.

Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, Features Works by Stephen Hayes

The Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, will present Stephen Hayes: Voices of Future's Past, on view from Nov. 13 through Mar. 20, 2022.

Born in Durham, NC, Hayes is the 2020 recipient of the 1858 Contemporary Southern Art Prize. He is a creator who works with a variety of mediums – sculpture, casting, knitting, woodcuts, video, and audio – to explore issues of race and economics in the United States. The installation, Cash Crop features 15 life-size concrete statues chained to a pallet, representing the 15 million people who were transported as slaves from Africa to America.

Voices of Future's Past explores the legacy of growing up black in America. The works invite the viewer to participate, bringing a new depth to the experience of viewing art. In the Cash Crop installation, viewers walk between the figures, stepping over iron chains, connecting with the human experience of the atrocity of the transatlantic slave trade. Voices of Future's Past allows visitors to listen to the voices of young black men describing their experiences while looking at the face of an adult.

Hayes writes, "Like the works of contemporary American artist such as Willie Cole or Radcliffe Bailey, my work centers around finding beauty and understanding between myself, as a black male artist, and the nature of the object. My work fuses the past and the present, generally based on sociocultural and economic themes, highlighting American history as it relates to race, identity, and stereotypes in the areas of capitalism, commodification of beings, and the subsequent effects of cultural representation."

On CAM's grounds, the first figurative representation of African Americans, entitled Boundless in the Cape Fear region will be installed. Hayes has cast United States Colored Troops (USCT) descendants, USCT re-enactors, military veterans, and community members to be a part of this new work of art. This project will promote social change by illuminating this little-known story of African American freedom fighters that will provide a counterpoint to the narrative of the Civil War told by the built environment of the entire South.

Art in Bloom Gallery in Wilmington, NC, Features Works by Jeff Chase

Art in Bloom Gallery in Wilmington, NC, is presenting Jeff Chase: Night, guest photographer, on view through Jan. 9, 2022.

Night features the work of Jeff Chase, photographer and painter who lives in Wilmington, NC. This body of work continues an ongoing theme... capturing a moment in time gone unnoticed by others.

Chase states that, "Photography has been a passion for me since I got my first camera at age 6. It was a Brownie Box Camera which introduced me to the idea of capturing a moment in time which, most likely, no one else saw. At age 14, I set up my own darkroom and would spend hours trying to edit and perfect what I had seen through the camera's lens. In high school and in college I furthered my education by taking all the photography classes available."

"Once digital photography became the norm, I continued to advance my skills by learning Photoshop and Adobe Lightroom," adds Chase. "These tools have furthered the way photographers can use their photos to 'paint' imagery that they saw in their mind's eye, images that were only imagined while looking through the lens of a camera. This level of advancement has opened a new world for me, allowing me to not only capture images but also to interpret what I see. However, after all these years, I am still after the same thing – trying to capture a moment in time that has gone unnoticed by anyone else. It is truly a passion that will keep me fascinated the rest of my life."

In honor of Katherine Cherry, a display of her jewelry is included in this exhibit. Cherry did many things and did them well. One of those things was working with metal and making jewelry. She told people that she started taking jewelry classes at the suggestion of her husband, Tim Cherry. Soon she was hooked. Katherine took many classes and workshops at Pullen Arts Center, she used the studio there weekly and made many friends. Cherry's work was earthy and natural. It celebrates the materials and techniques she used to make it. From steel to Sterling, copper, brass, pearls, and stones, from enameling to fold forming she mastered material and techniques, sharing what she learned with others. Cherry would roll her

Charlotte Russell Contemporary in Raleigh Features Works by Abie Harris, Maggie Perrin-Key, and Jennifer Small

Charlotte Russell Contemporary in Raleigh, NC, is presenting Collecting Moments, featuring works by Abie Harris, Maggie Perrin-Key, and Jennifer Small, on view through Dec. 16, 2021.

Featured artists collect memories and moments from everyday life, architecture, and their surroundings as inspiration for their colorful works on view.

For Raleigh, NC-based artist Abie Harris, visualizing architectural concepts was the essence of his work as the University Architect at NC State University. Creating forms and exploring their relationships with color were the foundations of this work and now are the foundations of Harris' paintings and drawings. Visual structure presents an ongoing exploration of forms, color, and their interrelationships.

Work by Maggie Perrins-Key

Maggie Perrin-Key (Roanoke, VA) uses color palettes connected to specific memories and familiar shapes to capture and abstract what memories look like. Perrin-Key activates the space with movement while maintaining flat blocks of color. She begins a painting by first recording the memory in colored pencil on paper less than eight inches on either side. This step before blowing the composition up into larger than life size allows for a moment of translation; from brain and body, to small paper recording, and finally to fully rendered encapsulating painting. She takes memories that exist in the ether and brings them into fully bodied life.

Philadelphia, PA-based artist Jen Small's works are abstract in appearance but actually record a journey of a day in the life — a practice that starts with documentation through the lens of a camera. Her eyes act as a viewfinder narrowing down the panoramic into single frames. Compiled snapshots represent blocks of time during her process of seeing and recording aesthetic significance in ordinary routine. She sees curious formal elements in common things waiting to be manipulated and transformed into abstract compositions. She collages together the single framed images, simplifies and renders them in paint to create the lines, shapes, and hues that fill the canvas. Abstracted layers build shallow spaces that depict her translation of the everyday.

Duke University in Durham, NC, is presenting In Relation to Power: Politically Engaged Works from the Collection, on view at the Nasher Museum of Art, on Duke University's Central Campus, through Feb. 13, 2022.

The last decade has been one of the most politically divisive in recent memory. The rise of cable television and the twenty-four-hour news cycle in the 1980s, followed by the ubiquitous spread of information (and misinformation) online and through social media in the subsequent decades, has led to a fevered pitch of political rhetoric in recent years. Philosopher and theorist Marshall McLuhan noted that artists are often first responders to shifting political winds, and declared that art acts as an early alarm system to social and psychic dynamics. In Relation to Power: Politically Engaged Works from the Collection reveals some of the ways in which artists address political systems and either comment on, consent to, and in many cases vehemently resist the dynamics of inequitable systems of power found therein.

This exhibition is loosely organized into three thematic groupings, providing a rough framework through which to view artistic strategies of commentary and critique. Image & Ideology demonstrates the unambiguous ways in which imagery often symbolizes or represents political ideas. Text & Subtext includes works that employ language, often paired with images, to further comment on power dynamics. The Body Politic explores the incorporation of the body to confront, resist, and reverse long-standing abusive authority, implicit and explicit bias, and violent, corporeal aggression. In doing so, artists use the body as a site of immense political consequence and a potential agent of change.

Over the last several years and despite greater public scrutiny of inequitable policies, individual liberties remain vulnerable to restrictive and harmful legislation. Artists play a vital role in exposing and confronting these oppressive practices. Including work by artists throughout the globe, In Relation to Power offers a glimpse into artistic gestures that encourage reflection on aspects of power, the nature of authority and authoritarian practices, and the ongoing struggle for political agency.

Mel Chin and Boris Orlov comment on the destructive forces of imperialism with imagery that takes the form of militaristic symbols. May Stevens turns a similarly critical eye toward white male patriarchy in Big Daddy, Paper Doll. Dimitri Balmertants and Anatoli Glinov glorify labor and prosperity in support of Soviet values. Mexican printmaker Reynaldo Olivares adopts an equally propagandistic message in his prints of Socialist architects Karl Marx, Friedrich Engels, and Vladimir Lenin, and the Mexican revolutionary Emilio Zapata. The juxtaposition of two very different renderings of George Washington by Mose Tolliver and Jacques Reich allows for a critical reconsideration of a figure who has become emblematic of democratic values. Collectively, these works underscore how images can reinforce, critique, or comment on ideological beliefs.

Visual artists often incorporate language and text into their work. Invariably, this text has both an explicit meaning and an implicit meaning, or subtext. Artists in this gallery below, creatively leverage the power of subtext in a variety of ways to provide critical commentary, additional insight, or simply reinforce their explicit messages.

Language and text are central to the practice of Edgar Heap of Birds, who incorporates three-word phrases in his "wall lyrics" to convey both dire and hopeful messages about Indigenous identity. Sherman Fleming uses images that represent words, syllables, or phrases in his rebus paintings to create puzzles that call out harmful racial stereotypes. For decades, the Guerilla Girls have incorporated the language and graphics of the advertising industry that boldly confront gender and racial inequities. Artists such as Wendy Red Star, Jaune Quick-to-See Smith, and Alexander Kosolapov combine humorous phrases, commercial product names, and corporate logos, with charged imagery to

The term "body politic" refers to a political entity such as a country, city or state, or group of people, often represented as a metaphorical human body. In this exhibition, "body politic" is a double entendre, referring simultaneously to the artists and their political interests as well as the ways in which they incorporate the body into their work.

For artists such as Zanele Muholi, Renee Cox, Genevieve Gaignard, and others, self-portraits serve as a locus for protest, empowerment, and liberation. In works by Ai Wei Wei and Gary Simmons, the absence of a body is used to draw attention to issues of cultural authority and the ways in which educational systems may perpetuate inequities, respectively. Nina Chanel Abney, Alex Bradley Cohen, Kara Walker, and others present Black bodies subjected to racialized violence, while Barbara Chase-Riboud and Peter Williams pay homage to two cultural figures known for protesting anti-Black violence: civil rights leader Malcolm X, rendered as an abstract sculpture, and activist-athlete Colin Kaepernick, surrounded by a halo of aspirational words. Together, the works in this gallery, below, remind us of the physical body's political power and poignancy.

The exhibit explores the intersection of the outdoor experience and art through paintings, video projection, a mountain of paper cranes and an installation of skies. Singerman's work aims to create an immersive experience by evoking the energy of the outdoor spaces that inspire us, from mountains and valleys to skies and fields. Says Singerman, "Spending time in nature - specifically riding bikes, running and hiking - is a mindful practice and brings me real joy. With these projects I hope to conjure up feelings of being in vast outdoor spaces that create a sense of wonder. I made Paper Mountain by folding over 1,000 paper cranes. The flock of paper birds is suspended from the ceiling, forming a floating mountain." Work by Aaron Douglas

The Johnson Collection's annual collaboration with Wofford College in Spartanburg, SC, returns this fall. Elevation from Within: The Study of Art at Historically Black Colleges and Universities is on view at Wofford College's Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center through Dec. 15, 2021. Originally presented at TJC Gallery in 2019, Elevation from Within pays homage to HBCU alumni and professors whose educational backgrounds chronicle a vital chapter of American history and whose aesthetic achievements have made an indelible mark on this nation's art. Presented by the Johnson Collection and curated by Dr. Leo Twigg, Elevation from Within will be strategically placed at HBCUs with connections to the highlighted artists in 2022. For further information visit (thejohnsoncollection.org).

Work by Jesse Aguirre

The Morris Center for Lowcountry Heritage in Ridgeland, SC, is presenting VeMe, a collaborative exhibit featuring the works of four Latinx artists of the Lowcountry, on view through Jan. 22, 2022. The exhibition is a partnership between the Morris Center and Palmetto Luna Arts. The works of artists Jesse Aguirre, Luz Celeste Figueroa, Nathalia Celeste Roca and Yajaira Surret explore their identities as Latinos, artists and immigrants in the Lowcountry. The name VeMe is a nod to the artists' home countries of Venezuela and Mexico and also means "see me" in Spanish. "With this exhibit we wanted to highlight the diversity of our community and present some exciting, vibrant artists whose stories need to be heard. The challenges and triumphs of being immigrants in the Lowcountry are reflected meaningfully in their works," says Executive Director Tamara Herring. For further information visit (www.morrisheritagecenter.org).

Jan-Ru Wan (American) "The Noise We Make and the Shadow We Create", 2018. Screen-printed recycled plastic, thread, and rusted bells dipped in wax. Collection of the Artist, Installation View 1

The Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, is presenting The Shadow We Create, a powerful new exhibition featuring works by Jan-Ru Wan, Mary Bowron and Wille Cole, on view through Jan. 31, 2022. The Shadow We Create raises questions about societal prescriptions, race, servitude, fear, and the consequences of not speaking through compelling works by artists Mary Bowron, Willie Cole, and Jan-Ru Wan. The exhibition is named after Jan-Ru Wan's stunning work The Noise We Make and the Shadow We Create, an assemblage of hundreds of rusted bells rendered silent by immersion in wax. The Beauties, Willie Cole's full-scale prints are pulled from blackened crushed and hammered ironing boards. With titles including Bessie, Carolina, Jonny Mae and Jane, each print is named for a woman in Cole's family. For further information call the Museum at 910/395-5999, visit (CameronArtMuseum.org) or visit (<https://bit.ly/3yF6uZj>).

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be December 24th for the January 2022 issue and Jan. 24th for the Feb. 2022 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. But don't wait for the last minute - send your info now. And where do you send that info? E-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com). Act now so you won't be sorry later.

Virtual Exhibitions

Through Apr. 30, 2022 - SC Watermedia Society's "2021 Spring Digital Show", featuring 100 works by 67 artists. Congratulations to artist Marcia Pyner for her work, "I Lift My Hands to Heaven", which took first place! Additionally, Jennifer Edwards and Judy Prestridge were honored with second and third place for their works, "Villa Capri" and "Waterfall", respectively. Thank you to every artist who entered the show. We were delighted by this year's collection of works and believe it offers a promising outlook for the "44th Annual National Exhibition". The complete Spring Digital Show Gallery includes two additional honorable mention pieces, commentary from juror Mick McAndrews, and more than ninety-five other powerful pieces of art. View the Complete Gallery at this link (<https://scwatermedia.com/sds21/>).

Allendale

Salkehatchie Arts Center, 939 N. Main St., Allendale. Ongoing - Featuring a retail store offering works by artists from the Salkehatchie region including Allendale, Bamberg, Barnwell, Colleton, and Hampton Counties. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/584-6084.

