

Main & Maxwell in Greenwood

Originally from New York, Taft has lived and potted in Greenwood for over 15 years.

Artist Sheila Crowder is a self-taught painter and jeweler. Her jewelry pieces at Main & Maxwell focus on the use of freshwater pearls and chinoiserie beads. She combines the two with gold and gemstones to create beautiful and contemporary wearable art.

Crowder has been designing jewelry for over thirty years. She fell in love with the process when she owned her own art gallery, West Main Gallery & Gifts in Ninety Six, SC. When not in the garden or designing jewelry, she works on painting portraits.

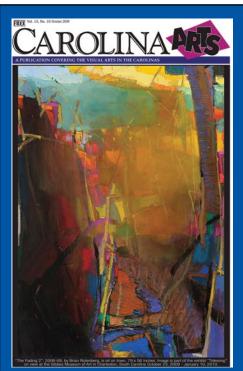

Crowder studied with Charles Beck III at the Art Institute of Chicago and went on to study in the Prosopam, a center for iconography, also in Chicago. When not pursuing artistic endeavors, she spends all the time she can with her grandchildren!