Aiken

Aiken Center for the Arts, 122 Laurens St., SW, Aiken. Main Gallery, Through Dec. 3 - "Heather LaHaise". Beginning with Snoopy as my favorite muse, I have been drawing and painting dogs since I was a child. My love for the iconic beagle was the first hint as to what direction my art would take. Today, dogs give me a voice and I hope to give them one as well. While living in New York City, the urban landscape influenced my work and I noticed how dogs were often a part of city life. My compositions soon began to combine abstraction and realism. Layers of color and graphic spaces with dripping paint would become the backdrop for my dogs. Still, I strive to transcend the singular category of dog art. Through Dec. 3 - "Athens Metal Arts Guild & Metal Arts Guild of Georgia". Formed in 2013, the goal of the Athens Metal Arts Guild is to provide education, promote public awareness and develop interest in the metal arts through activities related to metal-smithing and jewelry making. Metal Arts Guild of Georgia is a nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing, enriching, and nurturing the creativity and community of metalsmiths in Georgia. It is a diverse organization of professional metalsmiths, jewelry designers, instructors, hobbyists, suppliers, gallery owners, and those who support the fine art of metalsmithing. Aiken Artist Guild Gallery, Through Dec. 3 - Pamela Moore & Madeline Sherman. Dec. 9 - Jan. 21, 2022 - Luiza Somodi & Betty Austin. A reception will be held on Dec. 9, from 6-8pm. Brooks Gallery, Through Dec. 3 - "Hollywood Secrets". Aiken Resident, Jacqueline Osborn curates the Hollywood Secrets Exhibition from the memorabilia of Casey Maxwell Clair and Christopher Beaumont's families. As kids growing up in Hollywood, Casey and Chris knew their lives were different than the other kids. Sometimes in a good way - visiting a movie set, going to famous people's homes, getting an inside look at the "magic" of Hollywood. At other times, their lives were tragic and sad and all the glamour of Tinseltown couldn't make it right again. Each had their own path to take before they met as adults and as they say, "are still living happily ever after!" Hours: Tue.-Fri., 9:30am-5:30pm. Contact: 803/641-9094 or at (www.aikencentreforthearts.org).

Bluffton

Society of Bluffton Artists Gallery/Learning Center, 6 & 8 Church Street, corner of Calhoun and Church Street, Bluffton. Dec. 4 & 5 - "Holiday Blitz Shopping Event," featuring a Pop-Up Porch event. Get some holiday shopping done while enjoying the perfect spot for watching the Bluffton Christmas Parade. The public is invited to The Society of Bluffton Artists (SOBA) porch for a local artisan shopping event from 10am to 4pm, Dec. 4, and from 11am to 4pm, Dec. 5. The pop-up porch event will feature hand-created home decor, wreaths, ornaments, jewelry and other works by SOBA's artist members. SOBA's art gallery is located at 6 Church Street in Old Town Bluffton, a perfect vantage point for the eclectic Christmas parade. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by over 100 area artists, with all work moderately priced. Changing shows every six weeks. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 11:30am-3pm. Contact: 843/757-6586 or at (www.sobagallery.com).

Camden

Bassett Gallery, Arts Center of Kershaw County, 810 Lytleton Street, Camden. Through Dec. 17 - Featuring works by members of the Visual Arts Society, an affiliate of the Arts Center of Kershaw County. This group of local artists will present pieces from many art forms including oil, acrylic, watercolor, mixed media, sculpture, photography, pottery, ceramics, and fabric art. Ongoing - The Arts Center of Kershaw County is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that brings energy, creativity, and experience of the Arts to all ages. The Arts Center strives to make both the Visual, Music and Performing Arts an integral part of the life of our community. Admission: Free. Hours: closed now due to COVID-19, but varies by exhibit. Contact: 803/425-7676 or at (www.fineartscen-ter.org).

Charleston

Avery Research Center for African History and Culture, at the College of Charleston, 125 Bull St., Charleston. Ongoing - Exhibits on view include: "Since 1920: Zeta Phi Beta Centennial". The Gamma Zeta chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Incorporated presents a centennial exhibit filled with the rich history of the sorority in print and paraphernalia. Visitors can see in-depth the programming, philanthropy and reach of Zeta Phi Beta during their 100 years. "The Water Keeps Rising" Hip-hop artist and activist Benny Starr has created an interactive exhibit based on data from the Avery's State of Racial Disparities Report in Charleston County. This exhibit will create an immersive experience for visitors. In the areas of civic engagement, racial disparities, the environment and performance art/music, this exhibit will aim to connect the dots from historical data and archival information up to the present conditions of the Lowcountry. "Resilient". Local artist Chris "Kolpeace" Johnson will highlight the power of being resilient with this work that recognizes African Americans who have shown strength through adversity including the late local activist Muhiyidin D'baha and Cynthia Brown, who faced life in prison after being convicted of homicide as a juvenile. These pieces are tributes to memorialize the impactful strength of an unsung hero in the community, engaging the soul and spirit. "The African Origins of Mathematics". Charleston resident and artist Robert "King David" Ross highlights the direct impact Africa has had on modern mathematics in this exhibit. Showcasing the first math instrument, the Ishango bone, the exhibit allows visitors to see the influence Africa has had on every aspect of life. Admission: Free. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm, with guided tours at 10:30am, 11:30am, 1:30pm, 2:30pm, and 3:30pm. Contact: 843/805-5507 or visit (www.cofc.edu/avery).

Work by Faye Sullivan

Charleston Artist Guild Gallery, 160 East Bay St., Charleston. Dec. 1 - 31 - "DUET," a collection of works by featured artists Faye Sullivan and Susanne Frenzel. A reception will be held on Dec. 3, from 5-8pm. Faye Sullivan is a former art instructor and graduate of the University of East Carolina with a B.A. and Master's Degree in Art. Faye moved to the Lowcountry from Massachusetts fifteen years ago and was inspired by the beauty that surrounded her and decided her focus as an artist should be seascapes and marsh scenes. Susanne Frenzel (Suzel) was born in Germany and received a B.A./M.A. from the University of Dortmund and a M.A. from the University of Kaiserslautern in Germany. She worked, lived and traveled through Europe until she moved to the United States in 1990. Living in different parts of the world has significantly influenced Susanne's work. Ongoing - Featuring an exhibit of works by over 80 plus members of CAG who display a wealth of talent in different media including, oils, acrylics, pastels, watercolor, decor, wreaths, ornaments, jewelry and other works by SOBA's artist members. SOBA's art gallery is located at 6 Church Street in Old Town Bluffton, a perfect vantage point for the eclectic Christmas parade. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by over 100 area artists, with all work moderately priced. Changing shows every six weeks. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 11:30am-3pm. Contact: 843/722-2454 or at (www.charlestonartistguild.com).

City Gallery at Joseph P. Riley, Jr. Waterfront Park, 34 Proileau Street, Charleston. Through Dec. 19 - "Prototype for a Landscape," an exhibition featuring works by Alice Keeney, Mary Stuart Hall, and Kate Hooray Osmond. The exhibit explores the themes of Power, Transcendence, and Generation within our land. The installation challenges our individualistic perceptions of environment by focusing on the communion we hold with our land and with each other. With over 50 new artworks that range from small black and white photographs to large, bright printwork and gilded paintings, the show reflects a shared humanity and reveals that there is much more to a landscape when we consider the connections beyond what can be seen. Keeney, Hall, and Osmond are giving a permanence to the often ephemeral or invisible structures surrounding us. Due to the ongoing situation related to COVID-19 in South Carolina, City Gallery guests are requested to reserve in advance for free, timed admission online via (www.charleston-sc.gov/citygallery) or by phone by calling the gallery during business hours. Face masks are required of all guests and staff. Contact: 843/958-6484 or (www.charleston-sc.gov/citygallery).

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Gallery 8 & 9, Through Jan. 9, 2022 - "Romare Bearden: Abstraction". With some 55 paintings, works on paper and collages, Romare Bearden: Abstraction is the first exhibition to fully examine and contextualize the artist's significant body of abstract work. Recognized as one of the most creative and original visual artists of the 20th century, Romare Bearden's prolific and distinguished career spanned nearly 50 years.

"La ferme de la Groue à Osny," 1883, by Paul Gauguin (French, 1840-1903). Oil on canvas, 15 x 18 1/4 inches. Loan courtesy of a private collection.

This exhibition, which debuts at the Gibbes before traveling to venues across the country, also includes pieces created before and after his most direct engagement with abstraction (among these, the figurative collages for which he is most well-known). The exhibition emphasizes the importance of abstraction in the artist's oeuvre, its significant contribution to the overall Bearden narrative and marks the artist's place within the New York avant-garde of the 1950s-60s. Gallery 2 & 3, Through Feb. 20, 2022 - "Light Effects: The French Impressionists". The works of French masters Edgar Degas, Paul Cézanne, Auguste Renoir, Paul Gauguin, and others drawn to the short loose brushstrokes, bright colors, and focus on modern life that became the language of Impressionism are highlighted in this exhibition. Featuring artworks from private collections located across the country, including Charleston, this show is part of the Gibbes collectors' exhibition series and is organized with the assistance of The Fine Art Group. This exhibition is made possible by support provided by Lynch Cracraft Wealth Management of Raymond James; UBS; PURE Insurance, The Cuddy Family; Jack Hoey; Hall and Christine McGee, and Judith Green and Dr. Michael Fritz. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse.

The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Englehart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Gibbes Visiting Artist Studios, Session IV, Through Dec. 5 - Daisy McClellan, McClellan, who moved to Charleston in 2020, launched a full-fledged jewelry-making business that took her on tour around the country selling her designs at various boutiques and maker markets. In 2014, she and her husband opened a brick-and-mortar retail shop in San Francisco where they featured over 200 artists and hosted creative workshops. In addition, she designed a clothing collection for women and young children, founded a bi-annual shopping market for local boutiques and worked with several artists on collaborations. The artists utilized century-old traditional techniques like punch needle rug making and sewing in new and creative ways to create functional objects. Striving to spark joy with every creation, she hopes her work can encourage appreciation for lasting handmade craftsmanship. Session IV, Through Dec. 5 - Susan Klein. Klein is an associate professor of art at the College of Charleston. She has shown her work nationally and internationally and is a 2020-2021 recipient of a Pollock-Krasner Foundation Grant. While in residence at the Gibbes, she plans to work on mixed media paintings and drawings inspired by her sculptural work. Ideas that influence her work include the way individuals imbue objects with the power to hold memory, how the living is tied to the dead and connections to past and present. Museum visitors will experience the artist working from fired sculptures to paintings in the studio so they can see the connections between two-dimensional and three-dimensional works. Ruth and Bill Baker Art Sales Gallery, Through Dec. 5 - "New Histories: Cut Paper Dioramas by Jen Swearington". Swearington grew up in rural Indiana, drawing since she was little. She studied fine art and art history, earning a BFA in Sculpture from Pratt Institute in 1997 and MFA in Fibers from the Savannah College of Art and Design in 2000, spent a year as Artist in Residence at Arrumont School of Arts and Crafts, and then settled in Asheville, NC. In 2003, she started sewing original apparel pieces and printing her illustrations on them, founding Jennythreads Studio, by which she has since made an independent, creative living. In 2013, her comprehensive how-to manual, "Printing on Fabric: Techniques with Screens, Stencils, Inks and Dyes" was published by Lark Crafts. Beginning spring of 2018, Swearington traveled abroad for several month-long art residencies in Bulgaria, Mexico, Finland, and Greece. On these adventures, she filled sketchbooks with drawings and created collapsible carousel pop-up books that could travel back in her carry-on suitcase. In March 2020, Swearington relocated to Charleston and continues her creative journey here on the coast as a 2021 Gibbes Museum Visiting Artist. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston School of the Arts, 161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Dec. 11 - Crossed Looks, featuring the first solo US exhibition by Namsa Leuba, a Swiss-Guinean photographer and art director. The show will feature over 90 works from the photographer's projects in Guinea, South Africa, Nigeria, and Benin, and it will premiere new work created in Tahiti. As a photographer working across documentary, fashion, and performance, Namsa Leuba's images explore the fluid visual identity of the African diaspora. With a dual heritage between Guinea and Switzerland, Leuba draws inspiration from her own experience growing up between two different cultural traditions. Leuba's images are influenced by the Animist traditions of her mother's family in Guinea Conakry, and the visual codes of statues, masquerades, and religious ceremonies in West Africa. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 11am-4pm; until 7pm on Thur. and by appt. Contact: 843/953-4422 or at (<http://halsey.cofc.edu/exhibitions/>).

Redux Contemporary Art Center, featuring Redux Studios, 1056 King Street, Charleston. Ongoing - In May, 2017, Redux relocated to 1056 King Street with 38 studios, three galleries, a larger print shop, classroom, dark room, and photo studio. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 11am-4pm, or by appt. Contact: 843/722-0697 or at (www.reduxstudios.org).

Meeting Street trolley car making stops in the snow. Captured by Morton Brailsford Paine, February 1899. Courtesy of The Charleston Museum.

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Lowcountry Image Gallery,

Through Mar. 27, 2022 - "A Winter Wonderland in Color: Snow Scenes of Charleston". Heavy snowfalls are a rarity in Charleston as the Lowcountry is more well known for its mild winters. However, our temperate winter climate occasionally experiences a snow storm that blankets the city in white for more than a mere hour or two. This exhibit showcases colorized photographs of remarkable snow days captured by residents of Charleston dating to the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Ongoing - "Becoming Americans: Charleston in the Revolutionary War". Charleston played a critical role in the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the wealthiest of the thirteen rebellious colonies and Charleston was its key port to maintain its trade with the outside world. The British would make three attempts against the city during the Revolutionary War. Their defeat at the Battle of Sullivan's Island on June 28, 1776 was a crucial patriot victory, which convinced many that independence could be achieved. The Siege of Charleston, meanwhile, was the longest siege of the Revolutionary War and the largest battle in South Carolina. These events and others are chronicled in the new exhibit, which will also feature artifacts and period images that have not been exhibited at the Museum before. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charlestonmuseum.org).

Columbia Area

Work by Xaviera Simmons

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Guignard Gallery, Dec. 2 - May 22, 2022 - "22 South Carolinians," a companion show to the major exhibition "30 Americans", visitors to the Columbia Museum of Art are invited to view new art, meet artists, and create art themselves while enjoying free admission during Free First Thursday at the CMA on Thursday, Dec. 2, from 6-8pm. The evening features a meet-and-greet with the artists of 22 South Carolinians as well as the sixth edition of the popular Sip & Scribble, an artful and soulful coloring book party from CMA affinity group the Friends of African American Art & Culture (FAAAC). "22 South Carolinians" features the work of Cameron Alexander, Tarleton Blackwell, Jai-Anna Carter, Ija Charles, Robert Coffey, Angela Corbett, Michael Dantzier, B. Dukes, Raishad Glover, Malik Greene, Sanford Greene, Tonya Gregg, Roni Henderson-Day, Terry K. Hunter, Dogon Krigga, Ernest "Chicken Man" Lee, J. Renee, Ce Scott-Fitts, Isaac Udogwu, Cedric Umoja, Sabrina White, and Thomas the Younger. Through Jan. 9, 2022 - "Michael Kenna: Venezia". Taken over 20 years, this photographic series is a moody valentine to one of the most miraculous cities on Earth. Venice (Venezia in Italian) is a floating world that sits at the crossroads of the East and West. While there are millions of travel photographs of Venice in existence, artist photographer Michael Kenna infuses his with distinct magic. Prowling the city while it sleeps, he shoots in black and white. His long, extended exposures drink in the electric lights and add a blurrily quality at times, capturing the buoyancy of gondolas rocking gently on the water. Elsewhere, stone sculptures twist lithely in their architectural niches. Through Jan. 17, 2022 - "30 Americans". Drawn from the Rubell Family Collection in Miami, 30 Americans features an incredible "Who's Who" list from among the most acclaimed Black artists of our time, including Nick Cave, Glenn Ligon, Lorna Simpson, Mickalene Thomas, and Kehinde Wiley. There is no one monolithic experience represented by these African American artists; this exhibition offers an intersectional series of varying gender, sexuality, and class perspectives. Traveling throughout the United States for a decade with each museum tailoring its own selection of works, the exhibition has helped fuel the drive to fill historical gaps in American museum collections. Organized by the Rubell Museum. Through Jan. 1, 2022 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuuseum.org).

McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. Through Dec. 20 - "Carolina Knives: The Roots of a Revival". A reception will be held on Aug. 5, from 5:30-8pm. Showcasing over 100 examples of utilitarian and decorative knives, Carolina Knives will feature the work of makers from North and South Carolina. Since the mid-20th century, custom knife-making has enjoyed a nationwide renaissance. Outdoor enthusiasts, people who hunt and fish, military personnel, reenactors, and chefs have been inspired to take up making knives for their own and others' use. The Carolinas proved to be fertile ground for a custom knifemaking revival. The South Carolina Association of Knifemakers got its start in August 1980 at the Third Annual Gun & Knife Show in Aiken, SC. The North Carolina Knifemakers Guild was founded in June 1992. Most recently, in 2020, the SC Knifemakers' Guild launched in the Upstate. Through Mar. 5, 2022 - "Artists Inside Outsider Art," featuring works by well-known self-taught southern artists like Thornton Dial, Bessie Harvey, and R.A. Miller. Outsider art can have many definitions, but most agree that it includes forms of creative expression that exist outside accepted cultural norms or the realm of "fine art". Primarily self-taught, these "outsider" artists create on the fringes, using bright colors and utilitarian materials like wood, clay, and metal to craft their messages. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. And, "Natural Curiosity: USC and the Evolution of Scientific Inquiry into the Natural World". Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. Contact: 803/777-7251 or at (<http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/mcks/>).

McMaster Gallery, room 119, basement level, McMaster Building, 1615 Senate Street, Columbia. Through Dec. 2 - "Darwin's Finches," a solo exhibition by Eloisa Guanlao. Guanlao approaches art with the perspective that our cultural environment shapes our socio-economic and political history and identity. Human-made culture can be unmade and transformed for the welfare of circadian cycles and natural, biological systems. "Darwin's Finches" are at once fossilized records and a critical examination of the myopia of nineteenth century positivist science that endures today. The wet collodion glass ambrotypes capture images of "stuffed" birds, sewn out of her daughters' outgrown clothes, that are endemic to the varied regions of the United States: Guanlao considered home at one point. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-4:30pm. Contact: Olga Dickey, Gallery Director, at 803/422-4289 or e-mail to (yukhno@mailbox.sc.edu).

701 Center for Contemporary Art, 701 Whaley St., Columbia. Main Gallery, Through Dec. 23 - "701 CCA South Carolina Biennial 2021", Through Dec. 23 - "Part II," featuring works by Susan Klein (Charleston), Flavia Lovatelli (Columbia), Susan Lenz (Columbia), Larry Merriman (Hartsville), Karen Oremus (Rock Hill), Quincy Pugh (Blythewood), Adrian Rhodes (Hartsville), Kristi Ryba (Charleston), Jessica Scott-Felder (Spartanburg), Jordan Sheridan (Columbia), Stephanie Sutton (Fort Mill), and Issac Udogwu (Columbia). The "701 CCA South Carolina Biennial 2021" is the sixth survey of South Carolina art taking place at 701 Center for Contemporary Art. As the successor of the South Carolina Triennial, 701 CCA's Biennial is the main regular event of its kind. The Biennial presents some of the best contemporary art produced statewide and is a juried, multimedia exhibition. The Jurors were Anita N. Bateman, Ph.D., Associate Curator, Modern and Contemporary Art, Museum of Fine Arts, Houston; Paul Barrett, Independent curator, Birmingham, Alabama; Cecelia Lucas Stucker Independent Curator and founder of both Curating & Collections and the Palmetto Curatorial Exchange, Columbia, South Carolina. Hours: Wed.-Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 803/238-2351 or at (www.701cca.org).

SC State Museum, 301 Gervais St., Columbia. Ongoing - "Bindings and Betweens: South Carolina Quilts". This new display traces the history and art of South Carolina made quilts. Featuring pieces from the museum's collection, the exhibition highlights both the objects and their makers for an in-depth look at the quilt making process and how it relates to cultural traditions throughout South Carolina history to the modern day. Dating from the early 19th century to the modern day, Bindings and Betweens will feature 43 quilts with a wide variety of styles and designs on display, highlighting traditions that were brought across oceans and passed down through generations. Through exploring these pieces, the exhibition aims to reveal the things that bind us together and the spaces and connections between us. Ongoing - "Early American Face Vessels from the George H. Meyer Collection". This new exhibit features collection of more than 100 early American face vessels, this exhibition offers a rare opportunity to trace the development of this tradition as it unfolded in regions east of the Mississippi River and Texas, from the 1820s to circa 1945, including around 20 early face vessels from South Carolina. Through Jan. 2, 2022 - "The Graphic Eye: South Carolina and the Intersection of Art and Design". From mass-produced media of the late 19th century to the concert posters of today, this exhibit explores South Carolina's strong and diverse connection to the graphic arts. Included in the show are prints, posters, commercial art and advertisements and more. Ongoing - "A Voice of Her Own: South Carolina Women in Politics". This exhibit celebrates the 100th Anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which guaranteed women the right to vote. This exhibit features objects, images and stories showing the ways South Carolina women engaged with the political history of our state. From tribal women leaders, to the first female Governor of the state, this exhibit shows how women worked to gain a voice of their own. The exhibit is free with museum general admission. The Crescent Café, second floor mezzanine of the Museum. The house menu offers a variety of baked goods, juices, coffee, hot chocolate and tea. Luncheon offerings include deli sandwiches and alternating daily soups, as well as grilled chicken salads and sandwiches. And let's not forget the house specialty: spectacular fudge, handmade on-site. Hours: Wed.-Sat., from 10am-5pm and Sun., from noon-5pm. Admission: Yes. Florence

SC83.135.1 Arelia Truesdale (1902-1981), c. 1940. Museum purchase. Image courtesy of the South Carolina State Museum. From Kershaw County, this piece is an example of strip quilting, a style popular among African American quilters. While Arelia Truesdale was also known for making Euro-American quilts, in this example she displayed the influence of West African textile traditions passed down through her family.

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Special Exhibits Gallery, Through Dec. 5 - "Alice Ravenel Huger Smith". This exhibition will be an introduction to the work of early 20th century South Carolina artist Alice Smith and her continuing artistic legacy in Southern art. It will coincide with the publication of "Alice: Alice Ravenel Huger Smith, Charleston Renaissance Artist". Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Additionally, the Community Gallery communicates the lives, stories and accomplishments of significant past and present citizens of Florence County and members of it's communities. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Education Gallery, Through Jan. 31, 2022 - "Chasing Blue: The History, Science and Art of Indigo". Art, Science and History combine in this multidisciplinary exploration of the Indigo plant. Children and families have the opportunity learn about the deep historical roots of indigo in South Carolina, view indigo-dyed textiles, understand the science of creating dye from the indigo plant, and take a Make-It-At-Home kit to create a simple weaving using yarn dyed with natural indigo. In the Museum's courtyard, visitors can interact with Indigofera Suffruticosa, the type of indigo plant grown in colonial South Carolina. Pee Dee History Gallery, Ongoing - This is the largest gallery space in the facility, comprising 3,300 sq. ft. of exhibit space. This permanent collections gallery occupies the entire second floor, east wing of the building. Artifacts are supported by historical images and narrative interpretation, giving a comprehensive introduction to the Pee Dee region from prehistory to the present. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Waters Gallery, Through Dec. 3 - "Chronic Rationalizations," featuring recent works by Lake City, SC, artist Roger Halligan. Halligan's sculptures and wall reliefs employ familiar symbols to examine the nature of psychological and physical boundaries. "We have personal boundaries that we may not even know exist until they are being threatened. We realize this when our brain sends warning signals to us," Halligan says. "But what if those warnings are triggered by false information?" Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. 2-5pm. Contact: 843/676-1200 or visit (www.floccomuseum.org).

Work by Yvette Cummings

University Place Gallery, Francis Marion University, 142 North Dargan Street, Florence. Through Dec. 16 - "Disruptive Experiences," featuring works by Yvette Cummings. It includes several newly completed works, as well as pieces which have been exhibited widely at a range of galleries nationally over the past two years. The show is comprised of a variety of media - skillfully executed sculpture, painting, and installation works - which operate as vehicles of narrative expression about the complexity of female adolescence in contemporary American culture. Damask patterning, florals, vivid colors, and teetering furniture sculptures present a variety of subjects for the viewer to consider. Her list of serious topics includes: surviving sexual assault, body shaming, the pressures of beauty, and other complex struggles of adolescence - all of which are further complicated by media and social norms facing young girls and women today. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-5pm. Contact: Colleen Critcher at 843/661-4637, 843/661-4638 or at (<https://www.fmarion.edu/universityplace/>).

Myrtle Beach / Grand Strand

Franklin G. Burroughs - Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through Dec. 19 - "Chellis Baird: Tethered". Based out of New York City, Spartanburg-SC native Chellis Baird (b. 1983) explores movement, dimension and fluidity in her woven paintings. Reconstructing the elements of a painting, Baird employs fabric, paint and wood to weave - not in the traditional sense - complex sculptural forms that expand beyond the edges of their frameworks. Inspired by Baird's passion for color, dance, fashion and textiles, the tangled, monochromatic works featured in "Tethered beckon viewers to explore their winding and intrinsically meditative compositions. The artist hopes viewers will "immerse themselves in the tacility of the human hand and spirit, with enough space to fill in and release their own emotions." Baird received her BFA in textiles from Rhode Island School of Design and studied studio art at the Art Students League in New York City. Through Dec. 31 - "Reynier Llanes: When There Is No Frontier." is an exhibition of 59 fantastical paintings in oil, watercolor and coffee, spanning the last six years of Miami-based painter Reynier Llanes' career. The work stems from the artist's fascination with the creation of parallel universes as we escape into our imagined worlds, seeking respite and comfort from our ever-changing and sometimes daunting realities. Responding to shared ongoing crises that creep into our everyday consciousness, sometimes leaving

North Charleston

Work by Andrea Lopez Chen

Park Circle Gallery, formerly the Olde Village Community Building, 4820 Jenkins Avenue, in the bustling Park Circle neighborhood of North Charleston. Dec. 1 - 30 - Featuring concurrent solo exhibitions of mixed media works by Rebecca Horne (West Columbia, SC) and Andrea Lopez Chen (Portland, OR). A reception will be held on Dec. 3, from 5-7pm. Featuring mixed media works in Rebecca Horne's exhibit, "Abstraction Distraction", aim to distract the viewer from the present moment and instead transport them to a space of joy and tranquility. Led by the movement of paint, Horne selects colors and textures to create pieces that invoke emotion and inspire thought. In her exhibition "Dreaming of Home", Chen presents a series of mixed media paintings that depict her nostalgia for the objects and memories of her youth in Colombia, South America. Her colorful and intuitive paintings utilize acrylic paint, collage, stencils, and various textures that draw the viewer into a whimsical story of her past. Ongoing - In addition to the monthly exhibitions, the "gift shop" at the North Charleston City Gallery, which features a variety of items by local artists, will also be moved to PCG. Cultural Arts will also continue to host art workshops and recurring meetings for art groups and guilds in the space once gatherings are safe to resume. Admission: Free. Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina, from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in hundreds of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Hours: call ahead for hours. Contact: call 803-531-1662 or at (www.cecilwilliams.com).

Winthrop University Galleries, Rutledge Building, Winthrop University, Rock Hill. Rutledge Gallery, Through Dec. 10 - "Red Delta," a collaborative exhibition by Reuben Bloom '11 and Matthew Steele that explores the loneliness, exploitation and violence of misconstrued male identity through a collection of found objects, photographs and drawings. Bloom is an artist and creative director based in Charlotte, NC. Bloom earned a BFA from Winthrop University and has exhibited at the Ross Galleries and Goodyear Arts. Steele is an artist and graphic designer also living and working in Charlotte. Steele has a BFA in sculpture from Indiana University, has exhibited nationally and is represented in collections including AXA, Art in Embassies, and Beacon Partners. Elizabeth Dunlap Patrick Gallery, Through Dec. 10 - "AntiBodies," featuring an installation by Sabine Gruffat. Gruffat's "AntiBodies" is a virtual reality (VR) artwork and multimedia installation that explores body dysmorphia - a fixation on perceived flaws of one's body - and gender and race representation in the context of eating disorders and self-image. By making the experience tactile and immediate through video, digital images and virtual reality, AntiBodies conveys the compulsive and anxious nature of body image issues and eating disorders while pointing to ways media and social pressures enforce unhealthy ideals. A French-American artist who was born in Bangkok, Thailand, Gruffat lived internationally in Saudi Arabia and Hong Kong before immigrating to the United States where she is currently an Associate Professor of Art at the University of North Carolina - Chapel Hill. Hours: Mon., Wed. & Fri., 10am-5pm. Contact: call 803/323-2493, e-mail Karen Derksen, Galleries director, at (derksenk@winthrop.edu) or at (www.winthrop.edu/arts/).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Rock Hill White Street Gallery, 130 West White Street, Rock Hill. On Permanent Display, until the material on which they are printed begins to deteriorate - "ALLEYS AS GALLERYS". The Arts Council of York County implemented the Alleys as Galleries program with an exhibition in Cotton Alley on East Main St. in Rock Hill in 2018. This new project serves as the second Alleys as Galleries installation. Alleys as Galleries transforms York County, South Carolina's well-traveled alleys into art galleries that feature works by local and regional artists. Works by six York County high school students, Bruna Coelho, Luc Mercado, Paige Evans, Heather Lentz, Ashley Welsh, and Hunter Sigmond, were selected for a public art installation on the fence between Dust OFF Brewing Company and the Lowenstein Building along the Williams & Fudge fence line that faces White Street. Spartanburg

Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the

The market will be open 10am to 4pm, Tuesday through Saturday (closed on Thanksgiving) and will remain open until 9pm for Spartanburg ArtWalk receptions on Thursday, Nov. 18, and Thursday, Dec. 16. Many of the participating artists will be present during the ArtWalk receptions, 5 to 9pm, and will be available to talk about their art with guests. Guests will be required to wear face masks and to be socially distant. Gallery III, Through Dec. 24 - "Close to Home," featuring works by Upstate photographer John Lever. The exhibit will be part of the Spartanburg ArtWalk from 5 to 9pm, on Thursday, Dec. 16. "My wife and I had all kinds of travel plans – that's where I do most of my photography in normal times," says Lever, a native of Florida. "We all know what happened to those plans because of the pandemic. I think the restrictions of the pandemic, not allowing travel to new destinations, induced me to spread my photographic reach, looking to new approaches in my photography close to home." Ongoing - The Collective features a twenty thousand square foot facility offering affordable studio space, retail space, three galleries, a full ceramics studio, printery, and works by 50 local artists. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm; with extended hours on the 3rd Thur. of each month until 9pm for Spartanburg's Art Walk. Contact: 864/804-6501 or at (artistscollectivespartanburg.org).

Martha Cloud Chapman Gallery, Wofford College, Campus Life Building, 429 North Church St., Spartanburg. Through Dec. 17 - "Linda Hudgins: A Retrospective". A graduate of Converse College and Rhode Island School of Design, Hudgins spent many years teaching art at Spartanburg Day School, in Botswana during her time serving in the US Peace Corps, and in China. Her attentiveness and honest responsiveness in those years and later has been truly inspirational, seen specifically through the rich colors and intriguing lines and shapes found in her works. The recent pandemic and its consequent uncertainties greatly affected her life, including her art-making. Locked down in her home studio in Tryon, NC, she looked to art as her meditation, therapy, distraction and more. An array of works on pedestals lends the viewer insight into Hudgins' methods still ongoing, and a glimpse of a path to a productive future. Hours: 7am-midnight, daily. Contact: 864/597-4300.

Featured Artisans: Sarah Smith; The River Goat; Rosetta Nesbitt; Art by Rosetta Nesbitt; Dierdre Holland; T's Creations; Jan Pruitt; Granny Jan's Homemade Fudge; and Keith Hansen: Mission Pens. Beer and wine are available for those 21+. Ongoing - Works by Carl Tait and Harold Krisel are on display. Tait was a successful painter, textile designer, and interior designer. His ties to the Spartanburg community originate from his longtime employment at Milliken and Company. Tait was born in Old Town, Maine in 1917 and graduated from the New Hampshire Institute of Arts and Science. In the late 1940s, he moved to New York City where he designed an exclusive line of ladies' handkerchiefs for the department store B. Altman, now considered vintage, collectible items. He also became associated with the American Artist Group designing Christmas cards, an occupation which he kept up throughout the majority of his artistic career. Krisel was a distinguished artist, architect, and teacher as well as a loving father and husband. Though Krisel may not be a household name among Spartanburg residents, he has made a significant artistic contribution to the Spartanburg community. Born in Brooklyn, NY in 1920, Krisel's interest in art and design started at a young age. He attended the American Artist School in New York City as a teenager where he met renowned modern artists, including Piet Mondrian, who greatly influenced his abstract style. After studying architecture at the New Bauhaus in Chicago from 1946-1949, he received his graduate degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1952. The following year, he began working for architectural firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill when Roger Milliken hired them to design Milliken's new research facility in Spartanburg. Upon realizing Krisel was also a sculptor, Milliken hired him to design the spray fountain outside of the facility which functions as a recycler of air conditioning water. He then went on to design the Trident Fountain located outside of the Papadopoulos building on Wofford College's campus. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-7pm & Sat., 9am-3pm. Contact: 864-278-3228 or at (<https://www.mayfairartstudios.org/>).

Asheville Area

Work by Nancy Graves

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. The Van Winkle Law Firm Gallery, Through Jan. 10, 2022 - "A Dance of Images and Words: The Nancy Graves/Pedro Cuperman Tango Portfolio," features a series of eight intaglio prints that depict plants and animals alongside eleven sheets of prose that explore the steps of the Argentinian dance, the tango. Organized by the Asheville Art Museum from the Museum's Collection and curated by Hilary Schroeder, assistant curator. The common idiom "it takes two to tango" is immediately called into question in both the imagery and words of the Tango portfolio. The portfolio is an expression of artist Nancy Graves (Pittsfield, MA 1939-1995 New York, NY) writer Pedro Cuperman's (1936-2016 Buenos Aires, Argentina) meditations on the dance. Their imagery and words become paired in an illustrated book though their explorations take different formats and directions. Appleby Foundation Exhibition Hall, Through Mar. 14, 2022 - "Ruminations on Memory," contends with the act of remembrance and reflection, featuring a rare presentation of all nine prints from Robert Rauschenberg's "Ruminations" portfolio, Judy Chicago's "Retrospective in a Box" portfolio, and selections from the Museum's Collection. Organized by the Asheville Art Museum and curated by Hilary Schroeder, assistant curator. Artworks are vessels for processing, recalling, and reflecting on the past. Artists often draw upon materials from their own pasts and grasp up fleeting moments in time in the creation of an object. For the viewer, observation of an artwork can draw out personal memories. Through Mar. 14, 2022 - "A Living Language: Cherokee Syllabary and Contemporary Art," features over 50 works of art in a variety of media by 30+ Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI) and Cherokee Nation artists. The exhibition highlights the use of the written Cherokee language, a syllabary developed by Cherokee innovator Sequoyah (circa 1776-1843). Cherokee syllabary is frequently found in the work of Cherokee artists as a compositional element

College," features the Museum's collection of groundbreaking designs from Black Mountain College (BMC)—including architecture, furniture, ceramics, textiles, and more—and situates them in the context for BMC's influences and surroundings. Artists featured in the two exhibitions include Anni Albers, Josef Albers, Ruth Asawa, Jorge Fick, Buckminster Fuller, Mary "Molly" Gregory, Karen Karnes, A. Lawrence Kocher, Albert Lanier, Jo Sandman, Mim Sihvonen, Robert Turner, Gerald Van de Wiele, and more. Debra McClintone Gallery, Through Jan. 17, 2022 - "Walter B. Stephen Pottery: Cameo to Crystal-line," features art pottery and functional vessels from each stage of Stephen's career, from his origins discovering the medium alongside his mother Nellie C. Randall Stephen in Shelby County, TN, from 1901 through 1910 to his multi-decade production just outside of Asheville. Artist Walter B. Stephen (Clinton, IA 1875–1961 Asheville, NC) contributed to Western North Carolina's identity as a flourishing site for pottery production and craftsmanship in the early 20th century. In 1926, Stephen founded his third and last pottery studio, Pisgah Forest, in Arden, NC, which he operated until his death in 1961. It was at this studio that the artist perfected the "cameo" decoration technique for which he became best known. His hand-painted images, achieved with layers of white translucent clay, often feature American folk imagery, from covered wagons and livestock to cabins and spinning wheels.

Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Opening exhibitions include: "Appalachia Now! An Interdisciplinary Survey of Contemporary Art in Southern Appalachia," is the inaugural special exhibition of the newly renovated Museum. Curated by Jason Andrew, the juried exhibition features 50 artists of diverse backgrounds from the Southern Appalachian states of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The exhibit provides a regional snapshot of the art of our time—a collective survey of contemporary Southern Appalachian culture. "Intersections in American Art," is the largest presentation ever drawn from the Museum's Collection of 5,000+ works and 4,000+ architectural drawings. It celebrates the unique qualities of art from Western North Carolina, placed within the context of art from across the United States. The intersections of regional and national art are highlighted throughout the galleries, as are three specific ways of understanding the works here: Time & Place; Experiments in Materials & Form; and Collaboration & Interdisciplinary Dialogue. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

Work by Sally Lordeon

Asheville Gallery of Art, Ltd., 82 Patton Avenue, across from Pritchard Park opposite the old location, Asheville. Dec. 1 - 31 - "Joyful Light". A reception will be held on Dec. 3, from 5-8pm. Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center, 120 College Street, Asheville. Through Jan. 8, 2022 - "Don't Blame it on ZEN: The Way of John Cage & Friends," curated by Jade Dellinger, Director of the Bob Rauschenberg Gallery at FSW. Widely revered as an innovator in the non-standard use and "preparation" of musical instruments, indeterminacy, chance-based and electroacoustic music, John Cage (1912-1992) was perhaps both the most provocative and the most influential American composer of the 20th century. Cage taught at Black Mountain College in the summers of 1948 and 1952 and was in residence during the summer of 1953. While at BMC, Cage lectured on the Huang-Po Doctrine of Universal Mind and organized what has been credited as the first-ever "Happening." As the exhibition title and John Cage's own words make clear, Cage wished only "to free Zen of any responsibility for [his] actions," yet his profound influence continues to be seen, heard, and experienced through his work and the work of friends and countless followers. "Don't Blame it on ZEN: The Way of John Cage and Friends" presents works by Cage and his contemporaries including Nam June Paik, Yoko Ono, Laurie Anderson, David Byrne, Robert Rauschenberg, and M.C. Richards as well as those deeply influenced by his work and teachings such as composer Matana Roberts, artist and performer Aki Onda, interdisciplinary artist Andrew Deutsch, and abstract turntablist Maria Chavez. Ongoing - An exhibition space dedicated to exploring the history and legacy of the world's most acclaimed experimental educational community, Black Mountain College. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-4pm or by appt. Contact: 828/350-8484 or at (www.blackmountaincollege.org).

Center for Craft, 67 Broadway, Asheville. John Cram Partner Gallery, Through Jan. 7, 2022 - "Black in Black on Black: Making the Invisible Visible in Western North Carolina." This is an exhibition about the lives and contributions of Black/African American communities in Western North Carolina (WNC). Presenting works of art alongside oral histories and research data, Black in Black on Black is a visual conversation about an often invisible history of our region. This exhibition features three WNC-based artists: Ann Miller Woodford, Viola Spells, and Ronda Birtha, as well as data from the Heart of Health: Race, Place, and Faith in Western North Carolina project, a three-year community-participatory research study that seeks to better understand the role and impact of race and racism on health. Bresler Family Gallery, Dec. 13 - Apr. 22, 2022 - "Weaving Across Time". A reception will be held on Dec. 11, from 5-7pm. The exhibition features nine contemporary Eastern Band Cherokee artists who are creatively building on a centuries-old practice of basket making. Learning from mothers, grandmothers, and mentors, they sustainably harvest, process, and dye materials found throughout Western North Carolina, and weave them into exquisite baskets. The works on view are more than beautiful objects—they are vessels that preserve, store, and celebrate indigenous wisdom, identity, and creativity. Ongoing - Encompassing an additional 7,000 square feet of program space, including expanded galleries, event and meeting spaces, and coworking space serving the creative sector, this one-of-a-kind National Craft Innovation Hub will engage both the national craft community and western North Carolina residents, further establishing the Center for Craft as a thought-leader in what craft means today, as well as how to support emerging voices and makers. Hours: Mon.-Sun., 10am-6pm. Contact: call 828/785-1357 or at (www.centerforcraft.org).

"Black & White 4". This is the fourth edition of the popular members show "Black and White". This show is the most popular theme for members and visitors alike. It happens roughly every ten years and each edition has been unique and beautiful," states Nikki Joshoff, Curator of Collections for the Guild. There are 77 objects by 75 members and some pieces have already sold. Disciplines represented include quilting, chair caning, hand-built and wheel-thrown ceramics, felt work, baking, glass work, stone carving, jewelry, wooden flutes, woodcarving, tapestry, wood-turning, and more. Permanent Collection Gallery, Ongoing - "Craft Traditions: The Southern Highland Craft Guild Collection". The Guild's Permanent Collection is comprised of approximately 2400 craft objects and dates from the late 19th century to present. Beginning with a donation from Frances Goodrich in 1931, the Permanent Collection serves the Guild's mission of craft conservation and education. This new installation will feature over 200 works that highlight our holdings in traditional art: woodcarving, pottery, dolls, basketry, weavings and furniture. The subject of this ongoing exhibition is craft history – that of the Southern Highland Craft Guild and the Studio Craft Movement. Hours: daily from 9am-6pm. ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Asheville The North Carolina Arboretum, Milepost 393, Blue Ridge Parkway, 100 Frederick Law Olmsted Way, Asheville. Baker Exhibit Center Gallery, Through Jan. 9, 2022 - "Arbor Huescapes: Paintings by Michael Fowler." Artist Michael Fowler creates evocative abstract landscape paintings by incorporating vibrant colors with subtle, complex details. His semi-large-scale approach invites viewers to step into his work and build a sense of wonder and contemplation surrounding the natural world. Fowler's artistic response in contemplating nature is to capture something of a landscape's pleasantness, which is often unexpected harmonies of color and shape. In his latest exhibit, "Arbor Huescapes", Fowler highlights the distinctive vegetation—primarily trees—and topography of North and South Carolina's midlands and piedmont regions. Fowler received his Bachelor of Arts from Harding University in Searcy, Arkansas with a focus in Advertising Design. He then attended the University of Nebraska where he received a Master's degree in Fine Arts in Painting and Drawing with a minor in Art History. From there, he attended the University of Memphis where he earned a Doctorate in Higher Education. Based in North Augusta, SC, Fowler is currently an associate professor of design and computer graphics and serves as the Mary Durban Toole Chair of Art at the University of South Carolina in Aiken. His paintings are in a number of public and private collections nationally, and he actively exhibits in regional and national shows. Ongoing - The Asheville Quilt Guild features a permanent, rotating quilt exhibit at Arboretum's Education Center. Visitors can also enjoy the Arboretum's Quilt Garden year-round, with plantings and patterns that change with the seasons. Admission: Yes. Hours: Education Center hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm. Contact: 828/665.2492 or at (www.ncarboretum.org).

Blowing Rock

A view of the display for "Where's Spot?" book.

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown Blowing Rock. Rankin West Gallery, Through Jan. 1, 2022 - "Emergent Landscapes: Mountains, Music, & Improvisation in the Paintings of Abie Harris". Abie Harris paints the mountains—he also paints the equally dynamic landscape of Bluegrass music. He is often doing both of these things at the same time. Rooted in Harris's iterative approach to painting, the pictures in Emergent Landscapes arise from repetitive close study—of the vistas surrounding his family's 19th-century home in the town of Blowing Rock and of the vernacular music traditions that aurally describe the region. Fort Gallery, Through Apr. 16, 2022 - "Potters & Patrons: The Gorelick Collection at BRAHM". Carol Gorelick (1939-2019) began building her collection of pottery in 1970. Along with her husband Shelton (1929-2014), the Gorelicks were drawn to the medium's texture and tactility and built a substantial collection of predominantly North Carolina pottery and ceramic objects over the proceeding decades. The Gorelicks purchased what they liked, with Carol once saying, "I collect by the seat of my pants." As the couple collected, they formed long-lasting friendships with the artists from whom they purchased work. Amassing a collection representing many of the state's most prominent ceramic artists, the pair left an indelible mark on the tight knit pottery community as tireless and compassionate patrons. With works by Steve Abebe, Michel Bayne, Herb Cohen, Josh Copus, Christina Córdova, Burlon Craig, Kim Ellington, Mark Hewitt, Daniel Johnston, Matt Jones, Stacy Lambert, Charles Lisk, Alex Matisse, The Owens family, A.V. Smith, and many others, the Gorelick collection serves as a testament to their fidelity to and love for the medium and to the individual makers who enliven it. Atwell Gallery, Through Jan. 22, 2022 - "Storyland: A Trip Through Childhood Favorites". "Storyland: A Trip Through Childhood Favorites" is an immersive adventure through three beloved children's picture books: The Tale of Peter Rabbit by Beatrix Potter, The Snowy Day by Ezra Jack Keats, and Where's Spot? by Eric Hill. From idyllic country gardens to urban snowscapes, this exhibit engages children and adults alike in the joy of literacy. With text presented in English and Spanish, Storyland provides practical tools for cultivating literacy through everyday activities and argues that it is never too early to cultivate a love of reading. Picture book illustrations are transformed into three-dimensional play and learning environments highlighting the six major literacy development areas: print motivation, print awareness, letter knowledge, sound awareness, vocabulary, and narrative skills and comprehension. Children will explore these foundational literacy skills through imaginative, interactive experiences and dramatic play inspired by classic stories. Schaefer Gallery, Rotated Annually - "The Carol and Shelton Gorelick Collection". The late Carol and Shelton Gorelick were prominent art collectors. Together,

Hands Gallery, 543 West King Street, Boone. Ongoing - What began as the dream of a small group of craftspeople in 1975 continues today in a very personal and continually-changing environment. The history of Hands Gallery Co-op is as varied and intriguing as the artists who have come and gone over the years. Dozens of artisans have explored the business opportunities Hands has given their work, while donating time and ideas to the growth and success of the gallery. Today, the co-op serves as a role model for arts and crafts co-ops throughout the Southeastern US. Hours: daily, 10am-6pm, except Thanksgiving & Christmas. Contact: 828-262-1970 or at (<http://www.handsgallery.org/>).

King Street Art Collective, Watauga Arts Council, 585 West King Street, (above Doe Ridge Pottery) Boone. Ongoing - A gallery and interactive art space with changing exhibits and activities celebrating the arts. Hours: Thur., 11am-5pm; Fri.-Sat., 10am-6pm; and Sun., 10am-2pm. Contact: 828-264-1789 or at (<https://www.watauga-arts.org/kingstreetart.html#/>).

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Mezzanine Gallery, Through Feb. 5, 2022 - "98.6 – A Creative Commonality," featuring artworks created by chimpanzees at Zoo Knoxville. Humans and chimpanzees share 98.6% of the same DNA. Both species have forward-facing eyes, opposing thumbs that accompany grasping fingers, and the ability to walk upright. Far greater than just the physical similarities, both species have large brains capable of exhibiting great intelligence as well as an incredible emotional range. Chimpanzees form tight social bonds, especially between mothers and children, create tools to assist with eating and express joy by hugging and kissing one another. Over 1,000,000 chimpanzees roamed the tropical rain forests of Africa just a century ago. Now listed as endangered, less than 300,000 exist in the wild because of poaching, the illegal pet trade and habitat loss due to human encroachment. Often, chimpanzees are killed, leaving orphans that are traded and sold around the world. In the case of chimpanzees and other great apes, research has shown that certain individuals respond to color and enjoy painting as a type of enrichment. Like human artists, each chimpanzee has a unique reaction and approach to their canvas. While most chimpanzees enjoy using their hands and feet, occasionally even their lips, some have even learned how to use a paintbrush. Mayer Gallery, Through Feb. 5, 2022 - "Matters of the Heart (and Other Abnormalities): Shawn Morin" The exhibition explores concepts of human relationships. It seems to me that since 9/11 and Y2K, there has been a fundamental shift in the way many humans act, react and navigate the world. Add to that the current worldwide pandemic and proliferation of clinical depression, especially amongst our youth, and it is easy to perceive that the world has changed dramatically. Consequently, some humans are now far kinder and more loving than they once were, while others have grown desperate, indifferent, angry, and resentful. Moskowitz Gallery, Through Dec. 4 - "Father, Grandfather, Artist: A Tribute to Warren Dennis". This exhibition commemorates the life and work of prominent Southeastern artist and retired longtime Appalachian State University professor Warren Dennis, who died

April 13, 2021. Father, Grandfather, Artist: A Tribute to Warren Dennis comprises paintings from the personal collections of family members. Hodges Gallery, Through Dec. 11 - "ERRATIC: Hoss Haley." Sharing space with Hoss Haley's monumental work transports the viewer to a place where a clear separation between human creation and organic influence is undefined, yet beautifully intertwined. Color and texture are suggested but are ultimately ruled by nature. The marrying of raw nature and human intervention is what makes Haley's work so captivating, allowing the opportunity to beyond traditional rules, and marvel at a creation beyond our understanding. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-6pm; Fri., noon-8pm; & Sat., 10am-6pm. Contact: 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Boone Throughout Appalachian State University campus, Boone. Through May 31, 2022 - "34th Rosen Outdoor Sculpture Competition & Exhibition". Made possible by the continued generosity of the Rosen Family: The Martin & Doris Rosen Giving Fund/Debbie Rosen Davidson and David Rosen/Charles & Nancy Rosenblatt Foundation. The "Rosen Sculpture Competition and Exhibition" is an annual national juried competition presented by An Appalachian Summer Festival and the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts. Since its establishment by Martin and Doris Rosen in 1987, the Rosen competition continues a tradition of showcasing contemporary American sculpture in outdoor settings across the campus of Appalachian State University. This year, ten sculptures have been selected by juror Rachel Stevens. Cash prizes are awarded to three artists whose work is chosen by the juror and will be announced at the annual sculpture walk - a highlight of every summer festival season. Participating artists include: Wintye Vaughn (Graham, NC); Matt Amante (Waynesville, NC); Charles Pilkey (Mint Hill, NC); Glenn Zweygardt (Alfred Station, NY); Rudy Rudisill (Gastonia, NC); Hanna Jubran (Grimsland, NC); Joan Benefield (Brooklyn, NY); Tom Scicluna (Miami, FL); David Boyajian (New Fairfield, CT); and Gretchen Lotz (Orlando, FL). Hours: daylight hours. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Cary Arts Center, 101 Dry Avenue, Cary. Cary Arts Center Gallery, Through Jan. 22, 2022 - "Cary Photographic Artists Member Show." The Cary Photographic Artists (CPA) formed in January 2007 as Cary's only organization dedicated to photography as fine art. CPA is dedicated to expanding and enhancing knowledge, skill, appreciation, and sharing of both the artistry and the craftsmanship of photography. For more information about programs, outings, education, and fellowship with other photographers. Cary Arts Center Principal's Hall, Through Jan. 22, 2022 - "Before Instagram there was Polaroid -The True Instant Photography," featuring works by Fran DeRespinis. This exhibit will comprise original Polaroid images I took in the 1970s. However, they are not the original three-inch square captures. In a nod to our digital era, I've scanned the photos to print slightly larger versions for easier gallery viewing. Minimal software processing was used to remain faithful to the unique and less-than-perfect original color rendering of the Polaroid prints. Inspiration from original Polaroid SX-70 film and camera, which created instant, square, color photographs. Display Cases, Through Jan. 22, 2022 - "Jenny Brugnolotti Barrier: Sculptural Pots". The artist throws clay vessels that are then embellished with whimsical and detailed creatures, flowers and insects all made of clay. The work embraces nature and the beauty of fragile and ephemeral things. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. Contact: 919/469-4069 or at (www.townofcary.org).

Cary Gallery of Artists, 200 S Academy St, Ste 120, Ashworth Square, Cary. Ongoing - The gallery offers high quality art in a variety of styles. This is one of the most comprehensive art shows in Cary. Through Dec. 30 - "Jan Harrison: Sculptural Basketry." A reception will be held on Dec. 6, from 2-6pm. Jan Harrison has moved from making traditional rugs to abstract tapestry and from weaving vessels to free form sculptural basketry. The Artist states, "As a weaver on a loom there is frustration inherent in the nature of the beast. One weaves in a straight line again and again. I love curves, movement, and texture. I have done extensive experimentation in achieving movement and using yarns of many sizes and textures. I use the same movement and texture in my basketry as well as at the loom. Look for unexpected materials, shapes and colors." Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-9:30pm; Fri., 10am-5pm; & Sat., 10am-1pm. (It is strongly advised that you call ahead about hours this space will be open.) Chapel Hill - Carrboro

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through Jan. 9, 2022 - "Buddha and Shiva, Lotus and Dragon: Masterpieces from the Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller 3rd Collection at Asia Society". The exhibition features nearly 70 of the finest examples of Asian art in the United States. Co-organized by the American Federation of Arts and Asia Society Museum, this exhibition showcases the extraordinary range of bronzes, ceramics, and metalwork that John D. Rockefeller 3rd (1906–1978) and his wife Blanchette Hooker Rockefeller (1909–1992) thoughtfully assembled between the 1940s and the 1970s. With highlights including spectacular Chinese vases, dynamic Indian Chola bronzes, and exquisite Southeast Asian sculptures, the exhibition reveals great achievements in Asian art spanning more than two millennia. This selection of masterpieces drawn from Asia Society's permanent collection is a visually stunning presentation that will illuminate social and artistic histories from across Asia and underscore the visual arts' capacity to encourage cross-cultural dialogue. Through Dec. 26 - "Beads of Distinction: Yoruba Royal Caps from the Collection of Rhonda Morgan Wilkerson, PhD". The Yoruba peoples of southwestern Nigeria and adjacent regions have developed a rich and vibrant tradition of beadwork designs, especially after the introduction of glass beads through European trade from the late eighteenth century. The small, brilliantly colored beads were often used to decorate the regalia that denotes and celebrates the powers of the ruler (oba). This included headgear for non-ritual, minor occasions and daily wear, such as the five beaded caps in this installation, dating from the late nineteenth and mid-twentieth centuries. The caps combine traditional Yoruba iconography with a style that often reflects European or other external influences. The shapes of the hats can evoke models from Europe (the bejeweled crown, the bishop's mitre, the sailor's cap), as well as the Muslim world of northern Africa (the fez and the turban). This is the fourth in the Ackland's series of long-term installations with works from the distinguished collection of Rhonda Morgan Wilkerson PhD. Through July 3, 2022 - "Ghost of a Dream: Aligned by the Sun (through the revolution)". In a time of travel bans, immigration debates, climate change, and a global pandemic, the artist team Ghost of a Dream has created their multi-faceted project Aligned by the Sun in an effort to bring hope to our collective experience and unify our fractured planet. To assemble the footage necessary for this endeavor, Ghost of a Dream has collaborated with artists in over 220 nations by asking them to capture a short video of the sunset. All but seven of the 195 countries recognized by the United Nations, as well as many non-UN nations and territories, are represented by these videos. These videos provide the source material for many iterations of the project, including large installations, video collages, and still-image composites. Through Feb. 13, 2022 - "Clouding: Shape and Sign in Asian Art". This year-long installation explores the diverse forms and functions of clouds in the arts of Asia, juxtaposing works of art in different media and from different time periods spanning the Bronze Age to the present. Museum Store Gallery (Franklin and Columbia Street), Store hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5:30pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Museum Hours: Wed.-Sat., 1-5pm. Contact: 919/966-5736 or at (www.ackland.org).

Charlotte Area

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Fourth-Floor Gallery, Through Feb. 27, 2022 - "Isaac Julien: Lina Bo Bardi — A Marvellous Entanglement," is an exciting tribute to the legendary Italian-Brazilian architect Lina Bo Bardi by the British artist and filmmaker Isaac Julien. In this nine-screen film installation, Julien examines Bo Bardi's life and work through dramatic enactments of her words and ideas performed amid her most prized buildings. Filmed in several locations in Brazil, including the São Paulo Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art in Bahia, and the Teatro Gregório de Matos in Salvador, the work acts as an open-ended reflection on the architect's Brazilian projects from the 1960s to the 1980s. Bo Bardi's life story is interpreted by Brazilian actresses Fernanda Montenegro and Fernanda Torres, mother and daughter in real life, who portray the mature and the younger version of the Bo Bardi. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miró, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Work by Molly Partyka

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Cato Campus, Cato III, 8120 Grier Road, Charlotte. Through Dec. 15 - "Icefields," featuring works by Elijah Kell. "Working with glass fascinates and challenges me. It's like painting a picture that I shape into three-dimensional form. Although my design process is controlled, the subsequent firing process brings an element of unpredictability. The final outcome of my vision requires the successful balance of space and weight as I compose my design while forecasting how the glass will flow, expand, and settle during the heating and cooling cycles. Ultimately, it's a matter of working backwards. Sometimes I get it right and sometimes I don't, but chasing the challenge is what I love most," says Elijah Kell. Through Dec. 15 - "Paintings by Molly Partyka". "My art is about color play. Like a dance, colors move across the canvas, interacting with shapes and textures. Like notes together form songs and words strung together form stories, I use color to express the coexistence of nature and human interaction in an abstract format. Travel and the interplay of dichotomy and harmony are my current themes. Feelings of daydreaming, longing to wander, and thoughts of wistfulness are expressed in the blue-greens of the oceans, grey-blues of skies, and lush greens of fields. Warm reds, oranges, and yellows capture strength of relationships, the energy of movement, and the excitement of growth," said Molly Partyka. Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Central Campus, North Classroom, 1320 Sam Ryburn Walk, Charlotte. Through Dec. 15 - "Works from the Collection of Judy & Patrick Diamond" Featuring a collection of African American art on loan from influential art collectors, Judy and Patrick Diamond. This vibrant display, a portion of the art and collectibles curated by the Diamonds over a period of 46 years, will be on display through mid-December. The exhibit features art by Romare Bearden such as "Brass Section," the lithograph that ignited the Diamond's passion for collecting African American art. A love of art and the influence it has had on his life led Patrick to write his memoir published in 2020, "The Incredible Joy of Collecting African American Art." Works by Kevin O'Toole

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte. Through Dec. 15 - "Almost Home," by Tom Delaney. This exhibit explores the home as a visual metaphor and includes Delaney's three-dimensional bird sculptures. Through Dec. 15 - "The Sculptures of Kevin O'Toole". "Over the past 35 years I have developed an increasingly spare vocabulary of forms. At one time more organic, my pieces have gradually become more geometric through the influence of both process and choice of material," said O'Toole. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservation help help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Work by Nicholas Galanin

Davidson College, Belk Visual Arts Center, 315 North Main and Griffith Streets, Davidson. Van Every/Smith Galleries, Through Dec. 9 - "Nicholas Galanin: Dreaming in English". Galanin's work is rooted in his perspective as an Indigenous man, deeply connected to the land and his Tlingit/Unangax culture. Over the past two decades, Galanin has worked across media, materials, and processes—engaging past, present, and future—to expose widespread misappropriation and commodification of Indigenous visual culture, the impact of colonialism, intentionally obscured collective memory, and barriers to education. His practice, encompassing sculpture, installation, photography, video, performance, printmaking, and textile-based works, unites traditional and contemporary processes and materials to reclaim narrative and creative agency, and contribute to the continuum of Tlingit art within an ever-evolving contemporary Indigenous practice. His exhibition at the Van Every/Smith Galleries, "Dreaming in English", includes an installation of the same title that speaks directly to the forced removal and relocation of Indigenous children from the reservation into residential "schools." These so-called "schools" were not focused on the acquisition of knowledge but on assimilation; the intent was to eradicate both culture and spirit. Ongoing - While on campus, be sure to take a tour of our Campus Sculpture. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 704/894-2519 or at (www.davidsoncollegeartgalleries.org).

Elizabeth Ross Gallery, Central Piedmont Community College, Central Campus, Overcash Performing Arts Center, Elizabeth Avenue and Kings Dr., Charlotte. Through Dec. 9 - "Metamorphosis II," an exhibition of multi-view paintings by CPCC Art Instructor Al Torres, that go beyond the physical presence of a person or object. A reception will be held on Nov. 3, at 5:30pm in Central Campus, Overcash Center, Ross Art Gallery, 1st floor. An Artist Lecture will be offered on Nov. 3, at 2pm, at Central Campus, Overcash Center, Tate Hall, 2nd floor. Torres aims to capture the "truth" of the subject and impart a sense of wonder to the viewer. Torres paints directly onto aluminum surfaces at 45 degrees. The intent is for the spectator to approach the work from the left side, where he or she sees the first image. As they walk toward the center, they encounter a combination of the left and right views. These multiple views help the spectator transition through the story of the overall painting. Watch a six minute video of Al Torres' works in this exhibit at (<https://youtu.be/cwSgQM5RXpw>). Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-2pm. Contact: 704/330-6211.

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Jan. 17, 2022 - "Container / Contained: Phil Freelon - Design Strategies for Telling African American Stories". The late North Carolina architect Philip G. Freelon (1953-2019) had a remarkable career of over four decades designing public buildings with his firm The Freelon Group and later as Design Director of Perkins + Will North Carolina. This exhibition critically examines Freelon's work, including museums, libraries, cultural centers, and public parks, with a focus on projects that foreground African American communities and identities. Freelon often noted that architecture should be more than a container, that it should help tell the story of and be integral to the content of these public institutions. Through Jan. 17, 2022 - "Visual Vanguard: An Exhibition of Contemporary Black Carolina Artists". The exhibition is an examination of twenty-six artists who create in a variety of vibrant and versatile media. This exhibition surveys the struggles, strengths, and celebrations of Black creativity in the Carolinas through visual art, performance, video, and poetry. By examining the ambiguity and origination within retakes and variations, each artist amplifies the ideals of racial pride, social power, identity, and the importance of heritage and culture. Guest curators, David Wilson and Stephen Hayes, Jr., sought a mosaic of styles that range from didactic to reductive. Their collective vision provides a framework for significations that are inverted and opportunities where form and content merge. Consideration was given to content that is dissociated from its original meaning, ultimately exposing the artist's process. Artists with works in the exhibition include: Carla Aaron-Lopez, Endia Beal, Dare Coulter, Steven M. Cozart, deAngelo Dia, Janelle Dunlap, André Leon Gray, Clarence Heyward, Percy King, Marcus Kiser, KOLPEACE, Georgie Nakima, Dimeji Onafuwa, Jermaine Powell, Lakeshia T. Reid, Sheldon Scott, Beverly Y. Smith, William Paul Thomas, J. Stacy Utley, Telvin Wallace, Torraeh "Cookie" Washington, Tony Weaver, Aniqua Wilkerson, Antoine Williams, Jason Woodberry, and Stephanie J. Woods. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Extended hours from noon-8pm on Fridays, Oct. 2, Nov. 6 & Dec. 4. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Through May 1, 2022 - "The World of Anna Sui," presenting 100 looks from the iconic designer's archive with a roll call of 12 archetypes that capture the Sui aesthetic. No other fashion designer captures the zeitgeist of a historic period, place, or artistic movement in such a timeless yet contemporary look as Anna Sui. She does so by designing the entire look - from dress to accessories, hair styles to make-up, and even sound and scent. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers, Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Jan. 2, 2022 - "John Leslie Breck: American Impressionist." Inspired by The Mint Museum's 2016 acquisition of John Leslie Breck's canvases "Suzanne Hoschedé-Monet Sewing", this exhibition includes approximately 70 of Breck's finest works, drawn from public and private collections as well as the illustrious Terra Foundation collection of American art. Many of the works in the exhibition have not been on public view in more than a century. In addition to Breck's landscape-inspired works, the exhibition highlights his exploration of new styles and approaches to painting in the years before his early death at the age of 38. More than 10 related paintings by Breck's French and American Impressionist colleagues, including Theodore Robinson, Willard Metcalf, and Lila Cabot Perry, are also featured in the exhibition. Level 4 Brand Gallery, Now - "Silent Streets: Art in the Time of Pandemic," featuring work by Amy Bagwell, Stacy Lynn Waddell, and Antoine Williams. From the moment the coronavirus pandemic forced people into their homes, art became a source of solace. When attention swerved from COVID-19 to a reckoning with the country's injustices and systemic racism, many artists folded this urgent consideration into their work. "Silent Streets: Art in the Time of Pandemic" presents works of art by local, regional, national and international artists who used art to survey and tackle the challenging times. From comic strips to abstract painting, the exhibition embraces the potential of all art forms to grapple with the most urgent issues of our day providing viewers with both solace and insight. The Mint Museum commissioned works by North Carolina artists Amy Bagwell of Charlotte, Stacy Lynn Waddell of Durham, and Antoine Williams of Greensboro for this exhibition. In addition to these original pieces, the exhibition includes: "As the Boundary Pulls Us Apart," a video work by Charlotte artists Ben Geller and Matthew Steele; "Pandemic Comics," a selection of nationally syndicated comics that threw out months of material to create new strips directly addressing the pandemic; and "Diary of a Pandemic", a photography collaboration between Magnum Photos and National Geographic presenting photographers from around the world who made images of their lives and landscapes during the pandemic. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Haywood Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts from the Carolinas. The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Incubator Gallery, Through Jan. 9, 2022 - "Off the Map: The Provenance of a Painting". The objects that fill museums have often traveled long distances and passed through many hands to arrive at their current location. The physical movement of artworks through time and space becomes a part of their story, adding layers of meaning to the objects' existence.

To study a work's history of ownership is to research its provenance. From the French word provenir, or "to come from," provenance relates to an object's origins and the path it has taken over tens, hundreds, and even thousands of years. Establishing provenance—past owners, locations, and types of transactions—addresses issues of attribution, histories of taste, cultural and monetary value, and notions of ownership itself. Ongoing - The Collection Galleries feature rotating installations of the Nasher Museum's extensive holdings of historical art. Eight galleries, as well as the entrance to Wilson Pavilion, are dedicated to the museum's strengths, which represent a brief history of human creativity from different times and parts of the world. Just beyond the entrance, visitors will find the Incubator, a flexible space for rotating student- and faculty-curated exhibitions. Visitors are invited to return again and again to The Collection Galleries, where Nasher curators continue to refresh the galleries with gems from the collection. The museum's contemporary collection is showcased through rotating exhibitions within a separate pavilion. Works from the contemporary collection create new conversations and connections among historical works in The Collection Galleries. A breakthrough work by New York artist Fred Wilson from 1990, Colonial Collection, anchors the Arts of Africa Gallery. A painting by Kehinde Wiley is on view in the European Art Gallery. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.- Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

Louise B. Tannenbaum and Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Galleries, and The Gregory D. Ivy and the Weatherspoon Guild Galleries, Through Dec. 4 - "Seven Masters: 20th-Century Japanese Woodblock Prints". Early in the 20th century, during Japan's rapid Westernization and industrialization, a desire to revive the great Japanese tradition of woodblock prints (known as ukiyo-e) in the context of Japan's dynamic, modern life gave rise to an art movement known as shin hanga or the "new print." Around 1915, a small group of artists began mingling the old with the new, creating beautiful, enticing pictures reproduced as prints of almost unsurpassed quality. "Seven Masters: 20th-Century Japanese Woodblock Prints" focuses on the seven artists who played a significant role in the development of the shin hanga print and whose works boldly exemplify this new movement: Hashiguchi Goyō, Kawase Hasui, Yamamura Kōka, Torii Kotondo, Itō Shinsui, Yamakawa Shūhō, and Natori Shunsen. Gallery 6, Through Dec. 11 - "Splinters of a Secret Sky Angela Fraleigh: Falk Visiting Artist". In Angela Fraleigh's dynamic paintings, female subjects culled from art history become active protagonists in newly imagined spaces. In their original contexts, these figures were largely painted as docile objects for the male gaze. Fraleigh, however, reimagines them in dreamlike scenes where they exist for one another instead. They converse, engage, and share—they acknowledge the eyes upon them, look back at the viewer, and then return to one another. While mining art history broadly, Fraleigh also digs deep into particular stories—often drawing inspiration from specific museum collections. For her Weatherspoon exhibition, she turns to the legacy of Claribel and Etta Cone—the formidable sisters whose transformative gift of artworks helped establish the Museum's collection. 1st Floor: Weatherspoon Atrium Mural, Ongoing - "Pause and Breathe, We Got This," a mural by Sheena Rose. A homecoming is in the works. The Weatherspoon is excited to announce its commission of a major new artwork by artist Sheena Rose, MFA '16. A multidisciplinary artist working in animation, drawing, painting, and performance, Rose's vibrant and energetic work is at once anchored in her Caribbean heritage and expansive in its explorations of culture and human experience. Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Ottenness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Wed. & Fri.-Sat., from 10am-5pm and Thur., 10am-8pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (<http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu>).

Greenville

Emerge Gallery & Art Center, 404 S. Evans St., Greenville. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of media by students, faculty, alumni (East Carolina University) and local artists. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-9pm; Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 252/551-6947 or at (www.emergegallery.com).

Greenville Museum of Art, 802 South Evans Street, Greenville. The Francis Speight and Sarah Blakeslee Gallery, Ongoing - Is dedicated to the work of these two artists. Speight was born in Bertie County, North Carolina, and moved back to Greenville to teach at East Carolina University after spending a majority of his career at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Blakeslee was born in Illinois and met Speight at the Academy as a student. The couple lived outside of Philadelphia until moving to Greenville in 1961. The Kenneth Noland Gallery, Ongoing - Celebrates the art and legacy of Black Mountain College, an innovative liberal arts college that operated between 1933 and 1957. Kenneth Noland, born in Asheville in 1924, attended Black Mountain College on the G. I. Bill from 1946 to 1948. He studied under Josef Albers and Ilya Bolotowsky, who introduced him to the work of artists interested in geometry and color. The Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation Gallery, Ongoing - Features rotating works purchased for the Museum by the foundation. Rachel Maxwell Moore was a leading civic figure and arts advocate in Greenville, and was central to the founding of the Museum's predecessor in 1939. She established the Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation in 1963, and before she passed away in 1984, bequeathed funds to the foundation for the sole purpose of purchasing works of art for the Museum's permanent collection. Ongoing - GMoA has a strong collection of North Carolina pottery, and especially from Jugtown Pottery in Seagrove, North Carolina. Jugtown Pottery was opened by Jacques and Juliana Busbee in 1921.

They were influential at Jugtown and elsewhere in Seagrove by introducing local North Carolina potters to international ceramic styles and glazes. Much of our pottery collection was given to the Museum by Mrs. Lindsay Savage in 1948 and Dr. James H. Stewart in the 1980s. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10-4:30pm. Contact: 252/758-1946 or at (www.gmoa.org).

Hickory Museum of Art, Arts and Science Center, 243 Third Avenue NE, Hickory. Through Feb. 6, 2022 - "The Together While Apart Art Project". 19 artists from 8 states came together from afar to combat isolation, loneliness, and unhappiness during the Pandemic. They created one large collaborative piece of art to promote Hope and Healing. Each individual square was cut from a recycled box. Follow the project's journey on Instagram @togetherwhileapartproject. Coe Gallery, Through Feb. 6, 2022 - "The Improvisational Quilts of Susana Allen Hunter." Using her innate flair for abstract design, Susana Allen Hunter (1912–2005) created hundreds of colorful improvisational quilts throughout her lifetime. From the 1930s to the 1970s she lived in Wilcox County, Alabama, and created brightly-patterned quilts that reflected her life in that rural community as well as her experiences as an African-American woman. Hunter turned the "fabric" of everyday life into eye-catching quilts with an abstract, asymmetrical and often modern feel. Ongoing - "Discover Folk Art: Unique Visions by Southern Self-taught Artists". Explore re-creations of artist work environments, including a school bus and a barn, family activity stations, more than 250 folk art objects, interactive touch screens and more. Free family guides available at check-in. Little Hands, Big Hands Gallery, Ongoing - "Little Hands, Big Hands". Younger visitors can be imaginative through creative exploration and play. Highlands

The Bascom, a center for the visual arts, 323 Franklin Rd., covered bridge entrance at the end of Main Street, Highlands. Bunzl Gallery, Through Dec. 30 - "Re: Play", curated by Gregor Turk. From casual pursuits without fixed rules to more structured games, play can be elusive to define and difficult to explain exactly what it is and what it does. Far from just a human characteristic, we frequently observe animals at play, even interspecies romps. Often derided as not serious or a mere diversion, play remains the lifeblood of creativity and artistic pursuits. No wonder recreation and re-creation converge as words. The word "play" is versatile if not playful itself. In addition to its numerous parts of speech, the word possesses a wide array of subtle twists in meaning - from straightforward to darker connotations. This exhibition too plays with "play" covering a multitude of interpretations through sculpture. Sculptors inherently play with materials. Meaning, durability, viewer response, and inherent/perceived value are all affected by an object's composition. The physical properties of a material serve to help convey the concepts the artist is presenting. This exhibition includes works of marble and steel, but also foam rubber and Astro Turf. Repurposed and appropriated materials allow for altered and playful meanings to be presented - referencing both the material's source and a creative replay. Joel Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "Art League of Highlands-Cashiers Member Exhibition". On July 24, 1980, several area artists convened for the first official League meeting. Originally adopting the name, The Art League of Highlands, in 2014, the board voted to change the name to The Art League of Highlands-Cashiers and the Greater Plateau to reflect its expanding reach. Today the league is a thriving 501-C organization boasting over fifty artists and friends. The group was founded on the principle that visual artists need mutual support in order to sustain and advance artistic growth. That, in turn, encourages cultural appreciation of the visual arts in the community. Not only does the League emphasize originality among its members, it also nurtures artistic expression in upcoming generations living on the Highlands Plateau. To that end, the League offers monthly presentations during the season, and annually sponsors two fine art shows in the area. The Art League is proud of its past association with the local community and The Bascom-Louise Gallery. It will continue its collaborative with The Bascom and The Macon County Art Association to support the visual arts in the region. Thompson Gallery, Through Dec. 23 - "Craft to Art Series: Mosaics," curated by Paula Smith. Our fourth installment in our Craft to Art series covers Mosaics and their history of use from wall decorations to modern fine art pieces. The Craft to Art series seeks to bring about discussion regarding mediums that have long histories in craft and a vital resurgent in fine art. Horst Winkler Sculpture Trail, Through Apr. 30, 2022 - "Outdoor Sculpture". 2021 marks the beginning of an annual outdoor sculpture switch out on The Bascom Campus. Every year, we will select a handful of sculptors to install their work throughout our 6 acre campus. Education Gallery, Ongoing - The Bascom offers our students and instructors an opportunity to display their creative works from workshops and classes. The perspectives of these talented individuals reveal self-expression, cultural awareness and technical discipline. These ongoing displays expose the viewer to the analysis, invention, exploration and decision making processes used by students during the development of ideas into a work of art. Hours: Tue. - Sat., 10am-5pm. Contact: 828/526-4949 or at (www.thebascom.org).

High Point

Darrell E. Sechrest Art Gallery, Hayworth Fine Arts Center, High Point University, High Point. Main Gallery, Through Dec. 17 - "Of Stones, Earth, and Air," featuring works by Jessica Singerman. A reception will be held on Oct. 28, from 5-7pm, with a Artist Talk at 5:30pm. "I am inspired by the poetry of nature: color and light in the landscape, seasons, and the passing of time. My work is a kind of meditation and a love letter to life and painting. It is through painting and outdoor activity that I can quiet my mind, make sense of life, and explore spirituality. I want my work to create wonder for people and to be evocative of the outdoor spaces that inspire us, like mountains, valleys, and skies," say Singerman. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-noon, then 1-5pm. Contact: call 336/841-4680.

Work by Joseph Lahita

Theatre Art Galleries, High Point Theatre, 220 East Commerce Avenue, High Point. Main Gallery, Through Jan. 21, 2022 - "20/20," featuring works by Greig Leach. Leach offers the following Artist Statement: "Each of us have had to discover ways to process the previous year and how it has affected each of our lives. This exhibition presents how as an artist I was left to work through the emotions, turmoil and isolation of 2020. All of my artwork addresses the world around me as I see it, experience and hold it in my mind's eye. Upstairs Gallery, Through Jan.

21, 2022 - "Light Captured," featuring works by Lyudmila Tomova and Joseph Lahita. Tomova and Lahita are two highly recognized watercolor artists exhibiting nationally and abroad who have taken the art of watercolor to a true form of mastery. Each artist's work is complimentary to the other in its unique and expressive approach. "Light Captured" represents a culmination and maturity of style that evokes mood, light and freedom. With a fluidity of colors, Tomova and Lahita combine impressionistic strokes and semi-abstract techniques to elicit life and movement in their portrait and landscape watercolors. This recent collection of paintings adorn the paper with both harmony and emotion. Hallway Gallery, Through Jan. 21, 2022 - Featuring photographs from the recent ISFD (International Society of Furniture Designers) INNOVATION + DESIGN competition. Hours: Tue.-Fri., noon-5pm. Contact: 336/887-2137 or at (www.tagart.org).

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Through Feb. 2022 - "Awakening The Spirit: The Legacy of Gloria Tara Lowery," curated by Alisha Locklear Monroe. This exhibit celebrates her life's work. Drawing inspiration from nature and her Lumbee culture, her work continues to encourage us to look listen and explore the beauty of things seen and unseen. Using watercolors, acrylics, oine needles, and other mixed media, we experience her love of landscapes, her treasured home in Robeson County and her connection with her ancestors. Through her work, she created a space where our spirits are free to see what the creator has in store for us all, She once said, "Art is not what I do, it's who I am." We are so thankful that she left so much beauty for us to explore. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@unpc.edu).

Penland

Penland Gallery & Visitors Center, Penland School of Crafts, 3135 Conley Ridge Rd, Penland. John & Robyn Horn Exhibition Gallery, Through Dec. 5 - "I Is Another," is a two-person show of photographs by Corn Wagon Thunder and ceramics by Shae Bishop. It explores identity, narrative, costuming, and unconventional use of materials. The beautiful color photographs of Corn Wagon Thunder show a multitude of characters in different costumes and settings. All of them, however, have one thing in common: each one is a portrait of the artist herself. It is a project, she explains, that chronicles her journey into midlife, and it began as the ten-year anniversary of her mother's death approached. Shae Bishop's garments, some of them painstakingly assembled from hundreds of individual porcelain or stoneware elements, have specific functions, such as the "Swimsuit to Wear While Looking for Hellbenders," or they are meant to invoke particular characters, as in the case of a floral cowboy hat titled "Garden Variety Cowboy." Ongoing - On display outside the Penland Gallery are sculptures by ceramic artist Catherine White, large steel sculptures by Daniel T. Beck, and works by Hoss Haley. There is also an interactive, outdoor installation by Jeff Goodman titled, "The Kindness for Imaginary Things." Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. noon-5pm. Contact: 828/765-6211 or at (<http://penland.org/gallery/>)

Work by Ollie Wagner

CAM Raleigh, 409 W. Martin Street, between Harrington and West streets, Raleigh. Main Gallery, Through Oct. 2022 - "UNSEEN: Clarence Heyward". Born and raised in Brooklyn, NY, Clarence Heyward is a painter and collagist. He relocated to North Carolina to study Art Education at North Carolina Central University. He creates paintings and collages as an exploration of his culture. Clarence's artistic practice is based in the questioning of his identity and circumstance. He seeks ways to engage in dialogues that ultimately leave him connected to those who experience his work. His work is personal. Although creating from his perspective, the human element present in the work creates a connection for all. Independent Weekly Gallery, Through Aug. 14, 2022 - "Titus Heagins". Exhibition Development for Transgender Series, photography. In the fall of 2021, CAM Raleigh will begin working with photographer Titus Heagins on the development of a major new exhibition devoted to the artist's long involvement photographing the transgender communities in the United States and Cuba. Exhibition Lab will provide the public with a real time, behind the scenes look at the development of a future CAM exhibition. During this yearlong experimental phase visitors will witness the difficulties of exhibit development within a complex, multilayered subject dealing with issues of race, gender, fairness, community, family, and Love. Exhibition Lab will culminate in a Main Gallery multi media exhibition, publication, and public programming series dedicated to the artist's work, opening in the fall of 2022. Mezzanine, Through Feb. 13, 2022 - "Ollie Wagner: New Work". Mixed media artist Raleigh, NC, Studio-Artspace #214. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., 11am-6:30pm; Wed.-Fri., 11am-6:30pm; Sat. & Sun., noon-5pm; and 1st & 3rd Fri., open till 9pm. Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. All Main Galleries, Through Mar. 11, 2022 - "crossed kalunga by the stars & other acts of resistance," features work by seven contemporary artists who evidence transformative and contested circumstances in their production. Art by José Bedía, Athlone Clarke, André Leon Gray, Esmeralda Mila, Rex Miller, Marielle Plaisir, and Renée Stout navigates awareness and adversity in conversation with nature and memory. Each shares a distinctive perspective on how art can speak provocative truths amidst a sea of mutable facts. In her/his own way, each artist gathers and weaves real and imagined histories – past and recent – to embed their art with layers of creative, ancestral, and spiritual DNA to elucidate possible features in formation. Historic Residence, Through Jan. 9, 2022 - "Chris Hondros – Conflict photography" and Will Henry Stevens – Pastels, twin exhibitions featuring two artists represented in its permanent collection. ANC alumnus, photographer Chris Hondros was killed in 2011 while working in Libya, along with film director Tim Hetherington. Before his death Hondros had arranged for Getty Images to gift the Gregg a selection of his award-winning photos, many of which will be on display in this exhibition. "Hondros," a documentary of the life and legacy of this talented war photojournalist, directed by Greg Campbell, is also available on Netflix. Will Henry Stevens (1881 – 1949) was an American modernist and impressionist painter and naturalist. He is best known for his paintings and tonal pastels of the rural Southern landscape, abstractions of nature, and non-objective works, created while he summured in Asheville, NC. Using pastels of his own making, he was influenced by, among others, the impressionistic paintings of the Sung Dynasty, the poetry of Walt Whitman, and modernists Wassily Kandinsky and Paul Klee. Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: The Gregg Museum is suspending the need for timed entry reservations. Current museum hours are Tuesday - Friday, 10am to 5pm. The Gregg does ask that larger groups (15+) call ahead at (919) 515-3503, to avoid crowding in the galleries. Contact: Zoe Staring, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Through Feb. 13, 2022 - "NC Artist Connections: The Beautiful Project, Stephen Hayes, and Hông-Ân Truong". For decades the NCMA has provided art education, inspiration, and free access to its People's Collection to generations of North Carolinians. For artists the Museum has been a particularly special place as a space for study and experimentation and a guide for burgeoning careers. In this exhibition the NCMA highlights three artists who present new and reconceived works of art with themes that link to important works in the Museum collection. In connecting the NCMA to local contemporary artists, the exhibition helps visitors experience the NCMA's collection in new ways while gaining a deeper understanding of the artists' ongoing relationships to these works, as well as how the work of other artists relates to their practice. Ongoing - "Break the Mold: New Takes on Traditional Art Making". The exhibit showcases contemporary artists who use traditional modes of art making and crafting to tackle timely subject matter. Innovative takes on embroidery, ceramics, quilting, furniture, interior design, and fashion accessories serve to explore diverse topics such as gender assumptions and inequalities, prison reform, racial justice, memory, and loss, as well as how objects transmit and transform social and cultural history. This show features 25 contemporary artists, including Janifer Biggers, Elizabeth Brim, Maria Britton, Sarah Cockburn, Rodney McMillan, Rachel Meginnnes, Katy Mixon, Gabriel de la Mora, Yasumasa Morimura, Thomas Schmidt, Shinique Smith, and Do Ho Suh, whose artworks are displayed alongside some of their historical predecessors. West Building, Through Apr. 10, 2022 - "To Be Young: Coming of Age in the Contemporary". Where does childhood end and adulthood begin? Using both figurative and abstract images from the Museum collection, "To Be Young: Coming of Age in the Contemporary" offers an introspective overview of coming of age across various communities throughout the 20th and 21st centuries. The exhibition explores how youths process development through concepts such as identity, community, and kinship to form new perspectives on the world. East Building, Dec. 18 - July 3, 2022 - "PARTICIPATE: Activate the Senses Exhibition". The exhibition encourages visitors to interact with art through a variety of experiences tailored to the senses. Using their own sense of sight, sound, touch, and even smell, visitors can engage with select works of art. Participants can experience the whirle of an ancient vessel, the feeling of the beadwork on a ceremonial belt, and even the scent of the food featured in a still-life painting. PARTICIPATE displays objects from five Museum collections, including Ancient American, African, American, Contemporary, and European. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongo- ing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Through Jan. 2, 2022 - "Are We There Yet? North Carolina's Variety Vacationland, 1930s–1970s". This photography exhibit will invite visitors to take a look back, at an era when tourism boomed thanks largely to a state-run marketing effort called "Variety Vacationland." The Variety Vacationland campaign was successful in creating a unified tourism industry in North Carolina from the 1930s to the 1970s by depicting our state as both modern and progressive, but with strong ties to its past. True to the Jim Crow era, however, most sites promoted were marketed (and accessible) only to White tourists; people of color were neglected and even exploited at times, an attitude this exhibit attempts to point out where possible. Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Sweet Tea & Cornbread Grill and Eatery, located on the R Level, open Mon.-Sat., from 11am to 3pm. Download the full menu at (https://files.nc.gov/dncr-moh/Sweet%20Tea%20and%20Cornbread_MENU%202019.pdf). Salisbury/Spencer

Waterworks Visual Arts Center, 123 E. Liberty St., in the East Square Arts District, located one block East of Main Street, across from the Salisbury Police Station, Salisbury. Through Jan. 28, 2022 - "BEYOND THE SURFACE". In keeping abreast of the flood of information that overflows our in boxes and living rooms, many of us have become expert surfers, skimming the surface to glean some understanding of our world and ourselves. Waterworks Visual Arts Center invites you to delve deeper, beyond the surface, where personal connections form, understanding shared, and similarities recognized. There is no cost for this event, but an RSVP is requested to admin@waterworks.org as light refreshments will be offered. On the surface, three autonomous exhibits flow from gallery to gallery imbuing an appreciation of North Carolina's Piedmont region as interpreted by four regional artists. Through his 360° photography, WILL JAMES draws viewers inside the worship sanctuaries of churches in Salisbury and nearby communities in his on-going series entitled "Sacred Spaces 360". LIZ MCKAY confronts current subjects and difficult situations in multi-media paintings that feature metaphorical ovoid tones, in her series named "The Weight of All That Is". Colorful and nostalgic paintings, captured en Plein Air by duo PHYLLIS STEIMEL and her daughter BETH BARGER comprise the aptly named exhibit, "It's in the Genes: A Mother and Daughter Show". Ongoing – At Waterworks, all exhibitions are free to see (donations gladly accepted). The galleries and Museum Store are open Monday-Friday, 10 am-4 pm. An elevator, braille signage, bench seating in all galleries, and wide hallways make the museum accessible to everyone. Visitors can experience the gated sensory garden, as well as sculpture gardens around the building. Waterworks offers three rotating exhibitions a year, K-12 Student exhibitions, and art classes for students ages 18 months to 100. Keep abreast of exhibitions, events, art classes, and new art for sale in the Museum Store. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-4pm, (business hours M-F, 9am-5pm). Works on view in "Retail Therapy"

North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Through Dec. 18 - "hyalyn: AMERICA'S FINEST PORCELAIN". Known for his potters and potteries, North Carolina has hosted traditional artisans who made utilitarian jugs, crocks, and churns, unschooled "fancypower" potters who made colorful and sometimes highly decorated objects, and fine art ceramists. All of this is well known. Less known is the history of Hickory's Hyalyn Porcelain Company where porcelain clay was slip cast into all sorts of adeptly designed wares. Founded by H. Leslie Moody and Frances Johnson Moody in 1945, Hyalyn Porcelain Company produced the work of notable designers like Eva Zeisel, Michael and Rosemary Lax, Georges Briard, Esta Brodey, Erwin Kalla, Herbert Cohen, and Rookwood's Wilhelmine Rehm. Through Dec. 18 - "Retail Therapy". anxiety of 2020 and so far in 2021, we all need to treat ourselves or someone we know to something nice this fall. We have just the thing. "Retail Therapy" is a temporary show here at the North Carolina Pottery Center where you can do just that. See a piece in the show you like? Buy it and take it home right then. Featuring work by Bristol Pottery (Asheboro), David Cole Pottery (Oak Ridge), Doe Ridge Pottery (Boone), JLK Jewelry (Seagrove), O'Keeffe Pottery (Pittsboro), O'Quinn Pottery (Seagrove), Red Hare Pottery (Seagrove) & Benjamin Burns (Seagrove), Salvaterra Pottery (Weaverville), Thomas Pottery (Seagrove), and Windsor Pottery (Denton). Through Jan. 15, 2022 - "Abigail Flynt & Olutomi Balogun Artists-in-Residence Show". Come check out the creative pieces made by the North Carolina Pottery Center's two talented current artists-in-residence - Abigail Flynt & Olutomi Balogun! Almost all of their pieces will be available for purchase and can be taken home immediately. Abigail Flynt was born near the rice fields of rural southwest Arkansas. Working as a farm hand during the summers, she developed a love for the earth and soil. She graduated Cum Laude with a B.F.A from Southern Arkansas University as a first generation college student in 2015. Olutomi Balogun says, "Paint and clay, because of their physical properties, have always been media I felt I could effectively express my thoughts and feelings through. Both art forms are forging in the sense that no mistake is ever permanent. Each step in the creation process offers the choice to accept what is there or to begin again and discover something new through the composition and conceptual process. My artwork draws from my personal life; I believe creating art influenced by life experiences creates an opportunity to connect with the viewer intimately." Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". The Center also offers information on activities, maps and information about the potteries located in the Seagrove area and across the state. A display of representative works from more than 90 area potteries is also offered. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact 336/873-8430 or at (ncpotterycenter.org).

Work by Stephen Hayes

- "The Shadow We Create". The exhibition raises questions about societal prescriptions, race, servitude, fear, and the consequences of not speaking through compelling works by artists Mary Bowron, Willie Cole, and Jan-Ru Wan. The exhibition is named after Jan-Ru Wan's stunning work "The Noise We Make" and "The Shadow We Create", an assemblage of hundreds of rusted bells rendered silent by immersion in wax. "The Beauties", Willie Cole's full-scale prints are pulled from blackened crushed and hammered ironing boards. With titles including "Bessie", "Carolina", "Jonny Mae" and "Jane", each print is named for a woman in Cole's family. Simultaneously they reference servitude, beauty, oppression, and darkened holds of slave ships. "Shadow" features a haunting installation of "Silent Witness", a series by Mary Bowron populated by androgynous pit-fired ceramic heads. Some are smothered in thick wax, others branded with soot from the fire of their birth, with all featureless where a mouth once was, or may still be. "Shadow" addresses fear of speaking the truth amidst racial, social, political and economic unease. This exhibition asks the viewer to contemplate ways in which silence is forced and silence is broken. Through Jan. 31, 2022 - "Pinkie's Memories," a new exhibition from North Carolina artist Pinkie Strother. Strother re-creates her childhood memories of growing up the fourth of nine siblings in rural Maryland in the 1950s and 1960s through mixed media dioramas. These miniature buildings and rooms on a 1 inch scale offer a connection to the past through the recreation of the houses, churches, schools, and libraries of Pinkie's memories. Strother received formal training in art from Bowie State University where she studied to become a teacher and a MFA from the Maryland Institute College of Art. Through Mar. 20, 2022 - "Stephen Hayes: Voices of Future's Past". In conjunction with the unveiling of "Boundless", a public sculpture honoring the United States Colored Troops by artist Stephen Hayes, CAM is thrilled to present a solo exhibition of his powerful work. Born in Durham, NC, Hayes is the 2020 recipient of the 1858 Contemporary Southern Art Prize. Hayes is a creator who works with a variety of mediums - sculpture, casting, knitting, woodcuts, video, and audio - to explore issues of race and economics in the United States. Cash Crop features 15 life-size concrete statues chained to a pallet, representing the 15 million people who were transported as slaves from Africa to America. "Voices of Future's Past" explores the legacy of growing up black in America. Both works invite the viewer to participate, bringing a new depth to the experience of viewing art. Panceo Art Education Center, Exhibition Cases, Ongoing - View some of the Seagrove and contemporary pottery from the museum's permanent collection in the cases. These include the works of resident artist Hiroshi Sueyoshi, Ben Owen III and Jutgown Pottery among other works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sun., 10am-5pm and Thur. till 9pm. Contact: 910/395-5999 or at (www.cameronart-museum.org).

Select loans from Wake Forest University are on view along with works from Reynolda's collection of American art, mirroring Winston-Salem's remarkable collecting legacy. New acquisitions and promised gifts are also featured, edented as COVID-19 infiltrated daily life. The impact of this global pandemic is still on-going: it has claimed millions of lives and changed the ways in which each of us relates to and navigates the world. As the university responded to the challenges of safely reopening campus, the SUAAC members and faculty advisors pivoted to continue this one of a kind, nearly 60 year-old program of student's acquiring contemporary art for the WFU Art Collection. Restricted travel prevented the Committee from traveling to New York City to look at the work in person, so they instead paid virtual visits to dozens of galleries in New York City, Los Angeles, Chicago, Atlanta, Denver, and Detroit. While the trip was not possible, the main requirement for acquisitions remained the same since the founding of the program in 1962: to purchase art that reflects the times in which it was made. As the coronavirus was spreading and the world faced a debilitating economic crisis, a summer of racial reckoning, a U.S. Presidential Election, an insurrection on the nation's Capital building, and a political shift in the fight for climate change, artists were responding. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., 1-5pm, except university holidays. Contact: 336/758-5585 or at (<https://hanesgallery.wfu.edu/>).

GA Institutional Galleries

Augusta

Work by Linda Fantuzzo

Morris Museum of Art, 1 Tenth Street, Augusta, GA. Through Dec. 12 - "Linda Fantuzzo: Penumbra". A master of atmosphere, mood, and light, famed Charleston, SC, artist Linda Fantuzzo is represented by more than twenty paintings drawn from her most recent body of work in a new exhibition "Linda Fantuzzo: Penumbra". The landscape and interior paintings and drawings in this exhibition are rendered with a quiet, abstracted simplicity. The inclusion of stairs, ladders, windows, and doors suggests an unseen yet palpable human presence. The title "Penumbra", a term that means "a space of partial illumination," references light's transitions. In these works Fantuzzo connects the literal transitions of light to the metaphorical transitions and impermanence of the human experience. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 706-724-7501 or at (www.themorris.org).

Carrollton

Southeastern Quilt and Textile Museum, 306 Bradley Street, STE C, Carrollton. Through Dec. 18 - "Making It Through Sheltering In Place". In mid-March 2020, as schools and businesses closed in hope of "flattening the curve" of COVID-19, many of us began "sheltering in place" - staying home to keep ourselves and others safe. We heard people saying "When I make it through this..." and we realized that many of our followers were literally "making" it through - first sewing masks, then turning to creating quilts and other textiles to cope with and express their emotions and concerns during this challenging time. From April 13, 2020 to July 15, 2020, we invited people to submit photos of what they created during this time with what they had at home, including "Stir Crazy in South Carolina" by Susan Lenz. Ongoing - The Southeastern Quilt & Textile Museum (SQTM), is a not-for-profit 501(c)(3) organization committed to education and presentation of quilts and textiles. The SQTM collects, exhibits, preserves, promotes and interprets the heritage, art and production of quilting and textiles in the southeastern United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue., 10am-4pm; Fri., 10am-4pm, & Sat., 10am-2pm. Contact: 770/301-2187 or at (www.southeasternquiltandtextilemuseum.org/).

You can contact us by calling 843/693-1306 or by e-mail at - info@carolinaarts.com but do it before the 24th of the month prior to our next issue. Deadline for the Jan. 2022 issue is Dec. 24 at 5pm.
